MARRIAGE NULLIFIED IF THAW WAS INSANE EVELYN PENNILESS

Last Year's Jurors May Give Evidence--Opinions Secured by Detectives in Guise of Novelists

New York, Jan. 18.—Evelyn Nesbit now faces the greatest ordeal of her career.

The evidence that is being introduced to save her husband's life is of a sort that will leave her husbandless, according to those versed in the marriage laws of this country.

There is but slight doubt that the evidence so far introduced is of a sort to cause the annulment of her marriage to Harry Thaw.

Insanity is one of the three grounds for a nullification of marriage in every State in the Union. If it be proved that Harry Thaw has been insane since his youth, there is grave danger to Evelyn Nesbit, not only that her marriage will be nullified but that she will be cut off from her income.

"CRAZY HARRY," HIS NICKNAME

If declared insane, Harry Thaw's estate will be administered by a guardian, and he will be utterly unable to provide in any way for Evelyn Nesbit should the marriage be nullified, and the Thaws are not of a giving or forgiving nature. If not dependent upon them she will be in a difficult position.

What a situation for the man named to deal with! Evelyn stands between love and money. If her husband is saved from the chair she loses him as her husband. If the mad house be the other alternative, it is not a cheerful equation for young Mrs. Thaw.

"Crazy Harry" they called him along Broadway for years before he killed Stanford White, and this of itself is of significance. It will be difficult for any reader of this to call to mind any [illegible] one designated in this fashion. In New York, where everything goes, one must be particularly erratic to earn this title.

He is still "Crazy Harry" Thaw, and the way of escape from the chair leads to the madhouse.

TO CALL EX-JURORS?

Despite the fact that Mr. Littleton in his opening address to the jury declared that he would not deal any further with the history of Thaw's life than twenty-four hours after the shooting, it has been learned that the defence is considering the proposition of summoning the members of the jury at the first trial to tell of Thaw's appearance and of his actions during the proceedings before them.

The advisability of serving subpoenas on the jurors who sat at the first trial, it was learned, is now being discussed by Thaw's lawyers. It was said that in all probability this action will be taken. It is known that the detectives in the employ of the defence have interviewed the members of the former jury and under the guise of authors who are about to write a book on the case, have obtained from the jurors their views on Thaw's sanity.

EXCLUSION FROM COURT.

The final ruling of Justice Dowling as to the exclusion of reporters and public from court is being anxiously awaited. At the first trial, hundreds thronged the court room and filled every artifice to secure admission, while young Mrs. Thaw was telling her story on the stand. The blinds were drawn very tightly even then, only a few outsiders, and those persons who had influence with the court officers securing admission. There were a few women in the court room when the story was begun, and Judge Fitzgerald stopped the testimony to give those of them who desired an opportunity to leave the room. Not one [illegible] who had ashamed on hand for admission took advantage of the opportunity. But all remained until the recess was declared. District Attorney Jerome had succeeded in keeping a large portion of young Mrs. Thaw's history of her early life out of the record, and it was believed that no further attempt to prevent her from repeating the story she says she told her husband about her relations with Stanford White. Whether the motion to exclude the public means that he will ignore all this idea, is not known.

New York, Jan. 1 —Fortunately for everybody, Evelyn Nesbit has been barred from the courtroom and consequently offers no opportunity to the members of the 8th Canad. They can't sob over Harry Thaw. They simply cannot do it. They tried it last year and did fairly well until the Hummel testimony and a few other lines developed certain information concerning Thaw that dissolved their illusions. After that they wrote vaguely and foggily.

This year they started off with the same old line of gush over Evelyn. The emotions of these sympathy

Sisters weeping over Evelyn and patronizingly writing of wishing to take her in their arms and cuddle away her cares and sorrows became of the most exhilaratingly ludicrous feature of the trial when Evelyn's diary was introduced and it developed that little Evelyn could take any one of the Gush Girls in hand and tell her more than she had ever known and could ever know than any man in the courtroom.

But now Evelyn Nesbit is out of the courtroom and certain to remain out until she returns to the stand. Then again she will become the "faithful shes-ild" she described herself to be in a neat little cartoon of her own, kidding the Sob Squad.

As was predicted by all expert students of juvenile form, the last entry in the Sob Squad didn't last long. She ran herself off her feet in the first furlong apparently, and so far as can be seen is now out of the running. It is to be admitted, however, that for the distance she was a wonder.

Yesterday there were "pics" by this young woman, but only a few fans, and those destitute of color. She had lost her stride before reaching the tusk stretch.

Miss Nicola Greeley-Smith was to the fore with a little gush at the male members of the Sympathy Platoon yesterday. Of the writers at the last trial not what they wrote about Evelyn Nesbit who had this to say: "Women then wrote about her with too much tenderness, perhaps, men with too much 'Tenderloin,' as they do now."

They Were Married by Long Distance Telephone

A Richmond, Vt., despatch says: Miss Eva Downing, of Winchester, Ky., was married Saturday night to Edward Burch, a young business man of Hampton, this state, the ceremony being performed by long distance telephone.

Four telephones were in commission by reason of the ceremony, all being so connected that the person at the receiver of each of them could hear all that was said by the others.

The officiating minister, Rev. W. H. Stuart, held one receiver in Winchester, the bride in her home another clapped to her pretty ear, while in this state Burch and a witness were at different receivers.

After the questions had all been asked and the proper responses made the couple were pronounced husband and wife.

The bridegroom kissed his bride in the old conventional manner, the kiss being a long distance invention for the occasion, being in fact a veritable "kiss by wire."

The bride left on the first train after the ceremony for Hampton to join her husband.

40 Miners in Seven Mile Dash in Dark to Escape Fire Peril

Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 19.—Miraculously escaping death by cremation or suffocation or being blown to pieces by an explosion, forty miners employed in the Catsburg Mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, made their way through the dark headings for a distance of seven miles and finally reached the open air.

Without light to guide them, and given up as dead, the men battled for five hours with fire, and when they reached the surface their faces were blackened, clothes torn and all were severely bruised from stumbling in their flight for safety. Fortunately the mine contained very little gas, or another mine disaster would have been recorded in Western Pennsylvania.

The mine was fired some time during the day by a "blowout" shot, and when the fire was discovered at nine o'clock last night by the 40 men, all escaped to the surface, although the Monongahela entry was cut off. Momentarily expecting an explosion with its horrible consequences the men stood panic-stricken for the entry at Charleroi, seven miles away. In their frenzy they stumbled and fell, but only to jump up again and continue their mad rush for safety.

When the men reached the surface early today a majority of them were sobbing like children.

A large force of men are today battling the part of the mine which caught fire, and it is believed the damage will be small.

STANDING OF PUPILS DURING THE TERM COMMENCING SEPTEMBER ENDING DECEMBER

The report of the standing of the Collegiate Institute pupils as determined by the written examinations during the term commencing in September and ending December of 1907, is given below.

In Form IV. owing to the number of options the pupils have been grouped according to the number of subjects which they took. The parents who are disappointed in the standing made by their children will consult their own interest by interviewing the principal and members of the staff.

FORM IV.

In Form IV. those who took nine subjects obtaining the following percentages:

Gertrude Twomey, 77; Harold Brown, 76; Stanley Pringle, 67; Edith Cosnier, obtained 67 per cent. in eight subjects.

Those who took seven subjects, obtained the full percentages:—Gladys Orum, 83; Harry Bolton, 80; Lenore Hutchinson, 80; George Ingham, 83; Lillian Weatherill, 86; Verona Lewis, 80.

In 6 subjects—Annie Hunter, 81.

In 5 subjects—Letitia Elliott, 80; Frank Austen, 76; Elsie Pollock, 75; Grace Todd, 64.

In 4 subjects—Kathleen Wallis, 80; Hazel Dean, 71.

THE SOVEREIGN BANK FAILURE

Word was received in Peterborough Saturday that the Sovereign Bank was in acute financial difficulty, and a few of them closely in touch with the financial situation were apprised that the bank was about to suspend. The newspaper despatches received, created considerable interest when they were published, but the failure to the depositors did not materially affect Peterborough, as there was no branch here, and no Peterborough people are among the stockholders.

LIST OF BANK'S BRANCHES.

The following is a list of the branches of the Sovereign Bank established throughout Canada:—

Ontario — Amherstburg, Aylmer, Beaverton, Berlin, Bolsover, Brampton, Brantford, Brownfield, Burk's Falls, Chatham, Claremont, Clinton, Dashwood, Durham, Erin, Exeter, Fletcher, Goderich, Haileybury, Harriettsville, Harrow, Havelock, Hensall, Huntsville, Ilderton, Ingersoll, Leamington, Lucknow, Markham, Millbank, Milverton, Monkton, Mount Albert, Mount Forest, New Dundee, New Liskeard, Newmarket, North Bay, Ottawa (two branches), Owen Sound, Petrolia, Penetanguishene, Perth, Queensville, Rockland, Sandwich, South River, South Woodslee, Sprucedale, St. Catharines, St. David's, St. Jacob's, Sterling, Stouffville, Tecumseh, Thedford, Thorndale, Tilbury, Toronto, Tweed, Unionville, Windsor, Wyoming, Zorich.

Quebec—Plain, Bromo, Dunham, Frelighsburg, Montreal, Stanbridge East, Standstead, Sutton, Waterloo.

SEE GUARANTORS.

The banks that have assumed the business of the Sovereign Bank are:

Bank of Montreal.
Canadian Bank of Commerce.
Bank of Nova Scotia.
Bank of Toronto.
Imperial Bank of Canada.
Dominion Bank.
Merchants' Bank of Canada.
Bank of British North America.

British Annoyed by Jap Demands Regarding Interests in China

Tokio, Jan. 20.—The diplomatic relations between China and Japan over the proposed Hammunton-Fakumen Railroad have reached a stage wherein Japan has assumed a most firm attitude, and has assured China that a railroad paralleling the South Manchurian shall not be built, because it violates both the spirit and the letter of the Pekin treaty.

A British syndicate has proposed to build the railroad. The correspondent of the Associated Press has been informed by the authorities at Tokio that under no circumstances will Japan permit construction to commence.

"It is ready to the question; "What will you do about it?" a member of the Cabinet replied; "We will stop it."

The refusal to allow the construction of the proposed Hammuntun-Fakumen Railroad was intimated to China, more or less forcibly, nearly three weeks ago. The reason given for this refusal, according to despatches from Pekin, are that a parallel line would injuriously affect the Japanese railroad, and China's rejoinder that the line would not be built nearer the Japanese line than is customary in foreign countries is declared by the Japanese government to be untenable.

This step by Japan, according to Pekin advices, exasperated Englishmen who had capital invested in the line and it was characterized in China as another evidence of the monopolistic attitude of Japan in Manchuria. Shortly after the first announcement of the Japanese attitude, exception thereto was taken by Great Britain. In view of the official action taken by Japan, that government was considered to have committed a violation of the understanding of equal rights that severely affected British interests.

Japan explained further to China that her attitude was based on the verbal promise given by China, and which was incorporated in the minutes of the negotiations preceding the Komura treaty of 1905, namely: Not to construct a competing railroad parallel to the existing South Manchurian line. Japan, it was explained, feared the erection of a barrier between her sphere of influence and Mongolia, and desired that all new railroads be branches of the present South Manchurian line.

Sports

THE TURF.

On Saturday the arrival of horsemen and drivers in the city was noticed everywhere. These patrons and participants in racing matters are gathering for the races here on the 21st and 22nd. The local hotel registers contain the names of several strangers here, entered also as starters or spectators. The track is the best possible condition, and as there are many first class steppers on the circuit this year, the races promise to be unusually interesting. The Turf Club has left no stone unturned to make this winter's meet the greatest success of its kind that Peterborough ever got up. Horsemen from Lindsay, Port Hope, Port Perry, Orillia, Toronto and other spots are either here or have signified their intention of coming. Every man or woman fond of good clean horse racing should keep open dates for Jan. 21st and 22nd, and take in the local races.

Mayor of Peterboro In a N. Y. Paper

Utica Globe Has Large Portrait of Mr. Harry Rush

The Utica Globe, of Utica, N.Y., a paper with an immense circulation, due in part to strenuous advertising and up-to-date salesmen, but also to interesting and capable editorial ability, in its last issue contained a life-like picture of Mr. Harry Rush, mayor of Peterborough. The cut is a two column one. Underneath is inscribed, "Harry Rush, elected mayor of Peterborough by the largest majority ever given a candidate there." The many admirers and supporters of Peterborough's new mayor will be pleased to note that he is given such a wide-spread recognition.

POLICE

Fined Five Dollars for Terrorizing Family

At Saturday's police court, two young men named respectively Stevens and Casson, were charged with disorderly conduct it seems that these two young men, late on Friday night, mistaking a certain house on Concession street for a different address, presumably of a different character, broke open the door of a decent citizen's house.

Mr. F. Flynn, first witness, said that his daughter awakened him late at night on Friday and said two men were at the kitchen door. He went to the door and found [illegible] brothers there. They wanted to get in. Williams, who lives on Concession street, told them to go away. They were not drunk and said they would go when they got ready. They looked in the window and said, "You have got a gun so have we. If you shoot we can shoot also." Witness had a gun in his hand. He told the prisoners to go away and not talk about shooting. They stayed a short time and went away, just as the police, whom his daughter had telephoned to from his shop, arrived. They shoved the door in and broke the catch of the lock. The men did not talk as though sober. A young man who was returning from a wake, dropped in. The police arrived promptly.

Miss S. Flynn, daughter of former witness, said prisoners shoved the knob of the front door. She identified the prisoners. They asked if Charley McDonald was there. She said "no," and locked the door which they then forced open. She then called her father, the former witness. The police arrived twenty minutes after being telephoned for. She advised her father to shoot the gun off. The prisoners had clubs in their hands when they came to the door. She identified the clubs produced in court. They were not drunk.

A real estate agent, next, gave testimony. He was at Mr. Flynn's house when the prisoners arrived. He went to the door when the prisoners rapped and saw them with clubs in their hands. They demanded admittance and said they would see what they wanted when they got in. Mr. Flynn ordered them away. As far as he knows, the clubs which the prisoners had came from Mrs. Eaton's fence about a block away.

Here the magistrate asked, "Is there anyone in the court room who knows Charles McDonald?" A man named Fitzgerald, replied, "Yes, he lives near Downey's Corners."

C. Burt Stevens, one of the prisoners, went into the box and said he works in the Central Milling Co. He and his friend Casson, had been having a few drinks and went to Ashburnham. They met a man named McDonald who had two ladies with him. He and his friend followed the trio. McDonald and the ladies turned a corner, when the witness and his friend lost sight of them. He thought the three had gone into Flynn's house. They saw Flynn with a gun. After going to Flynn's they found McDonald at another house nearby. He did not have the club produced in court, in his hand, but thought his friend had a stick. Witness was admitted to the house he found McDonald.

P. C. Adams said at 11.55 p.m. Friday he got a hurry up call to Concession street, and went at once with P. C. Meharry. He found one of the prisoners, Casson, with a square shaped club in his hand and arrested him. Stevens was the worse of liquor.

Mr. Kerr acted for the prisoners. The magistrate said that men prowling about at midnight and going to the wrong house is humiliating and a nuisance to the people disturbed. Had Flynn been a rash man he might have shot them. He could not understand why the men had the clubs with them. He imposed a fine of $5 and $4.50 costs in each case, payable forthwith, or two days in jail. The fines, after Mr. Kerr had done some telephoning, were paid.

Local Railroad Men Out of a Job

Two employes of the C.P.R. freight sheds and two of the office staff have been laid off. The services of two men from the G.T.R. yards have also been dispensed with. The action of the railway companies is due to slackness in the freight traffic. Whilst such a local reduction in help is regrettable it is a kind of half-fazed satisfaction to learn that in the United States, owing to shocks to the manufacturing industries the "lay offs" of railroad employes is there much greater proportionately than in Canada.

COUNT OKUMA TO LOCATE JAP COLONY IN THE GREAT WEST

Statesman Backs Scheme to Locate Thousands of Japanese Farmers in Canadian North-West

Vancouver, Jan. 18.—The British Columbia Saturday Sunset prints the following:

Count Okuma, a former Japanese foreign minister, is the principal principal cash backer of Mr. H. H. Nagatany, the promoter of the Japanese beet sugar colony, to be established near Gleichen, Alta. Count Okuma and his friends in Tokio have contributed two-thirds of the cash capital of the colonization company, which has a cash capital of $250,000. Count Okuma is the gentleman who recently startled the British Empire by saying that the natives of India were looking to Japan for succor from their oppressors.

The item in regard to the colonization company has appeared in all the daily press of Canada, but the details of the plan, its promoter and financial backers in Tokio are now given first publicity, direct from the promoter, Mr. H. H. Nagatany, who was a visitor to the editorial rooms of the British Columbia Saturday Sunset last Monday. Judging by remarks dropped to a member of the staff, he may have expected that the editor of the paper which has carried on the most vigorous and successful campaign against Asiatic immigration in Canada, would be wearing horns.

However, Mr. Nagatany is a most intelligent and agreeable young gentleman. He is well educated and speaks English fluently, and has a wide point of view, and is a keen business man with a shrewd outlook. I am free to admit that had we never had in Canada any other Japanese but men of his caliber, that the objection to his people might never have assumed its present serious aspect—the invasion might have quietly proceeded so far that protest would have been useless.

Evelyn Thaw Tells Story of Her Life--Mrs. Thaw, Sr., on Stand

New York, Jan. 18.—"So widespread were the reports of this afternoon's testimony last year," said Jerome, referring to Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, "that it became the talk of the entire world. Names were dragged in which were reflected upon, and details the most nauseating and disgusting were printed. I trust your honor will agree with me when I say no public good was served by this notoriety, and I respectfully suggest that all but those connected with the immediate trial of the case be excluded from the room."

This plea was accompanied by a citation in reference to a Kansas judge, who had suppressed the details of a murder case, but Justice Dowling said he could not grant the petition in view of the fact that no such course was followed at the last trial.

"All this testimony was gone into in detail at the last trial," said Justice Dowling, "and while I agree with the district attorney that no public good can come of the widespread reports, I cannot entertain his motion unless it is concurred in by the counsel for defence. There is nothing to prevent the newspapers from reporting what they published last year, and I am surprised that the district attorney would make this application. In view of the past experience, if it had come in advance of an original publication, I should be more disposed to grant it."

Mr. Littleton then addressed the court, saying the district attorney's action was a complete surprise to him.

"I do not agree with Mr. Jerome that this testimony will be horrible and appalling, because we do not know what it will be," he said, "but I agree with him on behalf of my client. I think this witness should be spared the humility of such a distressing necessity, and would suggest that the court take this question under advisement."

Justice Dowling asked if the defence could examine the witness on other points or place another witness on the stand. Littleton said he had other points to examine attendee upon, and the subject of excluding the newspaper men and the public was then taken under advisement until Monday morning.

Several letters were shown to Evelyn, who identified them as the hand-writing of her husband.

It is thought by lawyers that Justice Dowling will bar all from the court room but the newspaper men, so that the rights of an accused man under the constitution shall not be trespassed upon. This right demands that every accused person shall have a speedy and public trial, and that these rights cannot be waived by the defendant, nor his counsel.

There are seventy odd newspaper men in daily attendance at the trial, and Justice Dowling said he thought that they could be depended upon to eliminate the repulsive part from their reports. The court was then adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

MRS. THAW, SENIOR, TESTIFIES.

Earlier in the day Thaw's mother gave her evidence. Mrs. Thaw saw her son for the first time in months during the noon recess. The meeting was most affectionate. Evelyn Thaw the wife, came in during the interview, and it is said she was quite cordially greeted by the elder woman.

Doorman Barrett's cross-examination was continued as soon as the afternoon session began.

News Briefs

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 19.—Shingling a roof on a farmhouse, Mrs. Ellen Peterson slipped and dropped down between the house and a well. She was so tightly wedged she had to be pulled out by the legs with a tackle, during which she broke a finger and lost a garter and stocking.

In falling she threw the hammer with which she had been working, so that it struck a cow. The cow took fright, and in running along the highway broke a leg and had to be killed.

New Russian Loan

Paris, Jan. 20.—Paris financiers are completing plans for a new Russian loan, which will be launched within a few weeks. The loan, as usual, will be guaranteed by the fact that the coupons are legal tender for the payment of customs dues. The Russian government has been sounded on the proposition of a temporary alienation of her revenues as security for a loan, but this has been refused. This is in line with the past action of the Czar's government, which, during the war with Japan, repeatedly rejected all offers of loans guaranteed by one of the various government monopolies.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 15. — Attorney General Hadley today resumed the hearing in his quest for evidence in his suit to annul the charters of sixty-seven insurance companies, comprising the Western Union. The attorney general charges that the insurance companies in this organization are in a conspiracy to control rates, using for that purpose what is known as the Waterworth tariff, by means of which uniform schedules are maintained.

P. D. McGregor, manager of the Queen Insurance company of Chicago, and John Marshall of Chicago, secretary of the Western Union, were examined.

McGregor denied that any unlawful agreement existed among the companies. Marshall's testimony was of a technical nature and dealt with the rules of the Western Union.

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure Was Found for Inflammatory Rheumatism

There are many types of rheumatism but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Inlet, N. S.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Hear her statement.

"For years I have been a martyr. I used various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were affected prevented me from working. Weekly by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better, it eased the painful joints, swelling so that no an ache has returned, my energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism. Our East damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone."

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 30, 1907.

CONCRETE EXAMPLE

Kingston Whig:—From Peterborough there comes a glimpse of the way in which some people do their financing. They issue debentures for public debt and plan to raise so much per year for interest and principal. A candidate tells of the perils run in Peterborough by saying that successive councils had not paid the necessary sums into the sinking funds as they were due. Current expenditures were carefully looked after, "and the sinking fund had to take what was left." It is no surprising that the legislature some years ago favored by statute, the issue of debentures which were payable on the instalment plan, so much per annum, and representing principal and interest. This means that a sinking fund is not required, and it cannot be neglected or imposed upon. It is the only absolutely safe method of providing for municipal liabilities. The demands of the year, in the way of debt as well as expenses, must be met, and the budget of the council must be arranged accordingly.

Judging by the above comments of the Whig on the situation in Peterborough, that city, owing to the political complexion of its councils, is having a similar experience to what Brockville had a few years ago, says the Recorder, in fact the situation, so to speak, is a counterpart of Brockville. Previous to the adoption of the compromise there was a large deficiency in the sinking funds of this town, and it became necessary for the corporation to seek permission from the Legislature to cover its obligations. Since the compromise was adopted the revenue of the town has been carefully conserved and its financial obligations properly met as they have become due.

LESSONS FROM BOYERTOWN

The appalling catastrophe last Monday night at Boyertown could not be taken opportunely as the text for a threadbare sermon on the need of self-control. Indeed, the latest reports from surviving eyewitnesses indicate that the unfortunate woman and children in the Rhoades Opera House on that fateful night were amply justified in their frenzied stampede. The most self-contained man would move quickly away from blazing kerosene, and in doing so might knock somebody down. Add to the confusion started by the overturning of the footlight tanks the explosion of the moving picture machine, pouring fire down upon the audience, and criticism of its conduct becomes thoughtless cruelty. The dreadful occurrence does nothing more than throw into horribly sharp silhouette the double menace of a dangerous machine installed in a popular firetrap. New Yorkers, more than anybody else should contemplate this ominous picture; for the metropolis has eight hundred cheap theatres, with moving picture machines, and nearly all of these places are so arranged that terror and death could follow an alarm of fire.

A cheap theatre without a moving picture machine is a hazardous one at best. The exits are few and small, the building is usually a ramshackle affair and the management just as lax as the law allows will endure. Install a machine and the peril is multiplied a score, chiefly because the machine necessarily hung directly over the main exit, at the back of the pit. Should the huge rolls of picture films catch fire from any cause, or a gas tank explode, the audience would be penned in without hope of escape save by miracle or coolheadedness and prompt action. If some fine day a moving picture machine fills a hundred or two coffins it will be easy enough to find a scapegoat and to defer the final report of the investigating committee until sweet forgetfulness has drowned the bitterness of the disaster.

THE CRISIS IN JAPAN

There can be little doubt that a grave crisis in Japanese affairs is either existent or impending. The government may ride over its present difficulties. Already, by a strenuous process of doubling up, it has filled temporarily the places of two ministers who have resigned. But that arrangement cannot last long, and there is no assurance that other vacancies will not soon occur. In any case, the day of reckoning seems to be merely postponed for a little while. Then the fiscal policy of the Saionji ministry will be weighed in the balances of a particularly well informed, acute and independent popular mind. The outcome of the test is not to be forecast with any degree of assurance. But this is to be said, that the policy of the government has brought enormous if not unparalleled burdens of debt and taxation upon the people, that it now proposes at once to increase those burdens and to decrease the apparent liabilities which should accrue to the nation, and that the opposition party is numerous, capable and aggressive. In such circumstances it is not impossible that the government will be sustained and that its policy will be approved, but it would certainly be rash to predict that result.

The difficulty is primarily, we might say exclusively, fiscal, or, at any rate, economic. Ever since the war with Russia there have been rumors of Japanese pecuniary straits. While there was at times reason to suspect that these were exaggerated, the conviction has been inevitable that the costs of the war, for which no indemnity was received, and the expenses of the years of military preparation which preceded the war, together with years of poor crops and various great disasters, had severely taxed the pecuniary resources of the empire. It must be remembered that Japan, including half savage Formosa, has scarcely fifty million inhabitants, and that, having for ages been devoted to military and artistic affairs, rather than to commerce, it has been and is conspicuously devoid of wealth. Now we are told by a Tokio correspondent of "The New York Evening Post", who appears to be well informed and temperate, that Japan's foreign debt amounts to $1,850,000,000, at high rates of interest; that taxation is $31.50 a head on the population, that stocks and shares were never lower in the history of the empire, that the price of rice, the great food staple of the common people, has doubled in the last year, and that the general cost of living has increased one-fifty in five years without any corresponding increase in wages or salaries. In such circumstances there is little exaggeration and of this total a shrinkage of $8,500,000 is credited to December. Returns for the first two weeks of January indicate that the worst of the strain is over, since the falling off in income for the fortnight is "only" $2,300,000. Expenditures have been $3,900,000 greater than last year, so that the net loss for the month, compared with January, 1907, may reach $10,600,000, as against $13,000,000 for December. The deficit for the fiscal year to date is $11,762,000. If business recovers a little this deficit will not grow very rapidly. It seems oversanguine, of course, to expect that the Treasury will be able to pay its way through the remaining five months of the fiscal year. There will probably be a good sized deficit. At the close of 1906-07 there was a surplus of $36,946,542. There is therefore still a generous margin to be overcome if the gains of 1906-07 are to be balanced by the losses of 1907-08.

James R. Randall, who died on Tuesday, at Augusta, Ga., in his seventieth year, sprang into fame through a single lyric. "Maryland, My Maryland", which he produced in the stress of excitement caused by reading about the Baltimore riot of April, 1861, when a Massachusetts regiment on its way to Washington was attacked by an anti-Union mob. It is a curious coincidence that "Dixie" was written in New York by a professional negro minstrel, "My Old Kentucky Home" by a Pennsylvanian, and "Maryland, My Maryland", the South's best war song, by a native of Maryland, a state which never seceded from the Union.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $100 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $6,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in such will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence upon farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above within living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

DORA DEANE

OR THE EAST INDIA UNCLE.

BY MRS. MARY . HOLMES

Author of "Tempest and Sunshine," "Lena Rivers," "English Orphans," "Maggie Miller," Etc.

...smile with a rueful face she read that Dora would be delighted to meet Uncle Nat at Locust Grove, but could not come quite so soon as they wished to have her.

"You have undoubtedly heard (she wrote) of Mr. Hastings' approaching marriage, at which I wish to be present. Mrs. Elliott will accompany the bridal party to Rose Hill on Thursday, and she thinks I had better wait and come with her. I shall probably see you at the party.

"Yours in haste,

"Dora Deane."

On Eugenia's mind there was not a shadow of suspicion that the "Dora Deane" mentioned in that letter had ever been owned to be her cousin's name that Mr. Hastings, who together with Uncle Nat had the Saturday previous come down to New York, had bent fondly over her as she wrote it for the last time, playfully suggesting that she add an "H" by way of making a commencement, nor yet that Uncle Nat, with an immense degree of satisfaction in his shrewd, keen face, had read the short note, grimly saying as he did so, "We'll cheat 'em, kidding, won't we?"

Neither did she dream that last night's moon shone down on Dora Deane, a beautiful blushing bride, who, with orange blossoms in her shining hair, and the deep love-light in her eyes stood by Mr. Hastings' side and vowed him her husband. Nothing of all this she knew, and hastily reading the letter she exclaimed, "Plague on her! a vast deal of difference her being at the wedding would make. But no matter, the old codger will not be here until Saturday night, and before that there'll be time enough to coax her around."

Just then the carriages were left at the door, and in the delightful certainty of Dora's arrival she was really invited to look on in a measure everything else. In the evening she was annoyed as usual with a call from Stephen Grey. He had that day received news from home that his father's failure could not long be deferred, and, judging Eugenia by himself, he fancied she would sooner marry him now than after he was the son of a bankrupt. Accordingly he urged her to consent to a private marriage at her mother's on Friday evening, the night following the party.

"There is nothing to be gained by waiting," he said — an opinion in which Eugenia herself concurred, for she feared lest in some way her treachery should be betrayed, and she should lose Stephen Grey as well as Mr. Hastings.

Still she could hardly bring herself to consent until she had seen Dora, and she replied that she would think of it, and answer him at the party. Thursday morning came, and passed, and about half-past two Eugenia saw Mr. Hastings' carriage pass on its way to the depot, together with two more, which had been hired to convey the guests to Rose Hill. Seating herself by her chamber window, she waited impatiently for the cars, which came at last, and in a few moments the roll of wheels announced the approach of the bridal party. Very eagerly Eugenia, Alice, and their mother gazed out through the half-closed shutters upon the carriage in front, which they knew was Mr. Hastings'.

"There's Mrs. Elliott looking this way. Don't let her see us," whispered Alice, while her mother pinched the old Mrs. Hastings for Dora, wondering why she didn't turn that way.

But Eugenia had no eye for anyone save the figure seated next to Mr. Hastings, and so closely veiled as entirely to hide her features.

"I wouldn't keep that old thing on my face, unless it was so homely I was afraid of having it seen," she said; and, hoping the bride of Howard Hastings might prove to be exceedingly ugly, she repaired to Dora's room, and from the same window where Dora once had watched the many lights which shone from Rose Hill she now watched the travelers until they disappeared within the house. Then, rejoining her mother and sister, she said: "I don't see why Dora can't come over here a little while before the party. There's plenty of time, and I do want to have it off my mind. Besides that, I might coax her to assist me in dressing, for she has good taste, if nothing more; I mean to write her a few lines asking her to come.

The note was accordingly written, and dispatched by the Irish girl, who soon returned, bearing another tiny note, which read as follows:

"I cannot possibly come, as I have promised to be present at the dressing of the bride.

"Dora."

Forgetting her recent remark, Eugenia muttered something about "folks thinking a great deal of her taste," then turning to the servant girl she asked how Dora looked, and what she said.

"Sure, I didn't see her," returned the girl; "Mistress Leah carried your letter to her, and brought hers to me. Not a ha-p'orth of anybody else did I see." And this was all the information which Eugenia could elicit concerning the people of Rose Hill.

The time for making their toilet came at last, and while Eugenia was missing the little cropped-head girl, who, on a similar occasion, had obeyed so meekly her commands, a fair young bride was thinking also of that night when she had lain upon her mother's old green trunk and wept herself to sleep. Wishing to be fashionable, Eugenia and her party were the last to arrive. They found the parlors crowded and the dressing room vacant, so that neither of them received the slightest intimation of the surprise which awaited them. In removing her veil, Eugenia displaced one of the flowers in her hair, and, muttering about Alice's awkwardness, she wished she could see Dora just a minute and have her arrange the flowers!

But Dora was busy elsewhere, and, pronouncing herself ready, Eugenia took the arm of Stephen Grey, and followed her mother and sister downstairs. At a little distance from the door was Mr. Hastings, and at his side was Dora, wondrously beautiful in her costly bridal robes. She had ...gracefully received the congratulations of her Dunwood friend, who, while expressing their surprise, had also expressed their delight at finding in the new mistress of Rose Hill the girl who had ever been a favorite in the village. Near her was Uncle Nat, his face wearing an expression of perfect happiness, and his eye almost constantly upon the door through which Eugenia must pass.

Mrs. Deane came first, but scarcely had she crossed the threshold ere she started back, petrified with astonishment and, clutching Alice's dress, whispered softly, "Am I deceived, or is it Dora?"

And Alice, with wild, staring eyes, could only answer "Dora"; while Eugenia, wondering at their conduct, strove to push them aside. Failing in this, she raised herself on tiptoe, and, looking over their heads, saw what for an instant chilled her blood and stopped the pulsations of her heart. It was the bride, and fiercely grasping the arm of Stephen Grey to keep herself from falling, she said, in a hoarse, unnatural voice: "Great Heaven—it is Dora! Dora Deane!"

Fruitful as she had hitherto been in expedients, she was now utterly powerless to act, and knowing that in her present state of excitement she could not meet her cousin she turned back, and fleeing up the stairs threw herself upon a chair in the dressing room, where, with her hands clasped firmly together, she sat rigid as marble until the storm of passion had somewhat abated.

"And she has won him — Dora Deane, whom I have so ill-treated!" she said at last, starting at the sound of her voice, it was so hollow and strange. Then, as she remembered the coming of Uncle Nat and the exposure she so much dreaded, she buried her face in her hands, and in the bitterness of her humiliation cried out, "It is more than I can bear!"

Growing ere long more calm, she thought the matter over carefully, and decided at last to brave it through—to greet the bride as if nothing had occurred, and never to let Mr. Hastings know how sharp a wound he had inflicted. "It is useless now," she thought, "to throw myself upon the mercy of Dora. She would not of course withhold my secret from her husband, and I cannot be despised by him. I have loved him too well for Bismarck's Retort.

One evening when the German troops were before Paris Duke Ernst of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha began grumbling in Bismarck's presence because the iron cross of the first class, given for bravery in the field of battle, had been distributed too indiscriminately. Bismarck replied that the distribution of such decorations was always a delicate and difficult task, "for," said he, "conspicuous merit has to be rewarded, but in some cases conspicuous position, with or without merit, cannot be overlooked. See now," he said, "Moltke has it, Roon has it, Blumenthal has it. Excellent! But," he added, "your highness and I have it, too, and surely it is not for us to grumble!"

An Odd Legacy.

Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Jefferson family of actors, was remembered curiously in the will of Weston, who was himself an esteemed member of Garrick's company. Weston's will contained this item:

"I have played under the management of Mr. Jefferson at Richmond and received from him every politeness. I therefore leave him all my stock of prudence, it being the only good quality I think he stands in need of."

A Heated Discussion.

"Nope. He's been drinking too much firewater."

THOMAS W. LAWSON

"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends—which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES

said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 851 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortes, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent, Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 6 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $7.00 to $1.400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mine—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer, you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop in the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the leads and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines run true in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Wonderful Miracles Worked By Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Learned Physician Astounded by the Increasing Numbers of His Cures.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 21.—That unusual knowledge in possessed by Dr. Hamilton is evidenced by the statement of Mrs. MacLeod, of 514 Campbell Road, of this city. For years this lady suffered with torturing racking headaches that could only be allayed by strong narcotics. "Different physicians," she states, "failed, so I decided to see what Dr. Hamilton could do. I purchased a few boxs of his Mandrake and Butternut Pills and their use immediately gave the most grateful relief. Headaches and their depressing influence left me. Spells of fainting we k a o hours of sleeplessness, fear of nervous collapse, all these disappeared after treating with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My restoration to vigorous health is complete and no remedy could do more than Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

By searching out all weak spots, by enriching the blood, nourishing and purifying the system Dr. Hamilton's Pills work marvels for the sick and weak. 25 cents per box at all dealers.

Local Lady Has Narrow Escape

The many friends here of Miss Addie Dodds of 852 Mark street, East Side, will regret to learn that, whilst visiting her sister in Kenora, she had about as close a call by death as is possible, and still to remain on earth. It seems that Miss Dodds, who spent the Xmas and New Year's holidays at Rossport, went out skating and got into an air hole through the ice. Her brother fortunately arrived in time and pulled her out with a hockey stick.

Little bears over Sovereign Bank

Considerable excitement was caused throughout the city on Saturday when the liquidation of the Sovereign Bank became generally known. Still little distrust was felt in accepting bills of this now moribund bank. Thanks to a sound banking system, the bills of the chartered banks of Canada are considered almost as good as their face value as Dominion government bank bills of $1, $2 and $4 denomination

Relief Officer Miller Kept Busy

On Saturday Mr. Frank Miller, city relief officer, bought eleven bags of potatoes and a quantity of beef to be given to those in the city dependant on charity. These goods will be destributed according to the requirements of those in need. The potatoes were stored in the police station on Saturday. Mr. Miller says that steady demands are being made upon the Charity Board, and he is kept very busy looking after the requirements of the city poor.

Milkman Meets with Accident

Yesterday many residents along Water and other streets had to go short in their usual quantity of milk. It seems that a young man who lives just beyond Jackson Park in the Township of Smith, and who recently purchased a milk route from Mr. McMullen had a mishap that lost most of his sleigh load of milk. Whilst coming into the city the sleigh upset and all the large cans were dumped out in a snow drift. Fortunately the close fitting ops of the cans retained about half the milk.

Lines are Now in Working Order

Mr Jas. Bremener, of the construction department of the Bell Telephone Company has returned from Port Hope, Cobourg and Millbrook, where he has been engaged in assisting in the work of putting in new wires on the lines that suffered from the effects of the heavy storm of last Sunday. Mr. Bremener says the wires were in very bad shape, and a gang of 40 men from Hamilton, Toronto and other places were kept three days in making the repairs. The service was completely paralyzed on many lines by reason of the storm, and ice six inches thick had formed on many o the poles. The work is completed now, however, and the lines are again in perfect working order.

Annual Meeting Astromical Society

The annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Royal Astronomical Society was held Friday at the Y.W.C.A. There was a good attendance of the members and considerable business was transacted, including the election of officers for the ensuing year. A feature of the evening was an interesting address on Jupiter, by Rev. Dr. Marsh. The election of officers resulted as follows:—

President—Rev. Dr. Marsh
1st Vice Pres.—Mr. H. B. Collier,
2nd Vice Pres.—Sheriff Hall.
Secretary—Mr. S. Lowry.
Treasurer.—Dr. T. C. Neal,
Councillors—Messrs. G. M. Rose, H. O Fiske, and S. Lowry.

The treasurer's report showed the finances of society to be in good condition. After the business part of the meeting was over, an interesting discussion took place on subjects of interest to the members.

ADDRESS ON JUPITER.

Dr. Marsh gave a very interesting talk on the planet Jupiter.

Peterborough Man Gets Appointment

(The many friends and relatives of Mr. J. Arthur Hall, son of the late Frederick Hall, Deputy Sheriff of Peterborough, and nephew of the present Sheriff, James A. Hall, will be pleased to hear that he has been appointed as Assistant Electrical Inspector to the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association in connection with the Toronto office of the Western Division. Mr. Hall was appointed solely on his own merits, having passed through the various stages of electrical construction work during the past eight years. Mr. Arthur Hall left Peterborough about twelve years ago and was brought to Toronto by his brother-in-law, Mr. H. F. Strickland, who was at that time in the electrical business in Toronto, and having served three years with this firm went away to United States and has worked in most of the principal cities there. About four years ago Mr. Hall was married and returned to Toronto, where he has always held positions in connection with important electrical construction work with several of the largest electrical firms doing business, and has now been appointed to the position referred to.

The Electrical Department of the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association is under the management of Mr. H. F. Strickland, also a Peterborough boy.

Smith Council Holds Inaugural Meeting

The Council of the Township of Smith, has met as provided by statute; all the newly elected members being present, namely, R. N. Scott, reeve; T. H. Graham, deputy reeve; J. H. Garbutt, Fred McKee and Wm. Davis, councillors.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. McKee, that a bylaw for the appointment of certain officers of the Corporation of the Township of Smith for the year 1908, and to fix the salary or remuneration they are to received, or remuneration they are to receive, be read a first time.—Carried.

The council went into committee, Mr. Graham in the chair. The blanks were filled in as follows;

James A. Young and J. W. Kelly, auditors, at $10 each.

R. J. Edmison, assessor, at a salary of $100.

John Chittick, collector, at a salary of $100.

Dr. Young, medical health officer.

The council then resumed, chairman reported bylaw, and with blanks filled in.

On motion of Mr. McKee, seconded by Mr. Garbutt, the bylaw was passed.

Moved by Mr. Davis, seconded by Mr. Graham, that a bylaw to appoint a member of the local Board of Health be read a first time.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. McKee, seconded by Mr. Garbutt, the council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the bylaw. Mr. Garbutt in the chair.

Council resumed, chairman reported bylaw read with name of Mr. Wm. Davis filled in.

On motion of Mr. Graham, seconded by Mr. Garbutt, the bylaw was read a third time.

Moved by Mr. Graham, seconded by Mr. McKee, that $5 be paid to the Hospital for Sick Children.

Moved by Mr. Graham, seconded by Mr. Davis, that the clerk be instructed to order six copies of the Municipal World for the council, as usual.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. McKee, seconded by Mr. Garbutt, that several accounts be paid.

The council then adjourned.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Lawrence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

Attacked by Vicious Dog

Jennie Smith, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Smith, James st., east city, was the victim of a brutal [illegible] Saturday while playing. The dog, which is a very vicious animal had been chained up in the yard of Mr. H. Heal, but somehow it broke away and after being so securely bound for such a long time, the beast was in a frenzied state and jumped at the child. A bad wound was inflicted on the child's face, causing her much pain.

Medical aid was summoned and no serious results are anticipated.

An Adventurous Correspondent

Few newspapers in the United States are able to command the services of as brilliant a corps of correspondents as The Chicago Record-Herald. Its choice of Walter Wellman to represent it at Washington is a good illustration of its wise policy of getting the best there is to be had. Mr. Wellman has won a national reputation as a magnetic and resourceful news writer. And now he is preparing to clinch his reputation for originality and daring by trying to reach the north pole in an airship.

Whatever may be the results of Mr. Wellman's daring attempt to reach the pole this summer in an airship and send the news of the voyage at once to The Record-Herald by wireless telegraphy, the Wellman-Record-Herald expedition is sure to be conducted by Mr. Wellman with the same cool courage and whole-souled enthusiasm that have made him an ideal newspaper correspondent.

Mr. Wellman was born in Mentor, Ohio in 1858. At 14 he began his newspaper experience, establishing at that age a weekly paper in the little town of Sutton, Neb. In 1884 he became the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Herald, for which paper he visited the West Indies in 1892 and located the landing place of Columbus, marking the spot with a huge stone monument. In 1894 he made his first dash for the pole, reaching the latitude of 81 degrees northeast of Spitzbergen. In 1898 he tried the same fascinating quest again, penetrating as far as Franz Josephs Land. On both trips he had wonderful success in discovering new islands and securing new scientific data which have been of great value to the American Geographical Society. His voluminous writings for scientific periodicals and popular magazines have shown the same incisive thought and keen insight that have marked his journalistic work.

FIXED ASSESSMENT FOR P. HAMILTON CO. AND AUBURN MILLS

Agreed Upon by City Council Last Night--Mr. W. H. Moore Explains that City is in Position to Pay all Debentures as They Fall Due

The City Council met in Committee of the Whole last night. All the members were present.

The Auburn Woolen Mills Company's application for fixed assessment was again before the committee.

Mr. James Kendry addressed the committee, repeating the same arguments he used at the last council meeting of 1907. He offered that the company have no sewerage or water supply, they had recently to expend $10,000 to $15,000 in fire protection purposes, in order to get fire insurance companies to carry the company. Mr. Kendry asked that the company's assessment be fixed at $40,000 for a term of ten years. Their present assessment is $49,280.

Mr. James Hamilton addressed the committee in the interests of the Peter Hamilton Company's claim to fixed assessment at $15,000 for ten years. He stated that his firm had been established in Peterborough sixty years and had never yet asked the council for any privileges, even commensurate with those allowed newer industries. The government has reduced the tariff on farm implements from 20 to 17 1-2 per cent., the consequence of which has been that American firms have settled in Canada with a view to freezing out Canadian competitors by means of extraordinarily keen competition. The Deering Co., now established in Hamilton, have a fixed assessment and other privileges, which places the Peter Hamilton Co., at considerable disadvantage in competing with them. The Peter Hamilton Company's assessment for this year is $37,980.

STREET LIGHTING

Mr. Larmouth, of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, was present in answer to an invitation from the council to explain why the street lighting is not as satisfactory as some people claim it should be. He pointed out, as on other occasions last year, that the present system is really obsolete and he had urged the council of last year to allow him to instal the new enclosed arc lamps in place of the present open lamps, and this change would give an up-to-date and satisfactory street service. While the new system would cost less to operate, new and expensive machinery would have to be installed, and the company's contract has but six years to run.

Ald. Morgan offered that the present lamp is of 2000 candle power, whereas the new lamp Mr. Larmouth proposes is of but 1500 candle power at most. In fact, he contended, that at Windsor, where the closed lamps are in use, it is claimed that it takes three lamps to equal one of the open arc lamps.

Mr Larmouth replied that those lamps are of very small candle power strength, whereas the lamp he proposes to instal is of 7 1-2 candle power, giving a better light than the present lamps.

He also pointed out that the present machines are loaded to their full capacity and should the city need more lamps they would have to approve of a new lamp as he cannot today buy more machinery for the present system.

Ald. Turner thought it might be wise to approve of a new and modern system. Should the company use the same amount of electricity in furnishing light as at present, he could not see why the street lighting should not prove as satisfactory, if not more so, then now.

This matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to report.

THE BOGUE DRAIN.

A petition from V. Eastwood and others, asking the council to expropriate a strip of land through Mr. Bogue's property, to permit of the stream between Edinburgh and Dublin streets, running along a course that will avoid the flooding of the petitioners' premises. If the council will take immediate action to expropriate said strip of land, Mr. Eastwood said he is prepared to pay the cost of the land expropriated. The original course of this stream was through the middle of Mr. Bogue's lot.

Ald Morrow offered that the council acted on this matter last year by the advice of the solicitor, who advised that under present conditions the city would not be liable for any eventualities. He (Ald. Morrow) could see no reason to deviate therefrom unless other circumstances have arisen to justify such a course.

Mr Eastwood contended that the solicitor will advise that new conditions have arisen to justify expropriation proceedings.

This matter was referred to the Board of Works to report at Monday night's meeting.

FIXED ASSESSMENT AGAIN.

The committee here went back to the two requests for fixed assessment.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott,—That the Auburn Woolen Mills assessment be fixed at $40,000 for ten years.—Carried.

Considerable discussion occurred over the Peter Hamilton Co.'s re-

The Demands for Universal Suffrage Cause Many Riots

Berlin, Jan. 19.—The determination of the Socialists to secure direct universal suffrage, combined with their indignation against Chancellor von Buelow's curt declaration during their demand, gave rise last week to an unusual scene and a monster popular demonstration, accompanied by disorders, in the streets of the Prussian capital, in which 40,000 organized Socialists participated, while 30,000 sympathizers from time to time actively joined in the manifestations.

One of the most remarkable features of the uprising was the number of women who engaged in the demonstrations and they appeared even more earnest in their activities than the men. The authorities took the sternest measures to prevent disorders and the strictest precautions to protect the assembly and other public buildings and Prince von Buelow's residence against the outbursts of fury.

DEMONSTRATORS INJURED.

Groups on the streets were dispersed in the most vigorous manner and collisions between processions of manifestants and the police resulted in the injury of a considerable number of the demonstrators, but so far as known no fatality occurred in the city. The police refrained from making arrests except in cases of extreme violence.

The movement extends throughout Prussia, where the Socialists are exceptionally numerous. Reports that are received from other cities, however, do not indicate that the demonstrations there were accompanied with violence.

Notwithstanding the police commissioner's warning that repressive measures would be applied, many thousand Socialists gathered in the morning at the 600 local headquarters of the various districts of the capital and thence proceeded in groups, singing revolutionary songs, towards the eight halls in the city where mass meetings had been announced.

POLICE IN EVERY FIRE HALL.

From 10 o'clock in the morning the entire police force had been on duty. Two hundred men with officers were hidden in each of the fire stations and large bodies were held in reserve at the police stations, while police battalions were quartered also where the police forces were quartered to act in any emergency.

In the gardens and outhouses of the tenantry, before which the demonstrations on Friday occurred, a heavy guard was stationed. Street cars and other vehicles were permitted to traverse in front of the building, but no group of more than two lined streets were allowed to pass on any pretext.

Chancellor von Buelow's palace on Wilhelmstrasse was entirely cut off by cordons of police, to which manifestations against the prince were limited, while the environs of the imperial palace, with the square in front, were closed to the public, squads of police, both on foot and mounted, patrolling the central thoroughfares.

The Socialists showed great determination in their attempts to hold processions, although the police made energetic efforts to prevent this long before the hour of noon, the time fixed to begin the meetings, all the halls were completely packed and the police drew up in force around the doors to hold the crowds in check.

Those who could not get within the buildings were driven into the adjoining streets by squads of police. Inside the halls the greatest enthusiasm prevailed, the excitement increased as the speakers denounced the action of the chancellor, whose name was received with loud hooting and hissing.

Resolutions favoring universal suffrage and a secret ballot were adopted by acclamation, after which the audiences streamed into the streets.

USED SABRES FREELY

The police immediately attempted to disperse the throngs, which showed an evident intention to march in procession towards the Palace square. In most cases the processions were broken up, the police displaying the utmost energy. Two formidable columns, however, marched as far as Alexander-Platz within a short distance of the emperor's palace, where the police charged them, using the blades of their sabres freely and inflicting many injuries.

Eventually they succeeded with the greatest difficulty in scattering the demonstrators, who retired hooting and cheering ironically towards Unter den Linden. Thousands of spectators already had gathered there from curiosity.

Nineteen Men Were Drowned

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 18.—A wireless dispatch received this morning from Estevan would indicate that the British sailing ship Hartfield, Capt. Sanderson, 1,915 tons, has been totally wrecked and her crew of eighteen lost, off Hesquiot, on the west coast off Vancouver Island. A life buoy has been washed ashore bearing the penciled words, Hartfield, Liverpool." Nearby on the rocky beach was a mass of wreckage, including cabin and lifeboat fittings, belts, doors, planking, etc., belonging to a sailing ship.

The Hartfield left Valparaiso on Oct. 26th, bound for this waters.

The despatch bearing the news was the first wireless message received from the new Dominion government station at Estevan.

Turfman Explains Why He Did Not Kick

Speaking of the local Turf Club's races, which open today at the Driving Park, brings us in mind of a story told on good authority to The Times yesterday. This story which is as well verified as that of Jonah and, to sceptics possibly better concerns a well known local horseman. This member of the Turf Club, some years ago, gave to a local peddler one of those horses that a Paris butcher would naturally ask the price of, whilst mentally considering the expense of fattening. The turfman told the peddler to take the horse along and trade him off as best he could, but not to forget to remember to turn in any profit made to the horseman.

The peddler took the horse and traded it off. Again he traded it off and still he traded it again, neglecting to turn in any returns to the local horseman. At last the peddler got rid of the last horse received in trade, one having a mark of 916. This last acquisition of the peddler may enter in tomorrow's races. A friend of the turfman hearing of this transaction asked, "Say, Mr. L———, why didn't you make that peddler put up the value of the last horse he got?" To this the turfman replied, "Well, it's just this way. I "hope I'm a decent kind of a sport. I beat that peddler out several times on horse trades. He got a head of me once or twice; but, when he makes a winning, why should I kick?"

HARRY HAD URGED EVELYN THAW TO END LIFE TOGETHER

But She Refused--He Swallowed Poison, but Recovered After Three Days--Wife Tells Her Life's Terrible Story

New York, Jan. 20.—There was none of the crushed lily about Evelyn Nesbit Thaw today, when, for the second time in an open court room, she told of her alleged undoing by Stanford White, for the murder of whom Harry K. Thaw is on trial for the second time.

The scene in the mirrored room was again portrayed, but it lacked sincerity. In the three months' parlance, the actress could not get it over the footlights. There was an effort to give the same halting effect, to paint ure with sobs and throaty sounds, the alleged downfall, but the illusion was gone. An objection from the ingenuous Jerom brought Evelyn out of her pathos and there was not a trace of grief in her tone, as she said, "That's what I told Mr. Thaw."

She had progressed to the point in her story where her mother had gone to Pittsburg and left her in charge of Stanford White. She was not anxious to go but she was told to go to the parties unless Stanford White emphasized her. Then the attorney told her she was going to give a party. She had previously gone to him at his studio and also in the 24th street house, and in a 22nd street photographer's studio. "He sent a cab for me," said Evelyn, "and when I reached the house he received me in the top room at the head of the stairs, escorted Evelyn down, and, interlacing her half-gloved hands together and held her hands on her knees.

She was garbed in the blue frock of yore, the hat being a low beneath her Eton collar, and the hat the same velvet affair with violet-covered top.

Her face seemed pale as she began the recital, but color soon returned as she displayed spirit in combatting the interruptions of District Attorney Jerome. Her eyes were somewhat heavy, and her lips were full and pouting until Jerome annoyed her so that the brown eyes sparkled and the luscious lips become drawn until they appeared narrow and vindictive.

"He asked me where I had first met Stanford White," said Evelyn Thaw, after Justice Dowling had denied the district attorney's motion for a hearing of her evidence in camera and Mr. Littleton asked her to relate exactly what she had told Harry Thaw the night in Paris she refused to marry him.

"I said it was while I was playing in Floradora at the Casino in New York," continued Evelyn, frowning at Jerome, and tossing her head as he interposed objections that her explanatory remarks were immaterial.

"One of the girls in the company had told me a nice man wanted to meet me, but mamma would not let me go. This girl asked me several times, and then her mother called on my mother. Then mamma said I could go to a luncheon with him. The girl (who is understood to be Edna Goodrich of Nat. Goodwin's company), then took me in a cab to a house in West 24th street. As soon as the cab stopped the front door of the house opened and we went into the hall. I could not see anyone on the first floor, but as we went upstairs I saw Stanford White on the second floor. I did not know him then, but the girl who was with me introduced us, and Mr. White took us into the big room at the head of the stairs. He said he was glad to meet me and hoped I would often come to his parties. Then he showed us about the house. It seemed something like a studio, but it was different. On the second floor was a room all hung with tapestries and animal skins were on the floor, with Oriental rugs and big cushions. We went upstairs and here was a room all furnished in red velvet. It had armor standing around and beautiful pictures were on the walls. Along one side of the room was a big couch, and from the ceiling was hung a swing, the ropes wrapped in red velvet. Stanford White got me in the swing and after he had started the swing he sat on the couch and laughed at us when we tried to kick holes through a big Japanese umbrella which was fastened to the ceiling over near the side wall."

TOLD IT GLIBLY

Evelyn Thaw rattled off her testimony glibly. Now and then she would hesitate and Mr. Littleton would ask a question, and for several minutes the witness would continue her oft-told tale. Jerome stood between the stand and the defendant and Thaw was bobbing back and forth like a shuttle in his efforts to watch his wife's face.

"Luncheon was served in the second floor room of the 24th street house," said the witness, and then Stanford White sent her and the other girl for a drive in an electric cab through the park. The other girl was going to the dentist, and Stanford White told her she should have the dentist examine the witness'

HOW SEPARATION AFFECTS FRANCE ABBE LOSY SPEAKS

Says on Its Development Depends Fate of Roman Catholic Faith

Crisis Began Long Ago

Paris, Jan. 21.—The Temps has begun publication of a series of opinions from distinguished prelates and savants regarding the effect of the separation of the church and the state in countries like France upon the religious life of the people. Scholars of all countries and creeds, including the Roman Catholic Protestant, Israelite, and Greek orthodox have been invited to contribute.

The Temps assumes that separation involves the upsetting of the principle of religion is a matter of individual conscience, and leaves the state unfettered by the moral doctrines of the church. It asks what savants think regarding this principle, especially from the standpoint of exegesis and Christian history.

To-day three replies were published. They were those of Abbe Loisy, a French modernist, whose works recently were interdicted by the Vatican; the Rev. T. K. Cheyne, canon of Rochester, and Oriel professor of interpretation at Oxford; and the German critic, Rudolph Eucken, professor of philosophy at the University of Jena.

Abbe Loisy considers that separation is only another step in the crisis of the Roman Catholic Church, which began with the Protestant Reformation in the sixteenth century, and was continued in the philosophical movement of the seventeenth, and the scientific movement of the eighteenth century.

"Upon its ulterior development will depend the fate of the Roman Catholic faith," he says.

He rejects the idea that civil society can be divorced from the religious convictions of the people, and adds:

"Legislation in a country like France eventually must correspond to the dominant mental and moral attributes of the people, and France will retain whatever is vital and living in the moral and religious traditions of its Roman Catholic past."

Prof. Cheyne says that the historical solution of disestablishment varies in different countries. As a broad churchman he approves of the state "gently" controlling ecclesiastical affairs. In the time of Christ, when the Jewish church was united with the Jewish state, separation would have been premature, yet there was far more independence in the Jewish church than in the modern Roman Catholic church, where he had not found the liberty of religious thought which he considered necessary for a convinced disciple of Christ.

In the Anglican church, he says, there is more liberty and as the church developed liberty would be increased. The

A Splendid Recipe to Clean the Blood

Said to be Harmless and Better Than Patent Medicine

All medical authorities are agreed that the blood is the great source of disease, or of health in the human system. If the blood is pure, the individual is strong and healthy. If the blood is impure or diseased then there is sickness of decay in the whole system.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood disease. It is caused by excessive uric acid. Sores, pimples, etc., mean bad blood. Catarrhal affections must be treated through the blood to get permanent results. To get well, to feel strong, hearty and vigorous one must have good clean blood and lots of it. You can't clean the blood thoroughly unless the kidneys are made active. Bad blood means clogged, inactive kidneys and liver which cause, too, such symptoms as backache, nervousness, bladder and urinary difficulties and other sympathetic troubles.

Here is a simple home remedy and the Recipe for making it up is as follows:—

Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well and take after each meal and again at bedtime. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

Here the readers of this paper have a simple yet powerful and effective remedy for all forms of blood, kidney and bladder diseases which should relieve rheumatism and catarrhal affections and replace that weak, worn-out, indifferent feeling with strength, vigor and health.

The prescription is considered a fine system renovator and being made of vegetable extracts only is harmless and anyone can mix it at home. Try this anyway before investing in the secret unknown concoctions of the patent medicine manufacturers.

Proposal to Operate Wm. Hamilton Concern

The A. R. Williams Machinery Co., who have purchased the Wm. Hamilton plant, proposed to the council to reorganize and operate the concern providing the city give them a loan of $50,000, without interest, secured on the buildings only. The company guarantee to put the plant in operation without any undue delay, add new and modern machinery, and buildings as required, and employ at least 150 hands within two years—as Mr. R. R. Hall said more like 300. Should the city not accept this proposition the company will dismantle the plant and sell it where they can. This is an opportunity for the city to secure the re-opening of a large industry the closing down of which lost to Peterborough a large number of good families of long standing. And the company cannot brook much delay as negotiations as considerable money is vested in the buildings and machinery. It was generally conceded that the city generally would like to see the Wm. Hamilton concern again under way, but as the proposition is new to the council, they asked a little time in which to go into the details of the proposal.

Ald Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan.—That this matter be referred to the Manufacturers' committee for further consideration.

The council then adjourned.

Mahoney Claims He Has Been Underpaid

For Filling in Water Front Last Season--Disputed Measurements--Difference of 5,514 Yards

The Board of Works of the city met last night prior to the council meeting. There were present; Chairman Ald. Phelan, Aldermen Fuller, Bradburn, Tovey, McIntyre, Elliott and Morgan.

Mr. Mahoney appeared in support of his contention that last season he handled under contract 19514 yards of earth in filling up the water front with earth from the dredge, conveyed to him in scows. Mr. Mahoney claims that he took care of 1774 scow loads of earth, 11 yards to a scow, making a total of 19514 yards. His engineer claims that the amount of earth was sent down to Mahoney during the season. The city engineer, however, contends that according to his measurement the total amount of stuff handled by Mr. Mahoney was a little under 14000 yards—5514 yards less than Mahoney's figures. The latter claims that each scale held 11 1-2 yards of earth, and he had only based his figures on an average of one yard to the scale; but the city engineer says that he had frequently watched the dredge at work and did not once see the scale carry anything like a yard of earth.

On motion of Ald. Morgan, it was agreed that Mr. Mahoney's engineer accompany the city engineer to the spot filled in last season, and re-measure the work done as accurately as possible under present conditions, with a view to reaching a settlement; Mahoney to pay his own engineer.

The board then adjourned.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

CITY AND COUNTY POLICE AUTHORITIES IN CONFLICT

County Police Refuse to Deliver Chas. Burke to City Police for Trial

For Resisting Arrest

Quite an interesting case was brought up in the police court yesterday morning, when an evident conflict between the powers and authority of the respective police magistrates for the city and county was in evidence. This arose through the arrest on Toronto, or rather charge lying from Toronto here under arrest by County Constable Cochrane, of Charles Burke.

This conflict really dates its inception back to Oct. 23rd last, when Burke resisted P. C. Newhall whilst the latter tried to arrest him then as a suspicious character. It will be remembered that two men Murray and Burke had been trying to peddle chewing gum and tried to sell one to P. C. Newhall. When the latter tried to arrest Burke, he got away leaving half his coat in the officer's grasp.

The next link in the history is the arrest in Toronto recently of Burke for vagrancy. The Toronto police thought they identified Burke as the man who recently held up and robbed the Buckhorn post office at the point of a gun. They notified Chief Russel and County Constable Cochrane who brought Burke to the city. On arrival Cochrane, instead of taking Burke to the jail, as a county prisoner, left him over night in the police station cells. Burke was sent up next day taken to the jail and was remanded until tomorrow for trial on the Buckhorn case.

Third link in the case is that yesterday a city police officer went to the jail to bring Burke to the police court for trial on the charge of resisting arrest last October. When the officer arrived at the jail, Mr. Nesbitt refused to acknowledge the order of Magistrate Dumble for the prisoner, as he was wanted at the county police court tomorrow. This brought things to a climax in the police court Mr. Gordon, for the prisoner, noted the comparative triviality of the charge of resisting arrest and offered to pay costs of the court if Burke were discharged. Chief Boyd strenuously objected to this. The magistrate made out an order which practically amounted to release of the prisoner until the cases of tomorrow are settled.

It seems as though this conflict between county and city authorities will result in the jail authorities having to turn out early on these cold winter mornings as the city police will probably decline to do the duty of the county officers. It might be mentioned that when the city magistrate commits a prisoner he commands the city police to take the prisoner to the jail but further commands the jail authorities to deliver the prisoner on the day of trial at the police court.

Morgan Controlled the Situation--Refused to Advance Loan

Toronto, Jan. 19.—The immediate cause of the suspension of the Sovereign Bank was the refusal of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, acting for himself and the Dresdner Bank, to make any further advances.

The sum of $500,000 would have enabled the bank to weather the gale.

At the same time it was owing to Mr. Morgan and his interests that the bank was not forced to go into liquidation last June.

The present debt of the Sovereign Bank to the Morgan interests is $2,241,000.

The indebtedness has been steadily growing since the reorganization when the loans scattered among the banks of Europe amounted to over $3,500,000. As these fell due Mr. Morgan advanced the money for that payment.

Nearly every cent of these foreign loan was made during the last two years, and this was the real danger point when the present manager took over the control formerly held by Mr. D. M. Stewart.

Mr. C. B. Routley Opens Branch in Montreal

Mr. C. B. Routley, one of Peterborough's oldest and most successful merchants under the title of C. B. Routley & Co., has opened a branch in Montreal. They have purchased the $30,000 bankrupt will paper stock of W. G. Browne & Co., Limited, 330 St. Catharine street, and Mr. Wm. Routley has gone to Montreal to take charge of the business.

SUGAR AND ALCOHOL

A Philadelphia physician, the chief of the bureau of health, announces a series of interesting experiments. Having decided that the appetite for candy and the desire for liquor are substantially the same he has begun to allow his children a regular quantity of sweets each day. He affirms that of late years men have been deserting alcohol for candy, while on the other hand, women, owing to their "greater liberty and reaction from old conditions," have taken up alcohol in place of candy. Such is the nervous temperament of the American people that we must have one or the other.

If we are disposed to listen to our foreign critics we may well believe that we must have both. The American preference was not inaptly expressed by Artemus Ward, when, having been told by his temperance neighbor that his favorite potation "stingeth like an adder and biteth like a serpent," he replied: "Not when you put sugar in it." This seems to be a phase of the case which the learned physician does not touch. Furthermore he does not give his opinion as to what will happen if at any time the children upon whom he is experimenting fail to receive the usual rations of candy. Will they rush madly to the wineup if the candy counter and the sugar bowl are not accessible?

Dismissing as trifling the objections that a gratification of the candy passion will lead to teeth and stomach trouble and to the dentist and dyspepsia specialist, it may be suggested that the experiments begun cannot be expected to develop immediate and satisfactory results. A nation that is credited with much devotion to candy and alcohol, or specifically to rum and gum, the sweetened old fashioned toddy and the palatable gin sling, must have time to demonstrate the value of a separation of the component parts. It will require a generation at least to show if alcohol can be driven out by candy.

That means that the ensuing thirty years must be given over to such general experiments as will undeniably establish the truth of the physician's suspicions. This length of time, however, should not discourage the experimentalists. Many great truths have waited many times thirty years before their value and importance were fully manifest.

If it is true that women have forsaken candy for alcohol because of their larger liberty and changed conditions, may it not be true that the physician's children will experience a similar reversal of taste when their conditions are changed and their liberty is enlarged? Before pampering our children with sweetmeats should we not inquire why women brought up from infancy on candy have forsaken it for liquor, and if it would not be wiser, prompted by the case of man, to begin on alcohol and thus proceed by easy and natural stages to straight sugar? Assuming of course, that the physician's observations are accurate and that the mutations, as detailed, have taken place.

But we are just in the experimental stages and have thirty years ahead of us before we can arrive at positively definite conclusions. Until that time we may regulate our diet according to temperament and moral and physical conditions.

OUR SCHOOL BANKS

Mr. F. S. Jarvis, manager of the Bank of Commerce at Galt, has a high opinion of the school bank, and he speaks from experience. Writing to the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, he says of it:—

"With a penny bank you people can handle the school banking, teaching the theory and practice perfectly, and also do a lot of good to a lot of people generally in your town. I took in through the schools in eight years, without much trouble, over $8,000, and I have now handed over to the Penny Bank over $5,000. You cannot but feel the good that all this has done in the years to those children; the denials, the knowledge of money and moneys worth which is gained, the helps over sicknesses, the supplying of money for Christmas holidays and for starting in life. Only recently a young girl took out enough money to buy a sewing machine at cash price, and she never missed the money when she was saving it.

"It is so comical to hear people, as they did, fear we would make misers. Well, we have not, but surely it would be a good side to err on, in this country. Take it up. Your town wouldn't have anything so good come off in a long time. Thrift-teaching, is the basis of everything towards our comfort and happiness in this world, better than education in books. You don't hear a teacher condemn it—they all enthuse. The rule is that two-thirds of the children become depositors. We had eight hundred depositors out of twelve hundred children."

MORE SCIENTIFIC WONDERS

The remarkable statement is put forth on the authority of a well known professor of biology in one of our most conservative and trustworthy universities, that milk when it reaches the consumer is "fairly teeming with germs most of which are harmless, while some even aid the digestive processes and are healthful."

Truly, wonders will never cease while man maintains his ability to search out the recondite truths of nature. The announcement which we have quoted will, of course, cause all biologists in the world to sit up and take notice, and in order that they may not be too lonely it may be well to bracket with it some other equally novel and startling propositions in other departments of science.

Thus metallurgists will be intensely interested to learn that a method has been discovered of alloying copper and zinc so as to produce another metal to which the name of brass has been given. It is also reported on the authority of reputable chemists that the mixing together of aqueous solutions of tartaric acid and bicarbonate of soda will produce a marked effervescence. Moreover—though we repeat the story with due reserve—it is said that certain mathematical authority for the assertion that the sum of two and two is four.

The world will now proceed with its much admired occupation of spinning down the ringing grooves of change.

To check a cold quickly, get from your druggist some little Candy Cold Tablets called Preventics. Druggists everywhere are now dispensing Preventics, for they are not only safe, but decidedly effective and prompt. Preventics contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will prevent Pneumonia, Bronchitis, La Grippe, etc. Hence the name, Preventics. Good for feverish children. 48 Preventics 25 cents. Trial Boxes 5 cts. Sold by all dealers.

French Troops in a Terrific Engagement

Tangier, Jan. 20.—News has reached here of a fierce ten hours' engagement in a ravine near eStrauta between a French column under Gen. D'Amade and a column commanded by Mulai Rachid, a chief of Mulai Hafid's forces. The French gained a splendid victory in the face of heavy odds. Twenty of the French soldiers were wounded, but many of the Arabs were killed. The latter not only offered a dogged resistance, but returned repeatedly to the battle after it had been routed and attacked the French from three sides.

After hours of fighting, Mulai Rachid's column was suddenly reinforced by the powerful force which figured in the massacres of Casablanca and which had arrived from the mountains at the very moment when Mulai Rachid was about to retreat.

Under the combined charge of the now confident Moors the French not only held their ground, but steadily threw back the enemy, driving them effectually in mad haste to the hills.

After destroying the camp of the enemy at Staatta, Gen. D'Amade pushed forward and occupied their position.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at any Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

DORA DEANE

OR THE EAST INDIA UNCLE.

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

that. And perhaps he'll never know it," she continued, beginning to look upon the brighter side. "Uncle Nat may not prove very inquisitive—may not stay with us long, or, if he does, as the wife of Stephen Grey I can bear to displease better"; and, determining that ere another twenty-four hours were gone she would cease to be Eugenia Deane, she arose and stood before the mirror, preparatory to going down.

The sight of her white, haggard face startled her, and for a moment she felt that she could not mingle with the gay throng below, who would wonder at her appearance. But the ordeal must be passed, and summoning all her courage she descended to the parlor, just as her mother and Alice returned at her very long absence, and coming in quest of her. Crossing the room mechanically she offered her hand to Dora, saying, while a sickly smile played around her bloodless lips: "You have really taken us by surprise, but I congratulate you and you both," bowing rather stiffly to Mr. Hastings, who returned her greeting so pleasantly that she began to feel more at ease and after a little chatting familiarly with Dora telling her she must be sure and meet Uncle Nat on Saturday evening, and adding in a low tone, "If I've treated you badly, I hope you won't tell him."

"I shall tell him nothing," answered Dora, and comforted with this answer Eugenia moved away.

"You are looking very pale and bad to-night. What is the matter?" said Uncle Nat, when once he was standing near her.

"Nothing but a bad headache," she replied, while her black eyes flashed angrily upon him.

Supper being over, Stephen Grey led her into a little side room, where he claimed the answer to his question. It was in the affirmative, and soon after, complaining of the intense pain in her head, she begged to go home. Alone in her room, with no one present but her mother and Alice, her pent-up feelings gave away, and throwing herself upon the floor she wished that she had died ere she had came to this humiliation.

"That Dora, a beggar as it were, should be preferred to me is nothing," she cried, "compared to the way which the whole thing was planned! That old wretch of a Hamilton had something to do with it, I know. How I hate him, with his smearing face!"

Becoming at length a little composed, she told her mother of her expected marriage with Stephen Grey.

"But why so much haste?" asked Mrs. Deane, who, a little proud of the alliance, would rather have given a large wedding.

Sitting upright upon the floor, with her long loose hair falling around her white face, Eugenia answered bitterly: "Stephen Grey has no more love for me than I have for him. He believes that we are rich, or we will be when Uncle Nat is dead. For money he marries me, for money I marry him. I know old Grey is wealthy, and as the wife of his son I will yet ride over Dora's head. But I must be quick, or I lose him, for if after Uncle Nat's arrival our real situation should chance to be disclosed Stove would not hesitate to leave me.

"So to-morrow or never a bride I shall be,'"

she sang with a gayety of manner wholly at variance with the worn, suffering expression of her countenance. Eugenia was terribly expiating her sins, and when the next night, in the presence of a few friends, she stood by Stephen Grey, and was made his wife, she felt that her own hands had poured the last drop in the brimming bucket, for, as she had said, there was not in her heart a particle of esteem or love for him who was now her husband.

"It's my destiny," she thought; "I'll make the best of it," and her unnatural laugh rang out loud and clear, as she tried to appear gay and happy.

Striking contrast between the gentle bride at Rose Hill, who felt that in all the world there was not a happier being than herself—and the one at Locust Grove, who with bloodshot eyes and livid lips gazed out upon the starry sky, almost cursing the day that she was born and the fate which had made her what she was. Ever and anon, too, there came stealing on her ear the fearful word "retribution," and the wretched girl shuddered as she thought for how much she had to atone.

Marveling much at the strange mood of his bride, Stephen Grey, on the morning succeeding his marriage, left her and went down to the village, where he found a letter from his father, telling him the crisis had come, leaving him more than one hundred thousand dollars in debt! Stephen was not surprised—he had expected it, and it affected him less painfully when he considered that his wife would inherit a portion of Uncle Nathaniel's wealth.

"I won't tell her yet," he thought, as he walked back to Locust Grove, where, with an undefined presentiment of approaching evil, Eugenia moved listlessly from room to room, counting the hours, which dragged heavily, and half wishing that Uncle Nat would hasten his coming, and have it over!

The sun went down, and as darkness settled o'er the earth a heavy load seemed pressing upon Eugenia's spirits. It wanted now but a few minutes of the time when the train was due, and, trembling, she scarcely knew why, she sat alone in her chamber, wondering how she should meet her uncle, or what excuse she should render if her perfidy were revealed. The doorbell rang, and in the hall below she heard the voices of Mr. Hastings and Dora.

"I must go down now," she said, and forcing a smile to her face she descended to the parlor, as the shrill whistle of the engine sounded in the distance.

She had just time to greet her visitors and enjoy their surprise at the announcement of her marriage, when her ear caught the sound of heavy tramping footsteps coming up the walk, and a violent ringing of the bell announced another arrival.

"You [illegible] is about she whispered, while an [illegible] crept over her.

He obeyed, and bowing forward in a listening attitude she heard him say, "Good evening, Mr. Hamilton."

Just then a telegraphic look between Mr. Hastings and Dora caught her eye, and springing to her feet she exclaimed: "Mr. Hamilton!" while a suspicion of the truth flashed like lightning upon her. The next moment he stood before them, Uncle Nat, his glittering black eyes fixed upon Eugenia, who quailed beneath that withering glance.

"I promised you I would come tonight," he said, "and I am here. Nathaniel Deane! Are you glad to see me?" and his eyes never moved from Eugenia, who sat like one petrified, as did her mother and sister.

"Have you no word of welcome?" he continued. "Your letters were sent to be kind and affectionate. I have brought them with me as a passport to your friendship. Shall I show them to you?"

His manner was perfectly cool and collected, but Eugenia felt the sting each word implied, and, starting up, she glared defiantly at him, exclaiming, "Insolent wretch! What mean you by this? And what business had you thus to deceive us?"

The fair Eugenia does not believe in deceit, it seems. Pity her theory and practice do not better accord."

FROM LOVE TO HATE.

Spanish Queen Unpopular — British Traits Not Appreciated.

A few months ago, Queen Victoria was one of the most popular of monarchs, idolized by the people, and admired by courtiers and nobles, but today she is one of the least loved.

She has antagonized the members of the Royal Family by her frigid manner, and her evident distaste for their society, and although from time immemorial they have resided in the palace, they are now leaving it for good and all.

Through her husband's kin, Queen Victoria is antagonizing the proud Spanish nobles, whom the Queen Mother conciliated only after years of patient, diplomatic effort. The nobles bitterly resent the Queen's refusal to attend bull-fights except when court etiquette compels her presence. Even then she ostentatiously screens her face with her fan, making it plain that the sport so dear to every Spaniard is disgusting to her.

Queen Dowager Christina, it is known, is deeply troubled; apprehensive over the turn affairs have taken. But she has found it useless to try to reason with the young queen, who does not even attempt to hide her distaste for the antiquated notions, the tedious formalities and the impenetrable reserve of her Spanish subjects.

King Alfonso supports, will applaud everything the queen does and says. Not only is he intensely loyal and loving to his wife, not only does his volatile nature submit to her resolute one, but he, too, detests to be bored by senseless etiquette and regal restraints.

It is said here that it will be well for King Edward to impress some advice on his headstrong niece when she visits England. Else the unstable Spanish throne may be so shaken that its occupants will be startled from their complacent security.

All kinds of stories are afloat, even among the people, about the queen's fiery temper and the condition of subjection to which she has reduced King Alfonso. All Spanish diplomats who have served in England say her majesty inherits her hot temper; that her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, who ruled the English court in Queen Victoria's time and oppressed her husband until he became the merest lay figure, is notorious for her unamiability, to put it mildly.

While such personal traits are of little account in England, they are really dangerous here, among a people so largely swayed by enmities or friendships—so dangerous that they may provoke a tragedy.

Weak Women

Do weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. Any with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, feeding the muscles of all nerves, all tissues, and all blood elements.

The "Night Cure", as the name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, upon nervous exhaustion, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up frazzled tissues, bringing always renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. For sale by all dealers.

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON: "Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 631 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 50-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 6 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 3 to 7½ per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Drastic Purgatives Destroy the Intestines

If you burn your hand you have a good example of the sort of inflammation that the Drastic Purgatives excite in the intestines. Yet many people consider the virtue of purgative pills depends upon their activity.

Dr. Hamilton was the first to produce a pill that would cleanse the system not by drastic action, but by exciting normal secretion of kidneys, liver, and bowels.

The deepest recesses of the system are searched by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Poisonous and depressing accumulations whether stores in the lymphatic, kidneys, liver or bowels are driven out—toward cleanliness is effected.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

FLASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

Latest News from Trent Bridge

The post office at Trent Bridge has been re-opened, Mr. H. H. Pollock was appointed postmaster. Mr. A. Ormiston of Campbellford, has opened up a drug store in Jeff's block. Several changes have taken place at the school since the re-opening. Miss Wood has taken charge of the 2nd primary class and Part II. and Jr. 4th classes, while the other teachers will be in their old places.

Sovereign Bank Failure at Havelock

Much excitement went abroad at Havelock on Monday morning, when the news became public that the Sovereign Bank had gone into liquidation and when placards announce d the local office as a branch of the Bank of Toronto. Mr. W. J. Boyd, manager of the branch, was busy making explanations and giving assurances to those who have given the bank their cash. Although a number of small depositors withdrew their money most of the citizens were quite satisfied when acquainted with the new conditions.

Regret That County and City Quarrel

It seemed a great pity, in the interests of justice, that yesterday the county and city police authorities should arrive at a dead-lock in the passing of the case of a prisoner charged with—from reading of rest by a city policeman to holding up a county post office at the point of a gun. Whether Burke is guilty of both or neither of the charges, it seems wrong that friction should arise between the various rulers of police who govern both charges.

Mr. Gordon and Chief Reazel Argue

Quite a comical argument took place in the police station yesterday morning between the chief and Mr. Gordon re the refusal of the county police to deliver over the prisoner Burke, to the city officers for trial. Mr. Gordon put up a strong argument showing that the local police force had had it (we don't now quote Mr. Gordon's words), rubbed into them by the county police. The chief however (and he seemed to win out in the argument), claimed that the action of the county authorities was more "a crack" at the county police for not recognizing a warrant or paper signed by the city magistrate, than at the police force.

Lieut-Col. Edwards Organizing Regiment

Many of our older citizens will remember Col. E. B. Edwards, formerly head of the local regiment who recently gave up a law practice here to go to Edmonton in the same profession. The following item appears in the report of the council proceedings in a recent Edmonton paper,

"Co. E. B. Edwards submitted a resolution regarding the formation of a regiment of infantry in the city, and urging that the matter be taken up with the Dominion Government.

Messrs. Collier Bros. Now in Possession

Messrs. H. B. and W. H. Collier, formerly of Kingston, have taken over the cereal department plant and products of the Peterborough Cereal Company, and will here forth manage that branch of the business.

The new company will be known as "Canada Flakes, Limited." The plant will be removed to the new oatmeal building of the Peterborough Cereal Company. At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Cereal Company, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, who presided, was in the chair, when a bylaw was passed ratifying the agreement made with Collier Bros. The new company will be known as Canada Flakes, Limited.

Today's Races and Language Mixed

Take in the races today and you will forgo the meaning, whether you know it, or not of "Ennui," or as a Collegiate Institute student said, a few days ago, in The Times office, "En-hi-se." Still this student does not prefer "La Francaise," and is excusable as was a local doctor, who returned, a few years ago from "La Gay Paree," said he got tired of water as "Vins ordinary" was supplied in every restaurant. To continue an absolutely (this word used elsewheres in this issue) true story, the same Peterborough man, referring to his experience in the hotels of Paris, said he, whilst in a noted hotel of the French capital, "Went through cor-rod-or-ator corroder." Such little entanglements with a foreign language, to use a slang expression, "cut no ice," and most of the men so entangled are better citizens than many men of their own or other nationalities who speak six or eight languages and are able, willing and even so, of doing up one in several more languages for the limit of one's pile.

CITY COUNCIL

quest for fixed assessment. Ald Morgan opposed the measure on the ground that a special committee should be appointed to give all industries on an equal basis regarding fixed assessments. He did not approve of granting fixed assessment to people who came before the council filled with hot-air, to the exclusion of other equally deserving, but who made no appeal to the council. All should be treated alike. He opined that the Peter Hamilton Company's petition for fixed assessment at $15,000 was ridiculous. It should at least be $20,000 They have valuable property on George and King streets and have enjoyed the use of these streets for 60 years.

Ald. Turner thought this company deserving of aid and encouragement in the way of fixed assessment, although he agreed with Ald. Morgan that $15,000 would be too low a figure.

Ald Elliott offered that the company's request for fixed assessment should be granted at some reasonable figure The Deering Harvesting Machinery Co., at Hamilton, enjoy a fixed assessment of $15,000 on some $500,000 worth of property, and these people enter keenly into competition with the Peter Hamilton Co. here.

Ald Tovey moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott,—That the Peter Hamilton Co's assessment be fixed at $20,000 for ten years, they to employ not less than 35 hands the year round.—Carried.

CITY TRUST COMS

In the reading of the application to the legislature to provide for changing the tenure of office of the City Trust Commissioners from life to a period of but five years, one to retire each year. Mr. W. H. Moore, one of the commissioners, made the gratifying statement that the City Trust Commissioners have ready the money with which to pay all the debentures falling due June next. The commissioners have charge of the sinking funds, and have always seen to it that the city is in a position to discharge its debentures when falling due. They have also charge of all the city's real estate, and apply the rents from same to a sinking fund for all general debentures other than water works and local improvements debentures. It was generally conceded by the council that the city's high standing in the financial world is mainly due to the commissioners careful guardianship of the city's interests, and their wise investments of such money as come within their jurisdiction.

CITY'S LIABILITIES.

In the application to the legislature for legislation, the clause endorsing the Ontario Municipalities' request that a certain clause in the municipalities act be repealed so as to relieve any municipality from a portion of its liabilities for accidents on the highways, Ald. Turner objected to seeking legislation to take away the rights of the people.

The proposed amendment would relieve the municipalities from all responsibility except in the case of faulty construction or neglect to repair.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That this clause in the city's application be struck out.—Lost.

CITY DEBENTURES

A bylaw authorizing the sale of $40,000 worth of debentures at five per cent. per annum passed its several readings.

A bylaw authorizing the payment of $25,000 for the addition to the Queen Alexandria school passed its

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and vouches it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicine are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtue be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

THE ASSESSMENT.

Ald. Butler advocated that the city supply for special legislation authorizing a revision of last year's assessment to a basis more equable to that of 1905.

This scheme was considered to be impracticable and no action was taken although it was conceded that care will be taken to avoid a repetition of last year's high assessment.

J. Cottingham's Harry Direct Gets Second Place in the 2.18 Pace or Trot--Bad Weather Prevented Many from Turning Out

That the Peterborough Turf Club's present management has removed any seeming stigma that carpers may have placed on the old regime of the club, who discredited, was proven by yesterday's as well as the summer meet. Yesterday the Turf Club were up against it, as far as the weather went, and this is the greatest gamble that any racing association has to play. A fine day means fine gate money, a rainy day means a damper on the gate receipts. Still yesterday, although the sky was overclouded and rain not only threatened but fell, a fair attendance was present at the Driving Park to see the winter races run off. Those present spoke in most complimentary terms of the officers and directors of the club, including Messrs. P. Clunan, J. O'Shea, M. Connors, Dr. Johnston and others.

All Canada Concerned in Immigration of Japs

THE RECOMMENDATION.

"I would most respectfully submit that an immediate consideration of this subject is desirable, not only in the interest of the people of the Province of British Columbia, but of the whole Dominion, and that any effective solution demands the prohibition of such Japanese immigration as may come from countries beyond the jurisdiction of Japan, and an absolute restriction in the numbers that may come from Japan direct."

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—The report of W. L. Mackenzie King on the importation of Japanese into Canada was made public last night. Mr. King urges that "the preservation of harmony between the several classes in the Province of British Columbia, no less than the furtherance of friendly relations between this country and Japan, demands that there should be an effective restriction of the number of Japanese who shall be admitted to Canada each year. With the immigration from Hawaii the Japanese government has had nothing to do. Were the immigration of Japanese from Hawaii and all other points beyond the jurisdiction of Japan absolutely prohibited, and a stop put to the immigration of contract labor at the instance of individuals and companies in this country and immigration companies in Japan and a like reserve shown in the future in the granting of passports to all other classes of persons, as appears to have been practiced in respect to these classes during the past year, the Japanese immigration to this country would not be such as, having regard for numbers, would be likely to cause any serious embarrassment to the country, or as to which exception could reasonably be taken.

"On the other hand unless methods are adopted sufficiently effective to prohibit absolutely all immigration from Hawaii, and the importation of contract labor from Japan, there are strong grounds for believing that the numbers of Japanese likely to enter Canada from the former islands will greatly exceed within a few months the numbers of the past year, and that the Canadian Nippon Supply Company and other like concerns will carry on a traffic in Japanese labor the like of which has not been equaled in the importation of any class of coolie labor that has ever been brought to our shores."

BLAME NIPPON COMPANY.

Mr. King's opinion after examining 101 witnesses, including 27 Japanese 15 Hindoos, and 35 Chinese, is that the abnormal influx of Japanese last summer, which caused all the trouble, was not due to intentioned action of the Japanese government, but to the operations of the Nippon Supply Co., a concern engaged in the importation of Oriental laborers for employment principally on the Grand Trunk Pacific, but also in other works in British Columbia.

This company dealt with emigration companies in Japan, who have to deposit the necessary security in the shape of a cash bond with the government, which they in turn secure themselves by having the emigrants obtain securities among relatives and friends. For their services the emigration companies are allowed to charge a prescribed commission from $10 to $12 being a customary amount. Emigrants are only allowed to leave Japan on passport, and the companies engage to bring back when required for military service such emigrants as they may send out.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

There were at the beginning of the year in Canada about 7,500 Japanese, and Mr. King does not think it a matter of surprise that the arrival of 8125 more in British Columbia during the year should have created consternation in certain quarters. He adds that if anything more were needed to occasion unrest it was to be found in the simultaneous arrival from the Orient of Hindoos by the hundreds, and Chinese in larger numbers than in the immediately preceding years. It was an alarm at numbers which Canada raised, but deducting admissions to the United States, only 4,639 of the 8,125 Japanese remained in Canada. Of these 2,779 came from the Hawaiian Islands, and 1,641 from Japan direct. Of the latter 900 were brought out by agreements with the Tokio Emigration Co., and 151 were persons rejected by United States officials, and allowed to remain in Canada; 300 were Japanese returning to Canada, and 290 were merchants, students, etc.

HAD COMPLETE MONOPOLY.

The Nippon Supply Company is described as mysterious, but it had a complete monopoly of both sides on the Pacific. It had a contract with the C.P.R sufficiently large to ensure its continued existence, was in successful negotiation with President Dunsmuir, of the Wellington Coal Co., for the supply of miners from Japan and had prospects of a labor contract with the G.T.P.

Mr. King points out in justice to the change made by Japan last April in her emigration regulations that it was only made upon proof of the bonafides of the companies and the assurance from responsible parties that laborers were needed.

"If," he says, "there was a change in the policy of Japan, it was not one which could adversely affect the interests of the country, without a Canadian citizen or a Canadian corporation first placing upon it the seal of his or its approval."

WHAT COMPANIES WANTED.

The Nippon Supply Co. was incorporated in Canada with a capital of $110,000. Its contract with the C.P.R called for the supply of between 500 and 2,000 Japanese laborers per annum for five years. The agreement with the Wellington Colliery Co. called for the supply of 500 miners. Evidence was put in to prove that the Grand Trunk Pacific had not authorized any contract or promise of contract with the Nippon Company.

The report deals exhaustively also with the immigration of Japanese from Hawaii, which appears to have been due to the cutting of wages by the Hawaiian Planters' Association and to speculations by individuals in Honolulu. The commissioner does not believe that the Japanese government had anything to do with this immigration. Indeed, he credits the Japanese consuls at Vancouver and Honolulu with having done much to stop it.

OUT OF CONTROL.

The Japs from Honolulu had passports to Hawaii, but not to Canada. But once they were out of Japan they were beyond the control of the Japanese government. The significance of this so far as Japanese immigration to Canada is concerned is that whatever may be the power of Japan to to control emigration from her own shores that power may end when the territorial limit is covered.

England is Concerned Over Kaiser's Appropriation to Heligoland

Stronghold of Importance

London, Jan. 21.—A deep impression would seem to have been produced in naval circles by the news that the German reichstag has voted a million and a half sterling for the fortification of Heligoland and its conversion into a naval base.

This is understood to be the German reply to Great Britain's new departure at Rosyth, the proposed naval base for the North Sea. In the naval race or at least the rivalry between Great Britain and Germany, which now becomes more intense than ever, this Heligoland vote is an incident which may be interestingly illustrated. When in 1890, Great Britain surrendered this despised patch of rocky islet to Germany in exchange for Zanzibar, public opinion in that country was by no means favorable to the deal and less so as Bismarck pronounced it to be a most one-sided affair, all the advantage being with Great Britain. He bitterly blamed the emperor for giving away so much in return for practically nothing, but his majesty knew his own mind and resolved to bide his time.

That time came five years later when in 1895, with the inauguration of the Kaiser Wilhelm, came the canal connecting Kiel with the mouth of the Elbe, thus giving great strategical value to Heligoland.

In the hands of a naval adversary of Germany, Heligoland would now be invaluable, while in the keeping of Germany it offers a decided, almost insuperable obstacle to blockading the mouth of the Elbe. Heligoland is some twelve or fourteen miles from the shore, so that with seven-mile range guns of the Dreadnaught type mounted on the island and on land it would be impossible for the ships of an enemy to get through.

That the German government has at last come to the conclusion that Heligoland can be made to play a role in naval war is proved by their decision to fortify it in a very expensive manner.

Evelyn Thaw Tells of Devotion of Harry During Her Illness

New York, Jan. 20.—The examination of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw on the stand last week was interrupted constantly by Jerome's objections. Justice Dowling generally ruled in favor of the prosecuting attorney. He refused to let Evelyn tell about going to school in Philadelphia. Nor would he permit the witness to testify concerning her life in Allegheny and Pittsburg.

BEGAN POSING FOR ARTISTS.

Q. What employment did you have? A. Posing.

Q. For whom did you pose?

Jerome objected and was overruled.

"For Jessie Wilcox Smith and an artist named Phillips, George Gibbs, Elizabeth Greene, a Mrs. Darrell, and several others."

Mr. Littleton tried to bring out how she met these persons, but Jerome's objections to all his questions along these lines were sustained by the court.

Q. How long did you pose in Philadelphia? A. I can't say exactly. It may have been two months or even a little longer.

Q. What did you earn?

Jerome's objection was sustained.

Q. Did you earn anything? A. Oh, yes.

Q. What did you do, if anything, with your earnings?

The court again sustained Jerome's objections.

Q. Did you reside with your mother all the time you were posing in Philadelphia? A. Yes.

Q. Did any person accompany you to the studio?

"Yes, my mother did," she replied before Jerome could make an objection.

Q. Did you go alone to the studios? Objected to and sustained.

Q. When did you leave Philadelphia? A. I think it was in March, 1903.

Then the witness told of going back to her aunt's for three months to Allegheny and then coming to New York.

Q. Your mother was here then, wasn't she? A. Yes.

Q. Where did she reside? A. No. 249 West Twenty-second street.

Q. Housekeeping? A. No, boarding.

Q. Had you been in New York before? A. Never.

Q. Did you live at the Hotel Wellington after that? A. No, I went to a girls' school at Pompton, N. J., in 1902, remaining there until March or April, 1903.

Q. When did you meet Harry Thaw? A. Just a little time before Christmas.

Q. Had Mr. Thaw been to the school before you were operated upon? A. No. I have no recollection of it.

Q. Did you see him while you were ill at the school? A. Yes, I saw him just before the operation.

Q. How long did you remain at the school? A. About a month. I was then taken on a stretcher to Dr. Bull's sanitarium in New York.

Q. How often did you see Harry Thaw after you met him at the dinner to Rector? A. I think I saw him once or twice in 1902.

Q. Did you see him while at school? A. Yes, when I was operated on.

Q. Were you ill in school?

Jerome objected and was overruled.

A. Yes. I was operated upon for appendicitis. I was ill for two months.

Q. Did you meet Mr. Thaw at Dr. Bull's sanitarium? A. Yes, he called upon me there almost every day. I left Dr. Bull's in May and went to Europe—no, first I went to a hotel where mother was stopping for a week or two.

Q. Who went with you to Europe? A. My mother.

Q. To what place did you go in Europe? A. To Paris.

Q. Did Mr. Thaw talk to you about your trip before you went to Europe? A. Yes.

Q. Did he show any evidence of affection? A. He did.

Q. Was the first call that he made of a social character? A. Yes.

Q. When did he make any professions of affection for you? A. I think at the hospital.

Q. Did you receive any communication from him while you were at the hospital? A. Yes, many letters and flowers.

Q. Did you receive anything else? A. Yes, a vast amount of beef.

Q. How long were you ill while you were at school? A. About a month.

Q. Will you repeat what Thaw said to you about his affection for you while you were in the hospital? A. I do not remember his exact words. He told me that he was very fond of me and wanted to marry me. He said that he loved me very much.

Q. Was that conversation the result of a previous conversation? A. Why, it must have been.

Q. Did he call upon you often while you were at the hospital? A. Yes.

Q. When was the next time he spoke to you? A. I don't exactly remember the date. I only remember the conversation in general.

Q. He always spoke of his love for you, didn't he? A. Oh, yes.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him after you left the hospital? A. I did.

Q. Will you tell the jury, in substance, what that conversation was? A. He just told me that he loved me.

Q. Did he go any further than that? A. I don't remember anything else.

Q. How frequently did he send you flowers? A. All the time I was ill I received flowers from him.

Q. Do you know whether he was at the hospital when you were operated on? A. He was.

Q. Did you see him that day? A. Yes, just before the operation.

Q. What took place? A. He came into the room and knelt down beside the bed and took my hand. I was not allowed to talk to him.

Turf Club Did Well Despite the Weather

Whilst there was a fairly good gate at the Driving Park yesterday the weather prophet handed out more of a frown than a smile when the Peterborough Turf Club raised wishes for good weather. Still the the Turf Club kept faith and ran off what they promised.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the present Turf Club of this city, whether their predecessors in office did or did not do exactly right, are doing what, in their estimation is right as near as two peas in the central part of the same pod, resemble one another.

Messrs. O'Shea, the secretary-treasurer, Martin Connors, Clarke and others are doing all they know how to advance sporting matters in this city.

Allan Evangelistic Services in St. Andrew's Church

Notwithstanding the inclement weather a very large congregation greeted Mr. Allan in St. Andrew's church last night. The song service was conducted by the minister, Rev. J. G. Potter. Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang with much effectiveness "The Cross of Calvary." Mr. Allan's address was a most impressive deliverance. Luke 22, 31, "Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you that he might sift you as wheat, but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not."

The speaker dwelt in a most lucid and telling manner on the three phases of this incident in Peter's life, 1. Peter's mistake; 2. Peter's fall; 3. Peter's restoration.

Peter was under the hypnotic influence of a selfish life—self delusion—hypnotic deception, and Christ sums all the hostile forces in the word Satan or adversary. Mr. Allan pronounced very emphatically on the question of a personal evil power which Christ termed Satan. Peter's great fault lay in his misconception of his own weakness and a miscalculation of the tempting hostile forces. The trouble is that men under estimate the forces that assuredly attack them every day. The South African war was greatly prolonged, and great bloodshed was caused by the British officers underestimating the forces of their enemies.

Peter's restoration was the result of three things; 1. The look of his Master. 2. The withdrawal to Gethsemane when Christ had agonized that night, and 3. The prayer of Christ for him.

An earnest appeal was then made to all present to recognize in the ascended Christ one who was always interceding on the behalf of His people.

Mr. Allan closes his mission this evening in St. Andrew's church. The Bible study will be held at 3.30, and the concluding public service tonight at 7.45, when the song service will be held.

The thankoffering for the evangelist will be made at both meetings today.

Mr. Allan leaves tomorrow for Lockport, N.Y., and will return for a union service in Parkdale, Toronto, about Feb. 10th, at the conclusion of which he starts via Scotland for the colonies on a mission tour, and will conduct meetings in South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, India and Japan. His work in Peterborough has been of a most elevating, instructive and inspiring character.

A Lovely Complexion Without Powder or Rouge

A Simple Toilet Preparation, Made at Home, That Will Work Wonders Toward Beautifying Your Complexion.

The following face wash, now in almost universal use among Parisian women (and their matchless complexions attest its efficacy), will restore clearness of skin and delicacy of tint to the plainest of complexions if applied daily.

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

It is quite an easy matter to mix the ingredients according to above directions, and can best be done at home. It costs so little, and accomplishes such a decided improvement on the skin, that it should be a requisite on every ladys dressing table. If this wash is used the plainest complexion will take on immediate and decided change for the better, and the powder puff and rouge jar can be relegated to the closet.

Every woman who would like to have a pretty complexion (and unless feminine nature has changed mightily, this may safely be said to include all daughters of Eve) cannot do better than give this preparation a trial. It is perfectly harmless, even to the most delicate skin.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE AND FIREMEN HAVE SOCIAL TIME

Ald. Johnston, Chairman of Fire, Water and Light Committee, Entertains Members of Fire Brigade at Jolly Wee Banquet--Matters of Mutual Interest Discussed

The fire hall was the scene of a somewhat unusual event last night; an event which marked a new epoch in connection with the fire brigade in Peterborough. The members of the fire brigade and the Fire, Water and Light Committee were entertained to a well prepared banquet by Ald. Johnston, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. Notices had been sent out, asking the members of the brigade to be at the fire hall at eight o'clock to meet the Fire, Water and Light Committee to discuss some matters that required adjustment but no intimation was given that a banquet was on the program. Consequently everybody was agreeably surprised when they found awaiting them a table in the assembly hall loaded down with good things prepared by Messrs. Hooper and Welch, whose catering was the theme of many favorable comments.

The gathering was graced by the presence of the Worship Mayor Rush, who had a seat of honor at one end of the table while Ald. Johnston did the honors at the other.

About twenty were in attendance, including the members of the fire brigade and the fire hall staff. It was stated in the course of the evening's speeches that the gathering of the firemen and the members of the committee around the festive board would be an annual event. The assembly was called primarily for the purpose of discussing some matters upon which everyone did not appear to be seeing eye to eye and the result was highly gratifying. There is no doubt but that in future everything in connection with the fire brigade will go ahead smoothly and that nothing more will be heard of friction between certain departments.

Chief Rutherford was chairman last evening and after the oysters and other palatable things had been done justice to and the cigars were lighted, opened the second part of the proceedings. He expressed pleasure at the large number in attendance and alluded briefly to the purpose for which the gathering was held. He proposed the toast to "Our Guests," the reference being to the mayor, Ald. Johnston, and the other members of the Fire, Water & Light committee present. Aldermen Buller and Turner. The toast was heartily honored and "For they are Jolly Good Fellows," was heartily sung.

Ald Johnston was then called upon and said the meeting had been called in order that the members of the committee and the brigade might get together and have a good, old-time chat. He was glad to be present to meet the firemen and believed it was a wise idea for the members of the two bodies to meet together as they were doing and discussing matters that would be to their mutual interests. He wanted to say that his feelings towards the firemen were of the kindest nature. He wanted to see everything in connection with the fire department running smoothly and was going to do everything in his power to bring about these conditions. All were ratepayers of the city and as such it was to their best interests to work in harmony.

Ald. Johnston referred to the excellence of the Peterborough fire department. The fire hall and its equipment were a credit to the city and the fire brigade itself was as good, if not a little better than that of other towns and cities. He did not want to take credit for what had been accomplished during the past two or three years but he had seen that improvements were necessary and had "kept plugging away to get them." The Fire, Water and Light Committee intended doing what was right for the firemen and to achieve the greatest success it was necessary that all should work together.

"I trust this will be the banner year in connection with the Peterborough fire department," said Ald. Johnston in closing. "The past is gone and we have the present to deal with. Let us make the most of it and see how much can be accomplished by all working in harmony."

Mayor Rush, who was greeted with cheers, said Ald. Johnston had met him in the morning and asked him to attend a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. "If this is the kind of meetings you always have, I am sure I'll be pleased to come often," he said. He hoped all the firemen would pull together with the committee and make 1908 the banner year, as Ald. Johnston had suggested. He was glad that Ald. Johnston had gathered them all together to discuss matters of general interest. Nothing but good could result.

Ald. McIntyre was next called on. He said he had the greatest respect for the members of the fire brigade. He had watched them ever since he had come to Peterborough, and had always found them up to the mark. As a member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, he intended doing all he could for the advancement of the fire department. He spoke highly of the brigade's work at the spring rink fire.

Ald Buller said he was a fireman first and a member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee afterwards. He was glad to be present and in such company. It would be an inspiration for him to work hard on the committee. Peterborough was noted for having one of the best fire brigades in Canada and the high standard should be maintained.

Ald Turner referred to the pleasure it gave him to be present, and particularly as it gave him an opportunity to learn some things. He was a new man at the game and had been induced to enter the municipal field because he felt he might do something for the municipality. He considered it the height of a man's duty to fight for his country and serve the municipality in which he resided.

Mr. J. Gibbs, the assistant chief, said he was going to do his best to attend to the duties of his position, and help the brigade along.

Mr. Adamson, the financier of the brigade, said the finances were not an awfully hard thing to handle. He would not mind if the task were a heavier one. He also expressed his pleasure at being on hand.

Mr. "Kit" Rutherford said he had been a member of the brigade for many years. The chairman had alluded some friction that had existed. The trouble was that in the past the Fire, Water and Light Committee had given only little attention to the brigade. He had joined the brigade in 1880. At that time there were 70 men on the hose and 30 on the hook and ladder. He recounted the difficulties of maintaining the brigade in those early days. It was organized and went to the wall several times, but at last it was put on a better basis by hard work on the part of some of the members, a number of whom were still connected with it.

Mr Johnston, said Mr. Rutherford, should have the thanks of the brigade for what he had done for it since becoming chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He had effected many improvements. When the swinging harness had been put in first the members of the brigade had to order them themselves and had a hard job making the city pay for them. But it was different now.

Mr. Jos. Metheral, late assistant chief, was next called upon and referred to the work the brigade had done, while not wanting to toot his own horn, he believed the brigade had done good work with the apparatus they had at their disposal. There were some things that were still needed. He thought the firemen should be better paid and that they should be given uniforms. These were matters for the committee to consider.

CAUSE OF FRICTION.

Mr Pakenham, foreman of the fire hall, brought up the question of friction which had been referred to. The only friction, he said, was due to the Board of Works making use of the fire hall as a place for storing sand, tools, etc., and of taking the teams and drivers to work on the streets when he considered they should be at the hall. It was no use having expensive equipment and having the drivers and teams out on the streets with the snow plows or watering carts when an alarm came in. The reason why such good work was done at the curling rink fire was because the drivers and teams were all available at once and had been "Johnny on the spot." Mr. Pakenham cited some other matters that were causing friction, and some discussion followed.

Ald. Buller said a joint meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works would be held to discuss these matters, and Ald. Johnston confirmed this. The latter said that everything was going to be put right this year.

The gathering broke up with cheers for the King, the Mayor, the Fire Brigade, the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Ald. Johnston.

The Pope on Slavery

The Evil Said to Exist in all Parts of Africa

Rome, January 21.—The continued existence of slavery in Africa, throughout all parts of the east continent, with the exception of Egypt, Tunis and Algiers, was the declaration made by Monsignor Cocolo in an address before the second Italian Anti-Slavery Congress, which met recently in Rome. The speaker described in vivid terms the character and nature of this terrific grading in human flesh all over the Dark Continent, from the north of the centre—which is a real mine of slaves—and thence to the south; and after describing the sorrows and sufferings of these unhappy people, he quoted, amid enthusiastic applause, the words of Cardinal Lavigerie, that the whole world should work towards the abolition of slavery.

On the following day the Pope gave private audience to the members of the Anti-Slavery Congress. He characterized the work of the Anti-Slavery Society as holy work, because it could not endure without the beneficient influences of faith and religion. He noted how the traffic in slaves in the immediate consequence of the total want of morality and of the sentiments of brotherhood, as it represents rebellion against every principle of justice and authority that man, seeks to withdraw from the sentiment and the need of being guided and governed, and by the system of his conservatism and for his pleasure sacrifices so many of his brethren, forcing them into slavery.

—"Nothing doing," was not but might as well have been the sign hung out at the police court yesterday morning. This is a good record for a manufacturing city of some 15 000 people.

CURED PAINFUL IRREGULARITIES

Strong Testimony From a Lady Resident of Clarksburg, Proving That Ferrozone Surpasses All Other Remedies.

The health of many women is constantly imperilled through failure of certain organs to work according to nature's requirements.

Where this condition occurs there is no safer remedy to employ than Ferrozone, which has a specific action in female troubles.

Not only does it act directly on the organs, ensuring regularity and freedom from pain, but by forming rich red blood fortifies the system against weakening drains.

FERROZONE MAKES STRONG WOMEN

Ferrozone possesses a volume of merit totally absent in the ordinary medicine, and its superiority is proclaimed by thousands of women it has restored to vigorous health. From Mrs. F. G. Caldwell comes the following endorsement, written from her home in Clarksburg: "I went through a most trying experience with what is commonly known as 'Female Trouble.' It isn't necessary to state my symptoms, but I suffered a great deal. My health was well nigh ruined, and I got into such a condition that I couldn't even sleep. I was dreadfully nervous, weak and pale. Different prescriptions were recommended and I tried them. But Ferrozone was the first to help. I improved steadily under Ferrozone, and normal conditions were finally established. I gained weight, my color and spirits improved, and my former health was restored. Ferrozone cured me, and with a full heart I recommend this good medicine to all other women."

Beware of imitations—don't allow a druggist to palm off anything else for Ferrozone, which costs 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

INFLUENCE FOR PEACE

The United States has a fleet on its way to the Pacific, which is formidable to look at, but whose fighting qualities have yet to be tested, and have been severely criticised by those who ought to be in a position to form an opinion of some value. It has an army, which looks far more imposing on paper, than it is in fact. On the other hand, Japan has a fleet, the fighting qualities of which have been tested, and it has the best army in the world for immediate use. Japan is short of money and has some pretty heavy problems on hand which cannot be worked out except in times of peace. The United States has no more money than is needed for normal conditions. These things will work together for peace. The yellow press of the United States may declaim in favor of war with Japan, but the saner heads, who control the policy of the country, will not take the chance of losing the navy in the course of a few hours' fight against the veterans of Japan. Neither will they run the risk of having a Japanese army invade the Philippines and face the proposition of having to drive it out again. In a long run, the United States would completely demolish Japan, but there are altogether too many chances at the start for a sane government of Washington to be willing to take them. On the other side, of the case, Japan knows the risk attaching to a naval battle between modern vessels, and can hardly feel so cocksure of herself as to jeopardize her naval position and her financial credit by precipitating a conflict if it is possible to avoid it. Such are some of the influences that make for peace at the present time. There are others, but these seem to lie upon the very face of things.

BUSINESS IN THE UNITED STATES

The various suggestions put forth at the commencement of the financial depression in the United States in explanation of its causes and to minimize its importance have not been proved to be correct by subsequent events. In the first stage of the crisis the cue of American financiers was to treat the matter as a mere stock exchange flutter—unpleasant to some speculators, but of no concern to anyone else. This theory was exploded when banks were forced to suspend payment, and in substitution for it, it was asserted that a foolish panic occurred among depositors, but that the commercial position was sound throughout. All the circumstances of the previous good years were echoed in support of that view; but it was not long before it had to be abandoned, and it is now admitted in the most authoritative circles that the incidents in the financial and banking world were symptoms—to use the words of one of the leading financial journals—"of a deep-seated evil which is bringing, as it has brought before, depression of trade and a severe spell of unemployment." As that journal points out, the multitudes of disappointed immigrants returning to their former homes in Europe, is a practical proof of the seriousness of the new situation.

Another journal, Bradstreet's, in its review of the past year and estimate of the probabilities of the present one, says that in addition to the knowledge that trade in other countries is quieting down, there are other factors in operation on this Continent that must be considered. Among these is the presidential election in the United States, the readjustments of prices and wages that must follow the financial convulsions and the fact that expenditures for all public and private purposes are likely to be made smaller for some time to come. Production must be curtailed to fit with consumption, and it is not unfortunate that measures have been taken to meet this change in conditions before the situation had become very acute.

It is to be hoped that the measures taken to overcome the dearth of currency in the States, have been successful through the large imports of gold from Europe. It is worthy of note, however, that there was no reduction made on Thursday in the Bank of England discount rate at the regular weekly meeting of the Board. Its maintenance, at six per cent., must be a serious injury to trade, and the Board must have some reason for its inaction not apparent outside, since the Bank's position had improved as is shown by the weekly return. While there is no doubt that the process of liquidation will continue for so long time, and in many lines of business, it is to be hoped that no deep-seated commercial ulcer exists anywhere that can only be got rid of by some severe operation, which, for the time being, might have a very serious effect on trade and enterprise.

Russia Dreads Japanese Aggression

St. Petersburg, January 20. — The Japanese occupation of the Chen Tao district in Manchuria and the annexation thereof by Korea is attracting attention in St. Petersburg on account of the proximity of the district to Russian territory, and its strategic importance in a possible campaign against Vladivostock. The Novoe Vremya to-day published a long despatch from its Korea correspondent on this subject and several other papers calling upon the foreigners to support China against the pretensions of Japan which, they declare, affect the security of the Vladivostock region.

The disputed tract is 275 miles long, and from 70 to 75 miles wide. It lies between the Tumen river and its northern affluent, and contains valuable silver mines. The Japanese contentions it is declared here are based on a controversy regarding the identity of the Tumen river, which, in the treaty of 1712 was decalred to be the boundary line. The despatches published here assert that the Japanese military commander is erecting new boundary stones, and is disregarding the land-marks set up in 1712.

To Sell Famous Flag.

London, Jan. 20.—At an auction sale to be held in London a week from next Wednesday, the offerings will include an article of great interest to patriotic Americans. It is the flag of the United States frigate Chesapeake, the vessel captured off Boston harbor in 1813 by the British warship Shannon and towed to Halifax. It is likely that all the bidders for the historic flag will be Americans, and that the relic will soon occupy a place in some AAmerican museum.

Nineteen Men Were Drowned

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 18.—A wireless despatch received this morning from Estevan would indicate that the British sailing ship Hartfield, Capt Sanderson, 1,815 tons, has been totally wrecked and her crew of eighteen lost, off Hesquoit, on the west coast off Vancouver Island. A life buoy has been washed ashore bearing the penciled words, "Hartfield, Liverpool." Nearby on the rocky beach was a mass of wreckage, including cabin and lifeboat fittings, belts, doors, planking, etc., belonging to a sailing ship.

The Hartfield left Valparaiso on Oct. 26th, bound for these waters. The despatch bearing the news was the first wireless message received from the new Dominion government station at Estevan.

SYNOPSIS Of CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

DORA DEANE

OR THE EAST INDIA UNCLE.

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

he answered, while a scornful smile curled his lips.

"What proof have you, sir, for what you say?" demanded Eugenia; and with the same cold, scornful smile, he replied: "Far better proof than you imagine, fair lady. Would you like to hear it?"

Not suspecting how much he knew, and goaded to madness by his calm, quiet manner, Eugenia replied, "I defy you, old man, to prove aught against me."

"First, then," said he, "let me ask you what use you made of that fifteen hundred dollars sent to Dora nearly three years ago? Was not this piano," laying his hand upon the instrument, "bought with a part of that money? Did Dora ever see it, or the five hundred dollars sent annually by me?"

Eugenia was confounded. He did know it all, but how had she been betrayed? It must be through Dora's agency, she thought, and turning fiercely towards her she heaped upon her such a torrent of abuse, that, in thunder-like tones, Uncle Nat, now really excited, bade her keep silent; while Howard Hastings arose, and confronting the angry woman, explained briefly what he had done, and why he had done it.

"Then you, too, have acted a traitor's part!" she hissed; "but it shall not avail. I will not be trampled down by either you or this gray-haired——"

"Hold!" cried Uncle Nat, laying his broad palm heavily upon her shoulder. "I am too old to hear such language from you, young lady. I do not wish to upbraid you farther with what you have done. 'Tis sufficient that I know it all, that henceforth we are strangers"; and he turned to leave the room, when Mrs. Deane, advancing towards him, said pleadingly, "Is it thus, Nathaniel that you return to us, after so many years? Eugenia may have been tempted to do wrong, but will you not forgive her for her father's sake?"

"Never!" he answered fiercely, shaking off the hand she had lain upon his arm. "Towards Alice I bear no ill-will; and you, madam, who suffered this wrong to be done, I may, in time, forgive; but that woman," pointing towards Eugenia, "never!" And he left the room, while Eugenia, completely overwhelmed with a sense of her detected guilt, burst into a passionate fit of tears, sobbing so bitterly that Dora, touched by her grief, stole softly to her side, and was about to speak, when, thrusting her away, Eugenia exclaimed, "Leave me, Dora Deane, and never come here again. The sight of you mocking my wretchedness is hateful and more than I can bear!"

There were tears in Dora's eyes as she turned away, and, offering her hand to her aunt and cousin, she took her husband's arm and went out of a house where she had suffered so much, and which, while Eugenia remained, she would never enter again.

Like one in a dream sat Stephen Grey. He had been a silent spectator of the exciting scene, but thought had been busy, and ere it was half over his own position was clearly defined, and he knew that, even as he had cheated Eugenia Deane, so Eugenia Deane had cheated him. It was an even thing, and, unprincipled and selfish as he was, he felt that he had no cause for complaint. Still the disappointment was not the less severe, and when the bride of a day, looking reproachfully at him through her tears, asked why he didn't say to her a word of comfort, he coolly replied: "Because I have nothing to say. You have got yourself into a deuced mean scrape, and so have I!"

Eugenia did not then understand what he meant, and when, an hour or two later, she dried her tears, and began to speak of an immediate removal to Philadelphia, where she would be more effectually out of Uncle Nat's way, she was surprised at his asking her what she proposed doing in the city, and if she had any means of support.

"Means of support!" she repeated, half angrily. "Why do you ask that question, when your father is worth half a million, and you are his only son?"

With a prolonged whistle, he answered, "Father is not worth a copper cent and I a precious fool come nearer the truth."

"What do you mean?" she asked, in unfeigned astonishment; and he replied, "I mean that three days ago father failed, to the tune of one hundred thousand dollars, and if you or myself have any bread to eat, hereafter, one or the other of us must earn it!"

Eugenia had borne much to-day, and this last announcement was the one straw too many. Utterly crushed, she buried her face in her hands, and remained silent. She could not reproach her husband, for the deception had been equal, and now, when this last hope had been swept away, the world indeed seemed dreary and dark.

"What shall we do?" she groaned at last, in a voice so full of despair, that, with a feeling akin to pity, Stephen, who had been pacing up and down the room, came to her side, saying: "Why can't we stay as we are? I can average a petty jogging suit about once every month, and, surely, that'll be better than nothing."

"I wouldn't remain here on any account after what has happened," said Eugenia; "and besides that, we couldn't stay, if we would, for now that Uncle Nat's remittance is withdrawn mother has nothing in the world to live on."

"Couldn't you take in sewing," suggested Stephen, "or washing, or mopping?"

To the sewing and the washing Eugenia was too indignant to reply, but when it came to the mopping she lifted up her hands in astonishment, calling him "a fool and a simpleton."

"Hang me, if I know anything about woman's work," said Stephen, resuming his walk, and wondering why the taking in of mopping should be more difficult than anything else. "I have it," he said at length, running his fingers over the keys of the piano; "can't you teach music? The piano got you into this lovely fix, and if I were you I'd make it help me out."

"I'll use it for kindling-wood first," was her answer, and Stephen resumed his cogitations, which resulted finally in his telling her that on the prai-

CLAIRVOYANT AIDS SLEUTHS.

Scotland Yard Officials Try to Penetrate Murder Mystery.

The so far impenetrable mystery which surrounds the savage murder of a woman named Dinmock, or Shaw, at her home in St. Paul's road, Camden Town, has driven Scotland Yard to the employment of novel expedients.

For about the first time in a big crime sensation the detectives have sought the aid of the press by sending photographed copies of postcards received by the victim the day before her terrible death.

An even stranger development has to be recorded—no less than the calling in of a famous clairvoyant who had volunteered to do his best to discover the murderer.

All arrangements having been made, the clairvoyant called at the police station to meet the detectives who are specially devoting themselves to the unraveling of the mystery, and went with them to the murdered woman's house.

Here a weird scene was enacted.

After a short inspection of the room, the clairvoyant lay down on the bed where the dead body was found, and apparently sank into a trance. Soon he began to speak in a rapt, tense voice. He described several persons, and he mentioned their names.

Then he proceeded to give a startlingly vivid description of the actual commission of the crime, pictured in detail the appearance of a certain man, and concluded by exclaiming, in answer to a question, "The man you want is on his way to Melbourne."

Altogether, it was an astonishing episode, which impressed even the usually impassive detectives with its seeming quality of reality. What actual value it may have remains to be seen.

FARMER'S QUICK STUNT.

Corn Cut and Turned Into Baked Loaves in Four Hours.

The reproach so often leveled against British agriculturists that they are slow and unprogressive can never be raised again after a demonstration of motor harvesting given at Kirton recently, when loaves were handed round baked from corn that had been standing in the fields four hours before.

The demonstration, which was given on the farm of Messrs. Dennis Brothers—one of the largest in the kingdom—showed that in up to date farm work England is well ahead of most countries. Several remarkable feats were accomplished.

A acre of standing corn was marked out in the fields, cut, bound, threshed, and ground by motor implements. An acre of ground was also plowed, drilled, harrowed, and sown with a new crop within seven and a half hours. This constitutes a world's record.

At 11.35 the tractor started its work by taking the threshing drum into the cornfield. Five minutes later it began to draw two harvesters. These not only cut the corn but bound it. Half a dozen men walking behind stacked it, and in exactly fifteen minutes what had been an acre of growing crop was standing on the field ready to be placed on the cart which the tractor proceeded to draw round the field.

By 1 o'clock the corn was lying at the side of the threshing drum. The tractor then got into position to drive the thresher. At 10 minutes past 1 a halt was called for luncheon. As soon as the threshing began the flour began to come out of the mill, which was being worked off a pulley on the threshing drum.

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small size Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual, substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will go against, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing, antiseptic balm, put up in a dainty nickel capped glass jars at 50c. ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 421 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,800 feet of tunneling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 60-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. These men appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 300 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda yielding ore which averages only a little over 3 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $3.00 to $1,400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore-bodies to a highly profitable state of development; at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. W. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 20 to possibly 300 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Hunningtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 4 to 5% per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Make Your Money Work

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government expert's report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced ISO PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Pensey Hirtschman Tells His Part of Story

The Case Fully Reported, Proves the Work Was Done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 25.—A well-known resident at 93 Sackville street, Mr. Pensey Hirtschman, who has been in a somewhat serious condition lately, has recovered, and says: "Six months ago my appetite fell off and my health became very poor. I had terrible attacks of indigestion and often was unable to sleep at night. My poor color showed what an ill man I was. I tried numerous remedies but the only genuine one was Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Two boxes cured my indigestion. My appetite increased and my strength came back quickly. Today I have a fine zest for my meals. I feel as strong and healthy as a young boy. Because they are so cleansing and so tonic in their effect I think Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used by every person. My wife used them regularly with grand results.

Local Artillerymen in Kingston

Lieutenants McDonough and Leary, of the 24th Field Battery, left yesterday for a two weeks' special course at the Royal School of Artillery, Kingston, Messrs. McDonough and Leary are provisional lieutenants in the 24th, and if they pass the examinations at Kingston, will be fully qualified officers and given certificates to that effect.

No Band at Jackson Park

Owing to the miserable weather yesterday the band did not play at Jackson Park as previously advertised. Whilst the management at Jackson Park invariably keep faith with the public they have no string to pull the puppets or prophets controlling the weather. Those disappointed last night, however, want to keep an open date for the great and unprecedented open air fancy dress rink carnival at that spot.

Former Harlequin Resident Home

Mr. William Rea, of Davidson, Sask., was in the city on Monday a guest of Mr. Thomas Lee, former market clerk. Mr. Rea farms a half section four miles from Davidson, a flourishing town, about 70 miles southeast of Saskatoon. Mr. Rea has 135 acres under cultivation, and is an old Harlequin boy. He left Davidson on December 15th, and since then has been visiting in Harlequin, Lindsay, Brock, Toronto, and other places. When he left there was no snow, and the weather was fine. Mr. Rea will return to the west next month.

Local Scotchmen Meet Friday

The Brave Scotsmen of the city will, on Friday next at eight o'clock, hold a banquet in the Crown Hotel to celebrate the anniversary of Scotland's immortal bard, Robert Burns, who, as known to those acquainted with his works, once got off an impromptu doggrell regarding his temporary stoppage on the Bridge of Leith. The works of Robert Burns are too well known to require detailed description here. A pleasant evening is anticipated. Songs will be sung and "Haggis" the great Scotch national dish partaken of. Miss Hunt Clarke of the Crown Hotel has taken every precaution to have a suitable and acceptable menu presented. A full report of the supper's proceedings will be given in Saturday's Times.

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—The Holly Club will meet this evening at 7.45, at Miss Minnie Rogers' home, 135 Hunter street.

—Times Bookstore for stationery, fancy goods, souvenirs and novelties all at bargain prices this week.

—The annual meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society was held in the City Council chamber yesterday evening.

—The annual meeting of St. Paul's congregation will be held this evening. It is expected that all the reports will be ready. The ladies will serve tea from 6 to 8 o'clock.

—Many ladies attended the Y.M.C.A. meeting in St. Paul's church yesterday evening. Rev. Robt. Pogue gave an address.

—That no police court was held yesterday is a "feather in the cap" of the local police. The staff in this city is too well known, both individually and collectively for any intelligent man to doubt the above.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

—The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.B. will be held on Friday evening, Jan. 24th, when brief essays will be read by the Misses McGrath on one of Dicken's works. The musical program promises to be especially bright and attractive.

—The general meeting of the Young Conservative Club will be held in the club rooms on Saturday, 25th inst., at eight p.m., for the purpose of electing delegates from the club to the Liberal Conservative convention. A full attendance is requested.

The mission of the Rev. Andrew Allan will be concluded tonight. The service yesterday evening was of special interest, and the Bible study this afternoon at 3.30 and the closing public service at 7.45 this evening are well worth attending. Before Mr. Allan concludes his present series of meetings, a thanksgiving presentation will be made to him.

Resolution of Condolence Passed

At the annual meeting of Nicholls Hospital held in the Dominion Bank Chambers, there were present, Messrs. Rich. Hall, W. H. Hill, W. Madill, W. Aldridge, J. Stevenson, J. J. McBain, J. Green, J. McClelland and Mayor Rush. Reports submitted, showed the hospital to be in a most satisfactory financial condition.

The following resolution was passed in connection with the death of Dr. F. J. Bradd;—

Moved by J. J. McBain, seconded by W. Aldridge,—That this Board of Trustees of the Nicholls Hospital desire to place on record our deep regret and sense of loss by the death of the late Dr. F. J. Bradd, a member for many years of the medical staff of the hospital. Dr. Bradd was always most attentive in the discharge of his duties, ready and willing to render service and assistance to those suffering and requiring attention in connection with the hospital. His cheerful manner, large heartedness and faithfulness in the discharge of his duties endeared him to all who knew him. This board desires to tender to Mrs. Bradd and family their sincere sympathy in their sad bereavement, and the great loss they have sustained of a loving husband and father, and that the secretary of this board forward a copy of this resolution to the bereaved family.

The financial statement presented by Mr. Crane, was of a most encouraging kind and demonstrated that those in charge of the hospital funds and management have fulfilled their trust to the utmost.

Chairman Rich. Hall's report was equally satisfactory as might be anticipated by those who know this long time and proven trustee of the late Mrs. Nicholls great estate.

The election of officers resulted as follows;—

Chairman—Richard Hall.
Hon Sec.—W. H. Hill.
Sec.-Treas.—John Crane.
Finance Com.—Messrs. Hill, Rush, Madill, Green, Bennet.
Property Com.—Messrs. Aldridge, McClelland, Madill, McBain, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and the mayor.
Supply Com.—Messrs. McClelland, Madill, Aldridge, Hill, Rev. J. G. Potter.

VISITING COMMITTEES.

January and July—Mr. Hill and Mayor Rush.
February and August — Messrs. Green and McClelland.
March and September—Rev. J. G. Potter and Mr. Aldridge.
April and October—Messrs. R. Hall and J. J. McBain.
May and November—Messrs. J. Madill and J. W. Bennet.
June and December —Messrs. J. Stevenson and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

Observe 100th Wedding Day

Paris, Jan. 21.—In the little village of Isenbergi, Hungary, a couple have just celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of their marriage. Emperor Franz Josef inquired for details from the officials. The husband is 126 years of age and the wife 114. They have 713 descendants living in the village.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best organic known to medical science for the cure of all above symptoms and conditions, as admitted by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

ANOTHER SERICUS FIRE AT VILLAGE OF LAKEFIELD YESTERDAY EVENING

Loss Estimated at Over Twenty Thousand Dollars

Started in Grist Mill

Yesterday evening about seven o'clock the fire bell of the city rang out an alarm and the fact that no definite number was announced created some alarm. Shortly after seven o'clock, those who happened to look to the north saw the gleams of flames in that direction. Shortly after, or indeed before, the girls in the Bell Telephone office were kept busy answering pertinent, impertinent and sometimes, as noted by a Times reporter present, wholly irresponsible questions. The girls however, like "little men," did their duty, and kept the great over-demanding public posted as well as they could.

To get back to the cause of all this disturbance, it seems that, about 5.45 a fire broke out in Lakefield in the grist mill. The supposed cause was reported to The Times as originating in over-heated machinery. The flames rapidly spread to Mr. James Moore's planing mill.

Reports as to the actual loss, as received by The Times last night, by both telegraphic and telephone, were most contradictory. It seems, judging by a kind of general average taken of varied reports, that the loss on Cormish's grist mill will be from $8000 to $10,000 with two-thirds of this amount insured. The loss on the Moore plant is said to be about one-half insured.

The Lakefield fire brigade did heroic work as the owner of a nearby and badly threatened house has reason to know. The house near the seat of the conflagration owned by Mr. John Baisden, was in imminent danger of fire, but the good work done by the local brigade, saved it.

It was at one time thought last night that the Peterborough brigade would have to go out, but fortunately their services were not required.

Local Option By-Law in Midland Upheld

Toronto, Jan. 22.—The appeal in the case of Duncan vs. Town of Midland from a decision of the divisional court reversing the judgment of Chief Justice Mulock, quashing a local option by-law, on the ground that the by-law was read a third time and finally passed too soon after the ballots had been counted, was dismissed with costs by the court of appeal this morning.

Their lordships were of the opinion that although there was a technical statutory irregularity, still, in view of the large majority for the by-law, it should have been ignored.

Harry Thaw Warned Authorities of the White Debaucheries

New York, Jan. 22.—That Harry Thaw has made efforts to round up Stanford White and his alleged cronies and send them to jail was the bulk of the evidence offered this morning at the trial of the young Pittsburgher who killed the noted architect when he found himself impatient in securing the aid of the authorities in checking the reputed debaucheries of White.

The testimony was adduced through Anthony Comstock, of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, who produced a letter wherein Thaw had complained to him.

Many of these communications were incoherent and made reckless charges which investigation on the part of agents failed to substantiate. They will be urged to show that Thaw was mentally affected, as well as to support the contention that Evelyn Nesbit must have told him of her experience with Stanford White.

Mr. Armstrong said he had no formal report to make. He was well satisfied with the large increase in the Sunday school.

Mr. J. J. Hartley the superintendent of the Grace church Sunday school, said the attendance of both teachers and scholars was excellent.

The secretary's report was presented by Mr. A. E. Dixon and showed a total attendance of 787 scholars. The following officers were elected the current year;

Superintendent—S. B. Armstrong.
Asst. Supts.—J. S. Knapman and Dr. Middleton.

Peterborough Finances

Letter from Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., Which Speaks for Itself

The following letter from Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., addressed to the Kingston Whig, speaks for itself;

Editor of Kingston Whig,—

Sir,—On the 20th inst., The Peterborough Times published the following quotation from the Kingston Whig:—

CONCRETE EXAMPLE.

"Kingston Whig:—From Peterborough there comes a glimpse of the way in which some people do their financing. They issue debentures for public debt and plan to raise so much per year for interest and principal. A candidate tells of the perils run in Peterborough by saying that successive councils had not paid the necessary sums into the sinking funds as they were due. Current expenditures were carefully looked after, and the sinking fund had to take what was left."

Now, no Peterborough candidate ever made such a statement; nor could he, without saying that which is contrary to the fact. The debenture portion of the city's affairs is managed by the City Trust, a body wholly independent of the council, and as chairman of it I know whereof I speak. The trust collects each year from the council the necessary sinking funds and interest, of all debentures, and these funds are not only intact, and invested in the highest class of security, but the trust has several thousand dollars more of securities, for the purpose, than the amount actually requisite. No municipality in Ontario can show so satisfactory a state of affairs, as Peterborough, in relation to its debenture liability.

Your obedient servant,
W. H. MOORE,
Chairman Peterborough City Trust.

MERCILESS QUESTIONS EMBARRASSED ALL BUT THE WITNESS

Never a Sign From Evelyn Though Hearers Blushed--Men Friends Got Lavish Gifts White Gave Her

New York, Jan. 21.—Several new points were brought out by District Attorney Jerome when he continued his gruelling cross-examination of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw this morning. One interesting feature was that the witness was lavish with gifts that that Stanford White had lavished her with. She told how she and Thaw had given a $2,000 pearl necklace to Will Sturgis, a man-about-town, who is known in the white light district.

It was not brought out who had received the rings White had showered upon the little chorus girl.

Thaw White had not been permitted to renew his intimacy with Evelyn during her visit with Thaw was also emphasized.

Throughout the ordeal Evelyn Thaw was in perfect control of herself, although the imputations of the district attorney were so sharp that they brought a flush to the cheeks of the hearers, but none to the pretty face of the witness—except when she was angered and replied in a shrill tone.

Several times she appealed to the court, but Justice Dowling directed her to answer questions without turning his head to look at her.

Thaw at times dug his nails into his cheeks. He seemed to be suffering from the malevolent thrusts of the prosecuting attorney, whose sole purpose this morning was to discredit Evelyn Thaw in the eyes of the jury.

Frequently was he held up to the ruling that the truth or falsity of the story Evelyn Thaw told Harry Thaw did not affect the contention that it was a contributory cause of the defendant's alleged insanity.

Evelyn Thaw said White did not communicate with her after her marriage, and but once did she hear him speak to her. That time was while she was riding down Fifth avenue in a cab and White was riding in another cab in an opposite direction. She said she heard the architect say, "Oh, little Evelyn."

The jury early displayed signs of fatigue as Jerome moved from place to place with his queries.

He would be asking about an event in New York in 1901, and then the next question would refer to something in Switzerland or Holland in 1904. The former chorus girl was not to be caught napping. If she did not understand the question she would ask Jerome to explain himself. More—even go so far as to correct him. These passages-at-arms would bring Thaw out of his funk, and his bulbous eyes would glitter with appreciation of his wife's cleverness, and his flabby lips shaped up a smile that was more like a grimace.

THE EVIDENCE.

New York, Jan. 21.—Her eyes a bit heavy, but otherwise not showing any fatigue from her long session on the stand yesterday, Evelyn Thaw was again subjected to a gruelling cross examination this morning by District Attorney Jerome.

The prosecutor continued his hopping about the map with confusing celerity.

Time and again the alert witness halted him with, "What do you mean, Mr. Jerome?"

"I guess you know what I mean," was sometimes the startling response, but Evelyn Thaw never flinched.

"Do you know Daniel O'Reilly?" was Jerome's first question. He then asked as to her acquaintance with other members of the Thaw legal staff, his purpose not transpiring evident before he left New York far behind and planted his next question in Paris.

"Was Mr. Thaw always with you in Paris?" asked Jerome.

"Not always, mother was with me sometimes," said Evelyn.

"Where were you when Mr. Thaw took the poison?"

"At the Palais Gosse."

"That is not the place where you said you were stopping."

"When you asked me that question you were talking about my first visit to Paris in 1903," demurely corrected Evelyn Thaw, twining her gloved fingers and inspecting them attentively.

New York, Jan. 22.—It was 10.30 o'clock when the Thaw trial was resumed this morning, and Mr. Littleton of the defence began at once the preliminaries of proving Harry Thaw's will and codicil executed the day of his wedding to Evelyn Nesbit in Pittsburg. Miss Frances Pierce, who witnessed the signatures, and who testified at the last trial, was called to the stand.

Miss Pierce identified the papers, but District Attorney Jerome objected to the introduction of the will in evidence until witnesses had come forward to prove its custody from the time of signing up to the present moment. Mr. Littleton declared the district attorney's objection simply would delay matters, but he temporarily withdrew the offer of the will.

Justice Dowling said the condition of the will, a long, rambling affair, such as to make the proof of custody desirable. There are many changes and alterations in it.

As to the codicil Mr. Jerome objected to its introduction on the ground that it was in the defendant's own handwriting, and was a self-serving document. Justice Dowling said the codicil was a compact, continuing document, and was competent as evidence.

Mr. Littleton then read the codicil to the jury. The codicil, it will be remembered, provided a number of bequests to lawyers and others to aid alleged victims of Stanford White to prosecute claims for damages against him and for the prosecution of all persons engaged "in such unlawful practices as said Stanford White."

Among those to whom the funds were made available were R. Ross Perry, of Washington; Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, and Anthony Comstock.

Thaw named a number of young women now on the stage as possible claimants against White.

Following the reading of the codicil Mr. Littleton greeted something of a stir by calling Anthony Comstock to the stand—his first appearance in the case.

Mr. Comstock said he was vice-president and special agent of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, and inspector in the post office department, having held these positions for many years.

"Do you know Harry Thaw?"

"Yes."

Mr Comstock said that Thaw called at his office in February, 1906.

Old Man Found in Lane with Throat Cut

Toronto, Jan. 21.—Murdoch Morrison, a man of 72 years, was found in a lane at the rear of the Power House at the corner of King street and Spadina avenue, at an early hour this morning, with his throat cut. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital. He told the police he had been seized by several unknown men and dragged into the lane where, after taking all his valuables, the men had cut his throat. The story, however, was discredited by the police, for the razor was his own property. The wound in his throat was deeper on the right side than on the left, leading them to believe that it had been done by a left-handed person. As Morrison is left-handed, it is thought that he did it himself. The money and other articles of which he claimed to have been robbed were found lying nearby where he had thrown them. He will be arraigned on a charge of attempted suicide when he has sufficiently recovered.

Planet Won Free-for-all

Soft Weather Spoils the Track for Turf Club Races

Yesterday despite adverse circumstances owing to the great thaw rendering the track almost impossible, the Peterborough Turf Club tried to carry out their program. The only race was the free-for-all, which was won by Planet of Toronto, with Harry D., Parry Sound, 2nd; and Willie C., Toronto, 3rd.

The free-for-all race was not run off on a hard track and bad weather conditions. Under the peculiar conditions, Planet, which could have entered the 2.22 class, and really not compelled to take part in the free-for-all, was entered in it to make up a race. The Turf Club whilst possibly a little shy on local advertising, did well and were local advertising, did well and will probably at the summer meet make up what they might have made this winter at the last meet.

The result of the free-for-all was possibly a surprise, but those who walked or swam down to the track got their money's worth in the necessarily curtailed program.

Hookey Team were Banqueted

The Bridgenorth hockey seven were banquetted at Mrs. King's restaurant last night, after their game with Norwood. A very enjoyable time was spent in music and songs by the boys before returning to their homes. Mrs. King was voted a capital hostess by the visitors. Mrs. King makes a special rate to all clubs for banquets and suppers and is being liberally patronized.

POLICE

Yesterday morning County Magistrate Edmison held court in the County Council chamber, when Chas. Burke was charged with theft at the post office at Buckhorn, some little time ago. Mr. R. E. Wood, county crown attorney moved that some of the witnesses for the prosecution, were not present. He said they have to come from a distance and would not get their fees unless the case was tried before his worship. He wanted to save expense by getting them together as quickly and cheaply for the prosecution.

Mr. Gordon, for the prisoner, said he would consent to have a summary trial.

Mr. Edmison said this case simply was a matter of identity of the man. As far as he knew, the evidence, the identity of the prisoner did not seem to be very well established.

Mr. Gordon said the prisoner had been under arrest for three weeks, and he would like to have the trial as soon as possible.

Mr. Wood asked for an enlargement until Jan. 30th at 10 a.m.

His worship then remanded the prisoner as asked by Mr. Wood.

The case against Jos. Curtain of Lakefield, charged with giving liquor to a minor, by License Inspector Stewart, was tried at 11 o'clock. Previous to the trial, his worship, possibly to save time and expense, intimated to Mr. Langley, counsel for the defendant, that if he pleaded guilty it might result in a lighter sentence than if the case were continued at length.

Mr. W. H. Moore appeared for the prosecution.

Mr. Langley said that after discussion with his client, the latter thought he had not committed the offence as charged, and did not know of the change in the law; still, he had advised his client to plead guilty. It was a first offence, and Mr. Langley asked for a nominal fine.

His worship thought Mr. Curtain had taken a wise course. He had little sympathy with the boy who got the liquor and has made for himself an appetite for strong drink. A conviction must be made.

Mr. Moore here claimed that the highest penalty should be inflicted. The defendant had put the court to considerable trouble and loss of time by claiming first to be innocent and then comes before the court and pleads guilty.

The magistrate said this is the first charge against the defendant. He imposed the minimum fine of $10 and costs. Mr. Langley asked that no witness fees be imposed; however his worship added these costs, saying such expense would be an additional punishment to the defendant.

HOCKEY.

Two games were played in the city league last night. The Norwood seven defeated the Bridgenorth team, and the High Lites downed Lakefield.

Mr. Lemieux Announces Success of His Mission to Japan

Immigration to be Limited

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Canada and British Columbia will rejoice at the good news given this afternoon in the House of Commons by the Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, who has recently returned from Japan, where he went as an envoy from the Canadian government to see what could be done towards preventing further immigration from the Flowery Kingdom into this country. The galleries of the house were filled with an attentive audience, and more members were in attendance than at any other sitting of the session. That his mission was eminently successful can be gleaned from the following brief summary of the statements he made in the course of his exceedingly interesting three-hour speech;

"Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, has given a written assurance that his government has decided to take efficient means to restrict emigration to Canada, giving careful consideration to local conditions prevailing here, with a view to meeting the desires of the government of the Dominion as far as is compatible with the spirit of the treaty and the dignity of the State."

ONE IN FOUR ARE ORIENTALS.

In British Columbia at the present time one man in every four was an Oriental, there being 25,000 males from the far east to 75,000 male whites, a fact which lent color to the agitation for expulsion. A fact which made the question much more difficult to handle was that the stream was started by our own people.

Public opinion in Japan resented the attitude of the Canadian people. Being proud and sensitive, they could not admit that such racial prejudices will last forever, and they claimed recognition by the other nations of the world because of their successful wars, their educational progress, and her advanced standards of civilization. The crux of their grievance was that Canada and the United States admitted emigrants from Europe and proposed to refuse those from Japan.

Government Wins Seat

In the Huron bye-election yesterday, Borton the Conservative candidate, was defeated by McLean, Liberal, by over 100 majority. This is a gain for the Government as the seat was formerly held by the Opposition.

English Leaders Want Larger Navy

Opposed to Economies Talked of at Last Session

Urge Britain's Supremacy

London, Jan. 22.—According to the speeches made inside and outside of parliament last session by responsible members of the government, it seemed as if cheese-paring economies were to be the order of the day in the British navy.

The ministers have evidently learned something during the recess, and Sir Edward Grey, the secretary of state for foreign affairs, speaking on behalf of the government, has just made the important statement that the country believes it necessary on account of the insular position of Great Britain and the extent of her colonial empire that she should hold the supremacy of the seas.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has expressed the opinion that this necessity has not been impaired but rather increased by the development of British trade and by the increased facilities of communication all over the world. Last session he seemed to be readily yielding to those members of the government who do not remember that in the past reductions in the navy by lessening public confidence have been the fruitful causes of the active scares which swept the country into an orgy of extravagance on fads which could do nothing towards winning wars.

Sir Edward Grey has just said that England cannot afford to close her eyes to the fact that foreign nations are showing a disposition to increase their navies and that this makes it quite impossible to continue reductions upon the British navy. He adds: "We have no right to complain if any foreign country chooses to spend more money upon its navy for its own purposes. But England also has a desire to protect her commerce and her empire. When I see the great programmes of naval expenditure which are being produced in other countries I think it right that the attention of Great Britain should be directed to those programmes, because if they are carried out in their entirety it will undoubtedly become necessary for England in the interests not only of the empire but for the preservation of her independence and her own safety, at home to make further increases in the navy."

This looks as if the "peace at any price" section of the cabinet had been overthrown by those members of the government who accept in the fullest and most complete form the doctrine that it is necessary for Great Britain to hold the supremacy of the seas and that the test and standard of this supremacy is that the British fleet should be as strong as the combined strength of any two fleets in the world. Under the pressure of public opinion the navy estimates were largely increased from 1894, and it is the opinion held by the bulk of the British people that the extra expenditure saved the country from a war over the Fashoda incident and from a coalition during the darkest period of the South African war in 1899.

GIRLS OF TODAY ARE WEAKLINGS

Few Possess the Vitality and Girlish Beauty of the Olden Times.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she suffer the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone follows quickly a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 23, 1906

ENGLAND AND JAPAN

England, according to recent despatches, is alarmed for Japan's future. British statesmen, it is said, think the combined political and financial crisis there about the most serious any nation could possibly face. There will, if this be true, be no further talk of a Japanese declaration of war against any power in the world for a long time to come. Even with the best of luck, and management British statesmen and financiers say they cannot figure how the Mikado can get between $62 and $63 per annum from each one of his subjects, the poorest people on earth until the war debt is paid. If he fails, Japan will get into the bankruptcy court.

THE CONSUMPTION OF PAPER

According to the writer of an article in a recent number of the American Review of Reviews, the aggregate circulation of newspapers and periodicals in the United States has increased five-fold from 1850 to 1905, or from slightly more than 2,000,000,000 to nearly 10,500,000,000. Great as was the increase in circulation the increase in the consumption of paper was even greater owing largely to the increased size of the newspapers and periodicals.

In 1850 one thousand copies of newspapers and magazines averaged 91.5 pounds in weight. In 1905 an average thousand copies of American publications weighed 176.4 pounds. In 1905 the weight per thousand of the paper, and hence the number of pages, in all newspapers and periodicals, was almost exactly double that shown for 1850.

The immense demand made by papermakers upon the soft wood areas of the United States is rapidly exhausting the spruce and hemlock forests of the republic. To reduce the consumption of paper the writer in the Reviews recommends a general increase in the advertising rates of newspapers and periodicals, and a substantial reduction in the size of the unwieldly Sunday editions of American newspapers. The writer closes his article with the following in regard to the United States Sunday papers:—"Whatever the present opinion of publishers may be concerning the necessity or wisdom of a great number of pages per issue, thoughtful and intelligent persons generally find the bulk of modern publications, especially of Sunday newspapers, a source of continual annoyance. The huge comic picture supplements are often so puerile that they induce a sense of melancholy; yet merely to divert thoughtless men and women for a brief Sunday morning hour with impossible and extravagant pictures, printed in loud colors, thousands of stately spruce and hemlock trees upon the northern hills, which have raised their graceful branches to the sunshine and rain of many emerging centuries, have lived—in vain."

Want the Bank Act Amended

Brandon, Man., January 21.—At a session of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association here yesterday, the first resolution presented by the Resolutions Committee, moved by W. J. Scallion, and seconded by W. Miller, called upon the Federal Government to so amend the Bank Act as it will tend to promote confidence for all time in the Canadian banking system, and consequently in legitimate business enterprises as partial means to this end. The resolution suggests that provisions be made in the Bank Act for a depositors security fund to be raised by payment of a small tax by banks on all deposits, somewhat similar to the bank note redemption fund, the Federal Government to stand behind this fund, guaranteeing all deposits. This it is claimed, would prevent the withdrawal and hoarding of deposits in hard times, and would enable banks to keep all available funds in circulation to promote the legitimate business enterprises of the country. The special committee on hail insurance reported in favor of the provincial Government Hail Insurance Act.

The Outing Magazine for February

Robert E. Perry, who has earned fame as a searcher after the North Pole, tells in The Outing Magazine for February how that great quarry must be found, if at all. In an extremely readable article, entitled "Routes to the North Pole", he sums up the leading expeditions and in the light of experience thus gained he points out the most feasible routes and methods for future explorers.

The Salton Sea of the Colorado Desert is one of the latter day phenomena of Nature's queer workings. Much has been written about it and strange and fanciful have some of the tales been concerning it. In the interests of The Outing Magazine Dr. D. T MacDougal visited this curious body of water and he tells of his trip in an article entitled "A Voyage Below Sea Level."

Full of strange adventure, curious personality and vigorous American spirit is Mr. Ralph D. Paine's article entitled "Pioneers in Distant Seas". This article is the second of a series dealing with "Old Salem Ships and Sailors." Mr. Paine derives his facts from the most interesting of sources—the sea journals and sea logs kept by eighteenth century captains.

"An Intimate Excursion" is an account by Frank Presbrey of an automobile journey through the byways of Brittany in France. The article is written with a quiet charm and much shrewd and humorous observation of national characteristics. In this trip he came closely to know the real French folks who, living quietly on their farms and in their villages, form the backbone of the French nation.

Mr. Robert Dunn, who has done in the interest of The Outing Magazine some remarkable exploring of North America and adjacent seas, tells in the February issue of an exciting hunt for a lost crater in the Behring Sea. The article is written in rugged English that vividly conveys the exciting details of this hunt. "Wood Ware in the Rough" pictures winter logging in a series of a dozen full-page photographs. Allen True, the author-artist, writes of "The Coming of Law to the Frontier," and the accompanying full-page illustrations are powerful representations of the old West that is passing away.

Three daughters and one son of Samuel W. Carpenter of Allegheny, Pa., have eloped in a year.

A boy watching a football game in Philadelphia lost his balance and fell off a fence, sliding on a rough board. More than 130 splinters were taken from his body.

In Indian Territory Edward Frazier in jumping from a haymow was suspended for nine hours on account of his gold ring catching on a nail. The finger cannot be saved.

The suspenders of Joseph Wagner got caught in a belt in a mill in Pennsylvania and became so tightly wrapped around his neck that he was nearly choked to death before he was released.

MEDICAL MATTERS.

Of recent years only six deaths occur to each 100 amputations. This is owing to the improvements in antiseptic surgery.

A Berlin physician is endeavoring to have a course in cooking introduced into the medical curriculum. He says doctors are in the habit of prescribing a diet for their patients with regard only to its chemical ingredients, forgetting the importance of an appetising method of preparation.

With a serum prepared after a method of his own, Professor Chantemesse has since 1901 treated a thousand cases of typhoid fever with a mortality of only 4.7 per cent, while during the same period in the other hospitals of Paris among 5,621 patients treated without the serum the mortality was 17 per cent.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

DORA DEANE

OR THE EAST INDIA UNCLE.

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

ries of Illinois there were a few acres of land of which he was the rightful owner. There was a house on it, too, he said, though in what condition he did not know, and if they only had a little money with which to start it would be best for them to go out there at once. This plan struck Eugenia more favorably than any which he had proposed.

Humbled as she was, she felt that the further she was from Dunwood the happier she would be, and after a consultation with Mrs. Deane it was decided that the beautiful rosewood piano should be sold, and that with the proceeds Stephen Grey and the once brilliant Eugenia Deane should bury themselves for a time in the West.

Two weeks more found them on their way to their distant home, and when that winter Dora Hastings, at Rose Hill, pushed aside the heavy damask which shaded her pleasant window, and looked out upon the snow-covered lawn and spacious garden beyond, Eugenia Grey, in her humble cabin, looked through her paper-curtained window upon the snow-clad prairie, which stretched away as far as eye could reach, and shed many bitter tears as she heard the wind go wailing past her door, and thought of her home far to the east, towards the rising sun.

CHAPTER XXII.

Three years have passed away, and twice the wintry storms have swept over the two graves which, on the prairies of Illinois, were made when the glorious Indian sun was shining o'er the earth, and the withered leaves of autumn were strewn upon the ground. Stephen and Eugenia are dead—he, dying as a drunkard dies—she, as a drunkard's wife. Uncle Nat had been to visit the Western world, and on his return to Rose Hill there was a softened light in his eye and a sadness in the tones of his voice, as, drawing Dora to his side, he whispered, "I have forgiven her—forgiven Eugenia Deane."

Then he told her how an old man in his wanderings came one day to a lonely cabin where a wild-eyed woman was raving in delirium, and tearing out handfuls of the long hair which floated over her shoulders. This she was counting one by one, just as the old East India man had counted the silken tress which was sent to him over the sea, and she laughed with maniacal glee as she said the numbering of all her hairs would atone for the sin she had done. At intervals, too, rocking to and fro, she sang of the fearful night when she had thought to steal the auburn locks concealed within the old green trunk, on which the darkness lay so heavy and so black that she had turned away in terror and glided from the room. In the old man's heart there was much of bitterness towards that erring woman for the wrong she had done to him and his, but when he found her thus, when he looked on the new-made grave beneath the buckeye tree, and felt that she was dying of starvation and neglect, when he saw how the autumn rains, dripping from a crevice in the roof, had drenched her scanty pillows through and through—when he sought in the empty cupboard for food or drink in vain, his heart softened towards her, and for many weary days he watched her with the tenderest care, administering to all her wants, and soothing her in her frenzied moods, as he would a little child, and when at last a ray of reason shone for a moment on her darkened mind, and she told him how much she had suffered from the hands of one who now slept just without the door, and asked him to forgive her ere she died, he laid upon his bosom her aching head, from which in places the long hair had been torn, leaving it spotted and bald, and, bending gently over her, he whispered in her ear, "As freely as I hope to be forgiven of Heaven, so freely forgive I you."

With a look of deep gratitude, the dark eyes glanced at him for a moment, then closed forever, and he was alone with the dead.

Some women whose homes were distant two or three miles had occasionally shared his vigils, and from many a log cabin the people gathered themselves together, and made for the departed a grave, and when the sun was high in the heavens and not a cloud dimmed the canopy of blue, they buried her beside her husband, where the prairie flowers and the tall rank grass would wave above her head.

This was the story he told; and Dora, listening to it, wept bitterly over the ill-fated Eugenia, whose mother and sister never knew exactly how she died, for Uncle Nathaniel would not tell them; but from the time of his return from the West his manner towards them was changed, and when the New Year came round one hundred golden guineas found entrance at their door, accompanied with a promise that when the day returned again the gift should be repeated.

On the vine-wreathed pillars and winding walks of Rose Hill the softened light of the setting sun is shining. April flowers have wakened to life the fair spring blossoms, whose delicate perfumes, mingling with the evening air, steals through the open casement and kisses the bright face of Dora, beautiful now as when she first called him her husband who sits beside her, and who each day blesses her as his choicest treasure.

On the balcony without, in a large armed willow chair, is seated an old man, and as the fading sunlight falls around him a bright-haired little girl, not yet two years of age, climbs upon his knee, and winding her chubby arms around his neck lisps the name of "Grandpa," and the old man, folding her to his bosom, sings to her softly and low of "another Fannie," whose eyes of blue were much like those which look so lovingly into his face. Anon darkness steals over all, but the new moon, "hanging like a silver thread in the western sky," shows us where Howard Hastings is sitting, still with Dora at his side.

On the balcony all is silent; the tremulous voice has ceased; the blue-eyed child no longer listens; old age and infancy sleep sweetly now together; the song is ended; the story is done.

THE END.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb". Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

BALANCE IN THE AIR.

The Necessity For Equilibrium In Bird Flight.

It is likely that the bird's superb ease and grace in the air are due to its ability to maintain absolute balance. If a gull makes the mistake of bending until the wind strikes its head and wings on the top it will tumble instantly. And the sailing birds, though they make no dapping motion of their wings, are constantly balancing themselves, like a man on a tight rope. Some scientists have maintained that the air sacs make it possible for the bird to manage minute changes that are very valuable in restoring equilibrium. It is known that the wing is joined to the body of the bird by what is called a universal joint, enabling the creature to make almost every possible motion. The body of a man is heavier than water, but if he gets into a position of perfect balance he will float. In some such way, it is claimed, the bird floats in the air. But as the bird would fall much more rapidly in the air than a man's body would sink in water the necessity for a far more subtle ability to keep the center of gravity on the part of the bird is apparent; hence, according to this theory, the bird is provided for this purpose with the most sensitive equipment, made up of nerves and mysterious air ducts, many of the wing feathers perhaps acting as sentinels, warning instantly of the slightest approach of shifting currents.—Everybody's Magazine.

ENTERTAINING THE DUKE.

Rudely Interrupted While He Was Chatting With Royalty.

The daily papers do their best, but not even their ubiquitous representatives garner all the store of good things which attend a royal visit to Ireland, says the London Sketch. No paper at the time printed the cream of the stories which grew out of a visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Emerald Isle. "Welcome to Ireland!" said a man as he saw the duke on the steps of a hotel in the little western town in which he was staying. "Welcome to Ireland, your royal highness. I hope I see your royal highness well." "Quite well, thank you," answered the duke. "And your noble mother, the queen. I hope her ould leddyship is enjoyin' the best of health?" "Yes, thank you. The queen is very well indeed," said the duke, vastly amused with the easy familiarity of the peasant. "It's glad I am to hear it. And tell me, your royal highness," the other went on, "how are all your noble brothers and sisters?" Before the duke could answer an aid-de-camp appeared, with, "Here, get along there." The peasant looked up with infinite scorn. "Arrah! What are yez interruptin' for?" he exclaimed. "Can't you see that me and his royal highness is bouldin' a conversation?"

ANTIGUA GOLD-COPPER Co.

Offers the Biggest and Most Attractive Mining Investment Now Before the Public.

ITS HOLDINGS ARE MINES--NOT PROSPECTS

With Vast Bodies of Ore Ready for the Mill, Now Nearing Completion.

THOMAS W. LAWSON
"Copper stocks offer the biggest opportunity for money making in the world to-day. A good copper mine is really a safe-deposit vault of stored up dividends which cannot be stolen or destroyed by fire, flood or famine."

CECIL RHODES
said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

CHARLES M. SCHWAB
says: "The big fortunes of the next twenty-five years will come from Mother Earth." Among all mining investments none stand ahead of copper for safety, permanency and profit.

Lay the Foundation for Your Fortune Today

THE ANTIGUA PROPERTIES

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company holdings consist of 531 acres, situated in Honduras, Central America, 100 miles southeast from Puerto Cortez, and midway between New Orleans and Panama. Development work is being pushed with all possible speed, and more than 1,500 feet of tunnelling and shaft work has been completed. A 40 to 60-ton capacity gold-silver mill is in course of construction, and will be in operation before the close of the year.

Development work has conclusively proven that every acre of our holdings are rich in gold, copper and silver, and that every ton of this great ore body will yield a handsome profit on milling expense. The ore exposed on the surface does not require mining in the usual sense of the term, but may be obtained by quarrying. It can, according to estimates of experts, be quarried and treated for the gold and silver on an extensive scale at a cost of less than $1.00 a ton. Think of it! A solid mountain of rich ore, from the very grass roots of which may be washed gold.

Beyond a doubt Honduras has beneath her soil larger, richer deposits of copper, gold and silver than any other section of the American continent. Spain, during her sovereignty in that country, took out more than $300,000,000 in gold alone—and she scarcely scraped the Earth's surface. There is evidence that the pre-historic races knew how to mine and utilize copper—smelting it in their crude way.

The original incorporators of the Antigua Gold-Copper Company spent thousands of dollars of their own money in bringing this property to its present stage of development. They opened up the mine on every side with tunnels, crosscuts and shafts. They purchased machinery and began the erection of a gold-silver mill—now nearing completion. The we mean appreciated from the first that this mine was destined to become one of the greatest copper-gold-silver properties in America; and that it justified more extensive and more rapid development than they were able to make without the co-operation and financial assistance of the public.

The average assay values of Antigua ores, ranging from the surface to a depth of 200 feet, is over 5 per cent copper. This is above the average of the ore of the world's greatest producers, the famous Anaconda, yielding ore which averages only a little over 2 per cent. The Anaconda has little other ore value, while our property, in addition to the copper, carries $2.00 to $1.400 a ton in gold and silver.

WHY STOCK IS SOLD

The Antigua Gold-Copper Company finds itself in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger farm than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. In the same way we intend, by the investment of additional capital, to bring our enormous ore bodies to a highly profitable state of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is offered the public. In this way funds will be available for immediate use in purchasing additional machinery and for continuing vigorous development of the property.

THERE ARE NO PREFERRED SHARES AND NO BONDS TO COME FIRST IN THE DIVISION OF PROFITS.

and your shares will earn as much as a like number of shares owned by any other stockholder in the company. Each share CARRIES WITH IT THE RIGHT TO VOTE, so that with a single share you have every right, privilege and protection possessed by any other stockholder.

Stock is now being sold at $2.50 a share, and this stock, we firmly believe, will, within a year, be selling at its par value of $5.00 a share, or higher; nor will it stop there. If you are desirous of permanently increasing your income, of making an investment that is not only secure, but immensely profitable, reserve shares TO-DAY.

Such an investment opportunity can scarcely be repeated. It is made possible only by extraordinary natural conditions. Millions of dollars of copper, gold and silver will be marketed from the mines—fortunes will be reaped as a result of the prompt seizure of the opportunity we offer you to-day.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT

Much weight can justly be given the statement of a properly qualified and reliable mining engineer. Such is the character of T. M. Foster, from whose report on Antigua we make the following extracts:

"From the development work done and the indications shown by the croppings, I am convinced this is one of the largest gold-copper deposits in existence, and under proper development will make one of the richest mining properties in America. * * * I consider this ore an ideal smelting proposition, there being an abundance of iron, lime and silica in close proximity. There is plenty of water for power and milling purposes, and an abundance of timber on the property. * * *

"A large amount of development work has been done on this property in tunnels, drifts and shafts, ranging from 30 to possibly 200 feet in length. * * * This work has all been in ore—in fact, the ore body on the surface is shown to be fully one-half mile wide by two miles in length. To judge from the development work done, this property is all ore—no matter where work was started, ore was encountered.

"The company is erecting a mill, consisting of one five-stamp and three Huntingtons, to work the surface ore. This surface ore is mostly free milling, the copper and galena sulphides being oxidized, freeing the gold, and being readily amalgamated. But I am confident that at no very great depth copper sulphides will be encountered, as there are many places in this great ore body where the sulphides crop to the surface. I have taken a dozen samples from various places on the lead, and from these made free gold tests, finding an average of over $6.00 a ton in FREE gold, and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. Native copper is frequently seen in this ore. If the Antigua mines continue in depth as on the surface, a 1,000 ton smelter will not work it out in 100 years. * * *

"* * * With good management and proper development, it will be but a short time until the stock of the company will be worth more than par. I fully believe that if this great ore body is properly developed there is a mine here worth many millions of dollars.

Make Your Money Work

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Feed New Power To Tired Nerves

That's Why Dr. Hamilton's Pills Make Sick People Well Again.

Worn out, tired in the morning, you lack the energy and ambition to work as of old. This means "nerve decay"—nerves that are starved for the want of good rich blood.

It's blood nourishment that vitalizes the nerves. Your blood is thin, weak, watery. It's filled with poisons that hang on because your kidneys don't filter properly.

See here, fix your kidneys, put new life in your liver, and you'll feel like new in a month.

To do this you must use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they make life look bright and pleasant because they restore harmony and vigor to the organs that need repair.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills warm the blood and fill it with nutriment that's bound to build you up, that's sure to lift your weakness, that invariably does make joyous robust Good Health.

Think on it, youthful strength, lots of nerve force, plenty of red blood surging through your veins—isn't this reason enough for your using Dr. Hamilton's Pills? Sold in 25c. boxes by all dealers.

Mock Parliament was Reopened

Last night the first Mock Parliament of the Y.M.C.A. was held. Mr. Wilfred Shiner acted as premier whilst Mr. A. Howard Moore, was leader of the opposition. The subject of last night's debate was Canada's Transportation Facilities. A well attended meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. Club rooms and some well worded and strong arguments were adduced.

Death of Mr. J. H. A. Shaw

Many friends in this city will be pained to hear of the death of John H. A. Shaw, eldest son of Dr. J. M. Shaw, formerly of Keene, which occurred at Calgary, Alta., on Friday, January 17. Deceased was 21 years old, and was well known here. The deceased attended the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Full details of his death are not yet available. He was interred in the cemetery at Swift Current on January 18th. He leaves a wife and one child.

A Fine Pair of Horns

Yesterday Mr. Chas. Bennett, wine clerk at the Peterborough House, was presented by Mr. Pearson with a beautifully polished pair of ox horns. This pair of horns was sent here from the great Armour packing house of Chicago, and the steer that originally wore them was raised on a ranch in the southern part of Texas. The horns were polished by Mr. J. J. Grose the local painter. They are of exceptional size and character. From tip to tip the pair measures 30 3-4 inches and shine as though polished and then varnished, but still reflect the light rays from the high state of polish given them only.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidney nerves get weak, then these organs always fail. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is simply a makeshift. Good Record by Peterborough Farmers

Ontario Government Crop Bulletin Reports on Farming in This District

The "Crop Bulletin," issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, has reached The Times. In the section referring to the County of Peterborough, this report says that reports differ as to a general sale of live stock owing to scarcity of foods. It is thought that, with economy the farmers will be able to hold their stock through the winter. In this county there were last year, 9,819 acres sown in fall wheat with a production of 219,946 bushels, and 2444 acres, with 48718 bushels of spring wheat. As to barley there were 12,148 acres, producing 332,858 bushels, and in oats 62,471 acres producing 1,899,118 bushels or 30.1 per acre. The peas of this county were sown in 12,988 acres and produced 281,840 bushels, and beans were sowed in 93 acres and produced 1302 bushels. Peterborough had 1377 acres in rye which raised 22,583 bushels, and in buckwheat 3,283 acres which returned 81,446 bushels. corn was a smaller factor in Peterborough county's prosperity, as only 415 acres were planted, giving returns of 20,045 bushels; in corn for silo purposes 2753 acres were planted giving 25,685 bushels in return. Potatoes came next, with 3162 acres, giving 398,286 bushels, and turnips 1817 acres with 883,062 bushels. Hay, an important branch of local agriculture demanded 51,736 acres which rewarded the farmers with 48,632 tons.

During the past year the County of Peterborough raised 12,139 horses, 22,110 milch cows, 30,848 other cattle, 16,116 sheep, 31,369 swine and 224,499 poultry of all classes.

A general comparision of this county's products with those of other centres of Ontario aggregating the same total does not give our local farmers any reason to go behind any old hedge to conjure up a blush over their possible shortcomings. Peterborough county is all right and its farmers compare favorably with representatives of the same line of industry in the world.

Thaw Trial

and complained of a party who was swearing, young girls. Thaw went into details which the witness requested as far as he could remember. Mr. Comstock also said he had received several letters from Thaw.

The witness identified several communications from Thaw, one of the papers being a diagram of the premises where he declared evil men were carrying on criminal practices. They declared that workmen on buildings near these premises had heard young girls scream, and suggested that men be sent to watch the entrances to the place. Thaw also said he had communicated with the secretary for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, suggesting that a search warrant be issued and an investigation be made of the house which was located in 22nd street.

"Thaw told me he had been followed to my office the second time by men who were employed to watch him," continued the witness. "I sent several men out in the hallway to see if anyone was there."

Mr. Jerome objected to the witness telling the result of this search, but it came out in the discussion that no one had followed Thaw.

TWO MONTHS BEFORE TRAGEDY

"When Thaw came back to see me the third time," resumed Mr. Comstock, "I told him I had been unable to secure any evidence as the house in 22nd street seemed to be closed. He said he would furnish me the names of several girls who had been there. I told him it would be necessary to corroborate their stories, and we talked the matter over some little while."

Mr. Comstock here identified three more letters from Thaw, one having been received as late as April, 1906, two months before the tragedy.

Mr. Littleton first read to the jury a communication from Thaw to Comstock written in November, 1904. It attempted to give in detail a description of the 24th street house, with crude diagrams appearing here and there in the text. Thaw declared that one room was furnished like a forest, and that secret stairs led from it to the room of the mirrors.

The door in the first room was hard to find, the letter declared, and there was no escape for the young girls who were drugged. Thaw claimed that six or seven "criminal scoundrels" controlled the place, and that three or four decent young men who did not know of the criminal acts often frequented the place.

"Thousands of crimes have been committed there, and many felonies," Thaw wrote, and added that there was a little room to which access was gained by a door behind a picture.

"In this room," the letter went on, "there is a valuable French painting of a woman, and of peculiarly infamous suggestion."

In another letter Thaw suggested that plumbers working on a building adjoining the 24th street house might be induced to drop some heavy article through the skylight and reveal what was below. Thaw also called attention to the fact that there was a libel suit in Paris instituted by a young woman who had been mentioned as posing for the picture previous complained of.

Thaw declared that the houses in 22nd and 24th streets were "consecrated to orgies by a gang of rich criminals."

Thaw suggested that a copy of one of his letters be sent to District Attorney Jerome, and also suggested that if Mr. Comstock needed more funds to carry on inquiry he might ask Miss Helen Gould for assistance in that line. Giving the name of a young actress, Thaw described at length what he said was an effort to save the girl from "the blackguard."

Thaw said he enlisted a prominent man in the cause who was at first loath to believe that such practices as complained of existed, but afterwards was convinced. This man threw what protection he could about the girl, but when he had gone abroad "the blackguard got her."

"Besides four victims I have already told you about there is another.

"The blackguard asked her to marry him and she told her parents. It is now being talked about in the newspaper offices, and I hope to be able to give you the name and details soon. Please destroy this."

In several of the letters Thaw spoke of enclosing "$100 more for the secret service fund."

Thaw wrote under the name of "Ferguson" in accordance with an arrangement he had previously made, so that his name would not be included in the annual report of contributions.

On cross-examination District Attorney Jerome asked Mr. Comstock if he ever got into the 24th street house.

"No, sir."

The prosecutor devoted much of his time with the witness to calling attention to the fact that Thaw's letters were coherent, understandable and rational in their references to historic events. The witness said they came in the usual way through the mails with postage full paid and and addressed.

Mr. Comstock was still on the stand when luncheon recess was ordered.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

THAW SAID HE DID NOT SEE WHY EVELYN CARED FOR WHITE

He First Saw Her Leaving Theatre with Architect and Friend Said that She Belonged to White

New York, Jan. 23—There was an exodus of the several women writers from the Thaw trial this morning. The medical testimony started, and when the prisoner's anatomy was under discussion the fairer brigade fled. The retreat was orderly.

The attorneys who are trying to save the young Pittsburgher from electrocution for murdering Stanford White had Dr. Chas. G. Wagner of Binghampton, N.Y., relate his alienistic impression of Thaw just after the commission of the crime.

Dr. Chas. L. Bailey of Albany, N. Y., the first witness, testified to having to administer an injection of morphine to Thaw while the latter was on a train coming to New York.

Thaw was uttering wildly, chewing and beating the pillows in his berth.

It was exploded that some of the foreign physicians and nurses who attended Thaw during his ravings abroad would reach New York this morning, but their standoff was delayed, and Dr. Wagner was put on the stand after Dr. Bailey to avoid adjourning court.

The Binghampton expert is a forcible witness, and the jurors listened attentively to his evidence.

There was a tilt between Jerome and Littleton when the latter sought to introduce conversations Dr. Wagner had with Thaw in prison, but Justice Dowling ruled the evidence was admissible.

So far as he progressed during the morning, Dr. Wagner repeated what he had testified to last year when he appeared at the first trial. It was noticeable that he did not express an opinion of Thaw's mental condition as it applied to any species of progressive insanity, the burden of bringing this out being upon the district attorney in cross-examination.

Thaw's impression of himself as related by Dr. Wagner was an interesting bit of testimony.

"He told me," said the alienist, "that he went to the University of Pennsylvania for a while, but did not like it there, so thought he would go to Europe and become an artist. While he was abroad he said he met some very rated people in Paris, but that he did not care especially for them.

"'I never did like low women,' he told me, 'and I do not drink very much. I do not like to drink alone, and never did drink whiskey alone; but I have had some wild sprees with other people.'"

Thaw related how his father had died in Paris of ptomaine poisoning, and of his mother having suffered much from nervous ailments, and the witness.

Dr. Wagner asked Thaw if he had intended to attack Stanford White, and the prisoner said he did not.

"I wanted to get evidence against him," he said, "and send him to the penitentiary. I did not want to kill him."

It was further related how Thaw was suspicious of the doctors. Dr. Evans being with Dr. Wagner during the visit, and also of his attorney, Clifford Hartridge. Once he complained of a draught, and came into the visitors' room all bundled up.

"They want me to catch cold," he said, "but I do not intend to. If I should die it would stop the trial and prevent the exposure of the tech ging of criminals who are ruining young girls in New York."

Dr Wagner said Thaw never referred to Stanford White by name, always speaking of him as "the blackguard."

The prisoner related that he had first met White in 1901, and that he had attended one of his tower studio parties. There he met several beautiful girls, and he noticed that one of them did not eat any of the food.

He asked her why she did not eat. "Oh, it's rotten," she told him.

A few days later he saw a pure-looking girl coming out of the New York Theatre. He was attracted by her great beauty. He said his friend told him she was Evelyn Nesbit, and that she "belonged to Stanford White."

THE EVIDENCE

New York, N.Y., Jan. 23.—Dr. Chas. L. Bailey, of Albany, N.Y., who arrived in New York last night from the Island of Jamaica, was called as the first witness in the Thaw case when court convened at 10.20 today. Dr Bailey was called to attend Thaw on a New York Central Railway train between Hudson and Albany in April, 1906.

"When I was called in to see him," said the witness, "Thaw was chattering something like, Shasta, shasta, shasta, the Pennsylvania runs into the New York Central.' He kept on repeating this for some time. His eyes were bulging, and he appeared unsound. I gave him a hypodermic of morphine with the assistance of the porter. Then Thaw saw the syringe he said, 'Take away that dope stuff.' I was very close to him and could not detect the odor of alcohol."

On cross-examination, Dr. Bailey said Thaw did not respond to his interrogations, but rambled on incoherently. His pulse was about 80.

"Did you ever see a man so frank he could not respond to your interrogations?" demanded Jerome.

"Yes."

MISSING WITNESSES

The non-arrival of the steamer Adriatic early this morning upset the plans of the defence somewhat, and prevented the calling of several witnesses who are expected from abroad.

Dr Charles G. Wagner, of Binghamton, N.Y., the alienist who began his testimony yesterday afternoon, succeeded Dr. Bailey on the stand.

District Attorney Jerome and Mr. Littleton had a long argument as to the admissibility of Thaw's statements to Drs. Wagner and Evans in the Tombs following the homicide. Mr. Jerome held that these statements came under the head of self-serving declarations. Justice Dowling finally held that the statements were admissible as the basis for the expert opinion formed by the alienist.

Dr. Wagner repeated what Thaw had said at great length.

The prisoner told of his efforts to save Stanford White punished by appealing to Anthony Comstock and District Attorney Jerome. He said he had not intended attacking White, but that Providence took the matter in hand and ended it in its own way. Thaw also said he had been followed by a gang of thugs whom White had employed to engage him in a street quarrel and kick him to death.

RAPID AND INCOHERENT.

"All Thaw gave me a history of his life," said the witness.

"He said he never got along very well at school, and once thought of being a painter. In travelling abroad he had met some pretty fast people, but had never been a dissipated man, or much in the company of women. He said he rarely or never drank whiskey alone. He always wanted to talk of the wrongs he said Stanford White had done, and he referred to those whom he termed 'other rich criminals engaged in the same practices.' His manner of speech was very rapid, and at times incoherent.

On one of his visits to Thaw, Dr. Wagner said the defendant was very solicitous about draughts in the prison, and had put a newspaper over the gratings in the cell door. Thaw said there were people who hoped he would catch cold and die, so he would never come to trial, and Stanford White's acts would never be known.

The witness went on at length into the details of the physical examination of the defendant as to tests of the reflexes, cranial nerves, etc. The testimony was a repetition of that given at the first trial.

Thaw's manner under examination was domineering, according to Dr Wagner, who declared that the manner of a patient under examination had more to do with forming an opinion than the examination itself.

Thaw passed a good physical test, his reflexes being normal. His pulse, however, varied in a remarkable way, running in the space of a minute from 78 to 192 beats, and then back again.

"Thaw said it was the Monk-Eastman gang that had been employed to follow him," the witness continued, "and he said the reason Mr. Jerome had not acted on his complaints about White was that the district attorney thought it the reason of jealousy.

"Thaw said he met White in 1900, and had been invited to one of his parties in the Madison Square Tower. He later saw White in front of the New York theatre with a handsome girl, and was told she was Miss Nesbit, and 'belonged to Stanford White.'"

NEW TESTIMONY.

Thaw said he didn't know such a girl could care for White, who "had reddish hair and looked like an ape."

The testimony as to Thaw's acquaintance with White was now in the case.

"Thaw also told me that Miss Nesbit, afterwards his wife, would be thrown into a high state of nervousness whenever she saw Stanford White. She would shrink and shudder, he declared, until he cared for her health."

Dr. Wagner said that Thaw never spoke of White by name, but always referred to him as "The Beast," or "The Blackguard."

The witness spent half an hour in the description of tests of nerves and senses, all of which he declared were applied to Thaw.

Justice Dowling had a conference with the attorneys as to limiting the expert testimony, and it was said it might be that each side will use but two physicians, although the defence is likely to call several more in surrebuttal of any that appear in the State's rebuttal case.

The defence has all of the experts who testified for the prosecution at the first trial under subpoena.

Dr. Wagner next gave a description of illusions, delusions, hallucinations, etc.

"For instance," he said, "if I should hear a bell ring and there was no sound, or a steam whistle blow—"

Just then a whistle on a factory near the Criminal Courts building began to screech the luncheon hour, and they were all laughing when Judge and jury join ed.

Dr Wagner said it was no "illusion." After a conference of the attorneys with Justice Dowling as to limiting the expert testimony, as far as possible the luncheon recess was ordered

Another Cause of Insanity

New York, Jan. 22—Mr. Comstock at the afternoon session produced, at Mr Jerome's request, a letter copy book containing the replies sent by Comstock to Thaw's letters.

There were also several letters written by Mr. Comstock to the Children's Aid Society concerning the matters connected with by Thaw.

The first letters indicated that the alleged crime more properly belonged to the province of the children's organization.

John L. Gleeson of the counsel for Thaw at the first trial, was called next in connection with proving the defendant's will.

Mr Gleeson said the will came into his possession in December, 1906.

He received it by registered mail from J. Bowdoin Lyon, the Pittsburg banker, who testified at the first trial that he received the will from Thaw in 1905.

Mr Jerome still objected.

Justice Dowling said it would be necessary to produce witnesses to show the will was in its present condition previous to the homicide, before it could be read in evidence. The district attorney admitted to question Mr. Gleeson as to any letters written by Stanford White to Evelyn Nesbit which may have come into his possession, but was blocked by the ordinary of the attorney's professional privilege.

A few days later he saw a pure-looking girl coming out of the New York Theatre. He was attracted by her great beauty. He said his friend told him she was Evelyn Nesbit, and that she "belonged to Stanford White."

THE EVIDENCE

New York, N.Y., Jan. 23.—Dr. Chas. L. H. GORDON BROWN KILLED HIMSELF

Prominent Montreal Man Committed Suicide with a Revolver at the Military Institute In That City

Montreal, Jan. 23. — H Gordon Brown, prominent in military, business and social affairs, committed suicide at 11 o'clock this morning at the Military Institute, No. 7 Beaver Hall Square. Capt. Brown was an officer on the Victoria Rifles and was connected in business with the insurance firm of E. A. Whitehead & Co. For some time Captain Brown has been suffering intensely from la grippe. And it is thought that this overturned his mind. He came into the club this morning, which he often frequented, and before the attendants could interfere blew out his brains with a revolver. He was 27 years of age, and was a brother of Fitzjames Brown, a well-known insurance agent in this city.

"LEARNED GAME IN THE ARK"

The Toronto News of yesterday's date contains the following. The Peterborough Strathconas with three defeats chalked up against them in their intermediate district, are going to Lindsay tomorrow evening but upon entering at least some vongeance. They have called upon all the "old timers," and Ernie Wasson and Chris Graham will be seen on the line-up, certificates having been issued today. It is said Wasson first learned the game in the Ark.—Toronto News.

To be a Hard Year for Catarrh Sufferers

Noted Authority Gives Advice to Prevent and Relieve Catarrh

The coming months will be a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers unless great care is taken to keep the feet dry, also dress warmly.

This is the advice of a well-known authority and should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are a few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription which any one can mix; Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces, Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

These are mostly vegetable ingredients and can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the sanguinative tissues of the kidneys, make them filter and strain from the blood the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, backache, weakness and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable, though simple, recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.

Grain foods contain the vital principle in greater proportion than other foods. If you eat right, your vitality will remain at its height for years.

Grape-Nuts food is made from wheat and barley. It contains the "vital phosphates" that nature places in certain parts of the grains and is so prepaired as to be quickly absorbed and converted into vital energy.

If you want to store up vital energy for the accomplishment of the greatest success, make Grape-Nuts a part of your regular diet. "There's a Reason"

Sports

Come up to Lindsay tonight just to see the "Old guard" in the game again for Peterborough. It will be something like this. "Noah" Wasson, Pete Glover, "Watch your Uncle" Mason Chris Graham, Ross Moore, "Ding Dong" Parnell, and Dusty They all met after Lindsay right on the Rideaus own little ground Come with the crowd on the special train just to see the old favorites perform.

A big following of rooters is expected to accompany the hockey team to Lindsay for the game there tonight. The Straths will take up the strongest team that has represented our town and will endeavor to make a big effort to win the game. The return fare is $1.05 and a G.T.R special will be run, leaving at 6.45 and returning at 11 o'clock.

The Lindsay Post says.—Our friends may with reason look forward to a great game of hockey Friday night, when the Peterborough Strathconas, Lindsays old-time rivals, run up against the Lindsay on Lindsay street rink. It will be a tussle all the way down the game, line and back again, and the chances are that nothing more strenuous in the line of hockey has been seen since the famous Belleville bunch were trimmed by our stalwarts.

Citizens, a word in your ears. We have a fine team, and if they get proper support there is a championship in sight. The knowledge that they have the town at their back will inspire the boys to make the effort required of them, and Lindsay will move up a peg in the estimation of the hockey lovers of the Province. There should be at least 1,000 spectators at the game Friday night—1,500 would be better.

The ladies have an idea they would like to meet the barbers. If the barbers have a reciprocal feeling they may reply through the medium of The Review. If the challenge is accepted the rink will be arranged for for the first open date.

Sunday Lid Pried Open in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Man., January 23. — The Sunday lid was pried open a little more last Sunday when the Auditorium and Arena skating rinks opened for business for the first time. During the past few weeks, the feature of Sunday amusements has been the successful operation of the big open air rink hockey rinks and toboggan slides on the Assiniboine river just below the barracks and the "legitimate" rink managers decided on Sunday to make a bid for the big Sunday trade encouraged by the soft weather which practically put outdoor rinks out of business. How much curiosity is felt as to the line the authorities will pursue. The Dominion Alliance talks about getting an injunction, but the situation is complicated by the fact that the outdoor rink management claims that the provincial and Civic authorities have no jurisdiction over ice on the river, which comes under Federal control. Years ago Winnipeg was probably the strictest Sabbatarian city on the continent, but the coming of the Sunday street cars has done much to change the order of things. Sunday concerts are now a regular feature at Walker Theatre, and local churches are drawing more and more to special Sunday evening services.

Admiral Evans is Careful of Fleet

Washington, January 23. — Radical changes in the movements of the battleship fleet were announced here today, following the official admission that the Government was warned in advance from Paris of an alleged plot at Rio de Janeiro to blow up one or more of Admiral Evans' ships. The flotilla of torpedo boats nominally part of Admiral Evans' squadron, but actually detached, and proceeding around Cape Horn on its own itinerary, has now been ordered to stay with the battleships until Magdalena Bay has been reached and the deeply significant plan has been adopted of hauling these torpedo boats an advance guard and scouting party for the battleships to make their passage through the Strait of Magellan first and then to conduct a thorough search for any possible hostile ships floating mines or other impediments to the progress of the big fleet.

Englishman Takes His Own Life--Leaves Wife and an Infant

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Eugene Chandos, an Englishman, aged 30 years, shot himself twice through the right temple a little before half-past eleven o'clock this morning, in his room at Hughes' restaurant, 38 West Market street.

One of the waitresses at the restaurant heard two shots in Chandos room and ran upstairs. Chandos was lying on his bed, beside him a small revolver, and blood was trickling from two small wounds.

A telephone call was immediately sent for an ambulance at No. 1 station, and Chandos was rushed to the emergency ward at St. Michael's Hospital. He lingered until ten minutes to three this afternoon, when he died. Both bullets penetrated the brain, one going towards the forehead and the other towards the back of the head. Neither bullet was recovered, although every effort was made in probing for them.

So far as could be learned it was the old story of ill-health ending in complete discouragement. Chandos has been employed by W. and J. G. Grey, foundrymen, at No. 6 Church street.

For the past two or three days he has not been working, owing to ill-health.

"I don't understand what made him shoot himself," said an employee of the restaurant. "He had a good enough job and was a steady, decent fellow. He hasn't been well lately, and we used to let him help around the restaurant now and then. I don't know how we're going to tell his wife. She's a young thing with a small baby, and she is in a very delicate state of health. The police wanted to tell her at once, but we think they should send a doctor first."

The revolver which Chandos used is a very small 32-calibre one. That the deed was a very deliberate one is shown by the fact that when one cartridge failed to explode others were used.

Countess in Police Court Charged with Stealing

London, Jan. 21.— In the Marlborough street police court to-day Countess Louise Giusso, wife of a leading Italian banker, residing here and a member of one of a well known family, was charged with shoplifting in a Regent street department store. The countess, a handsome woman of 40, fashionably dressed, sat near her solicitor listening to the story of how she had been caught with $60 worth of articles, including a cigarette holder and a necklace concealed in her muff.

One of the assistants testified that the countess said, when apprehended:—"Let me go—forgive me. I did not mean to steal. I had no money with which to pay."

When taken back into the shop the countess said she was of noble family and pleaded with the superintendent to verify her story at the Italian embassy. As only 60 cents was found in her purse the story was ridiculed, and the police were called.

The countess was released on $3,000 bail. The Giusso family is wealthy.

Top of House Blew Off to the Street

Yesterday's snow storm and cold weather made Peterborough citizens "sit up and take notice" that the genuine old-fashioned Canadian winter was with us. One gentleman living on Water street, did some tall thinking and taller guessing when the metal covered top or skylight of the top of his house blew off and lighted in the middle of the street. It seems that the gentleman in question has lately rebuilt his house and the carpenters who used the hole covered by this top mean for egress and ingress to the house, forgot to hook the top on when leaving. To make matters worse when he, at the expenditure of considerable labor and perspiration stood with the aid of a step-ladder to replace the top, he found it was too big to go through the entrance between the bedroom floor and the attic. This involved enlarging the entrance referred to, including the loosing of several square yards of plaster. To quote his words, or as many of them as are fit for publication, "Here was I perched on a rickety step ladder trying to get the cover off the roof, which is secured about five feet square, and seemed to weigh a thousand pounds, through a hole only 3x2 1-2 feet in size and my wife was raising merry hell about the plaster falling down and making a mess in the house,

AN ALLEGED MURDERER CAUGHT AT WOODVILLE ONT.

Suspected of the Murder of Mrs Cornelia Welch of Detroit--Found Dead in Her House Two Weeks Ago

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Peres Morse Alise Bown, an American from Detroit, Mich., who is suspected of the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch in that city, was quietly captured in Woodville, Ont., yesterday, and was taken back to Detroit to stand his trial on the charge. The arrest and incarceration were effected without the slightest trouble.

Mrs. Welch was found dead in her house two weeks ago, and Boyne a former intimacy, coupled with his sudden disappearance after the murder, led to his being suspected of the crime. Boyne was traced to Toronto by the police, where he lived for two or three days. He left Toronto, however, before he could be apprehended, and a search was made among the surrounding towns with the result that two days ago he was located at Woodville, a small village near Port Hope, on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk, 63 miles from Toronto. Detective Sergeant Downey, of the Detroit police, made the arrest. Boyne consented to return voluntarily to stand his trial, and was taken back yesterday, and locked up without being registered.

The motive of the crime is not known. The theory of robbery has been thrown out by the police, as nothing valuable, so far as can be learned, was taken from the house. Boyne is said to be well connected in Toronto, and it is thought that that fact, together with his alleged intimacy with Mrs. Welch, will be prominent features in the investigation about to be held in Detroit.

Deseronto Endorses the Claim of the N. D. Power Co.

At the meeting of Deseronto town council held recently the following resolution was passed endorsing the claim of the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. The whole council decided to form the deputation from Havelock, Norwood and other places which will go to Ottawa in a few days.

Whereas the Northumberland-Durham Power Co., Limited, holds a lease from the Ontario Government of the Main Healey Falls and lower adjoining Rapids and owns the patent of 66 acres of land required for the development works, and the Company also owns two portions of the upper Healey Rapids, several deeds of other lands; and the said Company has stopped construction work on official advice of Hazlebok Council and an inspecting committee of the payers of that town, pending the decision of the Department of Railways and Canals as to the intervening portion of the upper rapids, which the Dominion Government had purchased some thirty years ago for crib-sliding purposes now no longer used.

Therefore be it resolved that this Council of the Town of Deseronto do go hand in hand to Ottawa along with other Councils and with the Directors of the company to memorialize the Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, (which they now do) to lease to the said Company, the said intervening portions of the upper Rapids so that the Company can make a full development of the whole stretch of Healey Rapids.

This Council from the explanations of the Managing Director, J. A. Culver-well and other engineers' plans, documents reports believe that it is in the interest of the construction of the Canal to grant the request to the Company to develop the whole stretch of rapids rather than only the lower portion, the two schemes of development being entirely different. It also appears that this intervening portion of rapids will be of no use to any other Company for water power purposes as the Company owns the water power above, below and opposite to the Dominion Government portion, and besides the Company can furnish the lands for locks and canal cuttings and lockage water by way of part consideration to the Dominion Government.

And whereas the said Company has waited over two years since a deputation waited at Ottawa on behalf of the Company claims; and whereas practically the rest of the Trent River Canal Surveys are completed and the Healey section is still delayed and the Company's operating thereby hindered and the whole south midland and lake front thereby suffering for lack of cheap power.

And whereas the town of Deseronto, well known as a large manufacturing centre, having a grand natural harbor and other excellent shipping facilities, yet by reason of its want of electric power, is handicapped in its endeavor to obtain new manufacturies, at the present time so particularly needful in Deseronto, on account of the condition of the lumbering in the back country.

Therefore your petitioners do strongly urge the Dominion Government to give the said Company immediate attention and to grant their request—which request is already endorsed by eighteen Municipal Councils, and particularly so, as the Ontario Government through the Honourable Frank Cochrane, has requested the Company to secure this decision — and have also instructed the Company if the Dominion Government Grant is not secured to recommend development, after a reasonable time of the lower thirty-seven foot head of water controlled by their lease; and your petitioners will ever pray.

Dated at Deseronto this eighteenth day of January, being passed at a meeting of the whole Council.

(Signed) JOHN NEWTON, M. D., Mayor.

R. N. IRVINE, Town Clerk.

Youthful Grafters Work Lakefield

It is hard to fool a citizen who has got at least himself tackled by two or three boys with a sheet of paper for a signature, asking for assistance to some hockey team. It seems now that two days with more nerve than lion sky have extended the local field for this work and have literally "worked" Lakefield. County Constable Cochrane has received a letter from Mr. A. W. McKenzie of the Grove School, Lakefield, in which that gentleman reminds us that the two youths visited Lakefield recently, and stating that they were soliciting funds for the Grove School hockey team, collected between $15 and $20 from the merchants and citizens of Lakefield. The two financiers returned to Peterborough with their ill-gotten gains, may yet face a police court trial.

Citizen Finds Fault with Snow Plowing

A citizen of the south end called at The Times last night to complain of the ridiculous way in which the snow plowing is being done in the city. On Sherbrooke street, our informant says, instead of the snow plows going up and early in the morning so as to make the pavements passible for pedestrians going to their works, they do not turn out until after seven o'clock.

This should not be as many who have to toil hard all day are about exhausted—if they have a distance to go—after trudging through drifted streets.

The citizens are paying to have the work done and why should not the proper city officials see that the taxpayers get what they are paying for. On Sherbrooke street, the plows were taken off at noon, and had it not been for his efforts the streets would have been impassable. However, after much telephoning he was informed that the men were away hauling wood, and would return with the plow at four o'clock.

Our informant was very indignant over the laxity of the city's snow plows, and says that the residents of the west end are up in arms (les.

VERY PREVELENT IN YOUNG WOMEN

A Condition of "Waite-Bloodedness" is Fast Increasing.

It is always associated with languor and sensitiveness to cold. All the mucous surfaces, such as the gums, lips and eyelids, are blanched and waxy looking, the skin is pallid and colorless.

The pulse becomes rapid and feeble; there is also loss of appetite and disturbed digestion, palpitation of the heart, breathless and tendency to faint. In extreme cases there is complete disappearance of the menses, an flow and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

Physicians know of no remedy so prompt in results as Ferrozone, which contains all the elements lacking in debilitated blood.

Ferrozone not only improves the present quality of the blood, but actually forms more blood—the rich, red kind that nourishes and feeds the organs that require assistance.

"About a year ago," writes Mrs. S. G. Stanhope, of Rothesay, "my daughter complained of feeling tired. She was very pale and listless, and kept losing strength until too weak to attend school.

"We read of a similar case, that of Miss Descent, Stirling, Ont., being cured by Ferrozone, and this induced us to get it for Elaine. It took three boxes of Ferrozone to make any decided improvement, but when six boxes were used my daughter was beginning to be her old self again. It didn't take much longer to make a complete cure. It has made a new girl of Elaine. She has gained ten pounds in weight and looks the picture of perfect health. She is stronger and enjoys the best of spirits."

Every growing girl and young woman can make herself strong and healthy with Ferrozone. Price 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

TWO BATTLE FLEETS

A United States magazine of large circulation repeats a statement which was popular with the daily papers at the time the United States battleships started for the Pacific, that the fleet was the "largest" or "strongest" which had ever been sent on a prolonged cruise. Nobody apparently troubled to criticise this assertion at the moment, yet to find it in a magazine which had more time and opportunity to examine so careless and assertion is surprising.

Lozens of British fleets have been larger and stronger. The United States fleet consists of sixteen battleships. During the manoeuvres of October last of the British channel fleet, the commander-in-chief had under his orders twenty-six battleships of from 15,950 to 11,940 tons, together with fifteen armored cruisers of 14,000 to 10,000 tons, fourteen protected cruisers of 6,000 to 3,000 tons and 48 torpedo boat destroyers.

Of this gigantic battle array of one hundred and three war vessels, the sixteen leaders were larger in aggregate tonnage than the sixteen United States battleships which are on their way to the Pacific.

RATS

In his annual report Surgeon-General Wyman, chief of the Marine Hospital Service, who has had charge of the Government's fight against the plague in San Francisco, ascribes the prevalence of the disease among rats to fleas. Scientists accepted this fact some years ago. Last summer in England Dr. J. Asburton Thompson, head of the Public Health Department of New South Wales, after wide experience with the plague in Australian, expressed the positive conclusions not only that there would be no plague in man without plague in rats, but that the plague in rats would be harmless except for the assistance of the flea. There was no communication of the infection from rats direct, he said, but a flea that has bitten a plague rat if it bites another animal, can give that animal plague.

The indirect way of suppressing the plague is to exterminate the rats. During the last four months of 1907 over 130,000 rats were destroyed in San Francisco. Of 11,291 examined by the Health Department only 136 were infected with the plague. At the same time up to Nov. 19 there had been ninety-six cases and sixty deaths from the plague in that city since the outbreak of the disease last May.

To prevent the plague from spreading in the Philippines the Health Board seven years ago began offering a bounty for every rat killed. In India a similar campaign is carried on against the animal pests. In the six years following 1898, when the plague threatened Japan, nearly 5,000,000 rats were killed in Tokio alone, and Japanese scientists urged an international movement to vanquish the disease by exterminating its propagator, the rat.

The United States Dept. of Agriculture last spring joined the campaign against the noxious rodent with the statement that the common brown rat probably costs the American farmer $100,000,000 a year. The average cost of feeding a rat on grain is about 5c cents a year. What rats destroy in eggs, poultry, game and other birds cannot even be estimated. In Denmark the loss by rats is put at $3,000,000, and in France at $40,000,000 annually.

To combat so persistent an enemy of health and property nothing less than a systematic, scientific plan of warfare throughout the world can be wholly effective.

Autos Moved $2,500,000 In Cash

New York, Jan. 23.—In two swift automobiles, each containing a uniformed policeman, $2,500,000 in notes and silver were transported Saturday to the Hamilton Bank in Harlem, which resumed business under a new directorship Monday.

It was necessary for the Hamilton Bank to have on hand bills of all denominations from $1 to $100, as well as silver. The humble cent in great numbers, was an essential quota. It required more time to count these than all the rest combined. Five error-proof clerks counted the huge bulk with nimble fingers. Piled on the floor were hundreds of bundles of bills, and on desks and chairs other packages, each containing a sum that might relieve the necessities of a family for a year.

The Bohemian for February

The Bohemian for February is bright with many attractive pictures and is overflowing with good things to read. There are ten short stories, and several spicily written special articles.

"The Lure of the Melodrama," by Jules E. Goodman, tells something of the men who write melodrama, the actors who play it, the managers who produce it and the audiences which see it. It has many pictures. The Cornell Widow is perhaps the most distinctive humorous college journal in America and in the February Bohemian its editor tells of the origin, growth and function of The Widow. The humorous pictures reproduced from The Widow are as good as the text. Grace George, in a short article entitled "My Yesterdays," tells the story of her life. The illustrations are new and fetching. The February Bohemian has the first article in a unique debate designed to settle the much-mooted question of whether English or American humor is superior. A well-known English writer presents the case for English as against American humor. His argument altogether constitutes a most satirical arraignment of humor as evidenced in American newspapers and magazines. The article presents a good chance to "see ourselves as others see us."

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Marie Dressler has made a great hit in London.

Mr. Sutro's play called "John Glyde's Honor" will be presented in New York by James K. Hackett.

The late Richard Mansfield's production of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is to be put on for a road tour.

Mrs. Bernard Beere is soon to make her re-entrance on the London stage after a long absence from the world of theatricals.

It is understood that Alla Nazimova is trying to get Elinor Glyn to dramatize her new novel, "Three Weeks," for her use in the spring.

Olga Nethersole is planning to play a season in the City of Mexico in April. She may then produce the little French play, "The Submarine," which has set Paris talking.

Justin H. McCarthy has written a comedy of French manners in the time of the regent Philip of Orleans—about 1700—the heroine of which is a sort of reckless boyden.

THE ROYAL BOX.

After seeing a theatrical performance the kaiser often goes behind the scenes and chats with the players.

Queen Victoria of Spain, being an Englishwoman, is a lover of fresh air and keeps her windows open as much as possible. This is quite an innovation in Spain and the source of much comment in court circles.

Apart from his official revenues, the sultan of Turkey draws a handsome income from a street which he owns in Constantinople, from a sugar plantation in the West Indies and from a line of steamers which ply along his coasts.

King George of Greece is the poorest of all kings. His income is about $700 a day, which is nothing to one obliged to maintain the state and dignity of a king. He would be poorer still were it not for outside help. England, France and Russia each subscribe $20,000 a year toward his income.

German Silver.

German silver is a brass containing from fifteen to twenty-five parts of nickel in each hundred.

Spiders.

The spiders that spin webs are in an infinite minority compared with those which do not. Ground spiders, as the spin spanners are called, abound everywhere and depend on agility and swiftness of foot to catch their prey.

Vanilla.

Vanilla comes from a genus of climbing orchid which grows plentifully in the tropics.

To check a cold quickly, get from your druggist some little Candy Cold Tablets called Preventics. Druggists everywhere are now dispensing Preventics, for they are not only safe, but decidedly effective and prompt. Preventics contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will prevent Pneumonia, Bronchitis, La Grippe, etc. Hence the name, Preventics. Good for feverish children. 25 Preventics 25 cents. Trial Boxes 5 cts. Sold by all dealers.

For Coughs

Never hesitate to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a regular medicine, a strong medicine, a doctor's medicine.

It would be very interesting to know how many years your family physician has prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs, colds, and all forms of lung troubles. Ask him the next time you see him. We know physicians who have used it for over half a century.

Japanese Affairs Have About Reached a Crisis

There can be little doubt that a grave crisis in Japanese affairs is either existent or impending. The government may tide over its present difficulties. Already, by a strenuous process of doubling up, it has filled temporarily the places of two ministers who have resigned. But that arrangement cannot last long, and there is no assurance that other vacancies will not soon occur. In any case, the day of reckoning seems to be merely postponed for a little while. Then the fiscal policy of the Saionji ministry will be weighed in the balances of a particularly well informed, acirt and independent popular mind. The outcome of the test is not to be forecast with any degree of assurance. But this is to be said, that the policy of the government has brought enormous if not unparalleled bursens of debt and taxation upon the people, that it now proposes at once to increase those burdens and to decrease the apparent benefits which should accrue to the nation, and that the opposition party is numerous, capable and aggressive. In such circumstances it is not impossible that the government will be sustained and that its policy will be approved, but it would certainly be rash to predict that result.

The difficulty is primarily, we might say exclusively, fiscal, or, at any rate, economic. Ever since the war with Russia there have been rumors of Japan's pecuniary straits. While there was at times reason to suspect that these were exaggerated, the conviction has been inevitable that the costs of the war, for which no indemnity was received, and the expenses of the years of military preparation which preceded the war, together with years of poor crops and various vast disasters, had severely taxed the pecuniary resources of the empire. It must be remembered that Japan, including half savage Formosa, has scarcely fifty million inhabitants, and that, having for ages been devoted to military and artistic affairs, rather than to commerce, it has been and is conspicuously devoid of wealth. Now we are told by a Tokio correspondent of "The New York Evening Post", who appears to be well informed and temperate, that Japan's foreign debt amounts to $1,650,000,000, at high rates of interest; that taxation is $31.50 a head of the population, that stocks and shares were never lower in the history of the empire, that the price of rice, the great food staple of the common people, has doubled in the last year, and that the general cost of living has increased one-fifty in five years without any corresponding increase in wages or salaries. In such circumstances there is little exaggeration and of this total a shrinkage of $8,500,000 is credited to December. Returns for the first two weeks of January indicate that the worst of the strain is over, since the falling off in income for the fortnight is only $2,500,000. Expenditures have been $3,500,000 greater than last year, so that the net loss for the month, compared with January, 1907, may reach $10,000,000, as against $13,000,000 for December. The deficit for the fiscal year to date is $11,762,000. If business recovers a little this deficit will not grow very rapidly. It seems oversanguine, of course, to expect that the Treasury will be able to pay its way through the remaining five months of the fiscal year. There will probably be a good sized deficit. (At the close of 1906-07 there was a surplus of $84,945,542. There is therefore still a generous margin to be overcome if the gains of 1906-07 are to be balanced by the losses of 1907-08.

BALANCE IN THE AIR.

The Necessity For Equilibrium in Bird Flight.

It is likely that the bird's superb ease and grace in the air are due to its ability to maintain absolute balance. If a gull makes the mistake of bending until the wind strikes its head and wings on the top it will tumble instantly. And the sailing birds, though they make no flapping motion of their wings, are constantly balancing themselves, like a man on a tight rope. Some scientists have maintained that the air sacs make it possible for the bird to manage minute changes that are very valuable in restoring equilibrium. It is known that the wing is joined to the body of the bird by what is called a universal joint, enabling the creature to make almost every possible motion. The body of a man is heavier than water, but if he gets into a position of perfect balance he will float. In some such way, it is claimed, the bird floats in the air. But as the bird would fall much more rapidly in the air than a man's body would sink in water the necessity for a far more subtle ability to keep the center of gravity on the part of the bird is apparent; hence, according to this theory, the bird is provided for this purpose with the most sensitive equipment, made up of nerves and mysterious air ducts, many of the wing feathers perhaps acting as sentinels, warning instantly of the slightest approach of shifting currents.—Everybody's Magazine.

ENTERTAINING THE DUKE.

Rudely Interrupted While He Was Chatting With Royalty.

The daily papers do their best, but not even their ubiquitous representatives garner all the store of good things which attend a royal visit to Ireland, says the London Sketch. No paper at the time printed the cream of the stories which grew out of a visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Emerald Isle. "Welcome to Ireland!" said a man as he saw the duke on the steps of a hotel in the little western town in which he was staying. "Welcome to Ireland, your royal highness. I hope I see your royal highness well." "Quite well, thank you," answered the duke. "And your noble mother, the queen. I hope her ould leddyship is enjoyin' the best of health?" "Yes, thank you. The queen is very well indeed," said the duke, vastly amused with the easy familiarity of the peasant. "It's glad I am to hear it. And tell me, your royal highness," the other went on, "how are all your noble brothers and sisters?" Before the duke could answer an aid-de-camp appeared, with, "Here, get along there." The peasant looked up with infinite scorn. "Arrah! What are yez interruptin' for?" he exclaimed. "Can't you see that me and his royal highness is houldin' a conversation?"

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Lax-ets 5 Sweet to Eat A Candy Bowel Laxative

The Mistaken Identity of Tommy

By ADDIE F. MITCHELL.

Copyright, 1907, by E. C. Parcells.

Mrs. Vaughn put down the letter she had been reading, with a troubled little sigh. Her daughter Madge looked up from the step.

"What's the matter, mother? You look as if you had been reading your death warrant."

"I have—the death warrant of our summer's peace. Aunt Mary North writes to ask if we won't keep her Tom while she and Mr. North go abroad for the summer."

"Who's her Tom?" asked Madge succinctly.

"Her stepson. I've not seen Aunt Mary since she married Mr. North, and I know next to nothing of the North family. But Mrs. Wilson knew Mr. North when they were living in Chicago (that was in the time of the first Mrs. North), and she said there were two girls and a boy. The boy was in kilts then, and that was five years ago, so he must be about eight or nine years old. Aunt Mary says he has been ill with typhoid and that she remembers with hope for his health that the air at Pinecroft is healing."

"But we can't have him, mother. Think of having an eight-year-old boy on our hands the whole summer! We can never get enough cooked for him to eat, and he'll be drowned regularly once a week and break all his arms and legs on the other days. And I wanted a quiet, heavenly rest this summer before I have to go back to that awful office. And it will be—well, the other kind of a time with a Tommy around, that is certain."

"But, Madge, I can't refuse Aunt Mary. She was your father's favorite aunt and always so good to him. No, Tommy will have to come, whether we want him or not."

"Well, then, when?"

"The letter says next Tuesday unless they hear from us that it is not convenient."

"Tell Aunt Mary I have the smallpox or that I died suddenly at the news—anything. Please, mother!"

"I was wondering," said her mother, "whether an eight-year-old boy would be afraid to sleep in a room by himself. Shall we put a bed in the alcove off my room or fix up the south chamber?"

"All the boys I've ever seen," answered Madge, "were afraid neither of the things under the earth nor of those upon it. Give him a room to himself, and then you'll be saved the everlasting clatter of fishing tackle and knives and toads and things in your room."

Still grumbling, Madge helped her mother get ready the south chamber. As she worked she grew interested and even took from the walls of her own room some interesting prints which she thought would be suitable for a boy's room.

"I can't see, though, why Aunt Mary didn't take the little wretch abroad with her—the sea air would do him good. Take out all the fancy things, mother, as you value them."

"If you only understood big boys as well as you seem to understand the small ones you would not be twenty-four and still single," teased her mother.

"I do, mother," said Madge vehemently. "I understand them altogether too well, and that's the very reason I am still single."

There was no immediate reply to this, and Mrs. Vaughn turned her attention to the room.

"Get all your old picture books and put them on that shelf, Madge, and I think I'll bring Jim's old hobbyhorse down from the attic. He may despise it, but you never can tell."

"I suppose I could make him some kites," said Madge. "There's all that red and blue paper and miles of yellow string. Perhaps if I make a big one he'll get fastened to it and fly off to Mars. And while I'm up in the attic I'm going to bring down some of Jim's old overalls."

Arrangements were finally completed, and Madge rather looked forward to the coming of the little boy, so that when Tuesday came she willingly drove to the station for him, though she protested that St. Lawrence and his gridiron were as nothing to the torment she was undergoing. She took along a bag of cookies, "just to stop up his mouth so he can't ask questions," she explained.

The train was late, and Madge got a little cross as she waited in the open trap with the hot sun beating down upon her. The pony was restless, and she dared not leave him to go inside of the station. When the train finally steamed in, however, she gave the reins to a porter and went to find her young charge. She watched the few who came out of the coaches nervously, with one eye on the dancing pony, but as far as she could see no small boy was on the train. Fearing that he had not heard the name of the station called, she spoke to the conductor, who told her that no such person was on the train.

"Well," she thought, "I suppose I should be glad of it," and was going back to the trap when it occurred to her that he might some way have got past her into the station and might be waiting for her there. She looked in. No one was there but a very tall young man, who was leaning back rather limply against the seat, pale as from a recent illness. Madge gave him more than a passing glance because she wondered who he might be. Young men at Pinecroft at this season were a rarity.

"Looks sick," she muttered, "or a little daffy." She was getting into the cart when a quiet "I beg your pardon" caused her to wheel around. The strange young man, hat in hand, was certainly speaking to her. She merely looked her surprise.

"Are you not Miss Vaughn, and weren't you expecting me?" Her blue eyes widened into a positive stare of amazement.

"I—I am Madge Vaughn, but you—you must be mistaken," she said.

"I am Dr. North—Tom North, my mother wrote." He was blushing a little at the awkwardness of his reception.

"You—you are little Tommy?"

"Why"— She began to laugh merrily, and the young man laughed, too, a bit stiffly, for he did not understand the joke. "You have the advantage of me," he said.

Madge sobered at his tone and realized that she was not displaying any marked hospitality. She held out a repentant hand, which the young man took eagerly. "We're sort of cousins, I guess," she said. "Anyway, if you are Tommy North we've been looking for you, so get in, and we'll start."

"I can go away if it is not convenient," protested the man.

"Convenient! After I've worked for three days getting picture books and kites and little blue overalls ready for you? No, sir; you will have to use all those things."

"You see," she explained as she drove along, "we got the impression from some one that you were about eight years old. Your mother never mentioned your age or height, and so we got ready for a small boy, and—and here are some cookies I brought along so that you would not ask questions on the way home." She thrust a paper bag into his hands.

They were both laughing like children as they drove in at the gate, and by the time explanations were made to Mrs. Vaughn the young man was thankful that the surprise had happened. He felt that it had been a good thing to take Madge by surprise, for when two people have laughed together they have rapidly progressed in their acquaintance.

On the very first day Mrs. Vaughn had looked at the two with comprehension in her eyes, and as the weeks grew into months she felt reasonably sure that Madge would never go back to the office.

"Why should she," whispered the older woman to herself, "when a prosperous young physician is not only willing, but obviously anxious, to monopolize her?"

The day before he was scheduled to go back to the city a new man by reason of Pinecroft air and agreeable companionship they took the big red and blue kite to the top of a nearby hill to fly it. It soared clear above the trees as the man slowly unwound the long yellow string. The girl watched it rather sadly, for as yet there had been no word of love between them and she realized that she had grown to care so much that it was hard not to let him see it. She felt glad, though, that she had not let him see it, because there might be another girl in the city to whom he was bound, and she—well, she had her work at the office. The tears had come into her eyes, and now they splashed over. The young man looked up just in time to catch sight of them, and, letting the string go, he turned and caught her in his arms.

"Dear," he whispered, "what is it?" She did not speak, but she did not try to get away either, and after a moment he said:

"Is it because I am going away—is it, Madge?" She shook her head.

"Why, then," he urged, "tell me." Suddenly she began to laugh—a soft little laugh that made the man hold her closer.

"I was only wondering," she said, "whether or not there was a girl"—

"You bet there is," he interrupted, "and I've got her right where I want her." Which sentence, slangy as it was, seemed to be wholly satisfactory to Madge.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb". Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

Trees and Fools.

Any fool can destroy trees. They cannot run away, and if they could they would still be destroyed—chased and hunted down as long as fun or a dollar could be got out of their bark hides, branching horns or magnificent bole backbones. Few that fell trees plant them. Nor would planting avail much toward getting back anything like the noble primeval forests. During a man's life only saplings can be grown in the place of the old trees, tens of centuries old, that have been destroyed. It took more than 3,000 years to make some of the trees in these western woods—trees that are still standing in perfect strength and beauty, waving and singing in the mighty forests of the Sierra. God has cared for these trees, saved them from drought, disease, avalanches and a thousand straining, leveling tempests and floods, but he cannot save them from fools. Only Uncle Sam can do that.—John Muir of California.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Immigration to be Limited

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Canada and British Columbia will rejoice at the good news given this afternoon in the House of Commons by the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who has recently returned from Japan, where he went as an envoy from the Canadian government to see what could be done towards preventing further immigration from the Flowery Kingdom into this country. The galleries of the house were filled with an attentive audience, and more members were in attendance than at any other sitting of the session. That his mission was eminently successful can be gleaned from the following brief summary of the statements he made in the course of his exceedingly interesting three-hour speech.

"Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, has given a written assurance that his government has decided to take efficient means to restrict emigration to Canada, giving careful consideration to local conditions prevailing here, with a view to meeting the desires of the government of the Dominion as far as is compatible with the spirit of the treaty and the dignity of the State."

ONE IN FOUR ARE ORIENTALS.

In British Columbia at the present time one man in every four was an Oriental, there being 25,000 males from the far east to 75,000 male whites, a fact which lent color to the agitation for expulsion. A fact which made the question much more difficult to handle was that the stream was started by our own people.

Public opinion in Japan resented the attitude of the Canadian people. Being proud and sensitive, they could not admit that such racial prejudices will last forever, and they claimed recognition by the other nations of the world because of their successful wars, their educational progress, and her advanced standards of civilization. The crux of their grievance was that Canada and the United States admitted emigrants from Europe and proposed to refuse those from Japan.

Out of the Schoolroom.

A schoolboy was asked to give some information in regard to the Cary sisters, the once famous New England poets, and he said of them:

"The Cary sisters were two poets who lived in Massachusetts most of the time. They went ew York, where they made many fast friends. Their fastest friend was John G. Whittier."

At the time of the Longfellow centennial, when the school children were writing so much about him, one boy wrote:

"Longfellow's poems were mostly of his own composure, but he wrote 'Talis of a Wayside Inn,' where others did the talking. He was the poet lorryett of our country and was a cracker jack when it came to real poetry."—Lippincott's.

Make Your Money Work

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government expert's report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Of these there are five whose names are freely mentioned in connection with the wardenship. The list is Reeve James Thompson, of Havelock, Reeve T. N. Scott, of Smith, Reeve John Brown, of North Monaghan, Reeve Wm. Hales, of Chandos, and Reeve Charles R. D. Booth, of Burleigh and Anstruther. The race it a dozen one and it will take a good prophet to predict the winner.

Healey Bros. on Trial in Forgery Case

Judgment Reserved Until Saturday Morning at Ten O'Clock

There was a decided contradiction of evidence at the County Police Court yesterday in the charge against Frank and Charley Healey, two youths of 18 and 20 respectively, who are charged with being implicated in the raising of a cheque on the Cavendish Lumber Company. The original cheque was for $1.40 and it was raised to $51.40. Hamilton admitted the offence when he was arraigned on a previous occasion, and at the request of his solicitor judgment was delivered until Tuesday next. The offence was committed on December 30, last.

Charles Armstrong, hotelkeeper of Havelock, said he cashed the cheque and counted out the money in the presence of the Healey brothers. Mr. Tait identified the forged cheque, together with the two given the Healeys by the lumber company. Hamilton also gave evidence and said the Healeys knew all about the forged cheque.

Charles Healey, one of the prisoners, was the first witness for the defence. In December he went to the camp at Cavendish. Frank Healey and Frank Hamilton were with him. Worked in camp for a few days. The three of them got their time from camp. All three went to Havelock. The three were together all the time. He says Hamilton never discussed the raising of a cheque. Had a drink at McNicholls' hotel, Havelock. The Healey brothers went into the office to change their socks and wearing apparel which were wet. Frank Healey wanted to cash his cheque on a drink. Bartender wouldn't do it. Went into a bank but said they wouldn't cash any of the cheques there. Went into Armstrong's hotel to get them cashed. Hamilton handed him his cheque. Armstrong said there was some pencil marks on the cheque, and Hamilton said if there was they had been put on at the camp. Armstrong went upstairs and handed Hamilton the money. Witness got $1.62 and his brother got $1.65. Witness had never examined Hamilton's cheque, and he couldn't read or write anyway. His brother couldn't either.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wood, witness said he was prepared to contradict both Hamilton and Armstrong in some remarks they had made concerning the cheque. He did not know amount of Hamilton's cheque when he came out of the camp with them. Did not see amount of money handed Hamilton as cash for cheque. Mr. Wood produced letter in court signed by Jas. Healey. Jas Healey is his father's name, but witness could not swear whether the signature was his father's or not. Witness said he was twenty years of age. Had no knowledge that the cheque was changed until he heard Mr. Cochrane was after him.

His worship in summing up said the evidence of Armstrong, the hotelkeeper, was strong in some points but that he stated that one of the Healey's declared the cheque was all right but couldn't say which one it was, therefore making that point of no value as evidence.

Frank Healey, the brother of the last witness, corroborated the latter's evidence. Hamilton never asked him concerning whether the cheque was right or not; and witness did not tell Armstrong that cheque was right.

"That's the defence, your worship," said Mr. Gordon.

"My personal opinion," said the court, "is that the evidence is strong enough to make a conviction."

Mr. Gordon at the court's instance will produce the Healey brothers on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, when judgment will be given.

Big Land Deal

Mr. Jas. Bullied of Saskatchewan, is paying a flying visit to town on business. He is one of the fortunate ones who has profited in the North-west, having recently sold his property, consisting of 2560 acres of broken land, at $34 an acre. This property lies close to the town of Carievelle, and is adaptable for both general farming and stock raising purposes. Mr. Bullied, who has connections in this city, has been hurriedly called back to Saskatchewan in connection with the disposal of his large herd of stock.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly prized as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Haro, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D. of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D. of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THREE LIVES LOST IN BALTIMORE FIRE-- TERRIBLE CALAMITY

Collapse of a Wall Scattered Death and Injury Among the Firemen--Worst Calamity in the City Since That of 1904

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 24 — Fire early to-day took heavy tolls of the members of the fire department of this city, three being dead and sixteen others more or less seriously injured, including George Heaton, chief of the fire department, who is in a serious condition. He has a badly lacerated scalp and internal injuries. The dead are: Lieutenant Frederick Harmen, William B. Pugh, unidentified man thought to be Emil Morton. The financial damage is estimated at $400,000.

BARD FIRE TO FIGHT.

The blaze, which is the worst that has occurred in this city since the calamity of 1904, started on the third floor of the building on the southeast corner of Holliday and Saratoga streets, occupied by the J. Regester Sons Co., plumbers' supplies. Other occupants of the building were the Baltimore Bell and Brass Company and the William L. Hollingsworth Company, machinists. Upon these three the heaviest losses fall.

The fire had apparently been burning some time before it was discovered. A strong wind from the northwest and a very low temperature made the work of fighting the fire more than ordinarily difficult. In an incredibly short time after the blaze broke out on the Saratoga street side of the Regester Building and without warning a large section of the north wall of the building fell. It was then that scattered death and injuries among the firemen, who were working close to the building. The rain of bricks also put out of commission an extension ladder truck upon which some of the men had been working.

FIRE WAGONS COLLIDED.

For a time it seemed that the fire would sweep diagonally through the block to Gay street and a number of people living on that thoroughfare moved their effects. Changes in the wind however, enabled the firemen to confine the damage, in addition to that already mentioned in the plans of the E. B. Read & Sons Co., printers, and the Flynn & Emrich Co., machinists, located in a five story building on Saratoga street in the rear of the Regester Building, the Leonhardt Wagon Co., Saratoga street, opposite the building in which the fire originated, the old city hall building and the Zion School Building.

While responding to the alarm a hose carriage and fire engine collided and five of the men on the engine were injured, one of them seriously.

FEW WANT THE JOB OF ASSESSOR

The time for receiving applications for the position of assessor for the city of Peterborough, expires today, and it is learned that the number of men seeking the position is not large. Two assessors are to be appointed and the council has made it understood quite plainly that the two men must work together. The unsatisfactory assessment for 1908 is attributed largely to the fact that Messrs. McKee and McGrath worked independently of each other, with the result an apparently equal basis. It is hoped to avoid this in taking the result that the wards were not assessment for 1909.

When the applications are all in they will be considered by the council, and if the opinion prevails that none of the applicants is satisfactory, other means will be taken to secure two assessors. That the council will exercise great caution in selecting the assessors for the present year, is beyond question. The mayor and aldermen for 1907 had a somewhat unhappy existence for several months on account of the assessment as well known, and the present council has no desire to fall into the same rut.

The number of applications received at the city hall is hardly as large as was expected. But they may come in with a rush tomorrow.

Will Visit Peterboro in Search of a Wife

Evidently husbands are just as scarce in leap year as in an other year, if one is to go by the result of Mr. Wm. Freaman's advertisement for a wife in the Bobcaygeon Independent, says the Lindsay Post.

Before many days had elapsed Mr Freeman had received twenty charming feminine epistles offering the writers hearts and hands to the would-be groom. Each letter was accompanied by the best picture the photographers' art could produce, and, needless to say, the display of feminine beauty and mouth was so entrancing that had he been any other person he would have wanted to marry the whole lot and move his harem out to Utah with the Mormons.

However, level-headed Mr Freeman set about the next best thing, and resolved that he would see them all and marry the one he thought most suitable for a life partner He came into the Simpson House the other day and asked the proprietor if he knew the address of a certain town lady who had written him "No," said Mr Sampson, "I'm afraid I do not but, say, how would you like to see two very fine, eligible, young ladies who are upstairs in the parlor now?"

Mr Freeman went up and interviewed two well-known young Lindsay ladies, but found they didn't quite come up to his ideal, and so decided to carry his suit no further.

In the meantime Mr. Simpson found the address he was looking for and Mr. Freeman went to interview the lady, who, he found, was too old, being 30. He is 60, but still hale and hearty. Having finished all his business in connection with the affair here, Mr. Freeman took the train to Haliburton, where another would-be bride awaited him. If he does not succeed there he will try Peterboro'.

LARGE ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED DRIVEN OUT OF BOSTON CITY

The Police Adopt Strong Strong Measures in Dealing with the Mob

Of 1,500 Out of Work

Boston, Mass., January 25.—An army of unemployed was forcibly driven out of the city yesterday. For two hours, Morrison I. Swift, and an organized crowd of unemployed, estimated at from one thousand to fifteen hundred, openly defied the city and state police and persisted in the determination to hold a meeting on the common. Permission to do this had been refused Swift at the City Hall. As a last resort, after persuasion and clubbing had failed Mounted Police were called in and members of the crowd were literally run out of the common and up the street until they had passed the city limits.

Following his advance on Trinity Church last Sunday, Swift had placarded the town for yesterday's meeting and several thousand men were on the common when he appeared. The police were there, too. For a time it looked as though there might be serious trouble, but the police simply rode down the crowd, and Swift gave the order to fall in and marched his men away.

"We will invade the homes of the rich," Swift shouted to the men, and took up the line of march to Brookline, which has the name of being the richest town in the United States. The police escorted him and his army near to the line where Swift drew up his forces and began a violent tirade in which he advised his followers that if they needed anything they had a right to take it.

Peterboro's Oldest Merchant Has Joined the Great Majority

Mr. Wm. H. Wrighton Succumbs Suddenly to Heart Disease

Was Born in Peterboro

With shocking suddenness came the death of one of Peterborough's oldest and most widely known business men in the person of William Hall Wrighton, which occurred yesterday morning between eight and nine at his late residence, 45 McDonnel street. Although he had been in poor health for several weeks past, he retired, feeling considerably better than he had been for some time. His old friend, Mr. John Kincaid, was with him until late at night, and they had enjoyed the evening playing a game. Calling him shortly after 8 o'clock for breakfast, his wife wondered how it was that he did not answer or come downstairs. After waiting a little while, she went to his room, and was greatly shocked to find that her husband had passed away. His death was a peaceful one, never having awakened from his night's sleep.

Born in Peterborough and having spent all his life here, he had watched the city grow from a mere hamlet to a now prosperous business centre. Probably there is no merchant in this city who was so widely known throughout the county. A man of sterling qualities, he won the esteem of all who knew it. His strict business methods and honest dealings were the secrets of his success. In his business career he was most successful, and until the time of his demise devoted his attention to it. His death is a distinct loss to the community, removing, as it has, a most useful and progressive citizen.

The late William Hall Wrighton was seventy-one years of age, and was born in Ashburnham, which then was nothing less than a woods, with a few houses, scattered here and there, a general store and an hotel. Mr. Wrighton had many interesting tales to tell of the pioneer days of Peterborough, or Scott's Plains, as it was then known. He received his early education in the public schools of the village. His father was the clerk of the peace and deputy clerk of the Crown. After leaving school, the late Mr. Wrighton entered the general store of Nicholls and Hall, where he was employed for several years. He afterwards went into business for himself, and for over forty years he had conducted a general store on George street. In addition to his large grocery trade, he dealt extensively in horses, grain, furs, butter, cheese and eggs. Until about seven years ago, he conducted a grain warehouse at the C. P. R. stores. He dealt in furs right up to the time of his death, and for many years was buyer for the late James Walsh. He made many trips throughout the country, and bought and sold every kind of fur. He was a large exporter of cheese, and was a buyer on the cheese board until three years ago. He shipped extensively to Liverpool and to Glasgow. He also bought butter and eggs in large quantities for exportation to the Old Country.

The late Mr. Wrighton always took a deep interest in all affairs relative to the city's welfare, and in many ways assisted materially the growth and advancement of Peterborough. For many years he was a member of the school board, and filled the office of chairman for several terms. He was also a member of the first fire brigade of Peterborough, and in this respect served the municipality faithfully for a number of years.

In his younger days the late Mr. Wrighton took a prominent part in athletics. He was recognized as one of the best cricketers that ever played the game. He was also a great swimmer, and was known for his remarkable feats accomplished in long distance swimming.

The deceased was a staunch Conservative in politics, and manifested a keen interest in political matters. He was a member of George Street Methodist church, where he was a regular attendant. He also was a member of Otonabee lodge, I.O.O.F.

Thirty-five years ago he was married to his now sorrowing wife, her maiden name was Catharine M. Hunter, of Verulam.

Besides his wife two daughters and two sisters are left to mourn his loss. The daughters are Mrs. R. Ross, of Pembroke, and Mrs. Brooks, of Detroit, Mich. The sisters are Mrs. R. W. Grubbe, McDonnel street, and Miss M. Wrighton, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 45 McDonnel street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

East Peterboro' Conservatives Meet

Norwood, Jan. 24.—At a meeting of the executive of the East Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association held there yesterday, it was decided to hold a convention in the town hall, Norwood, on Wednesday, February 26th, when candidates will be nominated for both the Federal and Provincial houses of parliament.

The convention will begin at one o'clock, and it is expected there will be a large and representative attendance.

In the evening at eight o'clock a public meeting will be held.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, M.P., former minister of finance, and Mr. Joseph P. Downey, M.P.P., of Guelph, have been invited to address the gathering, further particulars of which will be announced later.

The annual meeting of the East Riding Liberal-Conservative Association will be held on the afternoon of February 26th—the same date as the convention.

Mr. Geo. J. Sharry of Norwood, is president of the association, and Mr. A. McMaster of Havelock, secretary.

SOVEREIGN BANK BILLS ARE GOOD

Sovereign Bank notes or bills are good for one hundred cents on the dollar. The fact that the Sovereign has handed over its business to the other banks does not discount the value of bills of the Sovereign variety. People need have no hesitation in accepting the bills as legal tender. Any bank will take them on deposit or change them for others. Once they reach the banks, however, they will not again see the light of regular circulation. As they are gathered in the Sovereign bank bills will be forwarded to Ottawa, and credited to the Bank's account with the Dominion Government.

AS TO LIQUIDATION.

Not all the shareholders of the Sovereign Bank are satisfied with the action of the directors, and the Bankers' Association, in leaving the business of winding up the bank's affairs to the Sovereign directors and a Board of Trustees of the Association.

"There should be a liquidator appointed who would be able to open up matters, and find out where the shareholders' money has gone to," said a dissatisfied shareholder, who visited the Star office this morning.

Legal action to control the appointment of a liquidator has been stalled by the action taken on Monday by Mr. Bickwell, on behalf of a client who owns five shares of Sovereign Bank stock. Mr. Bickwell is counsel for the Bankers' Association. This action serves the purpose of preventing other shareholders from taking action, without a great deal of trouble, to compel the appointment of a liquidator.

To Attack the Insurance Bill

Ottawa, January 25.—When the House arose on Wednesday it was announced that the business for to-day would be the second reading of the Insurance Bill. Hon. W. S. Fielding, when the bill was introduced, said that he was desirous that there should be no discussion of the details before the measure was sent to the Committee on Banking and Commerce. Hon. Geo. E. Foster afterwards intimated that he did not propose to be silent on the second reading, and he will probably be heard on the general aspects of the bill and the work accomplished by and the cost of the commission.

All the Sporting News

The steady reliability with which the Chicago Record-Herald presents the sporting news of the whole country each day has made it an authority in this field. It has a large staff of editors and reporters to handle the telegraphic matter and gather the local news in this important department alone. In The Sunday Record-Herald this department has a separate supplement of four full pages—a newspaper in itself—in which all the latest sporting news is presented with numerous illustrations. All that is of interest in baseball, football, racing, athletics, automobiling, yachting, golf, tennis, pugilism, aquatics and other sports can always be found here, along with many special articles by experts of national reputation. The Record-Herald is a favorite among lovers of sport because its sporting columns are written by "men who know."

Sensation Occurs in Newfoundland House Last Night

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 24. — An extraordinary scene occurred in the Assembly last night. Finance Minister Jackman endeavored to justify his assertion that M. P. Cashin's opposition to the Bond Government is due to the Premier having refused him an executive position Cashin solicited.

Cashin on Wednesday called upon his colleague, Ellis, supporting Premier Bond, to withdraw him from the imputation. Ellis did so unreservedly. Sir Edward Morris, Minister of Justice, confirmed Mr. Ellis.

Yesterday Hon. Mr. Jackman read a letter from Archbishop Howley, stating that Cashin had waited on the Archbishop after the election, requesting his influence.

Mr. Cashin stated the letter and the assertion of the Archbishop was unqualifiedly untrue, that he had asked nobody to secure the position, which he neither wanted nor would accept. This denial he was prepared to make oath to at any time before any tribunal.

The episode has caused consternation, Cashin being a Catholic in good standing and devoted to his church. Morris, Ellis and Jackman are also Catholics.

THAW WITNESSES ARE STORM BOUND --ARE CHARLATANS

Hints Jerome in a Rage--Cant Get Names of Defence Witnesses Whom He Thus Slurs, So Leaves the Court

New York Jan. 24. — Owing to the fact that four witnesses for Harry K. Thaw are on the steamer Adriatic, stormbound outside Sandy Hook, and that Dr. Pingham, one of the Thaw family physicians, is just recovering from an attack of pneumonia, an adjournment of the trial until Monday was asked by Martin Littleton this morning. There are three doctors and a nurse on board the belated steamship, and their testimony is necessary before the hypothetical question for the experts can be framed.

Justice Dowling granted the request after a side-bar conference with District Attorney Jerome and Mr. Littleton stating to the jury that reasons over which the counsellors had no control necessitated the delay.

The judge said he had been informed by the prosecutor and the defending counsel that no time would be saved by holding court to-morrow.

The belated steamer, Adriatic, which is bringing the Thaw witnesses from Europe, is held up by a blinding snowstorm off Sandy Hook. The steamer is not expected to attempt coming through the Narrows into New York Harbor until the storm abates.

Justice Dowling said it would not be fair to compel the defence to close their case without the evidence, when it was through no fault of any human being that the witnesses were not on hand.

JEROME ASKS FOR NAMES.

Everything appeared to be settled amicably when Jerome said, "As the people have been ready to proceed at all times and are ready to go ahead in rebuttal now, I would ask that the defence be requested to furnish the State with the names of the witnesses who are on board the Adriatic, so that I can make inquiries concerning them and their standing. This will save time and prevent the necessity of looking them up after they have been called to the stand."

Surprised and indignant, Daniel O'Reilly and Martin Littleton were on their feet in an instant. The jurors stopped gathering up their coats and waited the outcome of the wrangle. Justice Dowling smiled and then checked himself as Littleton spoke heatedly. "This is an outrageous proposal, your honor," he said. "I certainly do not intend to lay bare my case to the District Attorney, so that he can meet those witnesses at the dock and intimidate them. Unless your honor commands me to furnish the information, I must refuse the District Attorney's request."

Harry Thaw began to talk excitedly to A. Russell Peabody, of his counsel, and then the latter communicated with Mr. Littleton. Dan O'Reilly took part in the confab.

"SHYSTERS OR CHARLATANS?"

Meanwhile Jerome was addressing the court. "How do I know whether or not these witnesses are shysters or charlatans?" he asked. "If they are of good character I see no reason why the defence should so carefully hide their names.

"If the District Attorney will furnish me with the names of the witnesses he will call in rebuttal," spoke up Mr. Littleton. "I will give him the names of my witnesses and their addresses as soon as I have seen them and learn where they are putting up."

It afterward developed this was a suggestion of the prisoner.

Jerome demurred, saying that such a course would not give him time to cable abroad to inquire about the newcomers. He indignantly denied that he had any intention of having his emissaries sidetrack the witnesses at the dock, and added a slurring remark about the credibility of those subpoenaed by the defence.

"As I thought so," calmly observed Littleton, "so I'll take no chances."

Justice Dowling said he thought the request a fair one. He did not urge the point that the adjournment was a favor to the defence, as Jerome set forth, but said it was a subject for the attorneys themselves to decide.

"Oh, very well," exclaimed Jerome in disgust. He had picked up a pad on which to write the names of the witnesses, but, with its surface still blank, he threw it on the table with a bang, and left the room like a petulant child.

Justice Dowling could hardly keep his face straight as he gave the usual warning to the jurors not to converse about the case and adjourned the court.

Then there was a general laugh at the expense of the Sulky District Attorney and the court room was cleared.

THAW IN MONTE CARLO.

New York, Jan. 24. — A letter which is not expected to get in evidence was given out by Hugh Herndon, chief clerk in Mr. Littleton's office. The communication was from Dr. Price Mitchell, a physician who had attended Thaw in Monte Carlo. It is not known whether this physician is among the witnesses on the Adriatic or not.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "rising" or "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or surely than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

THAW IN MONTE CARLO.

New York, Jan. 24. — A letter which is not expected to get in evidence was given out by Hugh Herndon, chief clerk in Mr. Littleton's office. The communication was from Dr. Price Mitchell, a physician who had attended Thaw in Monte Carlo. It is not known whether this physician is among the witnesses on the Adriatic or not.

Peterboro to Have a Poultry Association

The poultrymen of Peterborough purpose forming a Poultry Association here, and a movement is now on the tapis to bring matters to such a conclusion. A poultry association is needed here, and the poultrymen will try to get as many fanciers and breeders interested in the proposal as possible. A number of them, including Messrs. R. Lush, R. Robinson, J. O'Kelly, J. Cunningham, R. Wescott, F. Dunnit, J. Eastwood, C. King, R. Ufton, Geo. Pakman and several others were at the Lindsay poultry show this week and state that the affair was a good success.

Defeated at Lindsay

The Peterborough hockey seven journeyed to Lindsay last night and suffered defeat at the hands of the seven of the Sougog Town by 11 goals to 9. The Strathe had a number of the old stalwarts on the line-up.

New in Brief

Toronto, January, 25. — Some ten wholesale merchants in the city of Toronto and Montreal are interested in the operations of two men, who, starting a business at No. 62 Colborne street, in this city, under the name of Morris & Reid have succeeded, it is alleged, in swindling wholesalers out of goods to the extent of several thousand dollars. It is believed they are now in England, and steps are now being taken with the British authorities to trace them.

New York, January 25.—Starting testimony to the effect that the hose used by the New York fire department never had been tested for fear it would burst, was had yesterday from Fire Commissioner Lantry, who appeared as a witness in the enquiry concerning defective hose used in fighting the fire in the Parker building, in which three firemen lost their lives. Commissioner Lantry declared he did not know, when the last test of hose was made, and that there had been no test since he became head of the department. Commissioner Lantry and Fire Chief Croker were the chief witnesses, and their testimony disclosed that the condition of practically all the hose in the department was bad and not safe to use. Commissioner Lantry declared that 41 lengths burst at the Parker building fire a few days ago.

Boston, Mass., January 25. — The army of unemployed of Boston was in a riotous mood Sunday. After being driven from the common by the police, and after permission to hold a meeting on the streets was refused, some of the army under the leadership of Morison I. Swift, forced their way into Trinity Church, the leading Episcopal house of worship in the city, and demanded of Rev. Alexander Mann that the collection for the day be turned over to them.

Their entry created consternation among the wealthy pew holders. Dr. Mann was no less shocked. He promised them the collection next Sunday, but the one yesterday was promised to the foreign missions. Then the army of 2,000 started for the Governor's mansion. The police dispersed them, and they marched to private land, where they tried to hold a meeting, but were again dispersed.

BRITAIN AND EGYPT

Now and again come stories from Egypt that the natives are chafing under British management and are anxious to be allowed to govern themselves. There is in Egypt a general assembly of natives and those who would have a national government for the country urge that finances being on a sound footing and the members of the general assembly educated in approved modern methods of government British might very well gracefully retire, leaving affairs in native hands. But it is hardly likely that Britain will leave Egypt for some time yet, especially in view of recent election results. Few of the candidates for the assembly even in constituencies where there were from 3,000 to 4,000 electors polled, more than one hundred votes. In some divisions not more than one per cent. of the vote was polled, and at one place neither candidates nor electors appeared at all. The much talked of general assembly seems to represent less than nothing.

Burleigh and Anstruther Council

First Meeting of the New Council —Routine Business

A meeting of the newly elected council was held in the Town Hall, Apsley, on Monday, Jan. 13th, 1908.

As the Reeve was absent through illness and a question raised as to the qualification of one of the members, it was decided to adjourn until the 18th, inst., when the members again met in the Town Hall, the Reeve still being too ill to attend. As it was found that Mr. R. Hallis, who had headed the poll, could not qualify, he placed a disclaimer to his seat in the hands of the Clerk and Mr. B. Windsor who had the next highest number of votes took the seat.

All members having taken the required declarations, Mr. I. W. Lean was called to the chair.

Minutes of the last meeting read and adopted.

By-laws appointing Mr. Isaac Lean and Wm. Spence, auditors. Mr. B. Coons Assessor, and Mr. Norman Lean, a member of the Board of Health, received their several readings, were passed sealed and signed by the Chairman and clerk.

Moved by Councillor McCauley, seconded by Councillor Stone, that the following accounts be paid.

H. G. Fitzgerald, supplies for engine	$ 6 75
T. G. Eastland, stamps	2 00
John McCauley, work on road, Mt. Julian	4 00
J. C. Stone, holding election and returning box No. 1	6 60
T. Stevens, holding election and returning box No. 2	6 60
Dr. Bell, express	60
Philip Elmhirst, statute labor J. Elmhirst	3 00
Robert Troter, statute labor O. Peters	2 50
Total	$33 55

The motion was carried.

Moved by Councillor McCauley, seconded by Councillor Stone, that the Peterborough Times receive the printing contract for 1908 on the same terms as last year, viz., $60.00.—Carried.

Council adjourned to meet at call of the Reeve.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

The Record of Bank Failures in Canada

The last bank incident in Toronto took place when the Ontario Bank went into liquidation in October of 1906. The latest statement of the Ontario Bank filed in August, 1906, showed total liabilities at $14,991,479, and total assets at $17,371,862, so that the announcement of the Bank's financial difficulties came somewhat in the nature of a surprise.

On account of the fact that the Bank of Montreal took over the Ontario Bank, there was little panic among the liquidated bank's depositors, and the run on the head office of the Bank of Ontario proved itself to be a very serious matter.

There have been nineteen suspensions of chartered banks in Canada since Confederation, but few of these have been widespread in their effects, and nearly all have paid their depositors in full.

Probably the most disastrous bank failure was that of the Central Bank in 1887, which was largely caused by speculation in stocks, and the directors borrowing so much of the bank's capital that there was nothing left to do business upon. Some of the directors of the Central Bank had an interesting time with the speculators, Mr. A. A. Allan (not Mr. A. A. Allan of the Sovereign Bank,) the manager leaving the country. Most of the directors were sued, and settled, so that the people did not lose their deposits in the long run.

The eighteen suspensions above referred to, and the record of the percentages paid the depositors are as follows:—

1857—Commercial Bank of New Brunswick. Depositors paid in full.

1872—Metropolitan Bank of Montreal. Depositors paid in full.

1879—Mechanics' Bank of Montreal. Depositors paid 67 1-2 per cent.

1879—Consolidated Bank of Montreal. Depositors paid in full.

1879—Bank of Liverpool, N. S.

1879—Gladacona Bank of Quebec. Depositors paid in full.

1879—Exchange Bank of Canada. Depositors paid 66 1-2 per cent.

1879—Maritime Bank of St. John, N. B. Depositors paid 10 6-10 per cent.

1887—Pictou Bank, N. S. Depositors paid in full.

1887—Bank of London, London, Ont. Depositors paid in full.

1887—Central Bank.

1888—Federal Bank. Depositors paid in full.

1888—Bank of Prince Edward Island.

1895—Commercial Bank of Manitoba. Depositors paid in full.

1895—Banque du Peuple, Depositors paid 75 1-4 per cent.

1895—Banque Ville Marie.

1908—Bank of Yarmouth.

1908—Ontario Bank.

It is a rather remarkable fact that no less than six banks failed in 1879.

The New York Tribune Almanac

Of course it is possible to worry through life without keeping a Tribune Almanac at your elbow, but is it worth while—does it pay? For 25 cents a year this publication supplies you with a really marvellous amount of information, and the man who has it is an authority in his neighborhood. He doesn't have to be "guessing" or "supposing" about election pluralities, the names of Cabinet Ministers, Senators, Congressmen, Governors or Judges. He doesn't have to depend upon his memory when anything comes up about the big events of the preceding year or in relation to our army or navy, or sporting records, or, in fact, almost anything else of record worth knowing. If you have never examined The Tribune Almanac just invest a quarter for one, and see how well pleased you'll be. The 1908 one will be on sale January 1, and may be had from your newsdealer, through your local paper or direct from The Tribune Office, New York.

It is reported that a new race track is to be built at Venice, a suburb of Los Angeles, Cal. Tim Sullivan and many eastern men are interested.

Considering different ethical attitudes, England has a licensed trainer of race horses who is also a regularly ordained minister of the gospel, and he has not found it necessary to resign his church living and dispose of his old tools either.

It was announced recently that another motor boat race to Bermuda for the Bennett Challenge cup will be started from Gravesend bay, New York, on June 6 next. It is open to all seaworthy motor craft not more than seventy feet over all that comply with certain conditions for safety.

Soap of the Hindoos.

The only soap which the Hindoos of the orthodox type employ is made entirely of vegetable products. But soap is little used in India, being almost an unknown luxury with the natives.

Gypsy Musicians.

Though there are many gypsies in England, the United States and other nations, it is in Roumania, Hungary and Russia that they are chiefly found, their numbers in that part of Europe being placed at 500,000. Many of them are capable musicians. The gypsy players of Hungary are famous. In that country gypsies are called "Tsiganes." The French call them "Bohemians," from which fact comes the use of that word to describe the care free life of idlers.

Plain Face?

Your doctor understands the formula of Ayer's Hair Vigor. Ask him about your using it. Do as he says. He knows.

Did nature give you a plain face? What of it? Make your hair so handsome that every one will forget your face. Make them talk only of the softness, richness, and marvelous beauty of your hair. Ayer's Hair Vigor, "the new kind," does not color the hair.

THE THERMOMETER.

It Was Invented by a Poor Man Who Had Failed as a Merchant.

There is one little instrument in which the interest of all classes of people in this country never diminishes through all the changing seasons of the year, from the first day of January to the last day of December. It regulates the business pulse of the nation and is the shrine to which men of all occupations turn. And this little instrument is the thermometer, which bears the name of Fahrenheit.

Before the seventeenth century men could only judge of the amount of heat prevailing at any place by their personal sensations and could only speak of the weather in a very indefinite way as hot or very hot, cold or very cold. In that century several attempts were made by scientific experimenters by means of tubes containing oil, spirits of wine and other substances to establish a satisfactory means of measuring heat, but none of them proved successful. Even Sir Isaac Newton, who applied his great mind to this work, and also the noted astronomer, Halley, failed in their attempts to produce a heat measure.

It was reserved to Gabriel Daniel Fahrenheit, an obscure and poor man, a native of Dantzig, to give to the world the instrument which has proved to be so serviceable to mankind. He had failed in business as a merchant and, having a taste for mechanics and chemistry, began a series of experiments for the production of thermometers. At first he made these instruments with alcohol, but soon became convinced that the semisolid mercury was a more suitable article to use in the glass tube.

Fahrenheit had removed from Dantzig to Amsterdam, and there about the year 1720 he made the mercury thermometer which has ever since been fashioned much like the original.

The basis of his plan was to mark on the tube the two points respectively at which water is congealed and boiled and to graduate the space between. He began with an arbitrary marking, beginning with 32 degrees, because he found that the mercury descended 32 degrees more before coming to what he thought the extreme cold resulting from a mixture of ice, water and sal ammoniac. In 1724 he published a distinct treatise on the subject of his experiments and the conclusions that had resulted therefrom.

Celsius of Stockholm soon after suggested the more rational graduation of a hundred degrees between freezing and boiling point. This was the centigrade thermometer. Reaumur proposed another graduation which has been accepted by the French, but by far the largest part of the civilized world Fahrenheit's scale has been accepted and used, with 32 degrees as freezing, 55 degrees as temperate, 96 degrees as blood heat and 212 degrees as boiling point.

It is true that the zero of Fahrenheit's scale is a solecism since it does not mark the extreme to which heat can be abstracted. This little blemish, however, does not seem to have been of any practical consequence.

Arctic explorers have persisted in describing temperatures below the zero of Fahrenheit, and scientists have produced artificially temperatures far below any ever dreamed of by the thermometer maker of Amsterdam. There is doubt as to the year of the death of Fahrenheit, but it is generally placed in 1740.

Sun Power.

There is one source to which all minds revert when this question is mentioned, a source most promising and yet one which has so far eluded the investigator. The sun on a clear day delivers upon each square yard of the earth's surface the equivalent of approximately two horsepower of mechanical energy working continuously. If even a fraction of this power could be transformed into mechanical or electrical energy and stored it would be the world's work. Here is power delivered at our very doors without cost. How to store the energy so generously furnished and keep it on tap for future use is the problem. That the next half century will see some solution thereof, either chemical or otherwise, seems likely.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Minna Reed almost ran down the steps from the house bearing the sign "Mme. Voirsi, Clairvoyant." The lady's communications had upset all her preconceived plans and ideas. Her mother had always opposed her trying anything of the kind, but when she saw the sign an overwhelming desire to inquire into things unknown had beset her. The rest of the party had gone down to the beach, and after staying in her room at the summer hotel for an hour with a headache she had slipped out to buy a fascinating kimono she had seen in a Japanese store the day before. The clairvoyant's sign had caught her eye, and for a whole hour she had sat in the darkened, stuffy little room with her nerves all at strained attention.

She went back to her room and, walking straight to the dresser, looked regretfully at the picture of a frank boyish face surrounded by a little plain gold frame.

"I never would have thought it," she whispered. "I thought you were the truest, noblest thing on earth. And she said the man with black eyes, now one of my circle of acquaintances, was deceitful to the core and that if I did not separate his path from mine he would prove the blighting sorrow of my life. Jimmy, dear, it seems impossible to believe you could bring sorrow into any one's life, but it must have been you she meant, for you are the only man of my acquaintance who has b-black eyes." And, being only nineteen and believing she had come face to face with the big sorrow of her life, she threw herself across the bed and sobbed because she felt that she must immediately take steps to separate Jimmy Kent's path from hers—Jimmy, who had lent her his red ball to play with the very first day she went to kindergarten.

James Kent, unconscious of the heavy cloud of suspicion hovering over him, came from his ocean swim and lay idly on the sand, hoping Minna would get over her headache and walk down to the beach. Finally, sunburned and glowing, he went back to the hotel and found her on the veranda, gazing listlessly at the sea.

"Is it as bad as all that, little girl? You are the most forlorn looking specimen I ever saw," he said as he sat on the porch rail and eyed her commiseratingly.

Minna, seeing the sympathy in his eyes, wished fervently that they were any other color than black.

"What on earth made you have black eyes, Jimmy? I dislike them so!" she said petulantly.

Jimmy opened the offending orbs very wide in his surprise.

"By Jove, you are a queer one, Minna! You told me yesterday down on the beach that I had the most beautiful eyes you ever saw. Positively made me blush to know I was so beautiful. 'Fraid to sleep in them last night lest I should spoil 'em. And now—Minna, you haven't met any fellow with gray eyes, have you?" he asked suspiciously.

"No, I haven't," indignantly, "but black eyes are treacherous—and—I never could trust them."

Whether they were treacherous or not was left an open question, but they certainly proved persuasive, and finally Jimmy was in possession of the whole story.

"Minna Reed, you ought to be ashamed of yourself! Do I look like a blighting sorrow?" mimicking her forlorn tone. "I might be mistaken for a prize fighter," exhibiting his muscular arm with pride, "but I'm blamed if I'd know how to start out in the blighting sorrow business."

Minna, anxious to believe, still looked dubious.

"If your eyes only weren't black!" she sighed.

"Now, look here, my child. I'd get a special act of congress to change them to suit you if I could. You know I've done everything to please you all my life. Why will you believe that utter rot? Did she tell you anything tangible that you absolutely know was true?" Jimmy was in training for a lawyer and wanted to contest all evidence in the case.

"She told me my name and age," triumphantly.

"Didn't you have to write it on a piece of paper first?" suspiciously.

"Y-yes, but she didn't see it—honestly she didn't. I folded it tightly and put it on the table, and she sat and toyed with it while she talked."

"The mischief she didn't see it!" growled Jimmy. "Anything else?"

"She said I had an Aunt Mary in the spirit land that was trying to guide me," hesitatingly.

"See there! You never had an Aunt Mary in your life! It's all plain humbug." Jimmy spoke with the satisfaction of one willing to leave his case in the hands of an intelligent jury.

"No, I never had, but mamma had, and the clairvoyant said aunts and great-aunts were all the same in the spirit world."

Jimmy positively groaned with disgust.

"She might safely hit on an Aunt Mary. Nearly everybody living has an aunt or great-aunt or great-great-great-aunt Mary. But she had no business fooling with my eyes."

He sat sulkily silent, then grinned with a thought that made him wonder if he would not some day bear to the realms of the metaphysical the same relation that Edison bears to things physical.

"Young woman, I would not take a hopeless verdict upon my eyes from any one oculist. Neither will I have them condemned by any one clairvoyant. I demand a consultation. If I get the party together, will you go to another clairvoyant this evening?" he demanded.

"I would be so glad to find that the first one was mistaken," she said fervently.

It was a very busy evening for Mr. Kent. Finally he found a seeress sufficiently good natured and pliable to fill his requirements.

"Remember, you are to entirely free her mind from the idea. I'll send her in third. You couldn't fail to know her anyway. She's the prettiest one in the bunch. It's cheap at $10, and if she gets over her fear of black eyes, by Jove, I'll send you another tenner tomorrow." And Mme. Ardetta, enthusiastic under the powerful stimulus, promised to do her best.

That night when the moon cast a long path of light over the waves a couple sat far down the beach in a spot removed from the crowd.

"She told me my name without my writing it!" Minna said in awed tones. "She is simply wonderful! Said for me never to have any confidence in fakes that made me write questions and fold them on a table; that they had blank papers folded just like them, and when they were toying with the ones I wrote that they would substitute the blank one and leave it on the table and fake mine in their hand under the edge of the table and read it. That's exactly what that first woman must have done. I've lost faith in her entirely, and, Jimmy, boy, she said that the only person I need avoid and be suspicious of was a blond man with a Vandyke beard."

Young Mr. Kent stroked his beardless chin. "Thank heaven I haven't a blond Vandyke," he said piously. "Did she tell you anything about—er—me?" he asked cautiously.

"Not exactly, but she said that my real affinity was—was a man I had known since childhood."

"Now, that," said Mr. Kent, with great gratification, "suits me exactly. I'd rather be called an affinity any day than a blighting sorrow." He joyfully possessed himself of the girl's hands, and she had evidently lost all fear of treachery.

Afterward, with her head resting comfortably against his tweed shoulder, she spoke musingly, "She said that the greatest trial of her life was that there were so many fakes that brought discredit upon her glorious profession."

"Never you mind, little girl; I'm not so easily imposed upon, and you'll have me with you all through life to help pick out the real article," and the treacherous Mr. Kent lifted her face until he could look adoringly into it.

The moon, as if by special contract, came from under a cloud at just the right moment, and she saw his expression.

"Jimmy, I don't believe any one else ever had such wonderfully honest eyes," she said happily.

THE NIGHTINGALE.

Coleridge's Defense of the Songster as Not a Melancholy Bird.

The traditional view of the nightingale's song is supremely given in the familiar lyric by Richard Barnefield. Here the poet finds the forlorn bird, with "her breast up-till a thorn," earnestly pouring forth her melodious sorrow. Milton in his juvenile sonnet apostrophizes the ineffable singer as giving forth notes that portend success in love, and when he comes to describe sober pleasures in "Il Penseroso" he appropriately finds the same strains "most musical, most melancholy." Against this Coleridge enters a vigorous protest in "The Nightingale: a Conversation Poem," characteristically advancing in the following passage a general truth and a specific criticism:

A melancholy bird? Oh, idle thought!
In nature there is nothing melancholy.
But some night wandering man whose heart was pierced
With the remembrance of a grievous wrong
Or all w distemper or neglected love
And so, poor wretch, filled all things with himself
And made all gentle sounds tell back the tale
Of his own sorrow), he, and such as he,
First named these notes a melancholy strain.

Annotating this, the poet further illustrates his philosophic acuteness and takes the opportunity of expressing his loyalty to his eminent poetical predecessor. "This passage in Milton," the note runs, "possesses an excellence far superior to that of mere description. It is spoken in the character of the melancholy man and has therefore a dramatic propriety. The author makes this remark to rescue himself from the charge of having alluded with levity to a line in Milton, a charge than which none could be more painful to him except perhaps that of having ridiculed his Bible."

In a letter to Christopher North, Wordsworth refers to the "false notions" regarding the nightingale's song and expresses his belief that Coleridge's poem, with its theory that "in nature there is nothing melancholy," will in all likelihood "contribute greatly to rectify these." In his own poem "Enterprise" he touches on the same point and alludes to the nightingale as "the sweet bird, misnamed the melancholy." It is hardly necessary to add that Keats in his great ode "To a Nightingale" rises to exquisite rapture over the happiness manifested in the singing of the "light winged dryad of the trees."—London Notes and Queries.

Charged with Stealing

London, Jan. 21.— In the Marlborough street police court to-day Countess Louise Giusso, wife of a leading Italian banker, residing here and a member of of a well known family, was charged with shoplifting in a Regent street department store. The countess, a handsome woman of 40, fashionably dressed, sat near her solicitor listening to the story of how she had been caught with $60 worth of articles, including a cigaret holder and a necklace concealed in her muff.

One of the assistants testified that the countess said, when apprehended:—

"Let me go—forgive me. I did not mean to steal. I had no money with which to pay."

When taken back into the shop the countess said she was of noble family and pleaded with the superintendent to verify her story at the Italian embassy. As only 60 cents was found in her purse the story was ridiculed, and the police were called.

The countess was released on $1,000 bail. The Giusso family is wealthy.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn hair growths back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this horrid-ones much dreaded disease. Those mad-like grannlar wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb". Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

Autos Moved $2,500,000 in Cash

New York, Jan. 23.—In two swift automobiles, each containing a uniformed policeman, $2,500,000 in notes and silver were transported Saturday to the Hamilton Bank in Harlem, which resumed business under a new directorship Monday.

It was necessary for the Hamilton Bank to have on hand bills of all denominations from $1 to $100, as well as silver. The humble cent in great numbers, was an essential quota. It required more time to count these than all the rest combined. Five error-proof clerks counted the huge bulk with nimble fingers. Piled on the floor were hundreds of bundles of bills, and on desks and chairs other packages, each containing a sum that might relieve the necessities of a family for a year.

Make Your Money Work

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, in convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This, stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Fancy Dress Carnival Postponed

The fancy dress carnival that was to have been given last night at the Radial Railway Company's rink has been postponed until Tuesday. A concurrence of unfavorable weather conditions, heavy snow following in a remarkable thaw, again succeeded by a quick and severe frost, imperilling the change. Everything points toward's Tuesday night's carnival being a worker, and the cars will probably be laden to their utmost capacity. Still arrangements will be made to handle the traffic with satisfaction to all. One point is that the carnival will be closely policed, so that good order will be in evidence as though the event were held in a private house. Full particulars in the Times Wednesday morning.

Mayor Rush's Gift Appreciated

Possibly as a result of the great musical talent display by by members of the local fire brigade at their recital on Tuesday evening, but also as a patriotic desire to assist a local company, Mayor Rush has contributed $25, towards the piano fund of the new fire hall. Mayor Rush's letter to the fire brigade is as follows:

It gives me great pleasure to enclose you my cheque for $25.00 towards your Piano Fund. I was delighted and surprised to know that you have such musical talent in your midst, and I assure you I appreciate your hospitality and the good-will you extended to me last night, not forgetting the good chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Gentlemen, you are doing and you have done splendid work, and I have not the slightest doubt but that you will continue so to do. Peterborough may well be proud of its fire brigade, and I wish you one and all every happiness and prosperity.

Yours very truly,
B. RUSH.

Peterborough, Jan. 22, 1908.

The brigade wish to thank His Worship the Mayor for his handsome gift, and can assure him that his kind words of praise for the good work done is a greater satisfaction to us, and we hope we will continue to merit His Worship's good opinion and that of the public. "Ever Ready" is our motto.

On behalf of the brigade.
T. RUTHERFORD,
Chief.

Change in Fire Alarm Boxes?

As of late, boys with a better developed bump of mischief than with a sense of their responsibility, such matters have been in the habit of breaking the glass in the various fire alarm boxes and stealing the key, Mr. Packenham of the fire hall recommends that a glass box be placed on the alarm box itself, and the key inserted in the lock, so that it could not be taken away.

Interesting Local Billiard Game

An interesting game of three ball billiards was watched yesterday afternoon in Mr. M. Pappas's pool rooms. The game involved fifty points, and was played by two well known professional men, a capitalist and a well known merchant. The "sides" included the capitalist and a professional man against the merchant and the other professional man. Honors were even until the last point when the merchant and professional combination won by one point. The toss of a quarter between the losing combination settled the "per hour" charges. Fully sixty people watched the game.

Peterboro Business College Changes Hands

The Peterborough Business College, successfully operated by the late Mr. William Pringle, has been purchased by Mr. George Spotton, of Wingham, Ont., who is recognized in Western Ontario as one of the finest exponents of commercial training. Mr. Spotton is the principal of business colleges at Wingham, Clinton, Wiarton, Orangeville and Goderich, and his schools are best advertised by the success of their graduates and the opinions expressed by them.

The sale of the plant and good will was made through Mr. G. M. Rogers, solicitor for the late Mr. Pringle, and the price paid by Mr. Spotton was $3,000. No change will be made in the teaching staff. The teachers who were engaged by Mr. Pringle will remain at their posts. Mr. J. A. McKone, who for the last three years has been in charge of Mr. Spotton's school at Orangeville, will be in charge as chief commercial master. Mr. Spotton himself will spend a good deal of time in the city for the first few months.

There will be some improvements made in the college, the principal change being the installing of a telegraphing room which will be a new branch of business college work here.

"Coffee Grunters"

Ever See One?

"I had used coffee ever since I was a small child", writes an Ind. lady, "and have always had bad spells with my stomach.

"Last spring just after I began housekeeping, I had a terrible time with my stomach and head. My husband bought a package of Postum and asked me to try it.

"I laughed at it because none of my folks would ever try it. But I made some the following morning, following directions on the package, about boiling it well.

"I was greatly pelased with the results and kept right on using it. Now I wouldn't drink anything else. I tell every old coffee "grunter" I see, about Postum, and all my folks and my husband's people except a few cranks, use Postum instead of Coffee.

"When put to soak in cold water over night and then boiled 15 minutes in the morning while getting breakfast it makes a delicious drink."

Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also advised it for my daughter who was so ill with prostration that she could not follow her trade of dressmaking. A bottle of Peruna made such a change in her that she has been able to follow her business ever since.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."

MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of catarrh. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the 'grip.'

Splendid Remedy For La Grippe.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 213 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:

"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."

La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systemic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.

Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the 'grip.'

Prompt Relief.

Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneiska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

DEADLOCK IN PARLIAMENT OVER RIGHT TO ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS

Sir Wilfrid Promises to Make a Statement Today

Foster Gave Game Away

Ottawa, Jan. 25. — On Monday Premier Laurier will make his promised statement bearing on the right of the opposition members to have access to original documents. It is expected that he will concede the contention, but will do it in such a way that his supporters will claim there has been no surrender.

In this connection the story is being told that Sir Wilfrid himself has been anxious to produce the papers required by Mr. Ames, but that Mr. Oliver was elaborate and threatened to resist even to the point of resignation. That there has been a great change in Sir Wilfrid's attitude is plain. He was willing to compromise, but the opposition caucus on Friday decided to refuse to vote a dollar for the King's business till there had been a complete backdown on this nasty question.

At any rate, Monday will tell the tale. If Sir Wilfrid produces the original documents there will be no further obstruction, but the spectacle of parliament sitting in continuous session from Tuesday afternoon till Saturday night may be repeated. "On Monday next when the tempers of the gentlemen on both sides of the House have cooled down, I will have a statement to make," declared Sir Wilfrid in the House on Saturday.

THE DEADLOCK.

Ottawa, Jan. 24. — The deadlock over the original documents' question is not over yet. The opposition are keeping up their determined fight to refuse supplies to His Majesty's Government on the grounds of their supposed grievance, and though they unexpectedly threw up the sponge on the debate on W. F. Northrup's academical amendment to the motion to go into supply they to-night continued their campaign of obstruction and refused to pass any of the estimates of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The opposition members have been told off into shifts, which will keep working till further notice. All kinds of foolish and irrelevant questions were asked with the view of killing time and delaying the voting of supplies.

Mr. Foster gave the game of the opposition away when he made the remark to the Finance Minister in the afternoon, after the vote to go into supply had been carried, "It is one thing to go into supply and another thing to get it." The government had the right to adjourn the House to avoid another night session. Mr. Fielding moved the adjournment at 11 o'clock

After speeches by Messrs. Crockett, Blain, Reid and Armstrong at 5.15 a vote was taken. The government was sustained in a straight party majority of 44, the vote standing 90 to 64 on the amendment of Mr. W. F. Northrup (Conservative), which read: "Subject to such consideration of the public policy as can be validly urged in any case, members of parliament have the right to have access to all the records of the government and to all the archives."

HON. SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Japs Bring Pressure on Government to Break Agreement

Tokio, Jan. 25.—The programme for to-day's session of the Diet, including the speech of Foreign Minister Viscount Hayashi regarding the immigration question, was suddenly changed and the speech was postponed until Jan. 30, when it is expected that Viscount Hayashi will outline definitely the plans of the government for the restriction of emigration to the United States and Canada. It is understood that the postponement was due to the fact that a reply from the U. S. Government to the last memorandum from Japan was expected to be handed to the Foreign Office this afternoon.

Since the delivery of its last memorandum, the Japanese Government has issued the most stringent instructions to all governors and other officials concerning the regulation of future immigration along the lines of the future definite policy of restriction, which includes the prevention of emigration of laborers to the United States and Canada except under given conditions which will be satisfactory to the governments of both of those countries. No laborers will be permitted to emigrate to Mexico.

Evidence of the determination of the Japanese Government is shown by the official order issued to emigration companies to-day, wherein all emigration to the Hawaiian Islands is absolutely prohibited except in the case of relatives of Japanese already residing there.

The order bearing on emigration to the Hawaiian Islands has created consternation among the emigration companies, who expected to institute a virulent attack upon the Foreign Office policy in this respect. Viscount Hayashi, however, is determined not to yield, and says that the Japanese Government having given a promise will not recede from it regardless of political pressure.

Heating Company Is In Trouble

The Berlin News-Record contains the following:—

"Considerable anxiety has been caused among the customers of the District Steam Heating Company by an unwarranted statement published in an evening paper, which declared liquidation.

"It is a fact that the plant has not been a money-maker up to the present. A director of the company when asked for a statement to-day gave it willingly. He said there are faults in the construction of the plant that will have to be overhauled and remedied before the plant will be a profit-yielding project. These changes will be made.

"The company has a bond issued and it was proposed to pay the contractors with the proceeds from the sale of the bonds. But in the condition of the money market it has been impossible to dispose of them. The creditors have been pressing for their money and the company does not desire to make an assignment, as that would mean practically a cessation of operation. It is altogether likely that application will be made at Toronto for the appointment of a receiver. This would mean that the service will go on without any let up for the season and then there will likely be a sale or reorganization."

It is understood that several mistakes were made by the Company, particularly in the equipment. The financing of the property has been a heavy task and the outsiders are said to have "fallen down". Local stockholders, seem determined to go on and make good all promises given when the franchise was secured.

Hanged, but is Alive --Cut Down in Time --To Face Noose Again

Dothan, Ala., Jan. 25.—Grover Franklin, the negro who was hanged to a tree by a mob of 300 masked men on Sunday night, is now in the hands of the legal authorities, alive, and will probably survive to be hanged again, this time by the law.

The circumstances concerning this case of attempted lynching are unusual. Franklin was seized on Sunday night at about 8 o'clock by the mob. The night before he had been caught robbing a cash drawer of the mill of a cotton oil company where he was employed. On being found he shot and seriously wounded A. C. Faulk, the secretary-treasurer of the company. The negro then fled.

He was shortly afterwards pursued by Sheriff Butler and a force of deputies. The man was finally captured by them and taken to jail.

TAKEN FROM JAIL BY MOB.

The remainder of Saturday night and all of Sunday until evening he passed behind the bars. In the meantime word of the attack on Mr. Faulk had run through the community. Faulk is a man of wide popularity, with many friends, and it was determined by some of these that the negro was not to be allowed to remain alive until the law could try to hang him, in the event of Mr. Faulk's death, which is considered likely to occur.

Three or four of Faulk's closest friends, accordingly, began the formation of a mob of determined men who could be depended upon to wrest Franklin from the grasp of the sheriff. Two hundred men, heavily armed and masked with black face cloths, were finally assembled. They rode to the jail and demanded the prisoner. In the face of such a force the sheriff was powerless and the negro was seized by the mob.

CUT DOWN IN TIME.

He was dragged to the northern part of the town shrieking for mercy all the while. There he was given two minutes to make his peace with God, and then he was swung up to the limb of a large tree. In the meantime Sheriff Butler had gathered a force of his deputies, reinforced by a few law-abiding citizens, and his body was in hot pursuit. The members of the mob, therefore, hurriedly remounted their horses, fired a volley of shots at the negro—riddling him, as they believed,—and dashed away.

On the arrival of the sheriff the negro was cut down. It was found that he was still alive. He was at once removed to a hospital, where it is to-day declared that he has a good chance for recovery. Faulk's condition is very serious. If he dies and the negro recovers Faulk's wife, in all probability, once more undergo the experience of being hanged.

SIGNS WHICH POINT TO EARLY ELECTION

Ottawa, Jan. 25—Signs are multiplying that the country is on the eve of a general election.

The announcement that the Government has decided to advance four million dollars to the farmers of Saskatchewan and Alberta to finance their seeding operations is one of the largest indications.

But there are others. The supplementary estimates, it is said, will bulk more largely than any previous work of Finance Minister Fielding, and the "interests" of the constituencies will be well looked after.

On the east, the government has made a big bid for the support of the shipping industries by rescinding the privileges of the Norwegian steamers to ply their coastwise trade between Canada ports.

In British Columbia the big fight will be on the immigration question, and the Government will claim support by reason of the arrangement made with Viscount Hayashi, Japanese Foreign Minister.

What help the Premier expects to get in Manitoba will depend upon the boundaries bill which is to come later in the session. Will he continue to oppose the claims of Premier Roblin?

Quebec will not be forgotten when the ante-election favors are passed around.

Ontario will get post offices, harbor improvements and other public works.

Both sides expect an appeal soon after the session. Because of this the members are making preparations for a long siege. Opposition orities are busy digging material out of the blue books, and there will be no letup to the assault that is to be made on the administration.

Daring Escape of Dr. Farmano Lopez from Portuguese Prison

London, Jan. 26.—A despatch has been received here from Lisbon, saying that Dr. Farmano Lopez, who was connected with the recent conspiracy to blow up Premier Franco with a bomb, made a daring escape to-day from the San Julio Prison, a strong fortress at the mouth of the Tagus River.

Because of the high social position Dr. Lopez, permission was given a party of his friends to visit him in prison. This party went to the fortress in a motor car. As the automobile drew up in front of the prison a terrific explosion was heard. The commander of the prison, after a brief investigation, ordered that the party be detained, and guards were placed around the fortress. A further examination was then made, but no explanation of the explosion could be found. The visitors were then allowed to depart in their motor car.

It was learned later that Dr. Lopez had escaped during the confusion following the explosion. Some one had passed him keys through the grating of the window to his cell. With these he unlocked the door and joined his friends. He is supposed to have gone away in the motor car disguised with heavy rimmed motor glasses and a big coat.

Lisbon, Jan. 26. — The government to-day issued a statement declaring that it believes the maintenance of order in Portugal is assured.

Sir Wm. Van Horne Back from Cuba

SIR WM. VAN HORNE

Very Optimistic Regarding the Future of the Island

The New Railway

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Sir William Van Horne, chairman of the Board of Directors, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has arrived in Montreal, accompanied by Lady Van Horne and Miss Van Horne, who have been spending the last week in New York.

Sir William is just back from a three weeks trip to Cuba, where he went to look after his interests on that Island. Speaking of conditions there he said that the situation was very similar to that of the United States and Canada. Trade, however, is good, and the prospects are for lots of development in the country in the near future.

Sir William is optimistic regarding the financial situation of the country and is looking for an improvement in the near future. The stringency in the money market has had a far reaching effect but conditions are becoming better and the C. P. R. magnate in common with other business men hopes for brighter times shortly.

A NEW RAILWAY.

A project in which Sir William is very much interested is the Guatemalan Northern Railway, a new road that was just opened about two weeks ago and that will in many ways entirely revolutionize the trade of that country. This road was started many years ago by the Government, and for lack of funds was never completed, but about four years ago it was handed over to the present company, of which Sir William Van Horne and Mr. Minor C. Keith, of New Orleans, are the heads, to complete, with the result that Guatemala now has a road from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The new road runs from the Gulf of Mexico to Guatemala City, and at Port Barrios connects with the Guatemala Central running on to the Pacific, thus affording a route clear across Central America.

TRIP SHORTENED.

Speaking of this new road this morning, Sir William said that it would be of immense importance in developing the resources of the country. Where formerly Guatemala was a month away from New York, the length of time that will now be required to make the trip is only five or six days.

At the east the coffee plantations have been the chief source of revenue in the country, but Sir William says that the people are beginning to raise more fruit, particularly bananas, and that in a short time it will be one of the factors in the world's supply.

Already there are many banana plantations along the line of the new road, and in a short time the shipments from this Central American country will be very heavy.

POLICE

County Police Magistrate Edmison held a special session of his court Saturday morning when Charles and Frank Hedley were acquitted of the charge of forging a note which Mr. Chas. Armstrong, of Havelock, cashed. This is the cheque drawn by the Lakefield Lumber Co. for $1 40 and raised by a young man who pleaded guilty some days ago to $51.40.

Mr. John Adlum Offers a Good Suggestion

Stone Breakers Would Give the City Better Results for Its Money

On Saturday morning Mr. John Adlum, an old time employee of the city, was in conversation with other city employes and citizens in general and made use of an argument that is well worth consideration by the civic authorities.

Talking of the hard times now too plainly in evidence all over the country, and also of the large number of unemployed English immigrants who are not skilled workmen, but willing to earn an honest living, Mr. Adlum recalled certain conditions under the late Mayor Thomas Cahill, when Mr. Pope was street commissioner. It seems that a number of men were engaged in breaking stone for the city and it was noticed that whilst working their best, ignorance of the "knack" of doing this class of work, unsatisfactory results were accomplished. Mr. Pope sent Mr. Adlum, who learned the art of breaking stone on the roads of England, before coming to Canada, to the yard to show the men how to break stone to best advantage. Mr. Adlum claimed that very marked gains were made in the output of the city's broken stone at once.

If his remarks are well founded, and he were again sent to teach the city stone breakers the trick of getting the best results it would mean a saving to the city and furnish a means of employment for men in the city.

The Ocean Rate War

Toronto, Jan. 27.—The rates on the Canadian steamship lines, westbound, have been cut down. On the C. P. R. Liners the second cabin rates on the Empress steamers have been reduced from $45 to $36.25, and the steerage rates from $20.5 to $17.50.

On the Lake Erie and Lake Champlain steamers the second cabin rates are changed from $42.50 to $31.25, and the steerage $27.50 to $16.25, and on the Lake Manitoba the second cabin rates have been reduced from $37.50 to $30, and steerage from $27.50 to $16.25. These rates are only good to the end of March.

Tales of Thaw on Broadway which Have Not Come Out in Trial

New York, Jan. 26. — In the doldrums again in the Thaw trial. The "long experts" are to be here, remarks Karl Decker in the Telegraph. He writes as follows:

All day Thursday we listened to old Dr. Brainstorm while he told of Thaw's refugee and of that young man's attempt to repeat the charming little classicism, "Round and round the rugged rock the rugged rascal ran"

There was also testimony as to Mr. Thaw's inability to repeat "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers; where the peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked?"

Also it was testified that Mr. Thaw did not succeed well with "She sells sea-shells" himself. Something of pity for Thaw was expressed in the faces of the jury as they considered what he must have gone through at the hands of the experts.

Thanks be, the "bug testimony" is to be limited. Only three experts on each side are to be permitted to testify. Just how they are to be selected remains to be decided. Mr. Littleton has produced two of his experts and it has been suggested that he arrange a series of unlimited two-ounce glove bouts for the others on the list, the winner to take the stand and the gate money.

If the expert testimony had been confined to our expert on each side all the requirements would have been fulfilled. Nothing would have been lost to either side if this expert testimony had been eliminated entirely.

AUDIENCE WAITS WEARILY.

Expert testimony in cases of this sort is rapidly taking the same place with handwriting expert testimony. There is hardly a man in this country likely to be called to serve upon a jury who would consent to accept handwriting testimony as conclusive. The time is rapidly approaching when the testimony of insanity experts will be regarded in the same way.

But Thursday the entomologists crooked along for hours, while a tired audience sat wearily waiting for something to turn up. Early in the game Justice Dowling set fire to the underbrush and sent the Bob Squad fleeing to the outer corridors, because the expert testimony was not fit for their fair, orange-hued young ears to hear.

As soon as it became noised abroad that the Sympathy Platoon had been excluded scores of men who had never before shown any evidence of interest in the trial, attendants of other courts and policemen in plain clothes, made a wild break for the courtroom, and fought valiantly until they obtained entrance.

Outside the court room the Bob Squad drilled for an hour or more, going through the manual of bobs for practice.

Inside the court room the experts told of the unpleasant revelations following Thaw's physical examination. It was not particularly entertaining. The fact that Thaw's leg flickered when they smacked him over the patella with a baseball bat may be regarded as of great importance by the jury, and then again it may not.

After all this jury is quite likely to be influenced by its own observations rather than by the expert testimony.

Harry Thaw has been regarded as "dippy" by Broadway for years before he killed Stanford White.

PRETTY RESTAURANT HABITS.

Witnesses could have been found for instance, who could have told of Thaw's trick of pulling the tablecloth off a table at Jack's and scattering a large and varied assortment of food and dishes over the floor. Others could have told of the habit of smashing dishes and glasses in public restaurants and of his walking through a glass door one night just for the sensation of the thing.

It could also be told of him that it was his favorite trick to arise in his imaginary mirth and announce that he could lick all the waiters in Jack's.

After that any jury knowing the fighting quality of the waiters in Jack's would be ready to declare Thaw insane.

But instead of testimony of this sort, witnesses are dragged here from all quarters of the earth, and after spending an hour telling where, when and how they met Thaw, are asked to describe his condition.

"His eyes were glaring and bulging out," is one of the set forms never deviated from by the witnesses for the defence.

Another is, "His eyes were staring, popped out."

"Did he appear rational or irrational?" asks Mr. Littleton ponderously.

"Irrational," squeaks the witness.

And it's really a great murder trial, not a sketch in one at Hallenmmrrstein's.

However, the semi-editorial stories of the trial are beginning to be marked by something of sameness.

Nixola Greeley Smith of the Evening World was one of the first deserters. Last year she simply splashed through her own journalistic gush. For the last week she has been looking at Evelyn, the "angel child," and Harry Thaw, the "Sir Galahad," through tired eyes. They don't seem to appeal to her any longer as they did in the days of her youthful enthusiasm, when she wanted everybody to turn in and liberate Thaw at once and to build an alabaster pedestal on which to place the "pallid chevalier."

JUICE ALL SQUEEZED OUT.

The fellows made the mistake of printing the testimony in the last trial along with the editorial gush, and the readers of these freaks of newspaperdom read the testimony rather than the slop and drew their own conclusions.

The American, for instance, has had the good sense to permit Lillian Bell to cut loose with what she really thinks of the trial instead of what some cap-headed, roll-top-surrounded Philadelphia imitator of a managing editor thinks he thinks of the case.

As a result those who have read what Lillian Bell has had to say have learned something of the actual aspect of the Thaw trial.

Obituary

The many friends of Mrs. F. Foy will regret to learn of her death which occurred in Nicholls Hospital Saturday night at 9.30 after a short illness.

The deceased was 32 years of age. She was born in West Brock in 1876, and was a daughter of Mrs. T. Tucker, 87 Hunter street. Besides her sorrowing mother, six sisters and three brothers are left to mourn her loss.

The remains will be taken to the G. T. R. station this evening and conveyed to Sunderland on the 5.38 train, where interment will take place.

Much sympathy will be extended to the remaining members of the family in their sad bereavement.

Quaker Oats to Consider Another Building

It is expected owing to constantly increasing demands for their products, the Quaker Oats Co. will this year once more add a considerable enlargement to their huge mills here. They are considering the erection of a building to the south of the elevator and on the vacant property belonging to the company to the north of the large building. If the plans considered are carried out it will be almost 200 feet in length and four storeys high and will be built of brick.

Canadian Cheese

No Truth in Statement That Our Cheese is Bad

Editor Morning Times:

Sir,—Mr. Geo. H. Barr, a member of my staff, who was Official Referee of Butter and Cheese at Montreal last season, in speaking of his work at the recent Dairy Convention held at Picton, Ont., made the statement that "only 1 per cent. of the cheese which he examined were of No. 1 grade." This statement has been widely quoted as showing a serious condition in the Canadian Cheese Trade. As there is nothing in the statement itself or in the facts of the case to warrant such a conclusion, I ask your permission to make the following explanation.

As Mr. Barr explained in his statement, he examined less than half of 1 per cent. or about one lot out of every 200 lots of cheese received at Montreal during the season, and further, as he was asked to examine only those lots which were suspected of being inferior in quality, or which had been condemned by the purchasers, it is not surprising that only 1 per cent. were first grade. The showing is a remarkably good one rather than a bad one. As a matter of fact, the quality of Canadian cheese never stood as high as it does at the present time. More improvement has been made in the last year or two than for many years previous. The writer has just returned from a lengthy visit to the markets of Great Britain and can speak with confidence on that point.

By giving space to this explanation, you will greatly oblige,

J. A. RUDDICK,
Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner.
Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 25th, 1908.

YOU FEEL TIRED ALL THE TIME

Nigh comes and it's hard to keep. Morning dawns and the anxious tired feeling is still there. Unwilling to get up a strong desire to rest just a little longer.

Unwise to neglect this gradual decline. It can't cure itself,—but Ferrozone by forming rich pure blood at once supplies nutriment for building up the system. This extra nourishment is distributed throughout the entire body, gives force to the nerves, strength to the muscle, and power to the digestive organs.

At once you feel braced, toned and strengthened. You know a powerful force is building up depleted energies, you realize what it means to have the vim and spirit of robust health.

Search the world over and you won't find a tonic to nourish, build up, and fortify a weak lady like Ferrozone. Physicians claim it is the best all round strengthening medicine ever discovered.

To take Ferrozone regularly is an insurance policy of health, a guarantee that you will be free from vexatious spells of tiredness and debilitating sickness of every kind. Surely it is worth while trying a medicine that Mrs. H. S. Gold, of Bowsman, Man., speaks of as follows;

"I want to state my case, because I think it may be the means of assisting other suffering woman back to health. A year ago I was almost a wreck. I was pale and emaciated, suffered from nervousness and dyspepsia. Little things that went wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments, but they didn't help. He said that my low condition of health was due to weakness that might never be cured. Ferrozone had a peculiar grateful effect and built me up quickly. The ills I suffered from are cured. I am now strong and vigorous, and was made so by Ferrozone." (Signed) Mrs. H. S. Gold.

Before your ill-health assumes a chronic or malignant form build up with Ferrozone. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURES

It is provided by the Census Act that the next census of Canada shall be taken in 1911, but that under the authority of the Department of Agriculture the manufacturing and other statistics shall be issued in the interval. In 1905 forms were issued, and an attempt made to collect manufacturing statistics through the Post Office. The result appears in a Blue Book entitled Bulletin II. Manufacturers of Canada, forwarded to the Minister in September, 1907, which has just been issued, for most practical purposes, the work is useless, owing to the delay which has occurred in making it available, though of value in itself from various reasons.

It appears that in 1905 there were 15,729 manufacturing establishments in Canada representing a capital of $446,916,487 in 1900, having 337,535 employees, paying in salaries and wages $105,180,811 per annum, and producing goods to the value of $715,851,668. Of these 12,547 employ 5 hands and over, as against 14,650 in 1900, the decrease being occasioned in part by the amalgamation of small concerns. The average capital represented per factory is $56,462, as compared with $30,506 in 1900.

Probably too much strain must not be laid upon the figures representing the relative proportions of invested and working capital. The figures would working capital. The figures given would show that $467,374,905 is represented by land, buildings, and plant, or 65.19 per cent. of the whole amount interested, and $879,210,113 or 44.18 per cent. is in working capital. No doubt of the capital in plants, a considerable portion is greatly affected by the rise or fall in value of real estate.

The average cost of salaried employees averages $842 per annum, for the Dominion, British Columbia paying an average of $1,105, Quebec $438, Ontario $826, and Prince Edward Island $434. It will be remembered that salaried mining experts naturally come high, as the Pacific Province figures show. Wages paid in 1905 amounted to $134,275,226, of which females received $14,230,104 or 11 per cent. The average per employee was $377, the average per male coming to $416; female $218. The highest male annual wage is $540, paid in Manitoba, the lowest $165, in Prince Edward Island. The highest paid annually to female wage earners was $367 in Saskatchewan, the lowest $66 in P. E. I. The number of employees in 1900 was 269,179, which increased to $353,930 in 1905, or about 18 per cent. but wages and salaries increased in the same time by $48,904,226 or by 42 per cent. Female wage earners decreased from 76,230 in 1900, to 71,873 in 1905, though salaries and wages increased by 37.32, not by any means so considerable an increase as in the case of males.

Of the products in Canada, over half 51.21 per cent. to be exact, is to be credited, to Ontario, 30.61 per cent. to Quebec, the other Provinces producing: British Columbia 6.39; Nova Scotia 4.50; Manitoba 3.03; New Brunswick 3.06; Alta. 0.71; Saskatchewan 0.35; P. E. I. 0.36 per cent.

Humor

THE AD. WRITER.

How He Intended to Qualify Himself For the Position.

"I'm going to waste a little midnight oil in study the coming weeks. My mental faculties need a brushing up."

"Got some great literary scheme on hand, I suppose?"

"Well, a fellow's intellectual processes require a broadening out now and then, and I'm going in for"—

"Fresh fields and pastures new, and all that?"

"Oh, I feel the need of a more general culture. As I was about to say, I am going in for a survey of the arts and sciences, for a little more poetry to illumine my sentences and then for the essayists for a general cultivation of style. Then"—

"Then a magnum opus will result as a matter of course, and I'll get at least one presentation copy?"

"Oh, don't mistake me. I'm just qualifying as head advertising writer for the great department store of Brown, Jones & Co."—Nathan M. Levy in Judge.

Comforting.

An amusing story is told at the expense of a prominent Baltimore lawyer who, like most young attorneys, got his first case by assignment from the bench. His client had been indicted for murder, and his conviction was a foregone conclusion, as his guilt was unquestionable.

The result of the trial was a sentence to be hanged, but the man made an appeal to the governor for a pardon and was anxiously awaiting a reply thereto when his lawyer visited him in his cell.

"I got good news for you—very good news," the young lawyer said, grasping the man's hand.

"Did the governor— is it a pardon?" the man exclaimed joyously.

"Well—no. The fact is the governor refuses to interfere. But an uncle of yours has died and left you $200, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your lawyer got paid, you know," was the comforting explanation.—Harper's Weekly.

Fame.

Wilbur D. Nesbit, known as a verse writer, was born in a small town in Ohio. Recently a friend of the poet accosted him on the street in Chicago.

"I saw the old homestead the other day," said the friend. "It was just as natural as ever, but did you know that the city has placed a brass tablet on the house?"

"No," responded Nesbit. "I haven't heard of it. Say, old man, it does a fellow good to hear that the friends of boyhood days rejoice in his achievements. What have they put on the tablet anyway?"

"Main street," responded the friend as he hastened away.—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Effort at Faith.

"Do you believe in the science of mental healing?"

"No," answered the impressionable man. "But I believe I could believe in some of it if I could only understand exactly what the belief is."—Washington Star.

THE PREY OF A GRIZZLY.

By a Little Oversight Bruin Was Robbed of a Good Meal.

In the early settlement of California grizzly bears were numerous and troublesome, but few men ever had a more singular experience with a grizzly than Paul Sweet, who kept a tannery near Santa Cruz. The story is told by Mrs. Dall in "My First Holiday."

Mr. Sweet was one day walking alone in the woods when he came suddenly upon a grizzly bear and her two cubs. He was quite unarmed, and before he had time to consider any plan of action the bear was upon him. She struck him down, but he kept his presence of mind and lay perfectly quiet.

The grizzly stood over him for a minute or more, then seized him by the waistband and began dragging him along. He did not resist, and she dragged him for a dozen rods to a little sandy hollow, where she dropped him and began digging a hole in the sand. Into this hole she rooted the man, and then nosed and pawed the sand over him until he was buried from sight. The prudent animal, not being hungry at the moment, was making a cache of her prey.

Mr. Sweet's heart lightened as he realized the brute's intentions, and he began to hope that he might escape. He waited a few minutes after the bear had covered him in, and then, thinking that she had retired from the scene, he began to work himself free very cautiously. The grizzly was on the watch, however, and at the first movement of her prey rushed to the spot and with two or three strokes of her paw snugly tucked him in again.

Mr. Sweet instantly became motionless again and allowed himself to be reburied in the sand. Luckily his hat had slipped over his face, so that the sand did not fill his nose and eyes, and by raising his head a little he was able to throw off the sand sufficiently to breathe.

He was more wary next time and lay still for an hour or two until he felt pretty sure that the grizzly had retired from the spot. Very cautiously then he worked himself free from the sand and crept away.

LAPSE OF REASONING.

Instances by Two of the World's Greatest Benefactors.

To illustrate the kind of lapse of reasoning power from which great inventors are known to suffer, like that under influence of which Sir Isaac Newton cut one hole in a wall to let a cat pass through and then a small hole for the kitten, an old story in the life of Morse will answer well. Long before he invented the telegraph Morse was known to the officers of the patent office as a persistent applicant for patents. When his great invention of "distance writing" was about completed he wanted the Baltimore and Ohio Railway company to try it.

To get rid of him the president of the road turned him over to a subordinate. This official was struck with the beauty of the invention and became so interested in it that he sat up half the night discussing it with the inventor. At length Morse confessed there was only one thing which baffled him. "As long as the railroad runs," he said, "where poles may be erected it will be easy sailing, but when we come to the big bridges what is to be done then? We can't erect poles across the stream, and without them the wire would sag and perhaps break from its own weight. I confess I don't know what to do. Can't you suggest a way out of the difficulty?

"Why don't you fasten the wires to the bridge?" asked his companion without a moment's hesitation. For a moment Morse gazed at him, with open mouth, and then exclaimed: "Why not, indeed? Why, I never thought of that. It's the very way."

The layman's tip put the finishing touch to the work of the great inventor, and thus wires came to be strung on bridges when crossing large streams.

Whatever Bridget, why didn't you finish winding the clock?

Mabl—You must remember that I'm leavin' you tomorry, mum, and I'd not be after doin' any of the new girl's work.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

BISHOP, COOK AND COBBLER.

Dr. Sheepshanks Tells of Some Missionary Experiences Out West.

Dr. Sheepshanks, Bishop of Norwich, who recently presided over the Church Congress at Norwich, lived a life of the greatest hardship during his missionary career, which took him among gold miners and Red Indians, to the sacred cities of Mongolia, and to the innermost haunts of the Mormons at Salt Lake City. At a parochial gathering he once referred, as follows to those arduous times: "If any lady here wants a lesson in simple cookery—how to make flapjacks or cook bacon—let her come to me and I will teach her. It was said of a certain king that he was fit to be a king because he had blacked his own boots, and taking that reasoning I am more fit to be a bishop than any one here. I will tell you why: because I have cobbled my own boots and mended my own breeches, and I have known, when a missionary, what it is to sleep on the ground for months at a stretch without even a blanket to lie upon."

Dr. Sheepshanks had a most interesting experience at the Cariboo mines, when trying to raise funds to build a church for the miners. He used to call down to them at their work, asking for a subscription, and back would come a response in the shape of gold-dust screwed up in a piece of paper. At the end of the journey the bishop had certainly "taken up" the most unique collection on record. His "screws" of gold-dust were in due course credited to the account of the church building fund at the bank of the colony. On another occasion a smallpox epidemic broke out in an Indian settlement and the future bishop turned public vaccinator. His lordship proved a successful "medicine-man," for the Indians whom he had vaccinated, and who took the smallpox, recovered, while some who chanced to be absent from the camp, and so escaped the bishop's lancet, took the disease and died. The lancet which was broken into the arm of an Indian chief is still treasured at the picturesque Palace at Norwich.

CANADA AND CANADIANS.

Chief Justice Fitzpatrick's Address at Ottawa Club.

"Canada and Canadians," was the subject on which Hon. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, K. C. M. G., Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, recently addressed the Canadian Club at Ottawa. He contended the feature of the twentieth century would be the way Canada would develop. To men who could recall the way the principles of government had advanced since Confederation, that advancement was of the greater interest from the period when the King governed and the people were content to obey there had been progress until the people governed and the King obeyed. The speaker devoted a few moments to quoting statistics comparing Canada's growth relatively with that of the States, and said that what Canada needed was men, men to dig her tunnels and work in her mines. They had to remember that those knocking at their doors now would be the voters of to-morrow and the legislators of the next generation, for all must become Canadian citizens.

Sir Charles said he was not on hand to talk either jingoism or imperialism, but he thought that the time had arrived when Canada's loyalty to the British Empire should be unquestioned.

The great majority of Canadians were neither imperialists or jingoists, but were satisfied to be British subjects.

Sir Charles hinted that the Dominion should be filled up with men who, when looking for uplifting influences, would cast their eyes towards the east. He hinted that statesmen had now, in the immigration question, a momentous issue before them. He reviewed Canadian history and touched on what Frontenac, Montcalm and others had done for such cities as Montreal, Three Rivers, Quebec, etc. Both England and France had given of their heart's blood to uphold Canada, and now Canadians were a free united people, wanting only to remain forever under the one free flag of the world.

LOSSES ON GREAT LAKES.

Two Steel and Twelve Wooden Vessels in the List.

Two steel and twelve wooden vessels are numbered among the total losses on the great lakes for the 1907 season. These boats were valued at $743,000.

Leaving the modern steel freighter Cyprus and the steel freighter Spokane out of the reckoning, the loss to the underwriters on the wooden fleet is estimated at less than $343,000. The wooden ships were valued at this figure, and some of them were not insured. The Cyprus was worth $275,000 and was just out of the shipyards.

Where the underwriters were made to wince are the partial losses, mostly through collision. These will exceed the amount represented by the total losses. There have been a number of costly collisions, including the sinking of the steamers Bethlehem, Maryland, Moore and Reis. Both the Tuscarora and the Maryland were given new bows.

Tonnage figures show that the carrying capacity of the 13 steamers and one schooner in the list is 29,900 tons at a trip. Giving each boat 20 trips for the season, the carrying capacity of the vessels lost this year would reach 598,000 tons in a season.

In 1906 44 vessels, with a carrying capacity of 60,750 tons a trip, and valued at $1,539,500, passed out of existence. More tonnage was lost in 1905 than any other season in the history of the trade. In that year 48 ships valued at $2,341,500, with a carrying capacity of 107,088 tons a trip were lost.

"A postal card."

Future of Aristocracy.

That an aristocracy which perpetuates itself and renews itself with all the best blood of the country may be a benefit to a country is proved by the example of England, where the past is always the base of progress. In France the aristocracy, fought by royal politics, decimated by revolutions, exhausted by a new regime, has been reduced to a small number of families. The Duc de Rohan says: "There is no longer an aristocracy; money has killed it."—Paris Vie Heureuse.

THE HERO OF THE DAY.

See, he comes, a warrior bold,
Somewhat like a knight of old,
With football panoply.
There's no hero such as he!
Legs in pads and nose in shield,
He will fight upon the field,
He will do his level best
With an energetic zest
From his foe to take a fall
In a scrimmage or a maul,
Hero with dishevel'd hair!
Hero loved of all the fair!
If you're in the fashion now,
To his prowess you must bow!

Admiral Evans is Careful of Fleet

Washington, January 23.—Radical changes in the movements of the battleship fleet were announced here today, following the official admission that the Government was warned in advance from Paris of an alleged plot at Rio de Janeiro to blow up one or more of Admiral Evans' ships. The flotilla of torpedo boats nominally part of Admiral Evans' squadron, but actually detached, and proceeding around Cape Horn on its own itinerary, has now been ordered to stay with the battleships until Magdalena Bay has been reached and the deeply significant plan has been adopted of making these torpedo boats an advance guard and scouting party for the battleships to make their passage through the Strait of Magellan first and then to conduct a thorough search for any possible hostile ships, floating mines or other impediments to the progress of the big fleet.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have the same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these great and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb". Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

Sunday Lid Pried Open in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Man., January 23. — The Sunday lid was pried open a little more last Sunday when the Auditorium and Arena skating rinks opened for business for the first time. During the past few weeks, the feature of Sunday amusements has been the successful operation of the big open air rink hockey ices and toboggan slides on the Assiniboine river just below the barracks and "the legitimate" rink managers decided on Sunday to make a bid for the big Sunday trade encouraged by the soft weather which practically put outdoor rinks out of business. Now much curiosity is felt as to the line the authorities will pursue. The Dominion Alliance talks about getting an injunction, but the situation is complicated by the fact that the outer rink management claims that the Provincial and Civic authorities have no jurisdiction over ice on the river, which comes under Federal control. Years ago Winnipeg was probably the earliest Sabbatarian city on the Continent, but the coming of the Sunday street cars has done much to change the order of things.

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Four Civic Meetings Today

The local City fathers will be busy to-day, as there are no less than four civic meetings called. The Board of Health will hold a meeting at 9.30 o'clock, the first session of the year, at which a chairman will be elected and other business transacted. The Charity Board will meet at 7.30 o'clock, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works hold a joint meeting.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

Building of New Church Postponed

Another sign of the present stringent condition of the money market is that the Trustee Board and Building Committee of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church have decided not to proceed with the erection of the new church this year. The financial report of the trustees will be submitted at the Quarterly Board meeting next week for ratification.

County Council Meets Tomorrow

The County Council will hold its first session for the present year tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock in their chambers in the Court House building. The first business to be done is the election of a Warden, following which the Standing Committees will be selected. The Council will be in session five days. The reports of last year will be received besides other general business of importance which will be brought up before the week is over.

Coat Stolen in Daylight

One of the men employed by Mr. G. Evans had his overcoat stolen Saturday afternoon. He was doing some work in front of H. LeBrun's store and hung his overcoat on a telegraph pole spike. Some person pulled it down and easily walked away with it. The loser promises to make it hot for the thief who was seen taking the coat, and is known. If he is a wise thief he will return the garment.

Late Mr. W. H. Wrighton Laid to Rest Yesterday

The funeral of the late Mr. W. H. Wrighton was held yesterday afternoon in a blinding snowstorm from his late residence, 45 McDonnel street, to the Little Lake cemetery. Among the pall-bearers was one of the deceased's life-long friends, Mr. James Stevenson, who feels the death of Mr. Wrighton very keenly. The popularity of the late Mr. Wrighton was shown by the great quantity of flowers and floral designs sent by sorrowing friends and relatives and also by the large attendance at the funeral, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. Rev. Mr. Pearson conducted the funeral services. The body was laid to its last rest instead of being placed in the vault.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Rich. Hall, Geo. W. Morrow, John Kincaid, Robt. Fair, William Davidson and James Stevenson.

Vines Ripped from St. John's Church

Many sincere expressions of regret were heard yesterday morning, made by members of St. John's Church congregation, when on going to attend service at that fine old church it was seen that the heavy wind had blown down all the splendid vines that so beautifully decorated the west wall of the building. Great sides of those venerable and ornamental creepers that have taken years to come to maturity, lay along the snow-covered ground beside the church. It may be possible, when spring arrives and the sap flows, thus making the vines pliable, to replace them on the wall by means of wires from the roof and double-headed jacks in the plaster between the stones.

Commissione. Coombs at the Opera House

Commissioner Coombs, of the Salvation Army, who, with his staff, was met at the C. P. R. station by the local branch of the Army and their fine band, Saturday, spoke to two crowded meetings in the Grand Opera House yesterday. In the evening he gave his celebrated illustrated lecture entitled "From Bethlehem to Calvary." Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., occupied the chair and introduced the speaker in a few well chosen words. The Commissioner's address was listened to with rapt attention. He is a forcible and eloquent speaker.

Attempted Suicide in Police Cells

At Saturday's session of the Police Court a Mrs. Williamson was charged with having been drunk. The Magistrate remanded her for one week to enable the tanglefoot to evaporate.

It might be added that had it not been for the careful watching of the police on duty at the police station a terrible tragedy would have attended the arrest of this unfortunate woman.

It seems that the woman was locked up in a cell, she made a great disturbance, yelling and cursing at the top of her voice. About eleven o'clock she began to quiet down, and at twelve P. C.'s Newhall and McSharry, who were in the office at the time, heard noise coming from the cell. The officers, knowing the condition in which the woman was in, hurried to her cell and found her almost strangled to death, and trying to hang herself. They opened the door, and rushed in to cut a silk handkerchief with which the half-demented woman had tried to hang herself. She had knotted the handkerchief about her neck, and then after getting on the cell truck, tied the handkerchief by one end and tied the other end to an iron bar of the cell window. She then jumped from the bunch, hanging suspended by the neck. It would have been a matter of a few more minutes and Mrs. Williamson would have been beyond recovery. Her body was held suspended about two feet from the floor, and when the officers found her she was almost dead. Her face was a ghastly hue, and her lips were livid. She was let down immediately, and the handkerchief and scarf taken into the office and placed in the cupboard.

Her hair was in an unkempt condition, and her ragged clothing gave her a pitiable appearance.

This is the first time in the history of the Peterborough police station that a prisoner has deliberately tried to commit suicide while locked up.

Many people marvel at the effects of leaving off coffee and using Postum in its place. But there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense.

Coffee contains a drug—Caffeine—which is a destroyer of digestion and the nervous system.

Postum is a rebuilder—made of wheat (no drug or medication) which contains the "vital phosphates" that repair the damage done by coffee.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in rosy and comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

COBOURG HERE TO-NIGHT.

Cobourg will be here to-night and will arrive with a bunch of supporters. They are after the district championship, and have to beat the locals to be in the running. The Seniors are out to win to-night and are playing last hockey, as was evidenced by the game at Lindsay on Friday night. Cobourg has just as fast a bunch as Lindsay, and a hard battle is expected.

THREE TEAMS DROP OUT

Meaford intermediates, having had some of their players injured, have decided to drop out of the O. H. A. series. They have not a chance to win the district, and Robert McGirr, their best man, had his collar bone broken in the last game.

Penetang juniors have no chance in their O. H. A. district, and have decided to quit, with two games to play.

Cobourg juniors are in the same predicament. They have two games to play, but not having any chance to win the district, they decided to default.

JOE ULLMAN DIES.

New York, Jan. 25.—In the death of Joseph Ullman early yesterday in a sanitarium at Amityville, L.I., the sporting world has lost one of its most spectacular members. Maxey Blumenthal, who knew Joe Ullman as well as any man, summed up his obituary in these few words:

"A better or squarer man than Joe Ullman never drew the breath of life. His word was as good as a gilt-edged bond. Money cut no figure with Joe when he was a friend of yours. His wallet was always open to any man on the level. I am deeply grieved to hear of his death, for the sporting world has lost a man that never had an enemy."

TEN CLUBS IN GROUP ELEVEN.

Hamilton, Jan. 25.—Ten clubs will compete in tankard curling in Group 11, which begins on Tuesday morning at the Victoria and Thistle Rinks. The teams are:

Hamilton Thistles, Hamilton Victorias, Glanford, Brantford, Brantford Heathers, Simcoe, Ancaster, Dundas, Paris and Niagara Falls.

Rules and Regulations Regarding the Carnival

The Street Railway Company would like to draw the attention of those who intend skating in costume at the fancy dress Carnival next Tuesday night to the following points:

1—All skaters will have to procure a ticket from the conductor of the car on which they go out. This ticket must be shown whenever asked for by an official of the company.

2—All skaters in costume must procure a special ticket—cost, 10c—before going on the ice, and this ticket will be allowed to skate in the Grand March. These tickets will be for sale at the office of the company on Monday and Tuesday, and at the door of each dressing room Tuesday evening.

3—Ladies will use the regular ladies' waiting-room as a dressing-room and the gentlemen the old bowling alley.

4—The Grand March will commence at 8.30 sharp, and all skaters are requested to be on the ice a few minutes before.

5—The judging for prizes will be done between 8.30 and 9 o'clock and all skaters are requested to stay on the ice as much as possible during this half hour, so that everyone will have a good opportunity of having their costume judged.

6—His Worship Mayor Rush will present the prizes at 9 o'clock.

7—The prizes are now on exhibition in the window of Schneider's jewellery store.

CITY COMMITTEES SETTLE DIFFERENCES

Board of Works will in Future Have Exclusive Use of One Team and a Driver--Also Use of Portion of Fire Hall Cellar

A joint meeting of the City's Board of Works and the Fire, Water and Light Committee was held in the City Hall committee room last night.

There were present: Mayor Harry Rush; Ald. Phelan, chairman Board of Works, Ald. Johnston, chairman Fire, Water and Light Committee; and Aldermen McIntyre, Elliott, Buller, J. J. Turner, Jr., Morgan and Tovey. Also City Solicitor Hall, City Engineer Hay, Street Commissioner Evans and Foreman Pakenham of the Fire Hall.

Ald. Phelan officiated as chairman.

Mr. James Kendry, manager of the Auburn Woollen Mills, addressed the meeting with respect to the company's recent grant by the council of a fixed assessment at $40,000. Some little exception is taken by the company to the by-law providing for such fixed assessment. The company's property on the east side of the railway has been excluded in this document, and school taxes included in the $40,000 assessment. Mr. Kendry asked that the assessment should be a flat rate, covering school tax as and the land east of the track. There has been no improvements whatever on the vacant property, and as to school privileges the Auburn property might as well be in the country; under such conditions Mr. Kendry urged that $40,000 would be a fair flat rate. These mills were assessed last year at $49,000, the rate was 17 1-2 mills, of which 6 83-100 mills were for school taxes.

The Council will take up this matter at a later date.

FIRE HALL RULES

The real object of the meeting was to settle outstanding disputes between the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Board of Works, especially with regards to calling upon the Fire Hall drivers and teams to turn out for street work on urgent occasions, such as severe snowstorms for instance. Then one team of horses and a driver has in the past been used by the Board of Works for street duties during the summer months and for snow plowing in the city's business portion in winter.

Ald. Johnston offered the: the Board of Works employ one team and driver permanently, and that the north half of the cellar in the Fire Hall, not now in use, might be walled off, an entrance made thereto, and that might be used exclusively by the Board of Works.

Foreman Pakenham replied that there are seven horses in the Fire Hall and three drivers, one of whom, Matchett, is employed considerably by the Board of Works. It is absolutely necessary in order to provide safe fire protection to keep two drivers and three teams in the Fire Hall permanently, and should the Board of Works take one team and driver, another driver would be necessary to afford relief, and keep two drivers at their post.

Street Commissioner Evans complained that although he understood Matchett was to be used by the Board of Works when not at last summer and this winter he could not get him out until after eight in the morning and after two in the afternoon, as one of the other drivers were at those hours away for breakfast or dinner as the case might be. Then he had to furnish two drivers last Sunday to handle the snowstorm, as Mr. Pakenham would not let a driver away from the hall. It appears that each driver takes a Sunday off alternately.

Alderman Morgan contended that the fire team drivers should not be used for snow plowing or any other purpose; their post is at the hall, in readiness for all fire contingencies.

Moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Ald. Turner, that one team be taken over by the Board of Works, who arrange with the Fire, Water and Light Committee for caring for and feeding the team at a reasonable price.—Carried.

Ald. Morgan's contention that the Street Commissioner should not interfere with the foreman of the Fire Department, and the latter should not interfere with the former, was a reasonable way out of the difficulty.

Moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that Driver Matchett be transferred by the Board of Works to look after their own team.—Carried.

There is a third horse in the Fire Hall which is used in summer by the Board of Works.

Moved by Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the Board of Works pay one-half the cost of feeding the seven horses in the Fire Hall.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Buller, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the Board of Works have the use of the northern end of the Fire Hall cellar, and that this half be partitioned off.—Carried.

The committee here adjourned.

LAURIER GIVES IN

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—On the House reassembling this afternoon Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought down the original documents, for which Mr. Ames has been pressing. The only stipulation which he made was that they should be kept in the custody of the Clerk of the House and should be returned as soon as finished with.

Discordant Note in Vanderbilt Wedding

New York, Jan. 27. — Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, was married to Count Laszo Szechenyi, a young Hungarian nobleman, in the Fifth avenue home of Mrs. Vanderbilt at noon to-day. The wedding was probably the most brilliant has has taken place in this city for a number of years. Although the number of guests was limited to about 350, mainly relatives and immediate friends of two families, there were excluded Baron Hengelmuller Von Hengervar, the Austrian Ambassador to the United States; James Bryce, the British Ambassador, and several of the prominent members of New York society.

Should Drink Plenty of Good Water

Nature's Great Remedy, for Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy", exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking, of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected.

Stop loading your system with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription, which is composed of only vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy. Any one can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often." This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache, or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

New in Brief

New York, Jan. 27.—The rush of immigrants to return to Europe keeps up, and the figures for January will show an enormous increase over the same month last year. Already in 17 days 30,056 steerage passengers have left New York, as against 9476 last year, and, during the same period this year, only 7133 steerage passengers have arrived at this port. The increase in eastbound steerage travel so far this month is 210 per cent. and the outward flow is greater by 330 per cent. than the incoming.

Washington, January 27.—In response to a resolution introduced by Senator Ankeny, and passed by the Senate, the Secretary of the Navy yesterday transmitted to the Senate a letter giving the estimate of the cost of submarine torpedo boats delivered at Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor on the Pacific coast. He said that under a recent contract the navy had been offered 340-ton submarines for $260,000, and 376-ton submarines for $285,000. The Navy Department estimate for each boat in the Pacific coast would be $375,000.

New York, Jan. 27. — In strange fulfilment of his young daughter's dream, Henry Lasch, a well-known West Side real estate broker, dropped dead of apoplexy to-day. Mr. Lasch, who lived in the West Point, had gone to No. 178 West Ninety-fourth street, for which property he was agent, to see about some repairs. He was standing in the hallway talking, when he fell dead.

When told of the death, the daughter Ethel said: "Mother, my dream has come true. I dreamed last night that I saw father in his coffin."

The girl and her sister swooned when they realized their loss.

WILL RAISE $100,000 FOR A NOVITIATE

Toronto, Jan. 27.—In several of the Catholic churches yesterday announcement was made that on Tuesday evening a meeting of the Catholic citizens of Toronto will be held at the De La Salle Institute to devise ways and means of erecting a Novitiate for the training of young men to the Christian Brotherhood.

By the older residents of the city it will be remembered that quite a number of years ago a preparatory Novitiate was held at the De La Salle Institute, which was then a boarding as well as a day school. Owing to force of circumstances, however, the Novitiate was abandoned. Those desiring to join the Brotherhood going direct to the Mother House at Montreal.

The present agitation, it is said, is the outcome of the Education Department's recent regulations requiring all teachers in Ontario to pass the departmental examinations. As a result, when a young man becomes a Brother and is sent to this province he has to undergo the examinations, as they cannot be passed while he is in Montreal, and the rules of the order will not permit him to leave the House to try them.

If a Novitiate is established here the novices will be able to write on the examinations, so that by the time they take their final vows they will be duly qualified to teach.

The plan for the Novitiate has been under discussion for some time, and is practically assured. It means, so The Star was informed to-day, the raising of a fund of $100,000, or thereabouts.

Whether a new building will be erected immediately has yet to be decided upon, though it seems probable that one will not be needed for some time to come. The fund of $100,000 is understood to cover the cost of such a building. For the present, however, the De La Salle Institute will be used, as there is ample room there to give accommodation to whatever novices from this province are at present at the Order's houses in Montreal.

In addition, it is expected that the installing of a Novitiate here will bring a larger number of recruits to the Brotherhood. The houses at Montreal are conducted under the strict French regime as laid down by Monsieur La Salle, and it is known to be not the most agreeable possible to English-speaking novices.

Dr. Geo. Burnham Elected President Board of Health

Dr. Bingham Presents an Encouraging Report

Of the City's Sanitary Condition's--Other Business Dealt With

Yesterday morning when the local Board of Health held their first meeting for the year 1908 all members but Dr. Young, unavoidably detained, were present. The main matter for consideration was the report of Dr. Bingham, the efficient Medical Health officer.

Those present were Dr. Burnham, Mayor Rush, Dr. McNulty, Messrs. Jas. Edgar, Jos. Murty, Geo. Ball, Sanitary Inspector, and Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer.

A communication was read from Dr. Chas. A. Hodgetts, of the Provincial Board of Health, approving of the action of the local Board in connection with the smallpox case in the East Ward.

A communication from the London Board of Health was read, asking for the co-operation of the local Board in securing an amendment to the Health Act to make it possible to apply the tuberculin test to cows supplying milk to the city trade. The matter was left over until the next meeting.

A number of accounts were passed.

Sanitary Inspector Ball asked for instructions from the Board in connection with the Auburn Woollen Mills, where new plumbing connections are being made with the raceway.

Dr. McNulty thought that the work should be allowed to proceed, as it with the sewer. He thought that, in depositing sewage in the river the company was no worse than the city in depositing it further down the stream.

It was decided to allow the company to proceed with the work.

Medical Health Officer Bingham presented the following report, which was adopted:

I have the honor of presenting a brief annual report of the sanitary condition of the city during the year 1907, and it must be highly gratifying to every one to know that during the year this city had comparative immunity from infectious diseases which are so much dreaded by the people. Only four cases of diphtheria and six cases of scarlet fever were reported during the year, and one case of smallpox, which was imported in the last week of the year. Six

Dr. Bingam's report was a most satisfactory one in every detail, and reflects great credit on the health officers of the city.

The following resolution was adopted: That the Board of Health under Section 668, of the Municipal Act, 1903, recommend the City Council to construct a sewer on Rubidge street from Brock street to a point 75 feet north of Kirk street, for the purpose of draining that locality for sanitary purposes, as a local improvement.

The city clerk was authorized to issue milk vendors' licenses after having a received a report from the Sanitary Inspector that the premises in question are in good condition.

It was decided to adopt the second Tuesday of each month as a date for the regular meeting of the board.

USE UP FORESTS MAKING PAPER

Washington, Jan. 27. — The forestry bureau is drying to find a substitute for wood pulp in paper making — not because it desires to preserve the journalistic wisdom and wit of its generation but because its business is to protect the forests from the ravages they have suffered in securing a supply of raw material for the paper mills, which consume such vast quantities of spruce, poplar, aspen, hemlock, pine and other trees. The foresters are experimenting with rice straw, flax straw, cornstalks and a grass called cagon that grows wild in the Philippines, of which shiploads may be had for the cutting. This is a very important matter, both for the newspapers and for the public. Paper manufacturers have purchased large areas of woodland in Canada as well as in the United States, because they realize how fast the forests are disappearing. An area half as large as the State of Rhode Island is stripped every year to make wood pulp, and no trees have been planted to take the place of those that are cut. Several important material interests are threatened by this wasteful devastation.

The publishers of the United States and Canada are using more than 4,500,000 cords of wood every year. One of the New York dailies, which has taken the trouble to weigh its material and keep a record thereof, used 17,333,675 pounds of white newspaper last year, which is an average of 211,873 pounds a day. Figuring that 80 per cent of this is wood pulp and 20 per cent. sulphite fiber, the Sunday edition of that paper requires the destruction of 29.7 acres of forest land, and every week-day edition requires approximately the destruction of 11.5 acres. These figures suggest the importance both the news publishers and the public of finding some substitute for wood pulp or adopting some system of forest management by which the mill owners will stop the wasteful recklessness known in stripping the mountain sides in New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine and other New England states.

Since 1880 the amount of wood consumed annually for news paper has increased from 2,000,000 to 6,000,000 cords. The amount used during the last year was 469,053 cords greater than that of any previous year. In 1906 there was consumed for pulp, 2,567,062 cords of spruce, 578,331 cords of hemlock, 328,470 cords of poplar, 69,277 cords of pine, 23,336 cords of balsam and 194,100 cords of other woods.

New York furnished 1,295,904 cords of this material, or more than twice as much as Maine, which ranks next, with 617,744 cords. Wisconsin ranks third, with 542,354 cords; New Hapshire, 319,729; Pennsylvania, 282,973 cords, and Michigan, 116,372 cords. The consumption of 1907 in New York shows a small decrease from previous years because the forests are being rapidly cut away. The largest increase has been in Maine, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire.

Severe Sentences Will be Given

Toronto, Ont., January 24. — Judge Winchester handed out some severe sentences in the Sessions yesterday. Crown Attorney Drayton announced that criminal negligence resulting in fatal serious accidents would hereafter be sternly dealt with.

Arthur Nunns was given three years for perjury.

Albert Stephenson, who stabbed with a penknife, got a similar term.

Ella Preston, a fortune teller, was fined $100 or 3 months' imprisonment.

Wm. Chessar, guilty of criminal negligence who allowed a scaffold to fall killing one man, was let go on suspended sentence.

Tunnelling the Rocky Mountains

Montreal, Jan. 27. — Mr. James A. Macdonnell, of the Western contracting firm of Macdonnell, Ozowski and Company, is in Montreal at present. This firm at the present time has a big contract on hand for the C. P. R., and is building more than a mile of tunnel work for the road in the Rockies. The C. P. R. is doing much work at the present time along the line of reducing the grades in the far west, and the firm has a contract for reducing the grade at a point near Hector, at the summit of the Rockies, to Field, a distance of four miles. The work from an engineering point of view is a very important one and is attracting the attention of engineers all over the country. When the work is finished the length of the stretch will be increased from four miles to eight, but the grade will be greatly reduced.

The contract includes the construction of two spiral tunnels, one 3,300 feet, and the other 2,800 feet in length, on opposite sides of the Kicking Horse River. In both tunnels there will be a ten degree curve and in both they train will turn completely around.

These will be the first tunnels of the kind in America, although there are said to be three under the Alps. The dimensions of the tunnels will be seventeen feet wide and twenty-five feet high.

The contractors are employing some five hundred men, and expect to have the whole work finished next fall. Active operations are carried on from both ends of the tunnels and the work is progressing at the rate of thirty to forty feet every day.

Saved London Waifs Dr. Barnardo's Task

Important Service to Humanity Performed by Irish Physician

The Times believes it entirely probable that no other one human being did so much practical good to his fellow men as Thomas J. Barnardo, an Irish physician, who died Sept. 19, 1905, after forty arduous years employed exclusively in the rescue of waifs and strays from the streets of London. He was called "the father of nobody's children," "the children's friend", "the children's saviour" and by several other affectionate titles that were well deserved. His biography has just been published and it is a book of amazing interest. The London Telegraph, in an editorial reference, says that the volume "is the monument of a great work and it will be in every vigorous mind which is alive to the needs and problems of our time the incentive to great effort. To Dr. Barnardo we owe it that from the name of England was removed a shameful blot and reproach, and that several army corps of children, as the years passed were taken from the depths of poverty, saved from careers of suffering and crime, restored to the image of their Maker, filled with the inspiration of true manhood and womanhood, and sent forth beneath the flag to strengthen all that is best in the empire."

During his lifetime Dr. Barnardo rescued a quarter of a million of children, of whom 62,512 were at one time or another inmates of his homes, and were maintained, educated and started in life under his influence and care. Of these 30,000 were sent to Canada and several thousand to Australia, and they are now prospering in those countries. He established ninety-four orphanages, homes for destitute children, free lodging houses, and seventeen "over-open doors", as he called his refuges and asylums for homeless children, and expanded more than $13,000,000 in charitable work, every cent of which came from private subscriptions.

"Jim Jarvis", a street arab is responsible for the beginning of Dr. Barnardo's extraordinary philanthropy, and the story illustrates what great things may grow out of trifling incidents. "For two or three years", said Dr. Barnardo, "so far as my medical studies left me time, I had been conducting a voluntary night school among rough boys and girls, the poorest of the laboring class in Stepney. I then had necessarily revealed to me much of the privation and suffering which so often falls at an early age to the lot of the children of the very poor. I had encountered many ragged, hungry, and cruelly ill-used little ones, but never as yet had a genuine arab boy, utterly homeless and friendless, crossed my path. I had a vague notion that homeless children, if such really existed anywhere, for the most part orphans, were eventually taken care of by the parish or workhouse authorities."

After holding a mission school one night in a donkey shed in East End street, having dismissed his scholars, Dr. Barnardo noticed a little ragged lad who showed no signs of leaving the room. He said:—

"Come, my lad, it's time to go home."

"Please, sir, let me stop. I won't do no 'arm."

"I cannot let you stop here, my boy. You ought to go home. Your mother will wonder what keeps you so late."

"I ain't got no mother."

"But your father? Where is he?"

"Ain't got no father."

"Where are your friends, then? Where do you live?"

"Ain't got no friends. I don't live no where."

Dr. Barnardo says that he cross-examined the boy closely and learned, that he, with a number of others, "lots of others—'eaps on 'em—more'n I could count", were sleeping in the streets and living upon what food they could pick up. He took the lad to a coffee-house, got him something to eat and persuaded him to lead the way to the hiding places of his companions. The journey ended in a network of narrow passages leading from Petticoat in Houndsditch, and there Dr. Barnardo counted eleven boys, "some coiled up, some huddled together, others more apart—a confused group of boys on an open roof all asleep. No covering of any kind was upon them. The rags that most of them wore were mere apologies for clothes, apparently quite as bad as, if not even worse than, Jim's. Their ages were, I should say, from 9 to 14."

"Shall we go to another lay, sir? There's lots more," said Jim.

"But I had seen enough," said Dr. Barnardo. "It was a revelation and a

Sisters

Would Not Allow Coffee Used

It doesn't take very long, only long enough to get well away from the bad effects of caffeine—the drug in coffee—and a little while for Postum to commence toning up the nerves and your reformed coffee drinker will begin to put on flesh and show an improved condition generally.

An Indiana man says:—

"I knew for a long time that coffee was running my system down. For the last five years I have been troubled with my stomach but didn't seem able to quit coffee. Finally I took down sick and my doctor told me to stop coffee.

"I tried milk and hot water but got tired of both. About that time while on a visit to my cousin she recommended Postum, claiming that it had done so much for her.

"She was looking stouter and was not at all nervous, while I was shaking at the least excitement. Her husband told me that the sisters at the hospital where he worked used Postum and wouldn't allow any coffee to be used.

"I came home and began using Postum and in a few days noticed improvement, which continued, until now, I must say, that I am feeling fine. The more I drink Postum the better I like it. I make it according to directions on the package, which gives it its good rich taste.

"I have thanked my cousin many times for telling me about Postum, for it has done great good to my nerves and whole system. Before I quit coffee and began to use Postum I was troubled with toothache and headache, besides the steady old grind of stomach troubles. Now I have none of them." "There's a Reason."

THAW'S MAD LONDON DEMAND---THE CASE CLOSES WEDNESDAY

Dr. Wells, Who Attended Him in 1899, Says He Suffered from Acute Mania in London--Danced Wildly About the Room

New York, Jan. 27. — It was said this afternoon that the case will go to the jury Wednesday night. The defence will conclude this evening. The prosecution will occupy but a day on rebuttal and arguments will be finished during Wednesday, when Justice Dowling will immediately charge the jury.

PUT THE GREAT QUESTION.

New York, Jan. 27.—The defence in the Thaw case completed the introduction of all its testimony this morning, and shortly before the noon recess Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel for the defendant, began to read a long and carefully prepared hypothetical question to the three alienists to testify in Harry Thaw's behalf. The question covered all the testimony in the case, and before being read had been submitted to District Attorney Jerome for any objection the prosecution had to offer. Only slight changes resulted. As the testimony in the present hearing has differed largely from that of the first trial, so the hypothetical question differed from the one propounded last year by Mr. Delmas. The evidence as to irrational acts or manner, from infancy to the time of the homicide, was given precedence over every other place of the testimony.

EVIDENCE IN COURT.

New York, Jan. 27.—The morning session of the Thaw trial began at 10.20 o'clock with Dr. Chas. Francis Bingaman, the Thaw family physician, of Pittsburg, on the witness stand. Dr. Bingaman told of the early symptoms of nervousness in Harry Thaw, saying he was first called to attend to the boy when he was three years old. At that time his nervousness often bordered on convulsions. The attacks usually followed various children's diseases. Thaw slept badly as a child, requiring a relay of nurses most of the time.

Dr. Bingaman said that in the fall of 1903 he was called to attend Harry Thaw in Pittsburg and treated him for nervousness and melancholia. This was after Thaw's first trip abroad with Evelyn Nesbit. The witness saw Thaw several times in the Tombs after his arrest, and the defendant always referred to the Madison Square Garden tragedy as the act of Providence.

Thaw's acts and appearance in the prison impressed the witness as irrational.

JEROME COURTEOUS.

It was of Dr. Bingaman that District Attorney Jerome said at the last trial when Thaw's mental condition was under investigation. "I had rather have the testimony of an old family practitioner like this than all the experts you could put on the stand."

The prosecutor's cross-examination to-day was very brief and courteous.

Following Dr. Bingaman came the first of the foreign witnesses, Dr. Sydney Russell Wells, of London, who was called to attend Thaw in the British capital in the early part of 1899.

"Mr. Thaw was in a very nervous condition," said Dr. Wells. "His pulse was extremely rapid, and he complained of pains in the head. I diagnosed his case as one of mental disturbance."

On one of his visits the doctor said he found his patient in a highly excitable state, despite the fact that his temperature was only 99 degrees. He feared Thaw might harm himself. Thaw did not respond to treatment, even opiates failing, and Dr. Wells said he decided to send the young man to the Devonshire Nursing Association's Hospital. On another visit he saw Thaw dancing about the room like a mad man. He reported his case at the hospital as acute mania.

"NO ROOM TO BREATHE."

"Mr. Thaw at the hospital had a perfectly enormous room," continued Dr. Wells, "but he complained that he did not have room to breathe. He also complained of the terrific heat, and demanded that twenty tons of ice be placed in the room. He did not like the nurse assigned to him, and wanted me to employ a whole staff of nurses so he might find one he liked. When he was in bed the patient's eyes glared into vacancy. The acute attack at the hospital continued six days. He had no fever at any time. His talk was largely incoherent. There was no evidence of alcoholism."

"During your entire attendance on Mr. Thaw in 1899, Doctor, what conclusion did you reach?" asked Mr. Littleton.

RECURRENT INSANITY.

"I diagnosed his case as acute recurrent insanity."

Dr. Wells said he saw Thaw in 1901, 1902 and in 1903 or 1904. He treated him at those times, but there were no acute symptoms as in 1899.

On cross-examination by District Attorney Jerome, Dr. Wells said that at the time he treated Thaw in 1899 he had made no particular study of mental diseases, and had had but little experience along that line. The witness said Thaw remembered some things that happened during his outbreak and was anxious to apologize, especially to a nurse whom he felt he had offended.

Miss Lillian MacBride, of London, a professional nurse as she described herself, followed Dr. Wells.

She was called in to attend Thaw as nurse in his rooms in London in July, 1899. Thaw was very restless and excited, and his talk was incoherent.

"What was the appearance of his face?" asked Mr. Littleton.

"Oh, very wild, indeed, replied the witness.

Although he had no temper, Thaw continually complained of the frightful heat. There was no evidence of alcoholism.

"Did his actions and appearance during your attendance impress you as rational or irrational?"

"Oh, most irrational."

China Fights the Powers

Pekin, January 24. — The intimation that Japan is ready to permit the extension of the Hainanintun Railroad to the north with Japanese capital has aroused renewed opposition on the part of the Chinese Government, which is determined to test the pledges made by Japan in the matter of the restoration of Manchuria.

The governors of the three provinces of Manchuria have joined with Hsu Shih Chang, Viceroy of Manchuria, in again urging the Throne to sanction the loan of 10,000,000 taels for the purpose of increasing the efficacy of the new Chinese administration of trying to make itself independent of Japanese assistance.

The governors furthermore [illegible] to unite in measures against [illegible] who is actively imitating Japan in the three provinces. China has entered a protest against the installation at Mukden of a municipal government by Russia.

Estate Tied Up for 100 Years

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 25.—The will of Daniel C. Stover, millionaire manufacturer of windmills, who died last Friday, was filed late this afternoon. It provides that the estate be held in trust during the lives of Mr. Stover's two children, Porter S. Stover, of Freeport, and Mrs. May Winger of Ravenswood, during the lives of their children, and twenty-one years after the death of the last survivor, a period which will approximate 100 years. Porter Stover and Mrs. Winger are to receive $2,500 annually. J. Fred Smith, H. H. Antrim and Judge J. H. Stearns, business associates of Mr. Stover, are named as trustees, and are to receive 2 per cent. of the personal estate and $1,200 annually for their services. The estate will exceed $1,000,000.

RUSSIAN HOLY CITY.

Visit to the Tombs of the Imperishable Saints—Childish Peasants.

A correspondent of a London paper writing from Russia says: "Kiev is the holy city of Russia. It is the place where Vladimir, the first Muscovite Christian, was baptized. It is full of churches, golden domed. Deep voiced bells are ever booming. On the plains of Tchernigoff I have met peasants in pilgrimage tramping to Kiev to gain merit. When rising above the swirling waters of the Dnieper they see the white walls of the monasteries, the soft green of the roofs, the mighty domes of gold, they kneel in the dust and thrice cross themselves.

On Sunday I went to the Lavra, the great monastery, churches within churches, dark save for the flicker of thousands of tapers. The walls were lined with icons and weird pictures. The air was thick with incense. Gorgeous robed priests—they cultivate facial likeness to Christ—intoned in old Slavonic.

With a taper in my hand, I joined the pilgrims in visiting the tombs of the "imperishable saints"—men so good that in death their flesh has not decayed. The passages were just wide enough for one person at a time. There were hundreds of us, and we all carried candles. The atmosphere was hot and tallowish. In black alcoves service was being held. There were tiny windows through which in olden days food was passed to the monks who lived in seclusion and died in sanctity.

The tiniest of lamps blink. On ledges are open coffins, but shields of silk hinder a glance to see how imperishable the saints really are. The peasants believe; they reverently kiss the breast. At corners stand black garbed priests whisking with a broom holy water into the faces of the passers. It is all eerie and mysterious and, as I write, rather like a dream.

Peasants come hundreds of miles to worship in the Lavra at Kiev. They are in Russian garb—blue and red shirts, baggy velvet trousers and top boots. The women wear dresses of homespun much embroidered, swathe the head in black and wear high boots of the brightest red leather.

They are simple people, very devout, very superstitious. As I went with them I thought their ideas on matters spiritual must be about the same as prevailed in England during the dark ages.

In one of the churches of Kiev is a bell put there by Mazeppa. All I knew of Mazeppa till I came to Kiev was what I learned as a youngster when the circus was my supreme delight—that he was a man strapped to the back of a white horse which was turned loose to race the mountains. But politically Mazeppa was a traitor, and until recently a solemn service was held in Kiev and the soul of Mazeppa was most solemnly cursed by the dignitaries of the Russian Orthodox church.

FOR THE DEBUTANTE.

Pretty Fashion of Sending Flowers For the Coming Out Party.

The fashion of sending flowers to a debutante is unquestionably increasing each year, and the popular debutante of today receives anywhere from 100 to 300 gorgeous bouquets. Unquestionably these flowers are generally kept back at the florists and not sent until so very near the time for the guests to arrive that there is little opportunity given to arrange them effectively as might be desired.

However, with the aid of a clever florist a large empty drawing room can be swiftly converted into a perfect bower of orchids, gardenias, chrysanthemums, carnations, violets, roses—a fitting background for the charming debutante. A high wire screen in which is massed either a solid bank of one colored roses or different bouquets as they arrive makes an effective and becoming background against which to stand while receiving one's guests.

Shower bouquets are the favorite with both brides and debutantes, and, indeed, no style of bouquet is so pretty as this. All white is the accepted color for a debutante, as for a bride, so that a large shower bouquet of lilies of the valley or of white orchids and gardenias tied with a white satin ribbon, from which fall the showers or sprays of tiny lilies and maidenhair fern, make a truly exquisite finish to the conventional gown of soft white lace and chiffon.

To Wash Carpets.

A preparation for washing rugs and carpets is made of four ounces of any good white soap dissolved in four ounces of boiling water.

When cool add five ounces of ammonia, two and a half ounces of alcohol, two and a half ounces of glycerin and two ounces of either chloroform or ether. Bottle and cork tightly.

To clean a carpet or rug add a tablespoonful of the preparation to a pail of tepid water and wring the cloth from this.

The same preparation is also good in cleaning clothes.

Two tablespoonfuls to a pint of water will remove the most obstinate stain.

Queer Habits of Bats.

Nearly all bats have the faculty of hibernating. Their hibernating, however, is not perfect—that is to say, that when the warm days occur in the middle of winter they wake up, together with the insects which are their food. Still, theirs is a true hibernation trance, differing from sleep, with very low rate of pulse, heart action and respiration. Probably they would endure immersion in water for an hour or two without drowning, as other hibernators have been found to do.

To check a cold quickly, get from your druggist some little Candy Cold Tablets called Preventics. Druggists everywhere are now dispensing Preventics, for they are not only safe, but decidedly effective and prompt. Preventics contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will prevent Pneumonia, Bronchitis, La Grippe, etc. Hence the name, Preventics. Good for feverish children. 42 Preventics 25 cents. Trial Boxes 5 cts. Sold by all dealers.

THE DAILY TASK.

Dreading a Duty Doubles the Task of Discharging It.

A small boy whose one task for the day consists in bringing a pail of spring water to the house began to pine away, and his anxious mamma called in the family doctor. The boy submitted listlessly to a thorough examination, the result of which puzzled the man of medicine. "Does he eat well?" he asked. "Fairly so," was the reply. "And sleep?" he queried. "Oh, yes, but he drags through the day without a symptom of interest," was the mother's reply.

The doctor looked long and hard at the child and then had a bright thought. "What does he do in the way of work?" he asked. "Nothing but bring a pail of water from the spring every morning." "Cut out that water carrying task for a week," said the doctor, "and let me know the result."

The week worked a miracle in Willie's health. The boy had been weighted down by the thought of a daily task, and it was not because he was lazy. He did other things with the greatest willingness, but he so detested that one monotonous task that it affected his health. There are many grownups like Willie, indulging a distaste for necessary duties to the extent of clouding the sunshine of life.

Dreading a duty doubles the task of discharging it. There are a few wise persons in the world who resolutely attack disagreeable tasks and clear them out of the way before they get troublesome. Watch a woman who sits down to an unwelcome task of darning hosiery. She looks over the articles and spends her first strength on the small rents, leaving the large ones till she begins to get weary. Beginning with the big ones, she would finish comparatively easy. This is the usual feminine method of working. Men who amount to anything attack the heavy work and clear the way to easier things, and when the decks are clear they heave a sigh of satisfaction, something a woman never does.

A WOMAN PRIZE WINNER.

Miss Hanscom Will Design Emblem For the Alaska Exposition.

The latest woman to distinguish herself in competition, not only with her sisters, but in a free for all struggle wherein her abilities were pitted against man's as well as woman's, is Miss Adelaide Hanscom of Seattle, Wash. Miss Hanscom has been awarded the $500 prize offered for the best design for an official emblem for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, which will be held in Seattle in 1909.

Several hundred designs were submitted, many of which showed decided ability, but none of them so well expressed the purpose and meaning of the exposition as that prepared by Miss Hanscom. Her drawing shows three female figures framed in a circle. The figure to the right typifies the Pacific slope, with right hand extended in welcome and the left holding a train of cars representing commerce by land. The figure to the left represents the orient, and the ship in her hand represents commerce by sea. The central figure in white is that of Alaska, the white representing the north, and the nuggets in her hands representing her vast mineral resources.

Across the sky in the background is seen the aurora borealis so vivid in the north. The purple background with the many colors of the northern lights makes a rich coloring. At the side of the figure on the right are tall trees, typical of the immense forests of the territory represented by the exposition.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

Never stir cake after final beating. Beating motion should always be last used.

When interrupted while frying in deep fat, drop a crust of dry bread into the fat to prevent its burning.

When the time for cooking vegetables is limited, pour boiling water over them, then drain and cook in the usual way.

When frying croquettes be sure to plunge the basket in hot fat before the croquettes are placed in it. This will prevent their adhering to the wire when lifted out.

When roasting meat, to make the gravy nice and brown, take a tablespoonful of sugar and melt it in a pan till it smokes, then add boiling water, stir well and mix with the gravy.

Cracker or bread crumbs used in covering the tops of scallops, etc., should be well greased in melted butter. This makes a better covering than the dry crumbs dotted with butter and uses less of the latter ingredient.

THE ARCTIC REGION.

Where Smoke Rises From the Sea and Trees Burst From Cold.

Explorers who penetrate the Arctic and Antarctic seas have a chance to observe one of the strangest phenomena in nature, that of smoke rising from the sea. Wherever the temperature falls to 15 degrees below zero clouds of steaming vapor ascend from the ocean to be immediately frozen into tiny particles of ice and dropped once more into the water.

The same thing takes place on land, the vapor rising from the snow and even from the bodies of the explorers themselves. In this case, however, the ice particles fall on the ground and make a weird rustling, like the swish of a silk dress.

At 40 degrees below zero the sap of trees is turned to ice, and the trunks burst asunder with a sharp report. These mysterious sounds and sights are awe inspiring to all who do not know their cause, and they may account for some of the strange tales that are told of the frozen north.

Natural light at sea is a much more common phenomenon. As the screw of a steamer churns the water under certain conditions you may see the waves glowing angrily where they have been disturbed. This is called phosphorescence, and scientists are not agreed as to its cause.

WHISTLER AND MONEY.

The Eccentric Artist's Utter Lack of Business Instinct.

The Dundee Advertiser tells a story illustrating Whistler's forgetfulness and utter lack of business instinct. Being hard pressed for a debt and having finally been informed he would be sued unless a check for the amount was sent by return post, the artist mentioned the matter to one of his friends who lived near him. Explaining that he had a few pounds in the bank, the exact sum unknown, he requested his friend to stop at the bank on the way to business to ascertain what was required to make his account good for a check of slightly over $90 and to deposit that amount for him as a loan.

The friend was quite willing and in due time stood at the cashier's desk of Whistler's bank asking the amount of his balance and explaining the errand. The cashier was interested. He went to the big book of balances, turned over a few pages, wrote down some figures and in a moment placed them before the astonished friend. Whistler's balance was more than $30,000.

The artist was delighted, but found it difficult to remember when he had deposited so much money or where he had got it.

A Beaconsfield Story.

A lady who was his constant friend and benefactor begged Lord Beaconsfield to read Mallock's first book and say something civil about it. The prime minister replied, with a groan: "Ask me anything, dear lady, except this. I am an old man. Do not make me read your young friend's romances."

"Oh, but he would be a great accession to the Tory party, and a civil word from you would secure him forever."

"Oh, well, then, give me a pen and a sheet of paper." And, sitting down in the lady's drawing room, he wrote: "'Dear Mrs. ——, I am sorry that I cannot dine with you, but I am going down to Hughenden for a week. Would that my solitude could be peopled by the bright creations of Mr. Mallock's fancy.' Will that do for your young friend?"

As an appreciation of a book which one has not read this is perfect.

In New Zealand.

In New Zealand the house of representatives has just voted 337 to 26 in favor of making women eligible as members of the upper house. In Australia women are already eligible to all offices from prime minister down, but when New Zealand fourteen years ago gave women full suffrage it expressly debarred them from parliament. This restriction, it seems, is now to be removed.

A Novel Jelly Idea.

When using eggs break away just enough of the smaller end of the shell to enable you to remove the contents. Wash the shells carefully, then put them away in some safe place. At jelly making time fill these shells with jelly, covering the broken end with paraffin paper. It is impossible to imagine a more convenient way to carry jelly.—Delineator.

A damp cloth dipped in salt will remove egg stains from silver or tea stains from china dishes.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has a permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowance crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Game of Hearts and the Rubber....

By Martha Cobb Sanford.

Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Leonora was the most fascinating creature that ever breathed. Everybody admitted that. How she had ever managed to get past the twenties without yielding to the numerous sieges laid to her heart was a matter of common wonder. Now that the momentous eve of her thirtieth birthday had arrived Leonora herself was wondering about it.

She thought of the faithful Rob and sighed. She thought of the impulsive Jack and laughed outright. She thought of the imperious Roland and lifted her eyebrows. They were remarkably beautiful eyebrows, and the eyes that looked frankly into hers out of the mirror were bewitchingly merry and brown.

For a few moments Leonora brushed her wavy hair vigorously. Then she twined it into a long thick braid, said good night and goodby to the twenty-nine-year-old girl in the mirror, turned out the light and jumped into bed. "Bother the whole bunch!" she muttered sleepily. "I'm never going to think of them again."

But she did. At least, go where she would in her dreams, the persistent Rob followed her, his wistful, admiring eyes fastened upon her until it seemed as if she could not stand it a moment longer. Then Jack would appear from seemingly nowhere and without any polite preliminaries or regard for the curious people around them, would begin to tell her how he loved her, how he lived but for sight of her, how be—Suddenly exit Jack and enter Roland, the autocrat.

"I don't like the looks of that man who was with you just now, my dear," was his ultimatum. "I don't want you to have anything more to do with him. Come; we will be married immediately. I won't stand any more trifling." And then—oh, then the rain began to pour in torrents, and the wind blew a gale, and she was all alone, and she lost her rubber while crossing a muddy street, and—well, so it went on and on through the night.

In the morning the doctor was called. Leonora had a high fever and other alarming symptoms.

"Are you subject to attacks like these?" asked the young physician in his most professional manner.

"Never remember having had a doctor before in my life," Leonora answered, smiling feebly. Then, a flash of her true mischievous self flaring up for a moment, she added: "But I think I'm going to enjoy it. You're so amusingly young and serious, Dr. Torrence."

Perhaps it was just as well for Leonora that a sharp pain in her side prevented her from expressing her observations more freely.

When the pain had passed the doctor resumed his cross questioning.

"Do you recall any way you may have taken cold?" He put the question this time in an almost jocular tone.

"That's better," commented Leonora. "The pain? I'm glad."

"No; I meant the—never mind. What was it you asked?"

Dr. Torrence repeated the question.

"Oh, yes. Why, I lost my rubber yesterday in the rain. Can you take cold by wetting just one foot?"

The physician refused to commit himself. Before Leonora could get a chance to push her inquiry she found her mouth effectively stopped by a clinical thermometer.

That evening, Dr. Torrence called again. He found his patient not quite so well and far less frisky.

"It's been such an endless day," she told him, "the dreariest I ever knew in my life, and it's my birthday!"

"It doesn't look dreary with all these beautiful flowers nodding their congratulations."

"Congratulations?" Leonora groaned. "Dr. Torrence, I'm thirty years old."

The doctor gave vent to a hearty laugh.

"You look about sixteen," he answered gallantly.

Leonora flushed faintly at the compliment, lifted one of her long braids that lay over her shoulder and dropped it again wearily.

"It's an awful tragedy," she informed him. "You can't appreciate it."

"I thought I did three years ago," he answered, smiling at her gently, "but I've found out since I was mistaken. Why, you're just beginnig to live—my dear."

The last two words he felt at liberty to add by virtue of his three years' seniority plus his professional privileges.

"Perhaps so," sighed Leonora, "only I feel more as if I were going to die."

Indeed, for the next few days it looked as though her pathetic prophecy might prove only too true. At last, after a hard fight, the dread pneumonia was conquered and the days of convalescence dawned, none too brightly, but surely.

When Leonora could at length sit up the light of her transparent, white looking face almost scared her. She used to pinch her cheeks for the joy of seeing the color come back to them. Just let her get strong again and wouldn't she show everybody how young and heart free she was! As if, for that matter, any one had ever thought of her as anything else!

"Surrounded by flowers, as usual," was the doctor's cheery greeting as he dropped in for a semisocial, semiprofessional call one afternoon.

Leonora didn't really need his services any longer, but the doctor found it difficult to desert so fascinating a patient.

"Who sent them," he teased her—"Tom, Dick or Harry—I mean Rob, Jack or Roland?"

Leonora's big brown eyes looked at him in amusement.

"How did you know about them?"

The doctor laughed a bit sheepishly. "Oh, that's all you talked about when you had the fever."

Leonora blushed prettily.

"They sent them all," she acknowledged. "Rob and Jack and Roland. But not even the American Beauties give me such keen joy as my rubber violets."

The doctor followed her gaze. From the chandelier hung a woman's rubber overshoe filled with rich, fragrant violets.

"It's the most romantic thing that ever happened to me in my life," exclaimed Leonora, her eyes shining with happiness. "You see it's the rubber I lost that rainy day before I was taken ill. Some man saw me drop it and has sent it back to me in this artistic fashion—anonymously, of course."

"Rather a footless procedure, it strikes me," commented the doctor.

"For shame!" Leonora reproved. "You're jealous!"

The doctor's face grew serious.

"Maybe I am," he replied. Leonora dropped her eyes under his steady look of admiration. "The other three were strong enough rivals without this unknown mackintosh butting in with his rubber plants."

Leonora turned aside the doctor's meaning lightly.

"He's the one interest in life for me now," she said gayly.

Following the advent of the violets came lady slippers, with a fanciful little note expressing the hope that they'd prove as fitting an expression of the donor's devotion as the rubbers, and when they had faded a great bunch of brilliant autumn leaves filled their place.

"Leonora, I am jealous," announced the doctor as he watched her go into ecstasies over the gorgeous foliage. "I believe if it weren't for this aggressively sentimental scamp I'd stand half a chance myself. Don't you care for me the least little bit, Leonora?"

The girl hesitated.

"More than a little bit, Dr. Torrence. But, foolish or not, all my thoughts center around this unknown admirer. He appeals to my imagination more than any man I ever actually knew. I love romance. I can't help it."

"Well, then," said the doctor decisively, "the sooner he's discovered and laid low the better. I'm going to hunt him down if it takes a month of Sundays and present him to you, little Miss Romance."

In less than a week word came from the doctor that he would call on a certain afternoon, with Leonora's consent, and bring "Mr. Mackintosh" with him.

With feverish anticipation Leonora waited the culmination of her romance. On the stated afternoon she dressed herself in her most becoming frock and tucked some of the violets that had come that very morning into her belt.

The bell rang. Her heart beat furiously. She was half joyous, half afraid.

The doctor entered her sitting room alone.

"Wouldn't he come?" faltered Leonora.

"He wants time to have a little talk with you first, Leonora. First, he's asked me to tell you a bit what he's like, and then if you don't want to see him you needn't. I'm going to be just as frank and fair about him as I know how. He isn't handsome—in fact, I think he's about as near homely as they make 'em—and he's conceited—awfully conceited. He isn't rich either—makes just a fair living, though he hopes to do better some day. He's pretty fond of his own way, I've discovered, but you could manage him without doubt. He's"—

"He's everything you say he isn't," interrupted Leonora. "He's handsome and manly and wonderful and—anyway, money isn't everything."

"Why, Leonora!" stammered the doctor, utterly taken back by her burst of passionate defense.

"And I know something else about him too. I found it out today. His handwriting is always the same funny boyish scrawl whether it's on a prescription or in a note sent with lady slippers."

The doctor's face was radiant.

"Leonora," he cried, "you do love me—there is no rival?"

"No, dear; none. You've won the rubber even if you did juggle the cards a bit. I acknowledge my defeat."

And then the man who was "pretty fond of his own way" insisted on taking thirty kisses—and one more to grow on.

Feeding Pet Flowers.

"Come and see me feed my flower pets," he said.

And he led the way, bearing some chopped raw fish in a saucer, to a huge aquarium. The bottom of the aquarium was covered with flowers. In the silent submarine garden clumps of beautiful bright growths, yellow, white, pink, blue, swayed gently in the clear water.

"Watch," he said, and he thrust down a small morsel of fish on a rod. Immediately a white flower like a daisy drew toward the fish, bending on its stalk. It wrapped its petals, like slim white fingers, about the food.

"Another," he said, and this time a yellow flower bent forward and took a morsel.

"Isn't it wonderful?" he cried. "Living, thinking flowers! Before they knew me they would turn away—they would shut all their petals tight when I tried to feed them. But they are my friends now, these sea anemones."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

CLIMBED MOUNT ROBSON.

Clergyman Explores Highest Peak of the Canadian Rockies.

Rev. G. R. B. Kinney, B. A., pastor of the James Bay Methodist Church, of Victoria, B. C., is an explorer as well as a parson.

In company with Dr. Coleman, geologist of the University of Toronto, and generally considered one of the first geologists in Canada, and his brother, a big rancher, who has made a number of similar excursions in past years, Mr. Kinney left Tappan on Aug. 1 last, and did not return to civilization until the 11th of December, when they arrived at Edmonton. Their objective point was to climb the summit of Mount Robson, a virgin peak and the highest of all the Canadian Rockies, said to be 13,700 feet above the sea level. Twice they went through the famous Yellow Head Pass, where the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will be built, passing the pack trains and camps of the surveyors. The route through the pass and eastward has been decided upon. The grade is the lowest of any of the Transcontinental Railway routes. Mr. Kinney says, the average grade being only one-tenth of one per cent., whilst the steepest anywhere is only fourtenth of one per cent. The scenery is not very rugged, there not being many high mountains in the vicinity. The track will, however, pass a number of beautiful lakes, including Yellow Head Lake, which is a little west of the pass, a very fine sheet of water eight or ten miles in length. The trains will run along the shore of this lake as well as of Moose Lake, a larger body of water lying farther west, the waters of which flow into the Fraser River. Its shores are covered with timber, largely Douglas fir, right down to the water's edge.

Mount Peele is a pyramid-like mountain, not far from Yellow Head Lake, a landmark towering far above its fellows, although its height does not exceed 9,000 feet above sea level. Mount Robson is quite near where the new railway will pass. It rises 10,000 feet above the surrounding valley, a truly gorgeous sight with its almost precipitous sides and with the covering of perpetual snow on its upper part. The exploration party climbed as far as the snow line, but the extremely inclement weather made it impossible to even attempt to scale the snow-clad sides. It was a disappointment to have to relinquish their object, but the trip was worth the time and trouble given to it.

"It would be impossible to attempt to describe all the new lakes, rivers and cataracts that we discovered," said Mr. Kinny. "I walked the whole distance and there was something happening all the time."

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of the invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

SAVED HER LIFE!

Wife and Mother Restored to Her Anxious Family

St. John, N.B., Sept. 14.—At one time it was feared that Mrs. J. Grant, of 23 White street, would succumb to the deadly ravages of advanced kidney trouble. "My first attacks of backache and kidney trouble began years ago. For six years that dull gnawing pain has been present. When I exerted myself it was terribly intensified. If I caught cold the pain was unendurable. I used most everything, but nothing gave that certain grateful relief that came from Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Instead of being bowed down with pain, today I am strong, enjoy splendid appetite, sleep soundly. Lost properties have been instilled into my blood—cheeks are rosy with color, and I thank the day that I heard of so grand a medicine as Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Every woman should use these pills regularly because good health says, and it's good, vigorous health that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills.

Jesse Airess Arrested At His Home Sunday

Awakened from his peaceful slumbers early Sunday morning, Jesse Airess was arrested at his home, River road, Auburn, by P. C.'s Newball and Mesberry and placed in the the lockup. Airess is wanted in Cobourg on a charge of theft, a warrant having been issued for his arrest some months ago. The offence is said to have been committee last summer, and soon after Airess left the place. He informed a reporter this morning that he went from Cobourg to Chicago, and from there to Arizona, where he was engaged as a rancher. He came here on the receipt of several letters from his parents, informing him that his father was seriously ill. He only arrived in the city on Saturday, and was at a loss to know what he had been arrested for.

The local police received a telegram some time ago from Chief J. C. Ruse, of Cobourg, asking them to arrest Airess on sight, and just as soon as he landed in Peterborough he was taken into custody.

SAVED LONDON WAIFS

message I made up my mind that, by God's help, this one lad, Jim Ilmsell, who had been my guide, should at all costs be cared for and watched over. But to awaken those eleven other boys, to hear their stories—stories doubtless of misery, of cruelty, of crime perhaps, and of sin—to find in every word an appeal for help which I could not give—was more than I could bear even to think of. So, taking another hurried glance at the wretched and never-to-be forgotten group; looked down once more upon the eleven upturned faces, white with cold and hunger, a sight to be burned into my memory, to haunt me I could find no rest except in action on their behalf, I breathed a silent prayer of compassion and hurried away just as one of the sleepers moved uneasily as if about to awake."

That the beginning of Dr. Barnardo's work. From that moment he gave his entire time to the rescue of that class of children. That was in 1866, and since then until the time of his death, as I have said, more than a quarter of million of waifs came under his care, an average of seventeen per day for a period of forty-one years. In 1905, which is the last year's work recorded in the biography, there were altogether 17,946 children in his homes, with an average of 7,049 throughout the year. On the 31st of December, 1905, there were 7,389 inmates under 14 years of age—4,149 boys and 3,640 girls. During that year he had 4,257 more boarding outside of the home, chiefly among farmers' families, where they had the advantage of an outdoor life, plenty of wholesome food, and were taught honest labor. During his last year he sent 1,171 boys and girls to permanent homes in Canada.

No change will be made in the charities he founded. His work will be carried on under the direction of William Baker, his chief assistant, and other men and women he trained for managers of the ninety-four homes, shelters and schools under his care. He was wise and far-sighted enough to incorporate "The Barnardo Homes" with a board of directors of leading business men and philanthropists of London. The articles of incorporation were drawn by his own hand, and he left a will setting forth the plans and policy he wished to have his successors follow. Indeed, his death has stirred up more interest in his work than was ever shown before, and one of the results will be a memorial fund upon which his successors can depend in the future whenever the voluntary contributions may be insufficient to pay the running expenses.

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My little baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1 1-2 tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family.

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

NO GAME LAST NIGHT.

Owing to the G. T. R. train with the Cobourg hockey team on board, being stalled, and not reaching the city until after ten o'clock, the game last night between the above team and the Strathcona was not played. The game will likely take place to-night.

CURLING.

Things were lively yesterday afternoon at the temporary shelter, recently erected on the recently burned down rink premises of the Peterborough Curling Club. At about 5.30 some of the more enthusiastic members of the club were gathered about the stove recalling bygone games and prognosticating the future chances of fortune for the local wielders of broom and stones.

The following players who will participate at Toronto in the Tankard Cup competitions, left last night, viz.: Robt. Neil, skip; Geo. Morrow, vice-skip; A. Mildre; W. E. Talbot, first; D. Davidson, skip; W. J. Thompson, vice-skip; W. McIlroy; O. Dumble, first.

Two rinks leave for Lindsay today to play there for the District Cup. These rinks compose the following, viz.: B. Rose, lead; J. Montgomery, C. Frost; R. Hicks, skip. A. Regan, lead; W. M. Lang, H. F. Fenge; D. Bell, skip.

The Crescents hockey team accept the challenge of the furniture men for a game on Brock Street Rink.

Cures Woman's Weakness.

We refer to that poor, weak, nervous, suffering woman known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with sleucorrhœa; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhœa, suppressed or absent monthly periods, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anæmic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present in myself, you can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

JEROME CALLS NO INSANITY EXPERTS-- HUMMEL AFFIDAVIT

People's Evidence All In--Sub-Rebuttal to be Short--Prisoner is Confident of Acquital at Present Trial

New York, Jan. 28. — The Thaw case progressed to within a few hours of its close to-day. By the time the noon recess was taken, the State had practically concluded its case in rebuttal, and the defence had only a few witnesses to call in sur-rebuttal. The summing up of the attorneys will begin to-morrow.

District Attorney Jerome caused a distinct surprise by announcing that he would call no expert witnesses to rebut the testimony of the alienists called by the defence. It was said he would rely upon arguing that a competent case of legal insanity had not been made out. His move also prevents the defence from calling the State's experts of last year in sur-rebuttal to question them as to their declarations before the lunacy committee that Thaw was an incurable paranoiac and likely to do violence if allowed to go free.

The proceedings were materially shortened by an agreement of counsel to read to the jury the testimony of Abraham Hummell concerning the affidavit of Evelyn Nesbitt as will be have signed in 1906. Charging cruelties against Harry Thaw, as given at the last trial. In return of the concession by the defence, Mr. Jerome allowed the witness defendant to go in evidence. The testament had been held up for want of proof as to its custody.

The will sets apart a sum of $50,000 for purposes of investigation in case the maker should die a violent or suspicious death.

The prosecution brought several witnesses forward to say Thaw seemed rational the night of the tragedy.

THE EVIDENCE.

New York, Jan. 28.—Before opening the Thaw trial there was a conference of counsel, having as its object the arrangement of a compromise as to admitting certain evidence in the copy of Evelyn Nesbitt affidavits supposed to have been made in Abra. Hummel's office. District Attorney Jerome offered to let in Harry Thaw's will by consent if Mr. Littleton would admit the affidavit. This arrangement would do away with the necessity of taking Hummel's testimony on Blackwell's Island, and would also hasten the conclusion of the case. No agreement had been announced, however, when the morning proceedings were taken up.

The State began by calling several eye-witnesses to the tragedy who declared Thaw's conduct impressed them as rational. One of the witnesses was Warner Paxson, engineer of Madison Square Garden. He said that just before the killing of Stanford White one of the performers on the stage made a remark about challenging somebody to a duel.

"Was the performer who passed the remark Harry Hudson?" asked Assistant District Attorney Garvin.

"I don't know. Harry Thaw's shots followed the remarks so quickly. I thought at first they were a part of the play."

Dr. Francis McGuire, the Tombs prison physician, was called by Mr. Jerome to testify as to Thaw's condition in jail, but his testimony was barred out when Mr. Littleton raised the objection as to professional privilege between physician and patient. It will be remembered that this point was first brought up by Mr. Jerome himself.

"FREE SUNDAY," SAYS THAW.

New York, Jan. 28. — "I will be free Sunday," declared Harry Thaw, confidently, as he was greeted by the court attendants and his counsel when he entered the court room yesterday.

He has recovered from his nervous condition, which bordered on a collapse Saturday, and which was made the more serious by the delay caused in awaiting the arrival of the five witnesses from Europe. Thaw talked eagerly to his lawyers for a few minutes, and seemed to be in an unusually good humor because the trial is nearing an end, and because he believes that his acquittal is certain.

COUNTY WARDEN THOMPSON

The selection of Mr. Thompson as Havelock as Warden of the county was yesterday spoken of favorably throughout the city, although some had hoped that the West Riding might get the honor. Then, apart from local ambition, the "man" chosen is the great test of the Council's choice, and in Mr. Thompson the county has chosen a gentleman in whose hands and management their municipal affairs will be safely and judiciously managed.

MISS VANDERBILT IGNORED HER FATHER'S WISH

Bitterly Opposed to Marriages with Foreigners

Count is Fond of Sport

New York, Jan. 28.—It is estimated that the gowns alone which the guests wore at the Vanderbilt-Szechenza wedding yesterday aggregated in cost $50,000 for the traditional "400" mark has been shattered and 800 persons assembled in the ballroom of the "big house" fronting the park at Fifty-Eighth street. Miss Vanderbilt's trousseau is said to eclipse that of any other American girl who has married a foreigner, and represents an outlay of $75,000. The marvellous assortment of gowns, wraps, millinery, and furs, all of which were purchased in Paris, would stock a large shop. The wedding gown itself is said to have cost $10,000. It was of Princess design, was of white satin, embellished with some beautiful white lace, which was worn by her mother at the wedding. A cluster of white orchids held the bridal veil in place. She wore about her neck a string of pearls and carried in one hand a prayer book bound in ivory and gold, while in the other she held a bouquet of white orchids and orange blossoms tied with white satin ribbons. The bride's gowns, like the other features of the wedding, were designed to be simple in effect.

FORGETS FATHER'S WISH.

The principals in this international union, their family history, and their doings and musings about offset in the scale of public interest speculation as to what Count Laszlo cost the Vanderbilts. Miss Vanderbilt is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and was introduced to New York society a little over three years ago, when her mother gave a brilliant ball at the family residence. Since her début she has spent a good part of each year abroad with her mother. She is not a particularly handsome young woman, but she is said to possess social charm and tact and is an accomplished musician. Apparently she has forgotten the vigorous attitude of Cornelius Vanderbilt, whose opposition to international marriages is said before his death, to have taken this uncompromising expression:

"I would sooner see a daughter of mine dead than married to a foreigner."

W. H. Moore, K. C., Advocates Governing This City by a Commission

In the City Council Chamber with Dr. Morrison in the chair. Among the members present were Messrs. Dumble, Ackerman, McClellan, Dodds and others. There were about 80 in the audience.

It was noted that a party of British dairymen will likely be here during next summer. There will be about sixty in the party. This group of representative English dairymen come here to study Canadian dairy methods as well as agricultural methods in Canada. Mr. Dodd, local C. P. R. agent, has received a communication asking what the city will do in the way of entertaining the visitors.

A resolution was passed that the Board of Trade co-operate with the City Council, County Council and Peterborough Cheese Board in welcoming the visiting dairymen and suitably entertaining them.

Mr. Dodd strongly advocated having the visitors here and entertaining them in a suitable manner.

Mr. W. H. Moore then spoke at length on matters of interest to the Board.

A resolution was moved as follows by Mr. D. W. Dumble, seconded by Mr. W. H. Moore: That the members of the Board of Trade of the city of Peterborough desire to place on record their sincerest appreciation of the manner in which the water in the Trent Valley Canal above Peterborough has been regulated and conserved under the direction of the capable Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer, Mr. M. J. Butler, C.E., affording, as it has, a regular flow at all times during the year, thereby enabling the various companies to supply electrical energy to the manufacturers in such a satisfactory manner as to enable them to operate their factories and mills without interruption for want of power.

We also approve the policy of the Department in building new dams and re-building old dams on the Gull River, Burnt River, Mississagua Creek and other tributary waters recently taken over from the Ontario Government by the Dominion Government, and we hope that it may be the determination of the Government to continue this satisfactory policy of conserving the waters.—Carried.

Mr. D. W. Dumble then made an impassioned and eloquent speech advocating the remarks made in Mr. Moore's address.

Rev. J. C. Davidson next rose and said that while the great companies in the city had large responsibilities, he asked who would be the manager of the town. Who would take the municipal responsibilities such as drainage, etc., and such matters as Council, as such bodies of various cities have to. He thought that the city should, year after year, be beautified as well as increased in population and growth. There are great blocks of the city laid out by owners. There is a conflict between the owners and the city. To stop the difficulty the city should see that such land should be beautified instead of being kept idle if the owners' future profit. A municipal manager would or could get a co-operation to arrange such difficulties.

City Clerk Armstrong next arose and said that he spoke with diffidence about the management of the city by a commission. He thought the terms of a city officer should be enlarged. The city commissioners might take charge of the city parks. In Peterborough no member of the Council, who is not paid, is not expected to go about looking after the streets.

Ald. Johnston next arose and paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Moore for his remarks. He (jokingly) had for some time just thought Mr. Moore was "the greatest crank going," and he sometimes thinks the same. He thinks, however, that in the management of the waterworks a great amount of the success of this branch of the city work is due to Mr. Moore. There was one man that the city could not get along without and that is Simon Armstrong, the city clerk. When any citizen wants information about anything connected with the city all he has to do is to call on Mr. Armstrong and he gets just what he looks for. The city councillors do a lot of work with little thanks. He thought the city would gain by having less representatives and they a proper compensation for their loss of time.

Rev. Mr. Webb said he much enjoyed the paper read by Mr. Moore. He advocated having a smaller number of men in the City Council was smaller and a commission appointed. He advocated having a smaller number of men in charge of the city business. Every man working for the city should be compensated, like ministers. (Laughter). He did not agree with my dear friend, Rev. Mr. Davidson, in saying that this city is not beautiful.

Mr. Garvin thought Mr. Moore's paper was excellent. The Ontario Government has placed the Northern Railway at Cobalt into the hands of commissioners. He did not see why the number of councillors should be reduced. He strongly recommended Mr. Armstrong's views.

Rev. Mr. Potter thought he was honored by the invitation to last night's meeting. While ministers might possibly not be supposed to take an active interest in municipal matters he was much impressed by the sentiments expressed at the meeting. As regards the term of office for aldermen, he has always advocated a third year term.

Mr. Yokome threw still more bouquets at Mr. Moore's paper. He had read a similar paper regarding Galveston. Canada is practically governed by a commission, by the Cabinet, which is responsible to parliament, and the latter to the people. The principle of government by commission has been a success.

The balance of last night's meeting will appear in to-morrow's issue.

Canadians Wrecked on Lonely Island

London, Jan. 28.— Nineteen Nova Scotian sealers on the schooner Baden-Powell have been landed at Liverpool. They left Nova Scotia on the 6th of September, 1907, for the South Shetlands, where they were wrecked. The crew rowed to Peebles Island, seventy miles, where they remained three weeks, enduring great privation. They then observed a schooner, which conveyed them to the Falkland Islands. Thence they were sent to Montevideo. Four men married and settled down at the Falkland Islands.

Large Turnout at the Fancy Dress Carnival

Notwithstanding the heavy snowstorm of yesterday, Manager Learmonth, with his proverbial push and ability, had a small army of men busily engaged, not exactly in picking off the individual snow flakes as they fell, but in getting the frozen vapor off in time so that the fancy dress carnival at the Street Railway Rink last night was held. The crowd, whilst large, was not as immense as though weather conditions had been different. Many people who expected to go were afraid the snowstorm would knock out the carnival. They, however, did not seemingly know Mr. Learmonth and his system. Taken altogether the carnival was a success and the street car service perfect. The winners at the carnival were as follows:

Ladies—Miss R. Logan, "Queen of the Fairy Ward."

Gentlemen's—K. A. Packard, "The Grey Eagle Indian Chief."

Comic—Mr. O'Brien, "A Trip to Cocntown."

Mr. Jas. Thompson Elected Warden of This County

Yesterday morning the County Legislative Fathers, who manage the municipal business of the fair and prosperous county of Peterborough, met for their first session in 1908.

The most important and first business transacted was the election of a county warden. For this important position Mr. Jas. Thompson, Reeve of Havelock, was awarded the nomination, and his election, as based upon his personal ability and past record, was then practically assured. Mr. Thompson will during the next year be at the helm of the ship of state of the county of Peterborough, being elected on the second vote. The voting was done, as in the good old days of yore, by an open vote. The new Warden was born in Lanark county, but spent the greater part of his life in Leeds. He moved to Havelock nine years ago, and for the past seven years has been identified with municipal politics in that village. He was councillor for three years and reeve for four. Mr. Thompson is a lumber merchant in Havelock and proprietor of a general store there.

The councillors present were: Messrs. Wm. Oakman, Asphodel; Jas. Russell, Belmont and Methuen; C. R. D. Booth, Ageley; Wm. Hales, Chandos; D. Moloney, Douro; C. J. Darling, Dummer; S. Kallen, Ennismore; Chas. Cotton, Galway and Kinmount; Jas. Ingram, Harvey; John Brown, North Monaghan; J. H. Fife and W. J. Porter, Otonabee; R. N. Scott and T. H. Graham, Smith; F. J. Moore, Lakefield; A. Bresult, Norwood; Jas. Thompson, Havelock. Among the others present were: County Solicitor E. A. Peck, County Clerk Ed. M. Elliott and ex-Warden McNulty.

Mr. Samuel Kallen moved that Mr. R. N. Scott be warden of Peterborough county for the present year, as it is time West Peterborough should have a representative in the warden's chair.

His motion was seconded by Mr. F. J. Moore.

Moved by Messrs. Darling and Brown, that Mr. Jas. Thompson be the warden for 1908.

On the first motion six votes were given for Mr. Scott and seven for Mr. Thompson. As neither received a majority of the votes of the whole council the clerk declared no election.

Moved by Messrs. Darling and Brown, that Mr. Thompson be the warden.

Moved by Messrs. Killen and Moore that Mr. Scott be warden.

On the second vote Mr. Thompson was elected by nine votes to six.

The council then adjourned to permit the warden-elect to take the declaration of office.

CANAL FROM MONTREAL TO NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27. — The barge canal project is discussed by State Engineer and Surveyor Frederick Skene in his annual report, made public tonight.

Mr. Skene declares the so-called "thousand ton" barge canal is now a misnomer. The width of the locks has been increased from twenty-eight to forty-five feet, and boats of nearly two thousand tons may now be used.

Mr. Skene says "the people of the State are eagerly demanding the completion of a barge canal, with but little knowledge of the enormous task and the difficulties and complications incident to its planning and construction. It is probable that the Canadian Government will determine to connect Montreal to New York in almost an air line by the Richelieu or Caughnawaga route.

"In anticipation of completion along this and the Canadian routes a movement is on foot to improve the terminal facilities of the barge canals."

BOY'S HAND CHEWED BY HUGE MASTIFF

Owner of Brute Battered It Unconscious with a Stick of Wood

Quebec, Jan. 28. — In full view of perhaps a dozen spectators a ten-year-old boy named Ernest Larose was attacked and fearfully lacerated by a huge mastiff at the Palais in this city about ten o'clock this morning.

The unfortunate youth is in a very critical state. The owner of the enraged animal rushed to the rescue himself, and battering the brute's head with a stick of wood, which he took from a sleigh in which he was driving, until the dog was rendered unconscious. It was ultimately slain.

The boy, who lay bleeding from several serious wounds, one of his hands having been completely bitten off, was removed to the hospital, where the physicians set to work upon him.

The owner of the dog, who is a farmer from one of the lower parishes, claimed that the boy made a kick at the brute while he was passing, and that this provoked the attack.

The Czar of Russia Plaintiff in Suit Tried in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, January 29.—One of the most extraordinary lawsuits that has been instituted in the Court of King's Bench for Manitoba, was commenced on Saturday in the prothonotary's office in Winnipeg. The plaintiff is the Czar of all the Russians, and he is suing for an immense sum of money taken from his far-away province of Turkestan by the former treasurer of the Department of the Interior of Turkestan.

The faithless steward of the White Czar is Stefan Proskurokoff, and with him is a woman of high degree, Anna Zeman by name.

Referring to the abstract, the statement says:—

"Proskurokoff, during his tenure of office, received in the course of his duties as such treasurer on account of the Russian Government sums of money amounting to $60,000 roubles, amounting to $130,000 in Canadian currency, and stole the said sums of money.

"Proskurokoff has, out of the money, purchased lands in Winnipeg, and he subsequently conveyed the properties to Anna Zeman, who paid no part in the purchase, and has no interest in the said lands.

"The transfer was made to protect Proskurokoff's fraud and to effectuate his unlawful object of defrauding the plaintiff."

Nicholas Romanoff concludes by praying the court for an order for the delivery to him or for the sale of the lands, goods and chattels and the payment to him of the amount realized thereon. Lastly, he states that "the plaintiff proposes that this action be tried at Winnipeg, in Manitoba."

The case has excited much interest in legal circles here, and, though the action is being tried in the civil courts, some remarkable revelations are expected. The Czar's advocate here is J. E. O'Connor.

Ends Her Life with Morphine

London, Ont., Jan. 27. — Disappointed in love and as the result of a violent quarrel with her lover, Miss Levina Annette, of 389 Globe Street, took morphine last evening with suicidal intentions and died as a result this morning.

The girl, it is claimed, has been keeping company with Mr. Robert Brennan. The young man called at her home last evening and when he was about to depart a quarrel ensued.

The girl left her home, and is supposed to have taken the poison a few minutes before her departure. She started for the home of Mrs. Keough, 736 Hill Street, and a few minutes after her arrival she was taken violently ill. A physician was hastily summoned, who diagnosed the cause as one of poisoning and immediately administered an emetic. Thinking she had completely recovered, he left at 1 o'clock. At 3 o'clock this morning she suffered a relapse, and when the physician arrived he found it necessary to return to his office for medicine. Before his return the young woman was dead.

Deceased was 20 years of age, and had resided in the city but a short time. Dormer Ferguson was called, but concluded upon investigation that an inquest would be unnecessary.

Sports

In the primaries of Group 5, Ontario Tankard, at Granite Rink, East Toronto defeated Brampton 30 to 26, but the Caledonia-Peterborough contest was a better one, Caledonians winning out by three ends on extra ends. When the regulation 18 ends were completed, T. Rennie of the Caledonians was on up on Neil of Peterboro, the card reading 15-14. On the other rink the Caledonians under R. Rennie were one down. On the extra end T. Rennie was two up, and R. Rennie made sure by adding one, making the final the final total 31 to 28.

Dual Ownership of Land in Ireland

The report of the royal commission on Irish poverty and congestion, from which the cable has brought us some extracts, emphasizes the fact that the greatest Irish problem is still the land problem, or dual ownership. Much important and theoretically far-reaching land legislation has been enacted in the last twenty years, but its application has been slow and marked by interruptions and difficulties.

The recent excitement over "cattle driving", a practice which has led many tory organs and politicians to demand resort to "coercion"—that is, the suspension of trial by jury and other rights and privileged, and short shrift for alleged offenders—and to accuse Mr. Birrell, chief secretary of Ireland, of cowardice, weakness and hypocrisy, and also served to direct the attention of thoughtful men in the United Kingdom to the need of additional land legislation. Cattle driving is admittedly illegal and reprehensible, and leading Irish churchmen and representatives have not hesitated to condemn it as not only intrinsically wrong, but palpably inexpedient politically, since it creates powerful opposition to the very reforms which the Irish tenants are determined to secure from the present liberal government. Yet not a few of the nationalists have taken the position that the particular problem of the grazing lands would have been neglected for an indefinite time had not the cattle drivers made it a burning issue by their illegal acts.

Be this as it may, the British government has promised to introduce a bill in parliament this year dealing with the grazing lands—providing for their compulsory purchase and conversion into small farms. This announcement should put an end to cattle driving as a demonstration in favor of new land reform. It should also put an end to the bitter controversy over the suggested revival of the dreaded crimes act in Ireland.

An Irish university bill, designed to remove a grievance in connection with higher education, is also to be presented by the British Government. A warm debate on Irish policy is probably inevitable, but that is not nearly so important as the question of the attitude of the lords toward the proposed Irish reforms.

Temperance is Surging Forward

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 29. — With such force has the temperance wave struck Missouri that 68 out of 114 are already dry, and many others are approaching that state.

St Louis, not in any county, is still wet, except on Sundays, when Governor Folk's lid is kept on tight. But even St. Louis, whose industries include the largest brewing plant in the world, is liable to become a teetotaler. The largest part of St. Louis doesn't want to stop drinking, but may be compelled to by Missouri. Some "anti-saloonists" admit that the city will vote wet by a majority of 20,000 to 25,000. Kansas City and St. Joseph, too, like their beer and whiskey, and probably can be relied upon for wet majorities. The state voted under 700,000. The St Louis vote is about 115,000; the Kansas City vote about 35,000, and the St. Joseph vote about 12,000. The wet majority of these three cities combined which the rest of the state must overcome in order to abolish the liquor traffic in the state, will not exceed 30,000 or 40,000, according to statements made to The News correspondent by experts who have watched the situation closely.

The present strong temperance sentiment in Missouri is the outgrowth of a movement begun in Jefferson City, the state capital, March 13, 1833, by a speech delivered by Frances E. Willard who was touring the United States delivering lectures in every city of 10,000 population and over and obtained permission to speak in the State House of Representatives.

One reason for the success of the Missouri Anti-Saloon league is the breadth of its creed religiously and politically. Republicans, Democrats, Protestants, Catholics, and Jews are bound together in this remarkable organization to fight one common enemy—rum.

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Tonight

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Church will be held to-night. Tea will be served by the ladies of the congregation from 6 to 8 o'clock, after which the annual business meeting will be held. Copies of the financial statement were issued on Sunday and showed that the collections for 1907 amounted to $4,527.32. The total receipts for the year were $12,201.42, as follows:

Open contributions	$ 662.60
Envelope contributions	3,894.72
Donations for honorarium to Rev. Dr. Terrance	2,227.20
Donated on account of debt fund	450.50
Special collection for poor fund over	26.20
Open collection paid to Sessions fund	50.10
Amount raised by mortgage	5,000.00

The total expenditure was $3,903 for salaries; honorarium for Rev. Dr. Terrance, $2,500; special repairs and renovations, $1,905.47, and various other smaller items, leaving a balance on hand of $128.28 on January 1, 1908.

There is no debt on current account, while the mortgage indebtedness of the church is only $5,000, which includes all outstanding liabilities.

Mass Meetings of Employed

Berlin, January 28.—Five mass meetings of the unemployed, organized by the Socialists, were held to-day in the outlying districts of Berlin. Fully 15,000 men were in attendance. Strong detachments of police armed with sabres and revolvers were stationed in the vicinity. Interference was not necessary.

HOW CHILDREN ARE QUICKLY STRENGTHENED

Develop Them with Ferrozone, Which Makes Rich Blood, Hardy Muscle, Steady Nerves.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong, rugged frames their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance.

Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

EVERY CHILD IMPROVES ON FERROZONE

Mrs. E. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit me, and noticing her pale and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength, and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece about the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic it has my strongest endorsement."

The reason Ferrozone works so beneficially with Ferrozone is that it acts directly on the bloody freeing it of all unhealthy matter, at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron.

This at once results in more strength new spirit and renewed vitality. Just one tablet at meal time works wonders.

Refuse to accept any article the druggist may say is just as good. Get Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

GIVE THINGS A "GOOD YEAR" LIFT

This is bound to be a good year in Canada.

Immigration from the United States will add perhaps 60,000 persons to the population of our Western Provinces.

Railway construction will go steadily on and many millions will be put into new railway enterprises.

The market will soon be in a normal condition, with a confident, buoyant people behind investments.

The prairie is such as to assure a fine wheat crop in Ontario, farmers are happy and prosperous, factories are resuming the ten-hour day and the banks are showing magnificent statements.

THE SOVEREIGN BANK

Mr. D. M. Stewart, founder of the Sovereign Bank and general manager of that institution until its re-organization early last summer under reduced capital, does not hesitate to express his surprise at the collapse and in the same voice to account for the suspension of the bank on the 17th, instant, by attributing it to mismanagement meantime. As nearly every business man has friends akin to those comforters of Job, Mr. Stewart has doubtless had it conveyed to him that he himself brought about the original troubles of the institution. He also speaks with but little reserve of some who stood near the front while he was trying to prove to Canadian bank managers, directors and others that "the age of miracles is not yet passed." The retired general manager is indignant that he should be thus referred to, and if nothing arises to prevent it, we may expect to be regaled with savory morsels from behind the scenes of other days. Persons interested in the investments in Alaska railway and Soo enterprises could also furnish some enlightenment.

VOYAGE OF HUDSON.

Some Account of Navigator Who Discovered Famous Strait.

Henry Hudson was a great man by nature, yet the fame which he won was in great measure thrust upon him. It rests entirely on four voyages, which were all unsuccessful as regards their immediate object—the discovery of a commercial passage to China other and shorter than that by the Cape of Good Hope.

He has been described as the normal product of a great epoch. "Neither before nor since his time could any man have conceived a project at once so reasonable and so unreasonable, so dependent upon sober logic and upon baseless fable, upon newly awakened knowledge and old superstition, as that which urged him again and again to penetrate the barriers of an unknown west for a pathway to an impossible east."

It was a consequence of the times in which he lived that every known effort of Hudson's life was baffled or at least hampered by the men who sailed with him. Neither by birth, residence, language nor sympathy was he a Hollander. He was an Englishman, whose ignorance of the Dutch language and characteristics impelled the Dutch portion of his crew to actual mutiny on the third and most famous of his voyages—that undertaken in 1609 at the expense of the Dutch East India Co. This mutinous spirit turned him aside from the prosecution of the plan to which he was pledged, but by the exercise of a fraction of his rightful authority, by the use of such diplomatic skill as he possessed and by the buoyancy of an unyielding hope he effected a compromise which enabled him to bring the Half Moon to the North American coast to discover the mouth of the great river which now bears his name, to sail up its waters for 150 miles and to make possible the Dutch settlement on Manhattan Island which was to be fraught with such epoch making consequences.

His fourth and last voyage, in 1610, resulted in the discovery of the strait now known as Hudson Strait and the great bay which has received the name of Hudson Bay. Yet it is a notable fact that the Hollanders, in whose service Hudson sailed showed no appreciation of the value of his explorations, and that neither the makers of their charts, nor the governing boards of their merchants deemed his achievements on the American coast worth mention till some time after his death.

Thus it happens that of Hudson's personal history nothing is known before April 19, 1607, when he sailed from London on his first voyage, or after June 21, 1611, when the crew of the Discoverer mutinied on their way back through the straits, put him, his son and seven loyal sailors into a shallop and cut them adrift. The ringleaders and half the crew perished miserably, but the Discoverer was finally brought home to London, where the survivors were obliged to stand trial for their share in the events that culminated in the abandonment of Hudson. Several expeditions were organized to search for Hudson and his companions, but they were all unsuccessful. Hudson Bay remains at once his monument and his grave.

Only from fragmentary journals can the historian piece together the narrative of those four years of wandering. They suffice to show that Hudson was an intrepid, skillful, persevering explorer, who maintained no novel theories and made no startling original discoveries, but who was certainly a contributor to the world's store of knowledge and a promoter of enterprises that have added to its progress.

It detracts nothing from our estimate of this remarkable man to acknowledge the explorations and labors of others who preceded him. As Mr. Bacon, a writer who has recently written a volume on the subject, puts it, the chief value of his third voyage was not in its novelty but in its thoroughness and timeliness.

"We believe that previous to 1609 geographers had some information concerning a stream that flowed southward and debouched into the ocean about the latitude and longitude of Manhattan Island." Mr. Bacon examines the claims of his alleged predecessors, and decides that among them Verazzano and Gomez probably accomplished the passage of the Narrows before Hudson was born. "We may consent to abandon Hudson the discoverer, but we insist upon doing honor to Hudson the explorer. The merchant, the colonist and posterity are justified in making him the titular hero of the river that has been named in his honor. His work had the somewhat rare merit of being thorough. The forerunners of Henry Hudson achieved little that was of importance to mankind, while his exploration of the river that bears his name has justly placed him among the immortals."

MISS ELIZABETH BURCHENAL.

Teaches Girls in the Public Schools How to Play.

Folk dancing, relay races, shuttle races and athletic games are now the happy portion of the public school girls of New York city. Gymnastic work for girls has always been a problem with the school authorities in the crowded districts of the largest city of the country. In the congested parts where playgrounds are unknown the boys use the streets and sidewalks for ball, but the little girls have to be taught how to play.

The teaching of play is the mission of Miss Elizabeth Burchenal. She is director of the girls' branch of the Public School Athletic league. This organization is misleading as to its name, for it is not a part of the public school system. It is a philanthropic society carried on by a group of charitable women who have permission to use the gymnasium of the various schools. The methods of the league are unique. Miss Burchenal alone receives a compensation for her work. She instructs such teachers in the elementary schools to dance as wish to avail themselves of the privilege, and they pass on their knowledge to their little pupils. Both lessons take place out of the regular school hours. The work of the school league is at the beginning of the second year. Over 6,000 little girls from crowded tenement homes were taught the joy of playing last year.—Delineator.

Hand Him a Lemon.

Here are directions for a lemon party:

As the guests arrive at the lemon party meet them at the door and hand him or her a lemon, with a little bundle of Japanese toothpicks. These may be purchased for 5 cents a box, each box containing ten or more little bundles of toothpicks. When all the guests have arrived give them seats at a table, provide each one with a sharp pointed knife and tell them they are expected to make an animal from the lemon they hold and that a prize is to be given to the one who makes the most artistic and a consolation prize for the most grotesque. The prizes for the same may be a silver lemonade spoon for the first and a lemon shaker or squeezer for the second. A lemon race may follow, playing it in the same way that the potato race is played.

The requirements are ten lemons, two vegetable dishes and two tablespoons. The lemons are placed in two parallel rows, five in a row and three feet apart, one of the dishes heading each row. The company forms in two equal lines, one behind each row, the lines being numbered respectively with odd and even numbers. A timekeeper is appointed to keep tally and call time for the contestants, who are allowed just three minutes to do their special "stunt." When all is ready Nos. 1 and 2 take the spoons and start down their respective lines, the object being to see which side owns the most members who can gather up the line of lemons one at a time in a spoon, carry them to the vegetable dish and deposit them without touching the fruit with their hands. All having had a trial, the accounts are balanced, the judge renders his verdict, and a prize is given to the victorious side.

A lemon pie with a good thick meringue affords much fun in its proper distribution as a prize.

The refreshments for the lemon party should all contain lemon in some form. The sandwiches may be chicken with wafer thin slices of lemon. Also salad may be served in lemon cups made from the skins or simply garnished with sliced lemons. The lemon ice or lemon jelly can be served in the lemon skins also, and lemon layer cake or small cakes with lemon icing may accompany the ice or jelly. Of course there will be plenty of lemonade to drink and lemon drops to fill the bonbon dishes. Let each one take home his lemon pig or other animal as a souvenir of the occasion.

Punching Bag For Women.

Throw open the windows and punch a bag. This is the latest beauty advice.

A well known writer on athletics insists that by punching a bag for ten minutes a day for a week a woman can do more to reduce her weight and preserve a good figure than by observing a strict diet for six months.

Bag punching develops the chest, neck and shoulders and reduces the waist. It exercises every muscle, gives thin women curves and makes stout women thin. If a woman has a poor complexion the exercise will give her the tints of peaches and cream if anything will. The object of all exercise is to make the blood circulate rapidly and well, and bag punching does that to perfection.

Unlike fencing, bag punching requires no instructor, yet its advocates say it will make a woman just as graceful and as light on her feet as the other exercise. She will learn to poise and balance herself, and this will give her a springy step and an easy and graceful carriage. Unlike fencing, too, no antagonist is required. This is another strong point in favor of bag punching.

These are the rules of the punching contest as laid down by an authority: Suspend the bag on a level with the shoulders and strike straight from the shoulder. This stroke brings into play a greater number of muscles than any other, tends to expand the chest and gives a good poise to the neck.

Ten minutes a day is long enough for the average woman, but twenty minutes will be better if she wants to reduce weight rapidly. Punch the bag twenty-five times with the right arm swing, rest a few moments and then try twenty-five strokes with the left hand.

Strike with the greatest regularity possible. Don't exercise an hour one day and then forget all about it for a week.

To Walk Well.

Don't drag your feet or fling them or lag or stride. Learn to glide into a room gracefully.

It is impossible for a woman to be awkward in her walk if she walks straight and keeps her knees stiff. The act of swinging the feet out gives one a graceful gait.

Walk slowly. Skirts wind around your calves when you walk rapidly, and all semblance of grace is lost. Walk in leisurely manner, as if you were a princess, not a hurried, worried, overworked woman.

Don't swing your shoulders.

Don't swing your arms.

Don't twist yourself in sinuous motions. Don't contort. Don't wiggle.

Hold your chin in. This is the most important thing of all.

Don't walk or look or act like an old person. There are no old persons in these days. Touch the ground first with the balls of your feet, with the heels striking an instant later.

Culinary Hints.

To cook potatoes in a different way try them in Hungarian style. They must be pared and cut into cubes of like size and not very large. Parboil them for three minutes. Drain off the water and cook them in melted butter, shaking rather than stirring them. When tender, but unbroken, add enough butter to what remains in the pan to make two tablespoonfuls in all after the potatoes have been turned out. Stir into this butter two tablespoonfuls of flour and a little onion juice and when well mixed add a cupful of milk. Let this boil and then remove it from the fire and add the beaten yolk of an egg, some salt and mild red pepper, known as paprika. Return the cooked potatoes to this sauce and let them stand till very hot again. Place them in a hot dish and sprinkle finely minced parsley over them.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowance crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Fate and Humpy.

.....By Charles Calverson.

Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcells.

"What does the lady look like?" demanded Humphries.

Colton regarded him coolly.

"I don't think that there will be more than a dozen or two ladies clamoring for transportation to the Twin Hearts," said Humphries' employer. "Even your benighted intellect might appreciate that fact."

Humphries nodded and turned away. Curtis Colton, owner of the Twin Hearts, was peculiar. Above all, he wanted men about him who could carry out brief orders without demanding an elaborate amplification of the same. Humphries had supposed that in this case the question was justifiable, but if Colton thought otherwise he had no comment to make.

He went down to the corral and hitched the blacks to the buckboard, one or two of his fellows lounging over to see what was up.

"Goin' to town, Humpy?" demanded Ben Tyler, lighting a fresh cigarette.

"No," said Humphries, with asperity, "I'm goin' to drive over to China to hire a new cook. What makes you think I was goin' to town?"

Tyler grinned amiably.

"You'd think he was the old man if you could hear him talk with your eyes shut," he commented musingly to Buck Byers. "By the way, I wish you'd stop on the way back and bring out some makings."

He tossed a silver dollar to Humphries as that worthy climbed into the seat and started the team. Humphries pocketed the coin, with a grunt, and devoted himself to his thoughts.

That something was doing up at the big house was clearly apparent. The minister from Silver Forks had driven over that morning, and now he was sent to Brayleys for a young woman, with orders to return her to the ranch with all speed. He grinned as he observed the brand on the flanks of the blacks, the twin hearts from which the ranch took its name.

"Ought to put a cupid's arrow through 'em," he told the blacks. "Then you'd look like valentines. Wonder who it is goin' to get hitched?"

He ran through the list of probables, but could not decide until the Overland paused at the little flag station to deposit a young woman and a trunk. As the girl raised her veil Humphries sprang forward.

"Miss Bess," he cried, a note of real welcome in his voice, "I've got the buckboard here."

He held her hand an instant in greeting and then strapped the trunk behind the seat before helping her in. The year before he had been working on the Circle Z when Bess Farley had come to spend the summer with her brother, his employer. Even then there had been talk of a marriage between her and Colton, but the gossip had died down, and it was supposed that there had been a quarrel. Now she was here, the preacher was here, and there could be no doubt but that she would become queen of the Twin Hearts as well as the heart of every rider on the range.

Humphries engaged her in conversation, supplying bits of local news and listening with an amiable grin to her tales of "back east." Almost before they knew it they had come to the gate of the ranch inclosure, and Humphries was about to jump down and open it when she laid a detaining hand upon his arm.

"Why stop here?" she asked. "Circle Z is only five miles ahead."

"Circle Z?" he echoed. "I thought you were coming here."

"Did my brother say so?" she asked.

"I haven't seen Mr. Farley in six months," he said. "I'm working here now, and Mr. Colton told me to go and get a lady. I asked what she looked like, and he cut me off short, like he always does. I supposed it must be all right. You was the only lady to get off."

"I didn't know that you had left my brother's ranch," she explained in return, "and I thought, of course, it was all right. I wrote him three days ago that I was coming."

"I guess the letter's there at the house," commented Humphries. "You see, he went up to Denver about a week ago, so nobody knows that you're coming. Better turn in here. The Circle Z house is all closed up while your brother's away."

Humphries climbed out of the buckboard and opened the gate, driving the team through and closing it again before he climbed back to the seat.

"You will be better off here," he continued comfortably, "and there's the minister from Silver Spring to be your chaperon."

"What is the minister doing here?" she demanded. Humphries blushed.

"I did think he came over to do a job of hitchin'," he explained, "but I guess now that I was in wrong. Here's the boss," he added as Colton came out on the porch at the sound of the approaching vehicle.

It was a puzzled Colton who came down the steps to assist Bess from the buckboard.

"This was the only lady that got off the train, so I brought her," explained Humphries defiantly as he unloaded the trunk and drove off to the stables.

"I did not know that Humpy was working for you," explained Bess as the buckboard disappeared around the corner of the house. "I supposed that he had been sent for me, since I wrote Ned several days ago that I was coming. I learn that the house is closed up, and I could not explain to Humpy that I would rather live in the closed house than—here."

"You will be sent right on if you wish it," he said stiffly. "I sent to the train for a woman who is to marry the cook. He was anxious to have the ceremony over before the boys would find out, and I did not explain to Humphries who was coming."

"Quite a complication," she said, with a faint smile. "I am sorry to put you to the additional trouble of sending me on."

"At least you will stay to dinner," he urged. "I cannot let you go on before you have eaten. Dinner will be ready in half an hour. Meanwhile you can wash up and rest on the piazza."

He took her acceptance for granted and led the way to a spare room, where he saw that she was provided with toilet accessories. He did not show up until dinner time, when he and the minister enjoyed the meal the more for her gracious presence at the table. Colton followed her out upon the piazza at the conclusion of the dinner and stood beside her under the heavy vines that screened the porch.

"I shall send a man around presently," he said softly, "if you insist upon going, but, Bess, dear, can't you reconsider your determination?"

"I could not very well stay here," she answered indifferently.

"As my wife?" he asked. "Are you going to hold against me that one silly moment last summer when I lost my head and my temper and through that lost you? If you could know how bitterly I have repented."

"Penitence does not efface the scar of the wound you inflicted," she said. "I, too, have suffered, but I have taught myself to forget."

"And will you not forgive as well as forget?" he pleaded. "When I saw you at the head of the table just now and realized that but for my impetuosity you would always be at the head of that table, it was all I could do to keep from crying out for forgiveness. Won't you forgive?"

For a moment the girl searched the eager face before her. It was a face good to look upon, and her own heart cried out in surrender, but still she paused. Then from around the corner of the house came Humphries' rich barytone. It was a "cow song," crude as to words and simple in its melody, a song sung to cattle on the night watches to reassure the timid animals. She remembered that he had been singing it the night that Colton proposed, and a great wave of tenderness swept over her as she recalled those happy days of last summer. The white hand stole out and slipped within Colton's browned fingers.

"Since fate—and Humpy—seem to will it so," she said softly.

Squirrels in Missouri.

Squirrels are generally thickest in the heavy hickory timber in the big tracts of overcup oaks. When these crops have borne but slightly the squirrel transfers his feeding grounds to the willow oak flats, where an abundance of these small acorns makes up for the lack of other dainties. But if a farmer has plowed up a tract of rich swamp land and planted it in corn, then the gray squirrel feels as though the nut crop was but a very common diet and levies tribute day after day on the farmer who has had the audacity to invade a territory that has been sacred to him for centuries.

Gray squirrels are out stirring from the first gray of dawn until the hour of 10 a. m. After that they are not seen again until 4 p. m. On very windy days few stir about. During the nutting season they are very gentle, and during the latter part of January, while watching the mallards drop into the willow oak flats, they scampered all around us, and hardly a tree but held a band of these running varmints. Often they boldly returned within ten yards of us. In the fall they are more wary of man and make good shooting as they run and jump from tree to tree, as they seldom lie still and permit one to walk all around their tree, like the fox squirrel of the hills.—Forest and Stream.

Tobacco Tongs.

The tongs, the size of a wishbone, were of rough gold, studded here and there with turquoises.

"They are tobacco tongs," said the antiquary. "They date back to Elizabeth's time. This pair belonged to Raleigh—at least I have been told so, and who is there to contradict me? In Elizabeth's time they had no matches. When a man wanted a light, therefore, he took his tobacco tongs from his girdle and nipped out of the fire a redhot chunk of wood. This glowing coal, held in the tongs, gave a beautiful light. Tobacco tongs, as my pair witnesses, were often very costly and ornate. Of gold, of silver, of ivory and decorated with diamonds, rubies, emeralds and so forth, they were pretty trinkets to dangle upon silken coats. They are being revived now. Cigarette holders are being made in their shape. That is why I keep this old pair in my window."—Los Angeles Times.

Ancient Sweetmeats.

Some sweetmeats have for centuries remained unchanged in their composition. The custards and omelets of 500 years ago still remain unchanged. Again, centuries ago slices of apple, parsnip, etc., were dipped in batter and fried just as we make our beignets. In the fifteenth century "to mak payn pardieu" the cooks fried "payn-mayne or freshe bred" and soused it with yolks of eggs sweetened. In the cookery books of today we find "pain perdu" means slices of stale bread soaked in milk, then dipped in beaten egg and fried in boiling fat and served hot in custard.—Blackwood's Magazine.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—eases blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful, (tastily, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain always is. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

There have just been placed on exhibition in the Egyptian galleries of the British Museum a select few of the Egyptian inscriptions recently discovered in the Sinaitic peninsula. One of the most interesting is a sandstone stele and altar set up by Sebekher-heb, an overseer of the Royal apartments, and a subordinate official named Kemen, who were attached to the Royal Chancery. The tablet, which is dated in the forty-fourth year of Amenem-hat III., about B. C. 2300, is of red sandstone, and contains an inscription in which a prayer is offered to Athor, the "lady of the turquoise land," by which name the Sinaitic peninsula was known to the Ancient Egyptians. There is also the lower portion of a statue of Usertesen II., B. C. 2333, dedicated to Hathor by the King's officials stationed in Sinai, and the lower portion of a seated figure of Hathor, dedicated to the goddess of Senefru, a captain of the boats in the reign of Amen-emhat I. The objects were discovered at Serabit-el-Kadim, in the Sinaitic peninsula, and were presented to the British Museum by the Egypt Exploration Fund.

Fen Country Spooks.

South Lincolnshire has its haunted house. It is situated at Marton, and for some time past the occupiers, it is said, have been disturbed at nights by unaccountable rappings at the doors and windows. Up to the present the cause is an absolute mystery. One evening three distinct knocks were heard at the front door, but upon the tenant proceeding to open it no one was there. Shortly afterwards the knockings were repeated. The same thing occurred on subsequent nights, and the village policeman secreted himself to watch and see if anyone was playing a prank. While he was thus engaged the knocks were frequently heard, and so loud occasionally that they were audible to the next-door neighbour. On one occasion the tapping came to the door while the policeman stood by, and when there was absolutely nothing to reveal the cause of it. All attempts to unravel the mystery have proved in vain. The house has become notorious, and many people have visited it with the object of hearing the supernatural tappings for themselves.

A Tip to Him.

"Of course," said the long winded bore, "it's essential that a man should weigh his words when speaking."

"Yes, and for some," remarked Pepprey, "it's well not to give such generous measure."

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced ISO PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

What Many Men Need

Dr. Hamilton Has a Prescription That "Sets" You Right Up.

When a man has lost ambition to "dig in" and stay at things—when he complains of headache, fullness in the right side, pains in the shoulder blade—it's purely a case of liver.

These symptoms invariably indicate a clogged, inactive liver. The body can't get rid of its wastes, and the whole system is half paralyzed.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills stimulate the liver into activity in one night. Being a mild vegetable laxative they produce results in a few hours. The bilious headache and constipation are cured, spirits rise, complexion clears, animation returns. Nothing in the calendar so efficient for that tired lazy feeling as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Very mild, don't interfere with work, invariably do lots of good. Try a 25c box, all dealers.

Their Montreal Works

The Times is in receipt of an invitation from the Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Manager of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company, to the opening of their Montreal works and to luncheon, which will take place at the Windsor Hotel, to-day. This splendid new factory is, we understand, one of the best equipped and most modern factories in Canada.

Children's Aid Society to Help

The Children's Aid Society, as they have done so nobly in the past, may now have, and, if necessary, will, step in to relieve the distress among the children of the local poor owing to present hard times. It is understood that the society has considerable room at its shelter which might be well used for children of families in actual want. Mr. George Cochrane knows of at least twenty-five children who would benefit by being taken in charge during the critical stage of winter.

Smallpox in Brockville

Brockville, Jan. 29. — Brockville people are sending out circulars, showing that the smallpox situation in that town is not nearly so serious as reported. No sensible person supposed it was. Other places besides Brockville have had experience with rumor-mongers, who hesitate not to use falsehood in order to hurt the trade of a neighboring town, or city. And it all goes to show, perhaps, that publicity harms nothing worth harming and is after all one of the greatest aids to public safety.

New Order Issued

A new order just issued by the Railway Commissioners of Canada provides that in future all passenger cars shall be equipped with fire extinguishers, under a penalty of $25 for each failure to comply with the regulation. Other new regulations for the prevention of fire provide that watchmen be required to inspect wooden trestles as soon as possible after the passage of a locomotive over the same; that a proper supply of water in barrels be kept on each structure on this kind; that locomotives be provided with a netting mesh to prevent the escape of sparks, and that precautions be taken to prevent fire in the prairie sections.

Havelock is to be Congratulated

Havelock is to be congratulated on getting the County Wardenship for the first time in its history. Not only is the village honored by the County Council's choice of Mr. James Thompson as Warden, but the county is lucky in the wise choice of so estimable a gentleman and so well qualified a man, eminently fitted for the important duties involved in the chief magistracy of the great county of Peterborough.

Miss Brown Sustains Accident

The many friends of Miss Brown, a cousin of Mr. Chas. Brown, the Simcoe street flour and feed merchant, will be pleased to learn that enquiries made last night elicited the fact that this popular local lady was doing nicely and as well as could be expected. It might be noted for the information of those who had not heard of the regrettable circumstances, that at six o'clock Monday evening Miss Brown, who resides with Mrs. Cyril Currier at 3 Fleming Place, was the victim of a very painful accident.

She was passing the Post Office when she slipped on the icy sidewalk and fell. Miss Brown was taken home in a cab. Dr. Halliday was called, and it was found that Miss Brown's left leg had been broken in two places. Still, as above noted, she is doing nicely.

C. P. R. Pension Fund

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has raised the minimum retiring allowance to employees entitled by length of service to a pension so that no one shall have less than twenty dollars per month on leaving the company's service to participate in the pension fund. President Sir Thos. Shaughnessy has just issued a circular to the employees intimating that the regulations governing the pensions have been revised as it had been found that in some cases the amount of the pension was not enough to protect the recipient in his declining years. The number of employees who were placed in the fund on all parts of the system from the Atlantic to the Pacific at the beginning of the present year was about fifty. The pension fund amounts to nearly $600,000.

Another Factory May Locate Here

The Times has it on good authority that the Woodville Biscuit Company intends to locate in Peterborough. A traveller for the firm was here yesterday on business, and in the course of conversation stated that the company was considering the advisability of bringing their plant to Peterborough. He believed there was a good opening for a biscuit factory here, and if satisfactory arrangements were concluded, the company would bring its factory to Peterborough.

The Woodville Biscuit Company is a comparatively new concern.

Confessed Forger Sentenced Monday

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock His Worship County Magistrate Geo. Edmison held court. It had been at the last session of the County Police Court, announced that the young man Hamilton, who some days ago pleaded guilty to having raised a cheque of the Lakefield Lumber Co. from $1.40 to $51.40, said cheque being cashed by a Havelock hotelkeeper, named Geo. Armstrong, was to receive sentence.

His Worship, however, yesterday afternoon said that he would reserve sentence until next Monday.

In response to a question put by a Times representative yesterday afternoon, after the trial, Mr. Edmison explained that his reason for further withholding sentence was due to reasons arising from something he had learned, but not for publication.

Wesley Irons and Alex. Nott, two Chemong Indians, were sentenced to pay $3.61 costs for their "drunk" of January 18 in the Indian village. This sum includes a nominal fine of 25 cents. John Jacobs, the non-Indian—Indian policeman, brought them in, all three snow-shooing it to the city.

Death of Mr. Thos. Gladman

One of Peterborough's oldest and certainly much respected residents in the person of Mr. Thos. Gladman passed away yesterday in Exeter, where he has resided with his son, Mr. F. W. Gladman, for the past two months. At 11.30 yesterday morning he became seriously ill, and at 1.30 passed away.

Mr. Gladman was 80 years of age. He was born in Port Hope on May 28, 1828, and had resided in Peterborough for 35 years, having, among other duties, most ably been bookkeeper for years for Mr. Adam Hall of this city.

His sons and daughters surviving are, Mrs. P. A. Kerr, G. G. Gladman and Chas. Gladman of Peterborough, David, of Niagara Falls; Mrs. J. A. Morrow, Parry Sound; and F. W. Gladman, Exeter.

The body will be brought to Peterborough for burial and will arrive here on the noon C. P. R. train tomorrow (Thursday). Interment will take place during the same afternoon. Mr. Gladman had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, to whom his death has dealt a heartfelt blow.

An Aged Couple Without Means

The Charity Board Monday night had to deal with a case which was called to their attention by the King's Daughters. An old man named Armshaw, aged 84 years, with his wife, has been receiving assistance from the ladies, who as a last resort, considered that the Board should assume the responsibility of them.

Mr. Armshaw and his wife came from Montreal to Belleville about three years ago, and after a short stay in the lake town came on to Peterborough, and have lived here ever since. The King's Daughters took up their case when they were first heard of, and have been giving them charity ever since.

They were living with their daughter who was married and had a family of six children. The daughter herself was not in the best of circumstances, and to add to their misfortunes the daughter's husband died. The King's Daughters cared for the old people for a long time, but they became so decrepit that they needed the daughter's attendance. The mother was a cripple and unable to help herself. The King's Daughters related all the circumstances to the Board and asked them to assume the care of the old people.

Had the case been reported to the Board in the first place the old couple would have been sent back to Belleville, but it was too late to do that when finally reported.

The Board decided to place Mr. and Mrs. Armshaw in the Protestant Home, where they can spend the rest of their days. Mr. and Mrs. Armshaw have lately been living on Townsend street.

Taken to the Nicholls Hospital

Among the patients at Nicholls Hospital is a young man by name, John Jones, of Kamloops, B.C. He was on his way home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, Glen Orchard, Muskkoka, but became so ill on the train that when he reached here on Saturday, it was thought advisable to have him removed to the hospital, where his condition is reported as serious. His illness dates its inception to Kamloops, still, although ill, Mr. Jones is determined to continue his journey home.

Grape-Nuts can be easily digested by the weakest stomach and soon strengthens the digestive organs so that a "variety" of food can be eaten with comfort. Be sensible. Do not put off the test. "There's a reason." Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

Hartley Benefit Concert Tomorrow Night

To-morrow night the citizens of Peterborough will have a grand practical chance for showing their appreciation of what Mr. David Hartley, Canada's leading pedestrian, has done for local athletics and towards advertising the city throughout the length of Canada.

The long talked of concert in honor and financial aid of Mr. Hartley will be held to-morrow night in the Market building. By kind permission of Lt.-Col. Stevenson and the officers of the regiment, the 57th band will render a special programme in which they will be assisted by the best of local talent. Such a great musical event should be greeted by a crowded house if only for the excellence of the programme, while the worthy object for which the concert is being held should result in a most liberal patronage. "Jimmy" Reynolds, of Port Hope, whom Hartley defeated in Toronto a short time ago, has been invited to be present, and he will be presented for the first time to a Peterborough audience.

An effort is being made to have Mrs. Hartley be a contestant at the six-day walking match to take place in Kansas City in February. Such noted Walkers as Edward Payson Weston, who recently completed a walk from Portland, Me., to Chicago, and Dan O'Leary, of Chicago, will take part. If Thursday's concert is well received, it is likely that Mr. Hartley will go to Kansas City.

The Use of Intoxicants Barred

Baltimore, January 29. — It was officially announced to-day that hereafter all employees of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad having anything to do with the direction or running of trains will not be permitted to use intoxicants at any time, either when on or off duty, and no person using such beverage will be employed. This action has been taken by the officials of the railroad in an effort to reduce the number of accidents.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as in catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels, (as mucous colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

"Favorite Prescription" is advised for the entire range of diseases—functional weaknesses, irregularities and female complaints, it is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glycerine extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

J. HAMPDEN BURNHAM AND T. E. BRADBURN CHOSEN AS THE CONSERVATIVE STANDARD BEARERS

At the Convention Held in the Bradburn Opera House Last Night

Large Number of Delegates Present from Every Part of the Constituency

Mr. J. H. Burnham will Contest the Riding for the Dominion House and T.E. Bradburn the Ontario House

Last night owing to the bitterly cold weather the meeting of the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough, held in Bradburn's Opera House, was not as largely attended as it would have been had even moderate weather conditions existed. Still the large hall was fairly well filled.

Throughout the Opera House were placed signs designating where members of the various city and township delegates were to sit.

Mr. James Kendry, ex-M.P., occupied the chair and first appointed Messrs. Jos. Edgar and J. G. M. Wilson as scrutineers.

Mr. W. H. Moore moved that Mr. E. A. Peck be a third member on the committee on credentials. — Carried unanimously.

Next to Mr. Kendry on the platform was Mr. J. S. Carstairs, secretary of the Dominion Liberal-Conservative Association. Mr. Snider, Dominion organizer, sat next to Mr. Carstairs.

Mr. Kendry said he would like any accredited delegates present to take the places allotted to them. He asked that the prospective candidates for nomination would take seats on the platform.

Mr. A. P. Poussette asked, "Have any gentlemen been nominated as candidates yet?" Mr. Kendry replied, "Well, possibly not, but they soon will be."

Mr. Kendry then asked for nominations. He asked for nominations for the Ontario Legislature. Mr. Kendry said he had been appointed as chairman of this meeting and he would do as he thought proper. If it were a matter whether he would do as he thought right or as Mr. Garvin thinks correct he (the speaker) would do as he thought right. (Applause).

Mr. Poussette thought that a candidate for the Dominion House should be named first. It was for the delegates, not the chairman, to settle the rules of the meeting. He knew his rights and insisted on them.

Cries from the hall—"Let the delegates, not the executive, rule."

Mr. Garvin said that neither he nor his friends had heard of the former meeting re candidature.

Mr. Kendry said he was willing to leave the matter to the delegates.

Cries of "Question, question, question."

Mr. Layfield moved in amendment to Mr. Poussette's motion that the candidate for the Legislative Assembly be nominated first.

Here a vote was taken on the original motion. Before the result of this vote was recorded Mr. Wilson protested that before such a vote be taken the credentials of those present should be presented. The result of the vote was that the chair was sustained.

Chairman Kendry said the meeting was open for nominations for the Legislature.

Mr. W. H. Moore arose and said he was going to nominate a gentleman who has represented the county before most ably, viz., Mr. T. E. Bradburn. He thought Mr. Thomas Evans Bradburn would carry the Conservative standard to victory again. Mr. Bradburn has been a loyal supporter of Mr. Whitney.

Mr. Poussette said he denied that he was, as alleged by the chairman, [illegible] to the chairman's ruling. Mr. Poussette rose and paid a high tribute to Mr. Bradburn's past history in the Legislature.

Mr. Bradburn was then unanimously declared the nominee of the party for the Ontario Legislature of the Conservative party.

Mr. Bradburn thanked his nominator and his seconder for the honor done him. He was pleased to know that his past services were recognized. He has done all he could to serve West Peterborough first and then Ontario afterwards.

Three cheers and a "tiger" were given for Mr. Bradburn.

Chairman Kendry said he was glad Mr. Bradburn was re-nominated. Mr. Bradburn had done well for the party and the county. Since he has been the member of the Toronto House, Peterborough has got many public buildings through Mr. Bradburn. He then asked for nominations for the Dominion House.

Mr. Poussette apologized for speaking so often, but thought if the party were to carry the riding it must have a strong man, and he nominated Mr. James Kendry. Mr. Kendry is a strong man and has carried the flag to victory and can do it again. He and Mr. Kendry have stood shoulder to shoulder before.

OVER ONE HUNDRED BABIES DIED FROM STARVATION IN TORONTO

The Mothers Themselves Have Been Found in Famishing Condition

Terrible Tales of Suffering

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Over one hundred babies have starved to death in Toronto since New Year's Day.

"Within the last twenty-four hours," said Miss Cook, Bible woman of the Nursing-at-Home, Toronto Mission Union, 80 Hunter street, in an interview with a reporter this morning, "the nurses have had eight cases of little ones in a starving condition. In every case the fathers are out of work."

The reports of the nurses show that an appalling condition of absolute want obtains. In all her twenty-two years of experience in the work in Toronto, Miss Cook states there has been nothing to approach it. Since the beginning of January over one hundred little ones have perished from starvation, or from the fact that their mothers were starving. In this city of good works and great opportunities.

SCORES OF CASES.

"Scores of cases have come under my own observation," said the lady. "and the nurses return daily with terrible tales of suffering and death.

"Two cases occurred this morning. A mother came out to the home to see the doctor, and the little one had died. The cause was apparent at once. The poor woman was starved herself. The father had been out of work for the past ten weeks. It is, I believe, a deserving case. The man had almost walked his boots off looking for work.

BABE HAD DIED.

"Another poor woman came in, but the baby had died. Starvation was the doctor's sad verdict. She told a sorrowful tale. She had been getting up at five o'clock every morning in order that her husband might set off with pack and shovel to be in time to get a chance for work. He had only been able to get it for one week in the last fourteen.

"The majority of little ones who have died from starvation have collapsed because the mothers were wasted with hunger, and were unable to give them nourishment.

"The other morning a poor woman came here to see the doctor about her child. The mother was in a condition of starvation herself, and the physician at once diagnosed the case. There was no ailment afflicting the child. It was simply starving. So touched was the medical man that he put his hand in his own pocket and supplied the wherewithal to secure nourishment for the little one."

There are fifteen nurses engaged in the missions' work. For the past three weeks or more, Miss Cook states, they have been working almost night and day. "They are always completely done out," she observed, "and the amount of work they have accomplished is remarkable. So keenly do they feel themselves about it that only the other day one of them broke down completely over some sad cases of starvation which had occurred."

St. Paul's Church Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church took place last night. Sheriff Hall occupied the chair, the attendance being very large and quite enthusiastic.

The reports of the various societies connected with the church were read and adopted, with the exception of that of the Board of Managers, dealing with the finances of the church, which was referred to the Session and Board of Managers for further consideration. The societies, including the Sunday school, are all in a flourishing condition financially, and have increased membership.

Messrs. R. E. Wood, Percy McLean, W. F. Nelson and C. M. Brown were re-elected members of the Board of Managers. Mr. Herbert Gilkespie was also elected to the Board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Wm. Pringle.

The meeting was harmonious throughout, and there is every indication that the current year will be a very prosperous one for St. Paul's congregation.

ARTIC ATMOSPHERE FOR PETERBORO

Getting colder! The weather man anticipated arctic atmosphere for Peterborough.

The mercury was 10 degreen below zero at eight o'clock last night. It was 17 degrees below at 12 o'clock.

The cold wave is general. It came from the west and is travelling eastward. The thermometer was below zero all over Ontario this morning, with the exception of the southwestern peninsula. Port Arthur registered the lowest point reached, 40 below; Parry Sound was 30 below, and Ottawa 30. On the height of land between Lake Ontario and the Georgian Bay it averaged 20 below.

Peterborough escaped the rearmer cold wave, "but cheer up," said the official prognosticator, "there's more coming." At 3 o'clock it was 27 below.

The Rutherford-Morgan Nuptials

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 25 Union street, when Miss Sadie Naomi Rutherford, youngest daughter of Mr. Thomas Rutherford, became the bride of Mr. Harry Powell Morgan, only son of Mrs. A. P. Morgan, Reid street, and vice-president of the Peterborough Hardware Co. The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, under an arch of evergreens, which was enhanced by electric lamps of varied colors. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, of George Street Methodist Church.

Punctually at 2.30, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away, entered the room and took her place beneath the arch. She was attired in white mulle, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. She was assisted by her cousin, Miss Mamie Anderson, of this city, who was dressed in cream crepe de chene, and carried pink roses. Little Miss Norma Cox, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl. She carried a basket of lilities of the valley and forget-me-nots. The groom was supported by Mr. R. M. Glover. While the register was being signed, Mrs. E. A. Fogarty, of Port Hope, sang "O, Fair, O, Sweet, O, Holy."

After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of.

The presents received by the bride and groom were numerous and costly, testifying to the high esteem in they are held by a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for New York city, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Murderer Stolid and Unmoved---Boyne Made Confession

Mr. Jas. Kendry

President of the West Peterborough Conservative Association.

Woodville Youth, Percy Boyne, will be Arraigned for Murder

Presentation of a Bible to Him by His Sweetheart Led to Confession

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 29.—The police swore out a warrant here to-day for the arrest of Percy Boyne, formally charging him with slaying Mrs. Cornelia Welch, who was found beaten to death in her home about three weeks ago. The boy will be arraigned in police court to-day for murder in the first degree.

Although she had been warned by the police not to interfere with her lover, the sweetheart of young Boyne, a stenographer of prominent parents here, whose name is withheld, appeared at headquarters last night, and the pair had a tearful meeting. The stenographer is the same girl whose presentation of a Bible to the murderer yesterday broke him down and brought about his complete confession.

Boyne's cold-blooded description after he had decided to tell all to the police, of how he beat the aged woman into insensibility and calmly spent the night in a nearby hotel, made even the officers who took the 42-page confession shudder. The self-confessed youth is stolid and unmoved in his cell, and seems to take no thought of the terrible penalty he may have to suffer for his crime.

A despatch from Woodville states that Boyne belongs to very respectable parents, but that for three years he has been leading a wandering life.

To Marry in Spite of the Archbishop

Montreal, Jan. 29. — All efforts to get Archbishop Bruchesi to give a dispensation and allow a mixed marriage between a Catholic lady and a Protestant gentleman, both of whom are very prominent in Montreal society, have failed and a decision has been reached to go out to one of the neighboring dioceses in order that the ceremony may be performed by a priest. Under ordinary circumstances, a dispensation would also be required for this, but the lady's father is the owner of some property in the neighboring diocese and this gives him the right to have the marriage take place.

Special efforts were made to get Archbishop Bruchesi to make an exception, but he insisted there should be one law for rich and poor alike. While no date has been fixed the marriage will take place during the latter part of February.

Ben Simpson Wanted for Buffalo Meet

Peterboro Runner May Take Jack Tait's Place in Race with Bellars

Toronto, Jan. 29.—It is very probable that Jack Tait, the West End crack middle distance runner, will not be able to take on F. Bellars, of New York, in the special four-mile race which the 74th Regimental A. A. of Buffalo were endeavoring to pull off at their indoor meet on Saturday, Feb. 29th, as the Toronto boy has had several weeks' illness and is not yet in the best of shape with the result that he does not feel confident of getting into proper condition to meet such a runner as Bellars.

Failing to secure Tait it is very probable that Ben Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, who finished second to Tom Coley in the Hamilton Herald race last fall, and was the greatest surprise of the year, will be matched with the New Yorker. Simpson is out of training at present, but always in fair shape, he could easily get into running condition in a month's time. An effort is being made to-day to secure him, and if he is able to make connections he should prove a worthy successor to Tait and an exceedingly hard nut for Bellars to crack. Around Peterborough Simpson is regarded as the coming runner of 1908, and his ability to defeat Longboat is fully acknowledged — that is, in the Quaker Oats burg.

Wood and Hay are Very Badly Needed

Possibly the best posted body of men on what the city at large needs in the way of country products and what is either brought in here in excess of current demand or otherwise are the cattle dealers and others who daily gather in or about the market wiegh scale office.

Several of these gentlemen yesterday told a Times representative that both hay and wood are badly needed in Peterborough. They could not understand unless the recent heavy hauling over the country roads, why the farmers of the county, particularly those living in near-by townships, do not bring more hay and wood to the city, as they would meet with quick sales and high prices. Here is a chance for our nearby country subscribers and others to take a pressing demand whilst the latter is ripe and they can obtain good profits on their produce.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests afford in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we could properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of women's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal acidity, inflammation, ulcerations, prolapsus and other displacements, caused by weakness, accompanied by stress and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were originated with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances especially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

YOU NEED STRENGTH

Vitality is Lacking and You Must Have a Bracing Tonic at Once.

You're sick and need medicine.

Not an emulsion to sicken the stomach, not a "dope" cure, nor bitters—but a nourishing tonic that will increase weight, strength and spirits.

Try Ferrozone and watch the result.

Because it gives instant effect and steadily builds up new flesh, it is used by thousands in ill-health.

No other medicine contains more nutriment, supplies better building material, makes you feel well and strong as quickly as it did Mrs. Charles Benny, of Cloyne, Ont.

HER STATEMENT.

"I was sick.

"I was broken down, had no strength, couldn't eat. I was sleepless.

"My nerves were irritable. I was thin-blooded and continually unhappy.

"I tried Ferrozone.

"It gave me new energy, force, vim. It brought me comfort, strength—it made me well."

It's by making the appetite good, by instilling iron and ozone in the blood, by fortifying the system with reserve strength, that Ferrozone accomplishes so much.

You'll have new life in a week, in a month you'll be like a new being. Try Ferrozone, it always justifies itself. 50c per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers.

PETERBOROUGH, JANUARY 29 1908

CANADA'S FUTURE

Dr. W. J. Dawson, evangelist, who has spent some years in the United States, and has also visited Canada, in a letter to the Christian World of London, England, tells the people of the old land that there is not a whisper of political union with the American republic in the Dominion. Among other things he said of Canada:—Her sons believe in her. Among all the young men I have met from England, no one wishes to go back. It is the land of opportunity and they know it. Here there is abundant work for all who are not too fastidious—high wages and the certainty of success for ability and industry. The immense resources of Canada are just beginning to be understood. What is wanted—so every one says—for her development is capital. But her chief want is men. Kipling's recent invitation to England emigrants touches the heart of the problem. It is the sons of Great Britain who are needed most, men of sturdy strength and high character, and for such Canada offers a warm welcome."

THE PROHIBITION MOVEMENT

Two of the most active clerical promoters of the temperance propaganda on the other side, says The Windsor Record under the above heading, are Father Cleary of Minneapolis and Fr. Baart of Marshall, Michigan. These men eschew theory and adapt their methods to a condition, taking the race as they find it.

Neither for this reason is an advocate of prohibition, continues the Record, each regarding it as an impracticability, and likely to make the condition worse.

Moral suasion is the governing principle of both, and Fr. Cleary would rigidly regulate the saloon's, while Fr. Baart's advice is "don't treat."

Treating is almost wholly an American custom. Two or more persons will sit down to a table and either order a measure for which each pays his share, or each will order his own. If more is wanted it is ordered on the same terms. Neither is expected to treat the other and no obligation for a return is created.

With the abolition of the treating custom the liquor traffic would be relieved of one of the principal objections urged against it, but how is it to be done? Like tipping, treating is firmly imbedded in the social customs and it needs courage to disregard it. Moreover, the custom redounds to the profit of the dealer, and he is not likely to be an enthusiastic abolitionist.

In justice to Canada, however, it is proper to say that this country with its treating evil is a vastly soberer country than some of the continental countries in which the custom does not obtain.

Apart from this question of treating, however, it would be well for the liquor interests to take notice and digest the handwriting on the wall. They can take some of the force out of the present current by keeping out of business that does not concern them and by conducting their own business decently and according to Hoyle.

"THERE IN THE TIMES.

ELLEN TERRY'S COOKING.

How She Learned to Be a Good Housekeeper.

At twenty-one years of age Ellen Terry had been on the stage long enough to feel the necessity of a long vacation. In a little sketch of her life she goes to those six years of the simple life with much delight:

"Actors must take care of themselves and their voices, husband their strength for the evening's work, and when it is over they are too tired to do anything. For the first time I was able to put all my energies into a living. Charles Lamb says, I think, that when he left the East India House he felt embarrassed by the vast estates of time at his disposal and wished that he had a bailiff to manage them, but I knew no such embarrassment. I began gardening, 'the purest of human pleasures.' I learned to work and in time cooked very well, though my first essay in the difficult art was rewarded with dire and complete failure.

"It was a chicken. Now, as all the chickens had names—Sultan, Duke, Lord Tom Noddy, Lady Teazle and so forth—and as I was very proud of them as living birds, it was a great wrench to kill one at all, to start with. It was the murder of Sultan, not the killing of a chicken. However, at last it was done and Sultan deprived of his feathers, floured and trussed. I had no idea how this was all done, but I tried to make him sit up nicely like the chickens in the shops.

"He came up to the table looking magnificent—as large as any turkey.

"'Hasn't this chicken rather an odd smell?' said our visitor.

"'How can you?' I answered. 'It must be quite fresh—it's Sultan!'

"However, when we began to carve the smell grew more and more potent.

"I had cooked Sultan without taking out his in'ards!

"There was no dinner that day except bread sauce, beautifully made; well cooked vegetables and pastry like the foam of the sea. I had a wonderful hand for pastry."

SAVE BROKEN CHINA.

Order Brought Out of the Chaos of Bits of China.

Here is what a thrifty housewife has to say about utilizing broken bits of china:

"I was always averse to throwing any china away and so one day found I had quite a collection. What could I do with them? A happy thought struck me. Why not piece all together in a crazy pattern and so form a surface for a table?

"I bought one of those inexpensive bamboo tables you can get for 50 or 75 cents and found it answered very well. A bamboo table has the edge raised all around and so forms a bed for the china, bringing it level with the edges.

"Now for commencing the work.

"Take some putty and mold it well, leaving no hard lumps. To do this moisten with linseed oil. Then pull a small piece and cover a small portion of the table, beginning at the corners and working toward the middle. Next press the pieces of china close together, leaving a small ridge of putty between, which must be leveled with a knife.

"An old table knife is the best. Select five of the best pieces for the corners and the center, matching them if possible.

"Keep the table level. Thicker pieces of china will have to be pressed down harder. When finished, leave to harden and fill up all cracks with more putty. When this is done, gild the putty with Judson gold.

"The success of the table depends a great deal on what kind of china you use. The better the china the better the table.

"I found some of my best pieces in all sorts of odd places. One very pretty piece showing an old fashioned garden I found on the beach at the seashore. If you can manage to get any of your friends in the service to give you a piece of the 'mess' china, which often gets broken, it will greatly add to your collection."

Use For Pumice Stone.

A woman who always has fragrant bureau drawers accounts for it by her use of pumice stone saturated with her favorite perfume in place of the usual transitory odor of the fancy sachet.

To check a cold quickly, get from your druggist some little Candy Cold Tablets called Preventics. Druggists everywhere are now dispensing Preventics, for they are not only safe, but decidedly effective and prompt. Preventics contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will prevent Pneumonia, Bronchitis, La Grippe, etc. Hence the name, Preventics. Good for feverish children. 48 Preventics 25 cents. Trial Boxes 5 cts. Sold by all dealers.

A CURE FOR SHYNESS.

Two Kinds of This Disease, Physical and Mental.

There is probably no defect which causes so much anguish of spirit and discomfort as shyness and blushing. Nobody who has not personally suffered from it can conceive what it may cause.

Shyness may proceed from one of two causes—the one physical, the other mental. It is often an affair of health. The nerves are out of order, and the will becomes weak. People shrink from their fellow creatures and are filled with an unreasoning horror of meeting or speaking to them. The best cure for this kind of shyness is fresh air, exercise and cheerful society.

But there is another shyness and one harder to cure which comes from mental causes. The person so afflicted may be in robust health and yet so tormented by this inward enemy that she finds all intercourse with other people positively alarming. To meet strangers causes her a severe struggle. She would gladly turn down the first street corner to avoid bowing to even an acquaintance.

In either case the root of the matter is self consciousness, and it is only by losing that self consciousness that self possession can be gained. As long as one thinks about oneself at all one will be liable to shyness. The only cure is to thrust all thought of oneself into the background as much as possible, when one will gradually become natural, happy and at ease.

TO THE DISCOURAGED.

Live Up to Your Highest Mental Development and You'll Succeed.

Meet your problems with an effort of the mind. Meet your difficulties, your sorrows, your disappointments, with an effort of the will, which is a struggle of the brain.

Devote your energies to maintaining mental alertness. Remember that the brain inside your skull contains all your hope for the future, all your possibilities of usefulness as well as pleasure, since there alone sensation and real activity exists.

Use your brain to succeed and, above all, use your brain to counteract the depressing, discouraging effects of failure.

Remember that if you do as well as you can you have done all that you ought to do. Don't worry about the superior achievements of others. You have no cause for worry unless your life fails to bring you up to your highest possible degree of mental development.

HELPFUL HINTS.

If the covers of the kitchen range get red and will not blacken easily, try rubbing on lemon juice first, then blacken the usual way.

Wall paper which has been marked with grease may be cleansed by means of a hot iron and a blotter or several sheets of tissue paper.

A small brush, borax and hot water will give a beautiful polish to cut glass. When drained rub with a clean cloth or a soft dry brush.

Hang a child's blackboard in the kitchen, with a piece of chalk attached. It is more convenient than pencil and paper and not so easily lost.

It will be economy to finish your sheets with the same width hem at each end. By so doing they can be used either side up and gain much wear.

Whoever has tried to fasten a nail or screw in a plastered wall will welcome a solution to the puzzle. Burrow a hole slightly larger than the screw, fill with plaster of paris and insert the screw in the moist substance. It will be firm in a very short time.

Preserving Fine Linen.

A woman who appreciates the aesthetic properties of fine linen, both as a background for embroidery and as a plain drapery, told a friend not long ago how she cares for the beautiful pieces she possesses. "The life of a good piece of linen," she said, "should be considerably more than a generation. I intend Edith to have mine when I'm done with it and am doing all I can to keep the laundry maid from defrauding the child of her birthright. The first law for the preservation of linen is that it mustn't be starched. You can imagine how vigilant I have to be to insure the observance of this law, for you know the average laundress loves starch as the miser loves his gold. But so far my devotion to my linen has been strong enough to conquer even the fondness of the unenlightened mind for stiffness. I see that my treasures are carefully rinsed in clear water and pure soap and then get plenty of sunlight and fresh air. Of course to have the fine satin sheen you were admiring linen must be ironed damp. If it's ironed dry, it's always dull and tufty."

Old Feather Beds.

Make a thin cotton batting pad—or use an old one if you have it—the size of the feather bed to be used. Lay the pad on a quilt frame, or the dining table will do. Lay the feather bed on the pad and smooth or level the feathers all out so that they will be divided evenly, then fasten the edges of the pad and bed together with pins. Get a long needle and some strong cord—common wrapping cord will do—and tie as you would a comfort, but not too close, about the same as a mattress is tied. After you have the pad and bed tied overcast the edges together and you will have a nice feather mattress almost as soft as a hair mattress.

BALLOON OF NEWSPAPERS.

It Took a Great Number of Papers, but the Fun Was Worth It.

During our last summer's vacation in Colony, Kan., our boys made a balloon of old newspapers. It was thirty feet high and fifteen feet across and was composed of 256 papers and any amount of paste and patience.

They pasted the pages together end to end, with narrow strips of muslin across the place of joining, thus forming long strips, which were then pasted together side to side, again covering the joining with muslin strips.

We first conceived the idea of making a small balloon just after a balloon ascension in our town. We watched them as they made ready to send up the large balloon and patterned ours very much after it. Our first balloon was small, only fifteen feet high. We sent up two others after that, the last one of which was thirty feet high. We flew it successfully several times.

We regulated our supply of coal oil and gasoline with parts of a gasoline stove and regulated the air with draft and a gasoline lamp pump. We had it arranged with the guys (ropes) so that the jerk of one cord threw everything loose from the balloon. The balloon flew probably over half a mile before the gas cooled. This was the last one tried in the neighborhood, and to fly it as successfully others would have to have our pattern.—St. Nicholas.

Gooseberry.

Many young people have wondered how the gooseberry got its name, supposing, quite naturally, that the fruit must have some connection with a goose. Gooseberries are called in German johannis-beeren—that is, the "St. John's berries," because they ripen about the time of the feast of St. John. St. John is called in Holland St. Jan, and the fruit is there called jansbeeren. This word was centuries ago corrupted into gansbeeren, of which our English word gooseberries is a literal translation, gans, in German, signifying a goose.

A Queer Crane.

In Venezuela and British Guiana lives a kind of crane called the agami, which the natives tame and employ in many tasks for which dogs are trained in other parts of the world. The birds, it is said, will watch and care for flocks of sheep or of poultry as well as shepherd dogs would do.

Three Dreams.

"I had the very strangest dream,"
Said Jasper John, "last night.
I dreamed the moon and all the stars
Were shining just as bright,
And yet the sun was shining, too,
And I was racing Ted,
While everybody else we knew
Was sound asleep in bed."
"I dreamed," said little Theodora,
"About a monstrous horse,
With twenty legs and lots of tails
(He belonged to me, of course);
His eyes were green, the rest of him
Was yellow streaked with black,
And nobody in all the world
But me could mount his back."
Their father, mother and their aunt
Agreed that these two dreams
Were very queer, but Bobby said:
"The one I had it seems
To me's the queerest of them all.
I saw a boy that said
He hated baseball, and he wished
He'd been a girl instead."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Camera Hunt

BY HONORE WILLSIE.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Penelope took a long breath and started on after her brother and his wife, who were chatting with the guide. After the rough climbing of the morning the little plateau seemed heavenly. But even this respite did not ease Penelope's sense of irritation.

Arthur's and Alice's fad had seemed so amusing at first that she had readily accepted their invitation to join them. To hunt the wild game of the Rockies with a camera was unique enough to be interesting, but the hunt of the long tailed deer, so high among the peaks that rapid work was misery, had been very bad. The three days' chase for a snap at the black wolf had been worse, and it ended in failure. But this chase for a mountain sheep was trying Penelope beyond endurance.

"It's easy for Alice," thought poor Penelope, digging her staff viciously into a crevice. "She's like a bundle of steel wires. She loves to get up before daylight and crawl half a mile on her hands and knees to wait at a spring for some silly beast to come for a drink. But I'm just worn out. Alice! Arthur!"

The three enthusiasts ahead turned back. "You three leave me here in the shade of this rock and come back for me when you are finished. I am worn out."

Arthur looked at Penelope in dismay. "But don't you want to see a mountain sheep?" he coaxed. "Since the black tailed deer were in the river bottom this morning the sheep are sure to be up here. Just think, Penelope, one of those curious, rare mountain sheep!"

But even this vision failed to move his sister. She shook her head. Alice gave a resigned little sigh.

"I'll stay with you, Penelope," she said.

"No, you won't," said Arthur hastily. "It's not safe. Two women are no better than one here."

Here the guide interposed. He had been with them but a day, but already, besides being their guide, he was their counselor and friend. He was too well bred to be treated otherwise. Penelope looked at the stalwart, heavily bearded fellow in a troubled way. His resemblance to Dick in spite of the beard was startling.

"Now, I tell you, Mr. Seymore," he said, "you know as much about this business as I do, and you tell me you have been up this trail half a dozen times before. Why can't I stay here with your sister, fix up camp for the night and let Mr. and Mrs. Seymore go on and locate the sheep?"

"Good, good!" exclaimed Seymore.

Mrs. Seymore looked a little dubious, but Penelope spoke eagerly. Here was a chance for an hour or two of rest that was not to be foregone.

"It will only be a couple of hours," she said pleadingly. "You will be back before dark, and I am so tired, and," she added artfully, "you may miss your only chance at the mountain sheep."

"Come on, Arthur," said Mrs. Seymore, and the two started off up the mountain.

The little plateau on which the colloquy had taken place was smooth and wide, with a little spring trickling out of the great wall of the mountain. Penelope sat quietly watching the distant peaks in the afternoon light while the guide set about his preparation for the night's camp, watching Penelope surreptitiously the while. Very lovely was the sunlight on the masses of her hair, the quick glow of color in her cheeks, the delight in her eyes as she looked at the distant glory of the canyon walls.

Finally her gaze wandered to the guide as his work brought him close beside her, and again the troubled look came to her eyes.

"Do you know," she said abruptly, "you have a resemblance to some one I used to know that is startling."

The guide straightened himself and looked at her keenly. "Is that so?" he said in his quiet way.

Without knowing why, she added, "It was some one who was very dear to me."

"And now?" said the guide tentatively.

"There is no now," said Penelope, rising and walking toward the edge of the plateau.

The guide watched her anxiously. "Not too near the edge, please," he called.

Penelope did not answer. Far, far below curled the silvery line that was the river, then up and up chaos of color in the rock masses, and silence, silence so intense that, though every sense was keen to catch the brilliancy of the canyon coloring, Penelope stood counting her own heart beats. She leaned over a little to look at the ledge below her.

And then the thing happened—a sudden vertigo, a hoarse cry from behind her, a sense of endless falling, then unconsciousness.

After ages of nothingness she opened her eyes—far above, the sky with a glory of sun and snow, a grandeur of distant peaks and far horizon, then a sense of pain and with it a man's voice calling:

"Penelope! Penelope!" And above the brush grown ledge on which she lay a man's face looked down upon her.

"Here I am! I'm all-right!" she called back weakly.

"Will you lie perfectly still while I get the rope?" called the guide. "For heaven's sake, don't move!" And the face disappeared, leaving Penelope alone with the blue above and the far circling of an eagle about the crags.

Then a rope with a carefully adjusted slip noose dangled beside her. "Can you put it over your head and under your arms?" the guide called. "For my sake, Penelope, be careful! And look up at me all the time. Don't look down into the canyon."

Too bruised and shaken to be surprised, Penelope took the noose with trembling fingers and tried to disentangle herself from the brush which had broken her fall. Slowly, inch by inch, with pain at every motion, she raised herself to a sitting position, then little by little adjusted the noose under her arms to the guide's satisfaction.

"Now," he called, "I'm going to lower your staff to you, and you must keep yourself from brushing the wall by means of it as I pull you up."

The fear and misery of that trip back to the plateau Penelope was never to forget. The rope cut into her chest until she would have fainted with the pain had not the difficulty of warding herself from the wall with her alpenstock forced her to keep her senses alert. Now, with a quick jerk, she was pulled upward for a few feet; then a pause, while the rope twisted her dizzily, with now a view of the serenity of the opposite canyon wall in the afternoon sun; now the yellow dampness of stone within an inch of her face, then another violent jerk upward.

As she paused within a foot or so of the plateau level she closed her eyes and dropped her staff. Then a pair of arms lifted her slowly, tenderly, and laid her on the ground, then carefully removed the rope.

Penelope opened her eyes. "Dick!" she said hesitatingly. "Dick!"

"Are you hurt?" asked the guide unheedingly. "What shall I do? Shall I go after your sister?"

"I think there are no bones broken," said Penelope weakly. "I am only terribly bruised and shaken. How I am to get down the mountain again I don't know."

"Oh, we can arrange that easily," answered the guide eagerly as he adjusted the steamer rug on which she lay.

Again Penelope's senses dimmed. "You do look so like Dick," she murmured. "Aren't you Dick? Only Dick was not so strong"—

"Tell me about Dick," said the guide, with a hand that trembled so that a cup of water he had brought sprinkled her gown.

Penelope looked at him with puzzled, half delirious eyes. "Dick? Why, Dick was my husband, and after we had our silly quarrel he went to Europe. That was three years ago."

The guide threw aside the cup. "Do you think it was a silly quarrel?" he cried. "Would you forgive Dick?"

"Yes," answered Penelope, "if only I could find him."

The guide stooped and lifted the slender, aching body into his arms. "Here I am, dear," he said. "Here is Dick! It was never Europe, after all. I came here, where I could work and be forgotten."

Penelope looked into his face, forgetting her pain in the wonder of it all. "I must have known it," she said, "in spite of the beard."

Then she closed her eyes on his shoulder. "Sheep hunting is not bad, after all," she said. And Dick held her close.

Needed a Mowing Machine.

He walked about the main thoroughfare of the little town awhile when he discovered one of those familiar red, white and blue globe topped posts. He had sighted his place, and the discovery was confirmed when his eye met the original legend, "Raise 10 cents or whiskers!"

There was but one tonsorial chair, and it was occupied by a stalwart fellow, evidently a blacksmith. Judging from the stubborn growth of beard, the patron could not have shaved but once a week on an average, for the growth was like a scrubbing brush. The barber made a lather, paced all over the countenance of the recumbent blacksmith, stropped the razor vigorously and sailed into his work. After he had struggled long and dangerously over his patron he felt constrained to say:

"Ain't I hurtin' you?"

"No," answered the Plutonian gentleman, still with energy.

"I seem to be workin' hard without gettin' there," commented the village barber further.

"Oh, just go on," encouraged the blacksmith. "You're doin' all right, for them you ain't cuttin' off you're cripplin' so much I guess they'll never grow again!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Limitations of Fame.

In Professor Knight's reminiscences of Tennyson it is related that on one occasion when the poet laureate was stopping at an inn in the island of Skye the landlord was asked if he knew who had been staying in his house, and on being informed that it was the poet Tennyson, he replied:

"Lor', to think o' that! And, sure, I thought he was a gentleman."

At Stirling some one asked the landlord of the house where the poet was stopping:

"Do you ken who you had wi' you t'other night?"

"Naa, but he was a pleesant gentleman."

"It was Tennyson, the poet."

"And wha may he be?"

"Oh, he is a writer o' verses sich as ye see i' the papers!"

"Noo, to think o' that! Jeest a poobllc writer, and I gi'ed him ma best bedroom!"

But the charms of Mrs. Tennyson, her gracious manners, did not pass unnoticed, for the landlord said, "Oh, she was an ap-eal!"

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing positive, thorough treatment, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety, creamy Elm Preparation, improved by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, can rarely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

DANCING BALLS.

A Pretty Experiment That Any Bright Boy Can Perform.

Get a wide mouthed bottle closed by a hollow cork, in which is inserted the pipe of a small glass funnel. By means of sealing wax make air tight and water tight all the crevices that might leak both between funnel and cork and between cork and bottle.

Half fill the bottle with water and throw in the two powders that are used to make seltzer water, tartaric acid and bicarbonate of soda, which may be bought at a drug store ready for use. Effervescence will at once take place, throwing off carbonic acid gas, and this will escape through the funnel.

But if you have placed within the funnel two or three little balls of elder pith or even of cork the gas cannot escape except at intervals, for no one ball is lifted from the orifice another will drop down to close it. By painting these balls in different colors you may produce a pretty effect.

The effect may be made more beautiful by cutting tissue paper in the form of a butterfly's wings and gluing them to one of the balls. The balls will dance up and down in the funnel, and the imitation butterfly will flutter was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Wives and Mothers Suffer with Backache

Unfortunately They Fail to Recognize the Dangerous Cause of the Trouble.

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories, and on a farm are weak ailing women, dragged down with torturing backache and bearing down pains.

Such suffering isn't natural but it's dangerous, because due to diseased kidneys.

The dizziness, insomnia, deranged senses and other symptoms of kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities their merit is well known.

Because of their mild, soothing and healing effect, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are safe, and are recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25 cents per box at all dealers. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

I.O.F. Meeting Held Tonight

To-night a feature of the regular meeting of No. 530, I. O. F., will be the presentation of the auditors' yearly report. Besides the ordinary routine business there will probably be several items of unusual interest.

Mr. Van Blaricom Leaves Monday

Mr. G. B. Van Blaricom, who for the past four years has been the capable and respected editor of the Peterborough Review, leaves on Monday for Toronto to assume the responsible position of editor of the Busy Man's Journal. Mr. Van Blaricom has not only successfully carried on the editorial staff of the Review, but he made a large number of personal friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldron are Home

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. S. Waldron have returned to the city after an extended trip through the United States, during which they called on many friends and acquaintances. Whilst in Buffalo, N.Y., Mr. Waldron naturally saw many owners and officers of the "Big Digger" Mine. Mr. and Mrs. Waldron also visited North Clarke, Pennsylvania, where they were the guests of Mr. L. Souder, an uncle of Mrs. Waldron. They then journeyed to Franklin, where they spent their Christmas holidays with Mr. Waldron's parents.

Social Gathering Monday Night

A very pleasant time was spent on Monday evening at the home of Mr. Geo. Scott, Aylmer street, when an old-time social gathering was held. The evening was spent in playing games, music and singing. Among those present who added to the entertaining of the guests were Messrs. Frances Rome and E. Sells, who rendered music on the violin; Mr. Ed. Walsh tore off a few of his Irish jigs to the delight of all present; Mr. Jas. Snowden and Robt. Drury, monologue artists, and Mr. Robt. Maxwell, Arthur Harding, Allan Armstrong were accompanists on the piano. The pleasant gathering broke up with a solo from Mr. Geo. Scott.

Personal

Miss V. Ellison, of Stratford, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. C. M. Woodburn, of Montreal, is in the city.

Mr. Hugh Kennedy, of Orillia, is in the city on business.

Mr. Geo. J. Sherry, barrister, of Norwood, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. W. J. Potter, of Kingston, is a business visitor to the city.

Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's church, will conduct preparatory communion service in the Springville Presbyterian church this morning.

Mr. L. Richards, of Chicago, traffic manager for the Quaker Oats Co., and Mrs. Richards are in the city.

Mr. J. S. Carstairs, of Toronto, secretary of the Dominion Liberal-Conservative Association, is in the city.

Mr. E. R. Rutherford, of Milwaukee, is the guest of his father, Mr. Thos. Rutherford, Union street, for a few weeks.

Miss Fair, Dixon street, returned home last night, after spending the past few days with relatives in Millbrook.

Mr. Harry Wench, who sustained an accident by slipping and falling on the railroad about a week ago, hurting his shoulder, turned out last night to attend the Liberal-Conservative Association convention.

Mr. William Croft and Mr. Charles Singleton, both old war horses of the Conservative party, were each cheered loudly last night as they voted for their respective candidates.

Among the delegates to the city to attend the Conservative convention of last night were Messrs. William Dudman, Wm. Hunter, Wm. Ritchie, Andrew Reid, Samuel Lyle, Robert White and W. Molyneux of Galway. They report that the roads in the northern part of the county are badly blocked.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. No Hard Times Talk Talking about "hard times," reminds us that the County Council's session yesterday would make the ordinary individual think that no such words as "hard times" was included in the fattest encyclopedia ever issued. The ruddy faces of the County Council and their optimistic views as expressed would make any creeper about the stringency of the money market seek a place of concealment as does a fox chased by a pack of hounds. The county councillors are not men who speak of hard times in this county. But are, as a rule, well-to-do representatives from the further parts of the county who have belief in Peterborough's future, and who are anxious to share in her assured destiny.

Candidates Selected

Mr. Kendry, with some diffidence, said he could not put this as a motion whilst he, the nominee, was in the chair.

Mr. Moore said that as the nomination would be practically unanimous, he thought the motion should be carried.

Mr. E. A. Peck then acted as chairman and asked for a standing vote, whereupon every man in the house arose and cheered.

Mr. Kendry thanked the meeting for their heartily expressed sentiments. He, however, found it impossible to act as a candidate, much as he would like it. He has been defeated. (Cries from the hall, "You were robbed") and he thought it better not to have a defeated man as a candidate. He asked those present to relieve him, and asked for further nominations.

Mr. Garvin nominated Col. Miller.

Mr. Harry Rush nominated Mr. Harry Phelan. This was seconded by Mr. John Brown, who said that Mr. Phelan's popularity extended beyond the limits of the city.

Mr. Layfield then nominated Mr. J. H. Burnham, a gentleman he had known for a long time, and who would make a splendid representative.

Mr. John Nugent arose and said he would like to see the candidate chosen elected unanimously. He nominated Mr. J. W. Garvin.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. R. Waddell, that whomsoever be chosen as candidate should receive the universal and unanimous support of the convention and delegates. — Carried.

Mr. Carstairs then read the names of the nominees, viz., Messrs. Col. Miller, who thanked those who proposed him, and retired; H. Phelan, J. H. Burnham and G. W. Garvin. The proposed candidates were then asked to ascend the platform, amid applause. The chairman ruled that each candidate be given five minutes each to speak.

Mr. Garvin said it has been some years since he stood on a political platform. He had formerly been a candidate for election. He did not regard his failure with regret. He went on to show the shortcomings of the late Ross Government. Mr. Whitney has redeemed this province. Mr. Whitney is a man of great intellectual power. Sir John A. Macdonald had the first government after Confederation. He and the Liberal-Conservatives have made the name of Canada glorious. The dreams of Sir John A. Macdonald were glorious, but the realization was better. The C. P. R. and its completion has been a great lesson to Canadians. Last year 79,000,000 tons of freight were carried over the C.P.R.

Mr. J. H. Burnham was then called on. He agreed with Mr. Garvin on some points and not on others. He did not agree in making honesty a policy; let a man be honest and his politics will be all right.

Ald. Phelan expressed the pleasure it gave him to be on the platform. His forte was not the platform. He was a worker, not a talker. He first worked for the party as a boy in Ennismore. "Harry was always found to be the man behind the gun." Several members of the party heretofore have asked him to be a candidate. He had always been a vote getter, as shown in the last municipal elections, and hoped the party would back him up if he were chosen as candidate.

Mr. Peck then explained who could vote and how. Those on the voters' list should see that none but those qualified should vote.

Whilst the votes were being taken Col. Miller moved a resolution to the effect that the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough have every confidence in Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition in the Dominion Parliament, and that they will try their best to elect him to office.—Carried.

Three cheers for Mr. Borden were then given heartily.

Mr. W. Buller next moved that the Liberal-Conservatives of West Peterborough express their confidence in Mr. Whitney and his policy and government. Carried with rousing cheers.

The Ontario organizer of the party addressed the meeting whilst the ballots were being counted. Wherever he has been for the past month enthusiasm has been in evidence. Mr. Whitney has kept all his promises as well as passing some original and important legislation. There is no discord in the Conservative party. Mr. Bradburn has done well both for Peterborough and for Ontario.

Mr. Carstairs said local Conservatives wanting assistance would find the latch string hanging out for them.

Mr. W. Buller, president of the Young Conservative Club, gave a short address and told the delegates from the rural districts to make the Y. C. C. rooms their home whilst in town.

The result of the first ballot was:

Burnham	69
Garvin	66
Phelan	34

This necessitated a second ballot, which resulted as follows:

Mr. J. H. Burnham	86
Mr. Garvin	72

Mr Burnham then received hearty cheers from the audience. After several minor resolutions had been passed the meeting broke up with hearty cheers for the candidates and the King.

Tell It You Know a Good Thing

When a man finds the true food value of a preparation like Grape-Nuts, it is no more than neighborly, to tell it to others.

"I should feel responsible to a degree" writes an Ohio man, "for much human suffering were I to withhold from others the knowledge of the benefits I have personally derived from the use of Grape-Nuts as an article of food.

"Two years ago I began to feel a general tendency to collapse—had frequent bilious attacks, was troubled with constipation and vertigo, also rush of blood to the head causing temporary blindness.

"Liver and stomach in bad condition, appetite and sleep became very irregular, memory began to slip away, legs became shaky and I found it necessary to use both hands in drinking from a cup.

"Previous to this time I was in the habit of eating all I wanted of whatever was set before me. When the trouble came I tried medicine without help, but I gradually grew so weak I had to give up a lucrative government position.

"Whatever I ate disagreed with me, until my wife began feeding me on Grape-Nuts food. At first I ate it sparingly gradually increased the amount as my appetite demanded. For many months I have virtually lived on Grape-Nuts, fruits and Postum.

"The result is gratifying in the extreme. None of my former difficulties trouble me now. In eating, sleeping, action of the bowels, and kidneys, everything goes like clock work—no dizzy spells, no congestion of the brain, no lack of memory, no trembling of limbs.

"I weigh more than for years (I am 63) and enjoy long walks which were formerly impossible. No thanks to medicine, but all thanks to Grape-Nuts and Postum." "There's a Reason.

MUCH ONTARIO BUSINESS PRIOR TO THE COMING ELECTIONS

The Session Which Begins on Feb. 5th will be Particulary Heavy and Productive--Local Option will be Considered

Toronto, Jan. 29. — The session of the Ontario Legislature which opens next Wednesday, promises to be a heavy and productive one. Unless for the unlikely contingency of a special sitting being called later in the year, for some unforseen and urgent reason, this session will be the last before the next general provincial election. The government will, therefore, be intent upon aiding to its already creditable record by enacting a further volume of wise and advanced legislation, while the Opposition under its new leader, Hon. A. G. MacKay, will be actuated by the same desire to make a good impression upon the voters of the province. The citizens of Ontario, will, therefore, witness the spectacle of a Legislature on its best behaviour, with the members of the party in power trying to do its best, and their opponents intent on making them do even better.

FORECASTS.

Forecasts of the legislation to be expected have been based on semi-official hints given by members of the government since the opening date was announced. They are necessarily incomplete and lacking in detail, as it is well known that some of the government's most important measures in the last three years were not framed until well along in the session.

This year, for instance, it is expected around the parliament buildings that there will be enacted provisions making clear the jurisdiction of the province in regard to railways within its borders, following the lines recently laid down by Hon. G. P. Graham, Dominion Minister of Railways. It is probable that before such a measure is prepared there must be a conference or at least a great deal of correspondence between the federal and the provincial governments.

REDISTRIBUTION BILL.

A subject which is likely to prove a storm centre is the redistribution bill to be brought in by the government. The many inequalities in the arrangement of the constituencies which existed from the start under the last redistribution have been accentuated in a number of cases by the increase of population, especially in the urban ridings. An effort will be made to reach a more equal division of the province for electoral purposes. A glance at the return for the last general election will indicate the uneven distribution of the population among the various constituencies. The majority of the members for rural ridings represent about 17,000 of the people. Some, like Mr. D. Racine, of Russell, represent as many as 32,979, while others have as few as ten thousand constituents. It is said that county lines will be adhered to as far as possible, in the new distribution. But even in cases where counties are divided into several electoral districts, there is a wide divergence in the populations of the o. In West Northumberland, Mr. Sam Clarke's riding where 3,751 votes were in 1906, there are 13,073 people, according to the census of 1901, while East Northumberland there are 62,855 residents, North Brant has a population of 40,591, South Brant 34,879. In the cities, where larger numbers are gathered in more restricted areas, the representation is not

NATAL WARNED TO KEEP OUT ASIATICS

Pretoria, Jan. 30.—Gen. Smuts, the Colonial Secretary, in a speech last night on the Asiatic question, warned the Natal Government that if the continued immigration of Indians was permitted the rest of South Africa would have to take firm action and proffer advice to Natal in the strongest terms. Otherwise, he said, the immigration of Asiatics would soon overrun the whole of South Africa.

It was recently stated there were more Indians than white people in Natal.

Fred Whitcroft and Bill Crowley Have Many Admirers

Former Local Man on University Board

The Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, Signal has the following reference to a former well-known resident of Peterborough:

"At the convention of the Saskatchewan University held by the Senate of Regina, on Thursday, January 9th, our worthy and esteemed townsman, Mr. John Dickson, was chosen by that honorable body as a member of the first Board of Governors.

Mr. John Dixon has always taken a deep interest in the educational affairs of the three prairie provinces and well deserves the honorable position now conferred upon him. This portion of the province is to be congratulated by having so capable a representative on the Board of Governors. We feel that the best interests of the Saskatchewan University will be promoted by having such men as Mr. John Dixon at its head."

Mr. Dixon was some time since in the dry goods business in Peterborough, occupying the store now held by the J. C. Turnbull Co. He is a brother of Mr. A. E. Dixon, barrister, of this city, and left Peterborough about twenty-five years ago for the West. He is now a member of Dixon Bros., the leading dry goods house of Maple Creek.

Capitalists to Shine Shoes

New York, Jan. 30. — An indication of the important part that the nickels and dimes of the public play in the everyday life of this metropolis is the leasing of the bootblacking privilege in the new twin McAdoo terminal buildings on Cortland street for twelve years at a rental aggregating $124,000. This is at the rate of $10,333 a year. To handle the apparently insignificant job of shining the shoes of the permanent and transient population of this immense building a corporation called the Hudson Terminal Bootblacking Company has been formed. The names of the men who are putting up the money have not been made public, but they are capitalists who have figured in deals involving millions.

"Whitty" Opened the Eyes of Edmonton Hookey Fans

Crowley's Good Work

The Edmonton Bulletin contains the following flattering comment on the stellar work being done in hockey by Messrs. Fred. Whitcroft and Will Crowley, members of Peterborough's last year senior team, and who are now playing pro. hockey in the West:

For the Edmonton team Whitcroft let himself out a few, and did stunts he did not bother about in other events, scoring four of the first five goals, and doing it after a fashion that opened the eyes of even his most ardent admirers. He had speed to burn, and when he got away there was nothing to it. Deeton, Miller and Boulton were always on the spot, and their work was immeasurably superior to the Battleford men. They played better combination, checked back better, and used their heads to good advantage when in tight corners. They are individually and, as a line, the best forwards that have put foot on the ice in this neck of the woods.

Crowley was a stone wall, and when he loomed in the immediate vicinity there was haste on the part of the possessor of the puck to dispose of it to one supposedly out o. the danger line.

POLICE

Crowded out of yesterday's issue.

Yesterday a young man named Lo was charged with vagrancy at the City Police Court. Evidence given by Lo wife was to the effect that he had given her any money for the past six weeks. It was said in her evidence that Lasey had threatened to shoot her and that he had bought a revolver. Lasey, in his evidence explained the fact that possession of the revolver by saying it had been given to him by a friend who wanted a spring put in it. He admitted having once told the woman he would shoot her if he caught her going with other men. He said he had not given his wife money because she would not speak to him. He had told her mother that he would give her money if she would ask it. In reply to a question by the Magistrate, the prisoner said he was willing and able to support his boy. But would not recognize the latter child for reasons given.

The Magistrate then remarked 'Well, Lasey, there seems to be an incompatibility. Can you and your wife not live happily together?' "No, Sir!" responded the defendant. "Well, Mrs. Lasey, are you willing to take care of the children, provided your husband leaves you alone and does not bother you?" "Yes, Sir, I am." Lasey then broke in by saying, "You can, but I won't speak to her. I don't want nothing to do with her." Mrs. Lasey retorted "I don't want you to speak to me, I didn't lay this 'information' against you. I only want you to keep out of my sight."

Lasey remarked, "I want to lay an information against Hamilton, a drunker of his wife, for calling me a — — —". "Oh" responded His Worship, "I think as you and your wife are going to live apart now, you better let this matter drop." "Not by a good deal", replied Lasey, when Hamilton and I meet there will be a come to." "Look here, Lasey", the Magistrate said, 'if you make threats like that I'll send you to jail." Lasey then subsided.

After both members of this unhappy wedded couple had agreed never to speak as they pass by and to leave one another severely alone, his worship discharged the prisoner.

Mrs. Lasey, wife of the prisoner, is a sister of the young man Hamilton, who pleaded guilty to raising a cheque of the Lakefield Lumber Co., from $1.10 to $81.40 and who will receive his sentence by County Magistrate Edmison next Monday.

To Fight the Black Hand

New York, Jan. 30. — Murders, bold attempts at extortion, and explosions, all of which the police attribute to the Black Hand, or to small organizations which take advantage of the popular belief in the existence of that society, averaged last year almost one every week. In the first month of this year there have been six such outrages, all serious explosions; and the police believe that many demands for money, under threats, are immediately complied with.

In view of these facts, a number of prominent Italians will hold a meeting on Thursday night at 178 Park Row, above the office of The Bollettino Della Sera, an Italian paper in order to devise some means of suppressing the Black Hand, similar to the "White Hand", formerly in Chicago, or suppress similar outrages.

The Longest Question on Record

Baltimore, Jan. 30. — Long-distance records for hypothetical questions went to smash before a jury in the Court of Common Pleas at noon to-day, when counsel, for the relatives of the late Clinton Schenckel, who are suing to break the will, finished a question which he started to put to a witness at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The trial has been going on since the beginning of the January term, a week ago last Monday. The court is in session from 10 to 3.

The witness to whom the question was put was Dr. Charles G. Hill, alienist, and was in regard to the mental ability of the testator to make a proper will.

At the conclusion Dr. Hill declared it his belief that a man laboring under conditions with which Mr. Schenckel was said to be surrounded could not make a proper will.

"BUT NOW I BELIEVE THEM, ALL THOSE HORRIBLE THINGS"

Jerome's Renunciation of Former Championship of White is Complete and Unqualified --Evelyn's Story Contained Truth

Judge Dowling will charge the jury in the Thaw case to-morrow morning. The case will likely go to the jury at noon. A verdict may be expected to-morrow night.

New York, Jan. 30.—In referring to Evelyn Thaw's charge that White had ruined her, the District Attorney said to-day:

"All those horrible things which have been said about Stanford White I once did not believe, but now I believe them almost completely, but we are not to pass judgment on that man. He has passed to other judges, and for that passing you are to say whether this prisoner is guilty or not guilty.

"Is it likely that an insane man would say 'Never mind, dear, I have probably saved your life,' to his wife, and kiss her after he had killed a man for her sake?" asked Jerome.

"Does not such action show a rather sane idea of what is going on? Then you must also remember that he said to the firemen, 'Take me down in the elevator, I do not want to excite this crowd!'"

Jerome contented himself with a disposition of the evidence favoring the contention of the State, that Thaw knew perfectly well what he was doing. He called attention to the fact that White had ruined his wife, had kept Thaw out of a desirable club, had circulated reports that Thaw was a pervert, and that Thaw had plenty of reason for hating Stanford White and to wish him out of the way.

"If you can see any manic depressive, any cranistorm, fulmination, or circulatory mania about that shooting, you can see more than I do, gentlemen, and I want you to give the defendant the benefit of it."

The District Attorney was inclined to call Thaw's nervous attacks "spells."

Mr. Jerome's versatility as a prosecutor was never more clearly demonstrated than to-day, when he completely surprised his hearers by the striking contrast of his argument with that of a year ago. The vindictiveness was gone, the passionate defence of White was gone; the denunciation of Evelyn Nesbit had no place in his remarks. Instead there was a calm, analytical presentation of the evidence, a concession of possible weakness, both mental and physical in the defendant, but always a recurrence to the hard and fast rule of the law that a man to be excused must be so insane as not to know what he was about.

Mr. Jerome declared dramatically that there was no doubt Stanford White had done Evelyn Nesbit a great wrong, and that Harry Thaw had every motive for revengeful murder upon the man he killed. This motive, he asserted, forever swept away the claim of insanity which known not what it does.

Mr. Jerome reviewed in detail the evidence presented as to many alleged irrational outbreaks by Thaw, and declared he could find in them no trace of brainstorm or manic-depressive insanity.

"But if you can," he added, "I beg you to give the defendant the benefit of it. We all have had tantrums in our childhood when we were slighted, but were we insane? No. We received the box of medical treatment—a good sound spanking."

The day of the tragedy found Thaw playing bridge whist at the Whist Club with Captain Wharton, John A. Drake and John B. Gleason. On other days, in the immediate vicinity of the crime, he played with Charles M. Schwab.

"Are these men who would gamble with an insane or an irrational man and win his money, or lose theirs to him? No. They are not brought here to say he is irrational. Why not?"

After speaking a little more than two hours District Attorney Jerome asked that the recess be taken. Justice Dowling announced that, having in view the comfort of the jurors, who would be kept in the jury room until a verdict was rendered, he would not charge them as to the law until to-morrow morning.

White's Act Cries To Heaven Says Attorney Jerome

New York, Jan. 30.—Conceding that Harry K. Thaw might have had irrational outbreaks now and then during the thirty-six years of his life — much of it spent in "going the paces," District Attorney Wm. Travers Jerome in his plea for the conviction of Stanford White's slayer today declared there was absolutely nothing in the case presented to the jury to show that Thaw was so insane the night of the tragedy that he did not know the nature or quality of his act, or that the act was wrong. The prosecutor followed this, however, by signifying very plainly that he believed justice would be served if the defendant should be found guilty of some lesser degree of criminal responsibility than murder in the first degree.

COURT ROOM PACKED.

New York, Jan. 30. — There was another great crush at the Criminal Courts' building to-day to hear District Attorney Jerome make the closing address for the people in the Thaw case. When the doors were opened, the court chamber was found to be already filled with specially privileged spectators, some of whom had made their way through the Tombs Prison, over the bridge of Sighs, and through the carefully guarded passageways used for prisoners. Justice Dowling was late in getting down town, and it was some time after the hour set for convening when he took his place on the bench.

JEROME MAKES EXCUSE.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and Josiah Thaw were the only members of the defendant's family present when Mr. Jerome began his argument at 11 o'clock. He declared the case had been handled by him with some difficulty as he had many other matters of importance to attend to at the same time.

"If I have at any time lacked in the dignity that attaches to my office," continued the prosecutor, "if at any time I have shown any asperity or lack of consideration, I can only say now that I regret it. Any personal impression I have made or have not made should have no part whatever in your verdict. You are not trying the District Attorney. Any answers he may have made are not evidence for the people, and neither are they any evidence that Harry K. Thaw was insane when he killed Stanford White.

"As to the woman, if my manner was of disapprobation, that is not evidence. Neither I nor the woman is being tried here. Harry Thaw is on trial for the murder of Stanford White, and the defence is that he was insane on the night of June 25, 1906; that he was not generally insane as is insane now. All you have to deal with is, all I have to deal with is, whether or not at a particular time and place this defendant was insane — whether when he shot and killed Stanford White he knew that the act was wrong and against the law of the land.

"I shall endeavor coldly to dissect the evidence in this case, to take it step by step, and to show you that the burden the law places upon the defence of proving the insanity of this defendant has not been met. Then I shall ask that when you retire to your room you will treat this case coldly and impartially, weigh it as you would a business proposition, and render the verdict that your conscience dictates.

"I shall endeavor not to attack the learned counsel for the defense. I have no letters been placed on trial by counsel for the defense that it is an old, old story. To arraign the District Attorney is old, very old, whether it comes from the mountains of Tennessee, the Pan Handle of Texas, or the sunny slops of the Pacific. You, gentlemen, understand it and will not regard it seriously.

Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel for the defense, is a native of Tennessee and formerly lived in Texas.

Mr. Jerome explained to the jury the different degrees of murder defined by the law, and declared that in the case the only verdicts possible under the circumstances were murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree, manslaughter in the first degree, or not guilty on the ground of insanity. Murder in the first degree is punishable by death, in the second degree by life imprisonment, and manslaughter in the first degree by imprisonment not to exceed twenty years.

The District Attorney declared Thaw plainly had a motive for killing White. Every act of his for two or three years before the tragedy pointed to his deadly and consuming hate of the man he killed. Thaw believed that White had drugged and mistreated his wife; he knew that White had kept him out of a New York club; he knew that White had threatened his life, if the stage doorman is to be believed; and he knew that just a month before the tragedy White had told May MacKenzie what he heard Thaw and Evelyn were not living happily together and he would then get the girl back.

"It matters not whether you believe the girl's story of the drugging or not," declared Mr. Jerome, who up to this time had not once raised his voice above the tones of confidential conversation with the jurors. "It is certain that a great wrong was done; a wrong that cried out for vengeance. It is for you to pass judgment as to the drugs. I say nothing. But the relations of this middle-aged married man with the girl of fifteen cry out to Heaven and no decent man can say a word in defence. I certainly have no intention of doing so. But with all the things I have pointed out to you, if there was no motive in the heart of this defendant, I can imagine nothing that can create a motive."

"Is there any contention that he has been crazy during the two years he has been in the Tombs? Is there any contentions that he is crazy as he sits here before you? Then why crazy when he calmly and deliberately shot Stanford White?"

Charles Burke is Committed for Trial

Yesterday morning the young man, Charles Burke, charged with having robbed the Buckhorn Post Office of some $35 at the point of a revolver, was on trial before County Magistrate Edmison.

The first witness called was Miss Eliza Purser, sister of Mr. John Purser, who lives at Buckhorn, and is employed in Mr. Purser's store. She was in the store with Miss Higgins on the evening of Nov. 6th. Prisoner came in and asked for a plug of tobacco. She thought prisoner, after getting it, had left the store. Miss Higgins told her the man was robbing the store till. He had gone through the till. She followed him to the door, when prisoner pointed a revolver at her. She had seen and identified prisoner in the jail afterwards. Prisoner got between $25 and $40.

To Mr. Gordon, who acted for the defence, witness said she identified the prisoner.

Miss Higgins, the next witness, practically corroborated the testimony of Miss Purser. To Mr. Gordon, witness said, Burke paid for his tobacco with a $1 bill and got his change. She did not see prisoner rob the cash drawer as several boxes were between the line of sight. However, she saw prisoner with bills in his hands. Prisoner pointed a revolver at her head. She thought prisoner was going to shoot her, so ran to the rear of the store where a door leads to the private portion of the building. She told Miss Purser that the man had robbed the till. She then telephoned to John Eastwood and asked him to come at once. Prisoner pointed a revolver at Miss Purser. She had seen a photograph of the prisoner and was not absolutely sure of his identity. She had given a description of the robber to Mr. Cochrane. The man was clean shaven. She did not get a good look at the man during the robbery. The robber was about the same size and build as the prisoner.

To County Attorney Wood, witness said when she went to the jail to identify the robber, he was not pointed out to her, but she recognized him among several other prisoners.

Geo. Taylor, an Indian, next witness, on Nov. 6th was driving near Buckhorn and met a man whom he recognized as the prisoner.

To Mr. Gordon Taylor said, prisoner was walking. He met him near the finger board about 4 miles from Buckhorn. He offered prisoner a drive but the latter refused. This caused him to remember the date. He never saw a photograph of prisoner. He only knew he was to be a witness in the case on Tuesday at 8.00 p. m. Prisoner looks like the man he met that day.

This ended the case for the prosecution and as the defence had no witnesses His Worship committed the prisoner for trial by the first court of competent jurisdiction.

The Best Home Remedy For Rheumatism

Very Fine Prescription for Kidney Trouble, Anyone Can Prepare

A large health publication tells its readers of a number of simple and safe prescriptions that can be made at home. The following, however, for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles receives the greatest praise, viz., Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumberful of water after each dose. It is further stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially of the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic afflictions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swellings in just a short while.

A well-known local druggist states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys; cleansing these spongelike organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood which is the cause of rheumatism.

Cut this out and hand to some sufferer which would certainly be an act of humanity.

David Hartley Complimentary Concert

Given by the Citizens in the Market Hall Last Night

Splendid Program

Last night the long-talked of concert for the benefit of Mr. David Hartley, Peterborough's champion walker, was held in the Market building. Although one of the coldest nights of the winter a fairly good crowd was present, and judging by the attendance and attitude of those present, the people have faith in and recognize the services fulfilled by "Dave," the peoples' pedestrian idol.

The programme was under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, Bandmaster of the 57th Regimental Band, and was much appreciated by those present. Following is the programme:

Mr. R. W. Eaton, of Bolivia, N.Y., president of the Big Dipper Mining and Milling Company, is in the city on a visit to Mr. J. S. Waldron, secretary-treasurer of the company. While here Mr. Eaton will assist Mr. Waldron in his preparation of the Government report, and will be glad to meet all the local shareholders of the company.

Sports

COBOURG HERE TO-NIGHT.

The postponed game between Cobourg and Peterborough will take place to-morrow night, and will be the last O. H. A. game of the season. Cobourg expects a victory, after which the team proposes to defeat Lindsay on the latter's ice. The game will be a good one, but the Straths say that the visitors will fall before the local seven on Friday. The Straths, although having had less than the luck to be expected this year, will pull up Friday night and make good. Any how a good game is assured.

GOOD JUNIOR GAME.

On Saturday afternoon a junior team from Lakefield will meet Jack Thornbeck's Chieftain's at Brock street rink between 1 and 2 o'clock.

A TIE GAME.

The Rough Riders and Karnots met last night in a fast and spectacular game of hockey in the Brock Street Rink. Both teams put up as good exhibition of hockey and fought hard for supremacy, but were unable to break the tie, both teams scoring two goals. Following is the line-up:

Rough Riders	Karnots.
Goal.
Gereoux	McFadden
Point.
Cahill	Borradaile
Cover-point.
Cameron	Fox
Centre.
C. Gereoux	Goals

News in Brief

St. Petersburg, January 30. — The Minister of Communications yesterday introduced in the Duma a bill to double the tracks of the Siberian Railroad, which it is estimated will cost nearly $30,000,000. Recently the Ministry appropriated $6,500,000 for the purpose of doubling the tracks of this road between Samara and Zelatoust.

Ottawa, January 30. — A new phase regarding the Quebec game laws arose yesterday in Hull in connection with the prosecution of the Ravelon Company of Montreal, which was prosecuted for having 400 beaver skins illegally in its possession. The skins were seized a couple of weeks ago, and the prosecution opened yesterday morning before Magistrate St. Julien. The defence stated that it would fight the case on the ground that the Indians, from whom the skins were purchased, had the right by an old treaty with the Dominion to kill and dispose of beaver, and that therefore the Quebec law was ultra vires as applied to Indians.

Hoboes in Hay-Mow Attacked the Owner --Tramps Escaped

Cobalt, Jan. 30 — "Prof." Sharpe, who has a small shack on the Haileybury road, on the outskirts of New Liskeard, is reported to have had trouble one evening last week with two tramps who came to sleep in his barn. It is stated that, before retiring, he took a lantern out into the barn, and found the two "wearies" fast asleep in the hay mow. He woke them up, and then started to remonstrate with them for their choice of a bed chamber, finally ordering them off. The result was a scrap in which the "Professor" received a blow on the head which rendered him temporarily unconscious. In falling over he tipped the lantern, and a fire started which burned the entire barn and contents. Mr. Sharpe managed to save himself from the flames. The tramps escaped.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, neither harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

EVERY PALE WOMAN

Read This and Learn the Way to Coop Color and Better Health.

Pale people have pale blood.

In other words the blood is watery and lacks red corpuscles.

The stomach is wrong.

Assimilation is poor and food is not changed into blood. Naturally the system is robbed of vitality, lacks strength and reconstructive power.

Don't slip from vigor into weakness.

Don't allow the appetite to fail, but instead use Ferrozone.

You're bound to feel rejuvenated and strengthened at once.

Appetite is braced up, digestion is stimulated, vigor imparted to the stomach. Everything you eat is transformed into nutriment that supplies what your thin weak system needs.

Vital, life-giving blood that makes rosy cheeks and dancing eyes—that's the kind that Ferrozone makes.

The strength and buoyancy that defies depression and tiredness, that's the sort you get with Ferrozone.

Every pale woman can transform her blanched out appearance with Ferrozone.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE

Although we are disposed to think that Mr. Fielding somewhat exaggerated the effect of the preference granted to British imports into Canada, there is no doubt it has accomplished a good deal in the direction of increasing that trade. A growth of trade from $69,500,000 to $168,000,000 in ten years is certainly of importance, whatever may have been the cause to which it is due. It is quite probable that without such a preference the trade would have grown less rapidly than the figures we have given show that it has. But the progress made generally throughout the Dominion; the development of the country's natural resources with the corresponding growth in the industries which that development caused to be established or extended, and the increase in the National realised wealth, have all been factors in the enlargement of our import trade with Great Britain. The preference undoubtedly stimulated that trade and made its extension possible in certain lines.

From the reports from the United Kingdom it seems that the value of the preference which Canada gave without asking any concession in return is beginning to be appreciated by the commercial community in the Old Country. That is likely to result in more attention being given to the cultivation of Canadian trade, a circumstance that will have an important influence on commercial affairs in both countries.

THE ENGINEERING MAGAZINE

In the Engineering Magazine for February, the U. S. Government experts in charge of the investigation of safety in mining—Clarence Hall and Dr. Walter O. Snelling—appear as joint authors of a most impressive article on "The Waste of Life in American Coal Mining." The figures show that deaths from mine accidents in the United States are from three to four times as many per 1,000 employees or per 1,000,000 tons of coal mined, as in the mines of Great Britain France, Belgium, or Germany. And this terrible record against the country is in spite of the fact that the conditions are naturally safer than in any of the other countries mentioned. The chief causes of the disparity are pointed out and means for reducing the deplorable waste are proposed.

Another timely feature of the issue is a very instructive study of the lessons from the recent Parker building fire in New York, by J. K. Freitag. H. V. Coes presents the most interesting facts concerning recent railway development and finance in the form of instantly understood charts and curves. A Selwyn Brown contributes a finely illustrated review of the copper fields of Nevada, which are attracting so much attention. P. R. Moses has a study of modern practice in ventilating, heating, and cooling large buildings, with a wealth of illustrations. C. J. Reading describes a simple system for shop costs, and J. C. Wm Orth discusses the question of water purification for manufacturing purposes, with valuable figures of actual results in money saving through the use of water-softening plants. The number carries also the usual Review of the Engineering Press and the Engineering Index.—The Engineering Magazine, New York.

PANTHER INVADED HOME.

Snatched at Baby But Was Driven Off by Father.

Quite a little commotion was caused at MacAdam, N. B., recently by a panther entering the home of Mr. Ed. Irvine, C. P. R. ticket agent. From Mr. Irvine's statement it appears that shortly after reaching his home, which is situated quite close to the woods, the house being uncomfortably hot, on account of the soft weather, he opened the door for the purpose of cooling off the room, when there sprang in a large panther, which struck at the baby.

Mrs. Irvine, upon entering the room, swooned away, and, Mr. Irvine, picking up a stoveshaker, threw it at the animal, striking it on the head, enraging the beast. He followed up the attack with a chair, and the snarling animal beat a retreat through the open door.

After attending to his wife, Mr. Irvine got together a few friends and scoured the woods for a distance, but was not successful in locating the cause of the disturbance. The excitement is still great, and it is intended to organize a posse at once with a view to ridding the vicinity of such a ferocious beast.

Prevalence of Perjury.

In an address on the evils of perjury, Bishop Worrell of Nova Scotia, made the following statement recently at Halifax:

"A right conception of God and His word, and a due reverence for them, would make perjury absolutely unknown. The growth of perjury is a terrible thing, and there can be no doubt that it is growing. The other day Judge Riddell of Toronto stated that it was becoming a most serious problem in the conduct of the courts, and I have heard a well-known police magistrate of a large city in Ontario declare that it is impossible to believe people on their oaths. The statement made by a witness in a recent celebrated election trial that he advised his agents, when sworn, to kiss their thumbs instead of the book, and then they would not be guilty of perjury, shows the utterly unworthy idea such a man has of Him who reads the heart of the man, and judges, not by the outside of the platter as to the cleanliness of it.

"The wholesome dread which the story of Annanias and Sapphira once exerted seems to have but little power to-day—especially in a liquor trial or a contested election. Affidavits are taken and oaths administered often in such an irreverent manner that the solemnity which is attached to them is lacking, and the awfulness of invoking the name of God in attestation of man's word is but little realized. There should either be special officers for the administration of oaths, or the farce that is now so often enacted should be done away with. To swear a man upon a Bible of which he has never read a word, of which he has heard but little, and in which he does not believe, or thinks he does not, can give no weight to his evidence. The apostolic condemnation of perjured persons in the same list as the most abandoned and wicked sinners has no effect upon him."

With the Usual Apologies.

"Ma, may I take an airship ride?"
"Yes, dearie, since you ask it.
Go get your gas bag, high and wide,
But don't go near the basket."

Beautiful City of India.

Jaipur is called "the Beautiful City of India" and is noted among travelers for the exquisite rose color which all of its houses sport. It gives the impression of a pink coral city rising from the sea.

Spanish Hands.

Russians have long but beautifully shaped hands, while those of Spaniards are often spoiled by the thickness of the fingers, which are apt to round at the tips.

Netherlands Fisheries.

About 100,000 nets are in use during the herring season by the 800 fishing smacks of the Netherlands. A net lasts about three seasons, but owing to losses from storms and other causes between 40,000 and 50,000 new nets are bought yearly.

Clogged Waste Pipes.

When the waste pipe is clogged with grease pour down a gallon of boiling water in which has been dissolved a cupful of soda. Repeat this until all of the impurities are removed.

Gaza.

We have to thank Gaza, in Palestine, the gates of which Samson carried away, for gaze or gazes. Gaza means "treasure," and precious to the fair is the thesaurus which covers without concealing their charms. Voltaire, wishing to describe some intellectual but perhaps dressy woman, said, "She is an eagle in a cage of gauze."

Much Ontario Business

at all in proportion to the population. In Toronto four members speak for nearly 500,000 citizens.

TORONTO REPRESENTATION.

This inequality will be remedied by giving Toronto eight members. It is proposed to retain the present ridings of North, South, East and West Toronto, giving two members to each. Ottawa and Hamilton with their growing populations of about 59,000 and 66,000 respectively, will consider themselves entitled to more than two members each, while London, which claims over 40,000, will hardly be satisfied with one member. The details have as yet not been given to the public, if they have been decided upon.

The north country, which was given additional representation at the last redistribution, has since grown greatly in population and will probably desire still more voice in the making of the laws of the province. Requests have already come from Parry Sound and the district around New Liskeard. At present the enumerators are engaged in the preparation of the voters' lists of the newer districts, while the situation in other parts of Ontario is being studied. Members of the Government say that the membership of the House will not be largely increased, but it is hard to see how all the claims of the constituencies can be satisfied without making a considerable augmentation in the membership. This will mean some crowding together of the benches in the Chamber, which is none too large for the requirements of the House as at present constituted. The Mowat Government of twenty years ago, like many other public and semi-public bodies, did not foresee how rapidly the province would expand. A legislative chamber half as large again as the present one will be none too commodious for the Legislature of a few years hence.

LOCAL OPTION.

Discussion will likely be heard on the requirements of a three-fifths vote to carry local option in municipalities in Ontario. The temperance forces were greatly aggrieved at the number of local option campaigns which failed of success because of the obnoxious clause. It is expected that the Government will fall back upon its former contention that only a strong public opinion behind the law can make local option efficacious.

LAW REFORM.

Ever since the accession of the Government there has been talk of a measure of sweeping law reform. Each session has passed leaving the question still in the air, and so far there has been no definite hint given that it is to be a live issue this year. In fact the impression is growing that though Premier Whitney has not openly expressed himself, he is not of opinoin that law reform is an immediate necessity.

For several years there has been an agitation to have the Central Prison and the Toronto Asylum removed from their city surroundings in order that their respective inmates may enjoy the advantages of farm labor, thus making these institutions partially self-sustaining, promoting the health and welfare of the criminals and mentally unsound, and largely doing away with prison labor, one of the pet grievances of the labor unions.

THE INSANE.

The adoption of advanced modern methods of caring for the insane has long been under consideration by Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, who has since he came into office taken an active interest in augmenting the efficiency of the asylums of Ontario. A committee consisting of Hon. Dr. Willoughby and Drs. Clarke, of Toronto, and Ryan, of Kingston, has studied the system in use in Germany, and reported in favor of the adoption of a somewhat similar plan in this province. This would entail the inauguration of a new branch, the psychiatric clinic, in which persons on the borderland of insanity or suffering from apparently temporary mental disease can be treated, and perhaps cured. It is said that such an hospital will be established in Toronto, in connection with the new Provincial Hospital, where facilities will be afforded for the study of mental diseases by students at the University of Toronto.

GOVERNING NEW TERRITORY.

Ontario, according to the speech from the throne, delivered at the opening of the Federal Parliament, is to receive an addition to its territory, as a result of the efforts of the present government. Legislation will be required to make provision for the exploration and surveying of this area to the northwest of the existing boundary. Moreover machinery will be needed for the administration of law in the district, although it is built sparsely populated.

OTHER QUESTIONS.

Attention may be given to the question of child labor, which was investigated by a committee at the last session of the House. Legislation may be passed in connection with the factory and Shops Act, and also the Truancy Act. It is proposed to prohibit the employment of children under 14 years of age in factories and shops and to limit their hours of work to 60 a week or 11 a day. Many other subjects will be dealt with by the legislators. The Municipal Act is to be consolidated and amended. The Mines' Act is being revised, and consideration may be given to the plan of levying the tax on claims and their output. Some legislation will doubtless be required in reference to educational matters. The movement to secure cheap school books has not yet been finally disposed of, although much has been done toward the issue of a new series of readers. Other text-books have yet to be dealt with. Steps may be taken, it is reported, to encourage technical education, and Hamilton hopes for a grant for its college. In connection with the establishment of the four Normal schools in Ontario, it was pointed out that a number of county Model schools would be abolished. Legislation may be required before the government can designate which of the institutions shall be closed, and which shall be retained.

Hon. Nelson Monteith is authority for the statement that largely increased funds will be provided for the Guelph Agricultural College, but he gives no estimate of the probable amounts.

FUNDS FOR POWER PLANS.

The progress made in the direction of the success of the Government's great plan for supplying cheap power to the municipalities will probably make further legislation necessary. Funds will have to be raised for the construction of the plant to carry it into effect. Finally, the House will be called upon to pass upon measures consolidated and revised by the commission of judges and others engaged in that task.

Two reports are before the Government for consideration. They are the findings of Mr. J. R. L. Starr, in reference to the enquiry into the liquor license administration in Toronto, and Commissioner Judd's report on Toronto jail. Both contain important recommendations, but no hint has been given as to the intention of the ministers in regard to them. The former advocates a very drastic change in that it suggests the placing of the liquor traffic under a commission to have jurisdiction throughout the province.

REVENUES WERE LARGE.

Despite the rumors of approaching hard times and the stringency of the money market, the provincial treasurer will be enabled to declare almost as large a surplus as last year. The revenues in almost every department will show an increase over last year. The receipts from succession duties reached nearly $900,000. The Bureau of Mines will report the largest collection in its history, while the provincial secretary's department, despite a temporary falling off of receipts, will pay into the treasury a much larger sum than last year. At the same time the province has been in a position to grant more than in previous years for the improvement of highways and the maintenance of rural schools than ever before.

Last year the House met at the close of January, but was unable to make much progress as its duties at the outset. This year the preparation of the public accounts and the estimates is proceeding as rapidly as possible.

Three new members will be introduced to Mr. Speaker Crawford on the opening day. They are: Dr. Forbes Godfrey, who succeeds the late Hon. J. W. St. John as representative of West York; Chas. H. McKeown, who will fill the place of the late Dr. F. W. Lewis, of Dufferin, and Mr. A. E. Donovan, who redeemed for the Government the Liberal riding vacated by Hon. Geo. P. Graham, now Minister of Railways and Canals at Ottawa. All will be found on the Government side, and it has been said that Messrs. McKeown and Donovan may be the mover and seconder of the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Rich Hair We publish the formula of Ayer's Hair Vigor. You know what you are using. Your doctor knows why it does things.

You may easily hide your ignorance of South Sea politics or North Pole explorations, but you cannot hide a scraggly, worn-out, ignorant-looking head of hair. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the natural exponent of intelligent hair culture. The hair promptly yields, becomes manageable, and appears well.

Exclusive Agents for Peterborough and Vicinity.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Old Home Week.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.

Billy Sugden read the pamphlet throug' from cover to cover, from the first g ring line, "Old Home Week," to the imprint of the "Blairsville Mercury Job Print" on the last page of the cover. (Somehow the little booklet seemed to have almost the value of a message from home. He could even tell which part of the text Carr, the editor of the Mercury, had written and which portions were the product of the Rev. John Dudley, the Presbyterian minister, who has literary aspirations.

One paragraph in particular appealed to him. It ran, "We have set a date later than most of the old home weeks so that as we, the home stayers, bring to a happy and prosperous conclusion the harvest of the year so may the homecomers bring with them the first fruits of their prosperity and their talent."

Whoever had sent him the pamphlet had underscored this paragraph, and Sugden felt with a glow of pride that his new found fame had reached even to the old home. It was only in the last few months that he had gained the position as an illustrator for which he had fought, and fame was still very sweet to him. He could see visions of the old home, the quiet, shady streets, the trees now gorgeous in their autumnal tints, as he sat down and wrote a note of regret to the famous lion hunter who had sought to add him to her collection at Newport for that week.

As the train drew near the old town some weeks later he peered from the windows as eagerly as a boy.

On both sides of the car excited faces were pressed against the glass locating familiar spots, and when at last the long line of cars swung around the point and the gray old breakwater came into sight the car rang with cheers, in which Sugden's voice was by no means the least vociferous.

It was pleasant to meet the reception committee with their pompous formality of welcoming speeches, which were followed by the more genuine handclasps. It was still more pleasant to make his way up the street and get a welcome on every hand, but through it all Sugden was conscious of one lack—the absence of one person who alone could make old home week a success to him. For the first time he realised that the week meant to him Elizabeth Grantley, and it was to see her that he had come.

As he crossed the foaming little river that cut the town in two he remembered the last time that he stood on the span. He and Elizabeth had leaned against the rail, watching the swirling waters in the uncertain moonlight, while gently she had put from her the hopes that had risen in her breast and had sent him on his way unfettered by matrimonial promises. "If you really want me you will come back for me without a promise," she had whispered. "I could not bear to think that I was holding you back in your career, Billy." He had protested and argued, but the girl had steadfastly held to her point. She would not marry him—she would not even consider an engagement. If he was to fight his way in the world he must be left free.

He had failed then to perceive her point of view. He had wanted her to marry him and go with him in search of a career. When she had refused he had flung himself away, and he had not written. Now he knew that she had been right, and he longed to tell her so. "There was a bureau of information through which visitors might locate their old friends, but the sweet faced girl in charge of the registry list shook her head regretfully. We tried to locate the Grantleys to reach them with an announcement," she explained, "but they appear to have dropped from sight completely. I will make a note of your address in case we do locate them." Sugden thanked her and went out feeling as though after all his coming had been a mistake. He slipped into the opera house to listen for awhile to the formal exercises for the opening day, but he found the prosy oratory tiresome and soon sought the open air. Bridge and Court streets were brought out brilliantly by arches of incandescent lights, and in the Indian summer warmth a pushing, perspiring crowd made their way up and down the streets and jostled each other into the gutter, while the confetti was scattered about and the feather ticklers were everywhere in evidence.

With a gesture of disgust, Sugden turned from the crowd. His mood was not ajune to merrymaking, and he sought the more quiet parts of the town. Almost unconsciously he took the familiar paths that led to the little cottage where the Grantleys had made their home, and presently he found himself leaning against the fence that inclosed the well kept garden. Here he lighted a cigar, and with the soft gloom of the tree shaded yard for his screen he projected from his fancy scenes wherein he and Elizabeth had figured. He could see the gay hammock swung between the apple tree and the horse chestnut. He could picture the dainty figure in filmy white and could almost hear her hail of "I'm out here, Billy, in the hammock," as the gate clicked behind him.

Then his mind conjured the vision of the wistful faced girl leaning upon the railing of the bridge and pleading with him to keep his fight free handed. He remembered those last few moments when he had declared that he would have nothing more to do with a girl who feared to face poverty with him, and even now it seemed that he could hear her sobs as she had walked with tear blinded eyes down the street, while he had leaned against the wall and had watched her go without a single word of comfort.

Somehow the sobbing seemed strangely real. It was almost as though a woman there in the shadow of the trees was letting loose the flood gates of her grief. So real did the sound seem that he flung away his cigar and vaulted the low fence, making for the direction of the sound. But, though he expected to find a woman there under the trees, it was with a shock that he did come face to face with a bowed figure. With uplifted hat and a murmured offer of service, he advanced, but the woman moved away silently. Something in the poise brought Sugden's heart into his mouth, and, with a cry, he darted forward.

"Elizabeth! Is it really you?" he demanded. "Have I found you at last?" The girl was at the gate now, and in the light of the distant street lamp he saw that he was right.

"Listen, dear," he went on. "I don't blame you for wanting nothing to do with me, but hear me only for a minute.

"I did not know what you intuitively guessed—how hard the struggle would be. I did not know the conditions. I thought that with you to help me make the fight I could do better. I know now that I was wrong."

"I thought that knowledge would come in time," said the girl softly. "Genius in a garret is a thing of the past. Genius to be discovered must live and dress well. I could not make you understand that."

"But I know it now," he assured her. "I can see that alone I could live better and at least preserve the appearance of prosperity that was my greatest aid to advancement. And even as my error was great so is my penitence, Betty. Can you find it in your heart to forgive me, to admit me at least to your friendship?"

"To forgive is part of woman's life," she said wearily. "I had not intended to make myself known. I just wanted to see the old town and the old home again, but you have found me out."

"And this time I shall not let you go," he said, "not if I can prove how great has been my repentance. Look, dear, the old house is for sale. May I buy it in the hope that some day we shall call it home? I know I do not deserve forgiveness, dear, but—you said I would find you waiting when I came home."

"It has been a long wait," she said softly, "a very long wait, Billy, but I have kept my promise. I have waited alone."

Gently, almost reverently, he took her in his arms, and as his lips brushed the soft brown hair he realized what some men never come to know, the depth and beauty of a woman's loving forgiveness. Sugden had found the old home—and the new.

Taking No Chances.

"It is a rule to which good lawyers usually adhere," says a Philadelphia attorney, "never to tell more than one knows. There was an instance in England not many years ago wherein a lawyer carried the rule to the extreme.

"One of the agents in a Midland revision court objected to a person whose name was on the register on the ground that he was dead. The revision attorney declined to accept the assurance, however, and demanded conclusive testimony on the point.

"The agent on the other side arose and gave corroborative evidence as to the decease of the man in question.

"'But, sir, how do you know the man's dead?' demanded the barrister.

"'Well,' was the reply, 'I don't know it's very difficult to prove.'

"'As I suspected,' returned the barrister. 'You don't know whether he's dead or not.'

"Whereupon the witness coolly continued: 'I was saying, sir, that I don't know whether he is dead or not, but I do know this: They buried him about a month ago on suspicion.'"—Harper's Weekly.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

There have just been placed on exhibition in the Egyptian galleries of the British Museum a select few of the Egyptian inscriptions recently discovered in the Sinaitic peninsula. One of the most interesting is a sandstone stele and altar set up by Sebekher-heb, an overseer of the Royal apartments, and a subordinate official named Kemen, who were attached to the Royal Chancery. The tablet, which is dated in the forty-fourth year of Amenem-hat. III., about B. C. 2300, is of red sandstone, and contains an inscription in which a prayer is offered to Athor, the "lady of the turquoise land," by which name the Sinaitic peninsula was known to the Ancient Egyptians. There is also the lower portion of a statue of Usertesen II., B. C. 2333, dedicated to Hathor by the King's officials stationed in Sinai, and the lower portion of a seated figure of Hathor, dedicated to the goddess of Senefru, a captain of the boats in the reign of Amen-emhat I. The objects were discovered at Serabit-el-Kadim, in the Sinaitic peninsula, and were presented to the British Museum by the Egypt Exploration Fund.

Fen Country Spooks.

South Lincolnshire has its haunted house. It is situated at Marton, and for some time past the occupiers, it is said, have been disturbed at nights by unaccountable rappings at the doors and windows. Up to the present the cause is an absolute mystery. One evening three distinct knocks were heard at the front door, but upon the tenant proceeding to open it no one was there. Shortly afterwards the knockings were repeated. The same thing occurred on subsequent nights, and the village policeman secreted himself to watch and see if anyone was playing a prank. While he was thus engaged the knocks were frequently heard, and so loud occasionally that they were audible to the next-door neighbour. On one occasion the tapping came to the door while the policeman stood by, and when there was absolutely nothing to reveal the cause of it. All attempts to unravel the mystery have proved in vain. The house has become notorious, and many people have visited it with the object of hearing the supernatural tappings for themselves.

A Tip to Him.

"Of course," said the long winded bore, "it's essential that a man should weigh his words when speaking."

"Yes, and for some," remarked Popprey, "it's well not to give such generous measure."

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government expert's report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money too.

Indigestion Ruins Complexion

The Sallow Pale, Tired Woman Usually Has Stomach Trouble.

The good looks of every woman depends largely upon the proper working of her stomach and other internal organs.

If your stomach is strong and digestion is good, the cheeks blush with color, eyes dance and sparkle, breath will be pure and your hair smooth and glossy.

Let indigestion creep in, and the skin becomes sallow and rough, pimples break out, eyes get dark-circled, ill breath is all too apparent.

Set the stomach toned up with Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they increase the secretion of the gastric juices, promote vigorous digestion, increase the supply of blood and thereby invigorate the entire system.

The system is quickly won back to a normal healthy condition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and every girl or woman who uses this remedy will show it in a clear, wholesome complexion, and a sound healthy body. Sold in 25 cent boxes by all dealers.

Good Time for Local Charity

Whilst people who may think twice over the tons of coal they or their employees are shovelling into the family furnace, there is still another thought coming, and that is concerning the poor fellow or his wife and widow who has not got the coal to shovel or the food and bread to give such persons the strength and ambition to do the shovelling. There is no use ostrich-like placing our heads in the sand of various ideas and then blowing out that "No hard times are in this town." We know that money is tight, mighty tight, and whilst this condition exists there are scores of people who are hard up and anxious to know where tomorrow's, if not to-day's, dinner is coming from. Now is the time for the men with the dollars ahead to assist those with the dollars behind.

Work Suspended for Lack of Heat

Work has been suspended at the new Ontario Government Normal School building on the interior, owing to lack of heat. The larger boiler which will be used for the purpose of warming the building has not yet been installed, and the plastering has been suspended the past six weeks. The electric light fixtures have all been placed in readiness for the plastering work. Contractor Whitham hopes to have everything complete in readiness for the opening by the end of June.

Mr. John Gibson Loses His Right Thumb

Another of those regrettable accidents that, whilst deplored, seem inseparable from the operation of any large factory, occurred yesterday morning at the Canadian General Electric Company's works, when Mr. John Gibson, Parnell street, was the victim of a very painful accident. He had the thumb of his right hand caught in a planing machine. It was badly lacerated, and he was taken to Nicholls Hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance, where Dr. G. E. Marshall, upon examination of the thumb, found it necessary to amputate it.

After the business was transacted the members all adjourned to Fowler's restaurant, where an oyster supper was served.

Cobourg Harbor to be Improved

We learn from a reliable source that plans for the improvement of the Cobourg harbor are at present being prepared in the Public Works Department at Ottawa, and that it is quite possible that work will be commenced early in the spring. The east pier is to be extended, and the west pier will also have an addition placed at the entrance running southeast to within three hundred feet of the east pier, thence south forming a bottle shaped entrance to the harbor. It is expected that when completed the Cobourg harbor will be the best on Lake Ontario, with a depth of water that will allow the deepest draught boats on the lake to enter without danger of grounding. With the proposed improvements completed, it is quite possible that the Grand Trunk will construct a much larger boat than Ontario No. 1 to ferry coal across the lake to supply the rapidly increasing demand.

We have since learned that the east pier will be extended five hundred feet this coming summer.—Cobourg Post.

Former Local Citizen on Visit

Noted Astronomer to Speak Here

Mr. S. L. Blake, O.L.S., D.L.S., of the Dominion Observatory, Toronto, will deliver an address before the Astronomical Society in the Y.W.C.A. this evening. Mr. Blake will speak on the taking of time and transit instruments. The public is cordially invited to attend. Dr. King, of Ottawa, Dominion Astronomer, is expected in the city in a few days. He will also deliver an address before the Society.

Local Ticket Agents in Toronto

Messrs. William McIlroy and Wm Burton, both past presidents of the executive of the Canadian Tickets' Agents' Association, were in Toronto this week attending an executive gathering. Arrangements were made for holding the next convention of the association in Detroit, Mich., in October next. The meeting was held on Wednesday last year.

The Elks Camp Dance

The great dress-up Elks Camp, held in Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, was a well success from start to finish. Fully a hundred and fifty people participated in the evening's amusement. The decorations were tastefully arranged throughout. Music was furnished by Marotani's orchestra of Toronto, and the floor was in fine condition. The programme of dances was finished shortly after 2 o'clock. Dainty refreshments were served at midnight by Mr. Jos. Welsh.

The Fresh Air Club has taken to snow-shoeing for their latest means of working off superfluous energy. They will have their first outing to-morrow night when they will gather at the club rooms.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Britain's Big Lead in Shipbuilding

London, January 30. — The statistics the world's shipbuilding in 1907, just issued by Lloyd's register, shows a total output of mercantile tonnage by the United Kingdom of 1,742,365, being a decrease of 220,300 tons as compared with 1906, which was the highest on record. The foreign output in 1907 increased by nearly 30,000 tons.

Great Britain, however, still builds more than one-half the mercantile shipping of the globe, which last year showed a net increase of 1,384,807 tons, as compared with an increase of 2,158,000 in 1906. The world's fleet of sailing ships was reduced during the year by 130,000 tons, and the steam tonnage was increased by 2,164,000.

The United States built in 1907, 475,000 tons, which was a slight increase.

Germany shows rather a serious decline. Last year she built 275,000 tons, as compared with 515,000 in 1906, while at the same time she purchased less from Great Britain.

Great Britain is still a large purchaser of vessels built abroad. Another matter of great discontent in this country is the large percentage of foreigners employed as seamen on the British mercantile marine, numbering a total of 49,000, with an annual wage list of $16,000,000. While the question of the unemployed is pressing heavily ashore, this is considered unfortunate, and the British Naval League is taking active steps to agitate the utilization of the unemployed to take the place of aliens on the ships.

For $500,000,000 in Notes

Washington, Jan. 30. — With one exception the Democratic members of the Senate Finance Committee have agreed to support a bill to issue $500,000,000 Treasury notes. The measure provides for the distribution of this emergency currency as deposits in national banks equitably throughout the country.

An effort is being made to line up a solid Democratic opposition in favor of this substitute for the Aldrich bill. The bill provides that depositories under the act shall pay one-half of 1 per cent. interest for the first six months and three-quarters of 1 per cent. thereafter.

Bonds pledged to secure deposits shall be held in trust by the Treasurer of the United States. Only United States and municipal bonds are to be accepted, as security against deposits. Safeguards are provided as to the character of the town, city or county bonds which may be used.

JUDGE ENDS HIS ADDRESS--THAW'S FATE IN HANDS OF JURY

They Retired at Noon After Hearing Justice Dowling's Address--Cautioned Against Being Swayed by Either Passion or Sympathy

New York, Jan. 31.—Justice Dowling finished his charge to the jury at 11.35 a.m. The jury retired at 11.40, taking all the exhibits in the case with them.

New York, Jan. 31.—The Thaw jury went to lunch at 1.30. They returned at 2.15. The preliminary ballot is said to be five for acquittal, two for conviction and five blanks.

New York, Jan. 31. — Justice Dowling addressed the jury this morning at the Thaw trial. He impressed upon the jurors the responsibility which was theirs, telling them that they should bear in mind that upon their verdict depended the life or liberty of the prisoner.

"Your verdict must not be influenced by any matter outside the record," said he. "Neither passion nor sympathy should sway in your deliberations. You must not speculate or guess as to matters in evidence before you, but must decide the issue solely upon your calm, dispassionate judgment as to the weight, credibility and meaning of the testimony. Nor are you concerned with the punishment which may follow a verdict of guilty at your hands. Your sole function is to determine if any crime has been committed, its grade and leave the question of penalty to those responsible for its imposition."

PRESUMED TO BE INNOCENT.

Justice Dowling told the jurors they should bear in mind the prisoner is presumed to be innocent until the jury has been convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that he is guilty; and that the burden of proof rests upon the prosecution throughout. He told them, however, that this did not mean the District Attorney must prove the case beyond every reasonable doubt, but that he must prove every material evidence in his case. It was for the jurors themselves to judge of the credibility of witnesses and it was within their power to accept or reject the testimony of any witness, in whole or in part, and also to determine the weight or importance to be given to the testimony of any witness. After explaining at length the considerations which the jurors might take into account in weighing the testimony of witness Justice Dowling referred to the so-called Hummel affidavit. He had told them that if a witness had been convicted of crime they might consider that fact in weighing his testimony; and also that if they found that any witness had deliberately testified falsely they were at liberty to disregard his testimony entirely.

EVELYN'S AFFIDAVIT.

"You will recollect that the affidavit of Evelyn Nesbit was not received in evidence as affording proof of either the truth or falsity of the statements therein contained," said he, "but solely for the purpose of showing to establish the fact that the witness had made statements under oath contradictory of, or inconsistent with, those made by her upon this trial. And if you find that contradictory or inconsistent statements were actually made by her, or by any other witness as to matters actually involved in the main issue herein as testified to, you may take that into consideration in arriving at a conclusion as to the credibility of such witness or witnesses. But contradictory or inconsistent statements as to trivial or collateral matters are not to be considered by you as affecting the credibility of a witness."

The Past Year's Fire Waste

The loss of property by fire in the United States and Canada during December last aggregates $16,783,750, as compared with $19,601,460 in the same month last year, or three millions less. These figures are from the New York Journal of Commerce. During the month of December there were no less than 329 fires where the loss reached or exceeded $10,000 each. Aggregate losses for the year 1907 were $215,671,350; which amount is greater than the average of recent years, conflagrations deducted. The yearly fire loss since 1900 has been as follows:

Year.	Losses.
1900.....	$163,962,250
1901.....	164,317,450
1902.....	149,260,850
1903.....	156,195,700
1904.....	252,554,050
1905.....	176,193,800
1906.....	459,710,000

Allowing for the conflagrations in 1904 and 1906, the average destructiveness of the above recorded fires to have been $166,518,000 per year for seven years. Thus, then, the losses of 1907 were 22 per cent. above the average. The San Francisco earthquake and fire caused $240,000,000 and conflagrations in Baltimore and Toronto in 1904 between 80 and 90 millions.

A Prosperous Year

Toronto Savings and Loan Company's Annual Report

The management of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company are to be congratulated on the splendid showing made in the report presented at the annual general meeting of the shareholders, held at the head office of the company, Peterborough, on Tuesday last, January 30th.

The gross earnings for the year amounted to $203,045.73, and, after the payments of interest on deposits and debentures, and all expenses of management, there remained a net profit of $109,985.48. To this amount has been added $26,739.70, the balance carried forward from last year, which makes a total sum for distribution of $135,725.18. This was disposed of as follows: Dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, $80,000, addition to reserve fund, $10,000, by amount carried to profit and loss, $35,725.18.

The reserve fund now stands at $350,000, being 62 per cent. of the present paid up capital of $1,000,000.

The above is most satisfactory and shows that the affairs of the company have been carefully managed. The directors and management are to be congratulated on the result of the year's operations.

Many Shop Girls Caught in a Raid

Pittsburg, Jan. 31. — One hundred girls, nearly all of them under 20 years of age, were arrested in a series of raids in the Tenderloin of this city last night. The arrests revealed that many of the girls were employed by day in restaurants, shops and department stores, while at night they frequented disreputable resorts.

The girls, although earning only $3 to $6 a week, were fashionably dressed. It was this fact that caused an investigation to be made.

Chief of Police McQuaide to-day appealed to the city's charitable institutions to care for the girls. He said that most of them are so young that there is still hope for their reformation. In furtherance of his plan of reformation Chief McQuaide arranged that the girls should not be fined this morning but the keepers of the resorts in which they were found were heavily fined.

One of the drill rooms at the Central Station was converted into a dining room, and there the girls were fed. Another room was converted into a dormitory. To-night the Chief sent the following notice to charitable organizations:

Now is the time for philanthropic institutions and charitably disposed women to come forward and show their sincerity in stamping out vice. A helping hand and a respectable shelter will do more toward the moral uplifting of this city than prayers and sermons.

Against Half Holidays

Stratford Herald: At the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Guelph one of the most important matters settled was that respecting the Thursday half holidays for clerks during the months of July and August. The Association decided that while the merchants individually could make any arrangements with their own clerks respecting half holidays, the Association as a whole would no longer agree to close up the stores every Thursday afternoon as has been done through the summer months. The Association, says the Herald in its report, felt that the weekly half holiday was not in the interests of trade that it entirely closed up the city and practically killed trade for one day each week. The motion was not the result of any dissatisfaction of the merchants with their clerks.

ANOTHER FROSTY WAVE IS COMING

Out in the west another cold wave is sweeping southeastward, and the weather man expects that by Sunday Peterborough will be again experiencing a spell of frigidity. In the meantime the temperature will remain about stationary around the zero mark.

Last night the thermometer registered above zero, but this was, however, mild compared with the eastern and northern portions of the province and Quebec and the Maritime Provinces generally. At Ottawa it was 10 below, and at Kingston and Montreal 8 below was the point recorded. At St. John, N.B., the mercury was reported at 10 below.

To-day Peterborough will experience increased easterly winds and another snowfall. This will be succeeded by Sunday's cold spell.

Peterborough Horticultural Society Ask County for a Grant

Want the Lease of Victoria Park Renewed

Members Address Council

Yesterday the County Council early in the afternoon went into Committee of the Whole and considered various accounts rendered.

About four o'clock Mr. D. W. Dumble was called on, as per previous arrangement, to speak re the Horticultural Society. Mr. Dumble explained that the president of the society, Lt.-Col. Rogers, was expected every minute. The Council then adjourned until the Colonel arrived.

At 4.15 Col. Rogers, accompanied by Secretary Harry Beale, arrived to represent the Peterborough Horticultural Society. Mr. Brault, Norwood, then took the chair. Col. Rogers arose and said that Mr. Dumble had been chairman of the society for the past ten years, and had done well. The beautiful Victoria Park is county property, but has been kept in good shape by the society. He called upon Mr. Dumble to speak.

Mr. Dumble said this (the County Council) is the parliament of this county. He called attention to the fact that the Toronto Legislature and the Dominion Parliament kept beautiful grounds about their buildings. The Horticultural Society got a 25 years' lease of the park. He asked for a renewal of the lease. Were it not for the efforts of the society any blackguard that wanted to destroy the flower beds might do so. Mr. Dumble keeps his own lawn in proper order and beauty for the general good. Our parks are a great drawing card with visitors to the city. The interests of the city and county were hand in hand. The city is a consumer and the county the producer. Last year by an oversight the county's grant to the society was evidently overlooked. He asked the county this year to give a special grant yearly to put down a concrete walk. He would like to have the County Council appoint a special committee to wait on the City Council together with representatives of the Horticultural Society.

Mr. Harry Beale addressed the Council briefly but to the point, sustaining the arguments of the former speaker.

It was moved by Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr. Scott, that the proposed grant to the Horticultural Society be referred to the Property Committee.

"Slime of Hummel's Office," was Relied on by Jerome

New York, Jan. 31.—The most exciting portion of Mr. Littleton's address was that in which he recited the known facts about Evelyn Thaw's childhood and unguided schooling and life as an artist's model, and said:

"Now, what is there about the life of a girl such like that that could arouse the savagery, such attack, such bitterness in this case? Why should the District Attorney walk about this jail like a caged lion and the woman crouching in the chair and glare and advance and retreat? Why should he do that? And then coddle and vouch for this felon, this convict, this very loathsome vermin of the New York bar whom he convicted himself. Why should he do that? What has she done that she deserves to be plastered all over with infamy and degradation? And what has Hummel done that he deserves to have the backing of the District Attorney in a court of justice—the only witness that he can summon from the four quarters of the earth to blacken the character of this young woman.

WHAT HAD SHE DONE?

"What had she done? Fifteen or sixteen years old, worked away in New York, passed from a country life into New York at sixteen years of age. Do you know a girl sixteen years of age, any of you, your neighbor's daughter, or your own daughter — how much do they know about caring for themselves, with the protecting hand of their fathers and brothers gone, in this great New York? How much do the growing woman know, or the grown man know about taking care of themselves in New York—much less one at the tender years of which she was.

"If the District Attorney says she told Thaw a falsehood in Paris, I answer him, 'How did you come to the conclusion that she told a falsehood in Paris?' He can give but one person. I got it from that wretched den of infamy of Howe and Hummel, that is the only ghoul I could have got it. Is that an answer? Assume that she deserved any criticism at all. Weighed in the scales of integrity, of character, of balance of honor, of anything that weighs for an ounce in a court of justice, would you impeach the character of any living being upon the evidence of a man such as Hummel's evidence is in this case?

"And just there is nothing else against her. This man who speaks to us from across the prison, who is serving his time given to him by the man who now vouches for him, who stands on an indictment for procuring false affidavits in other cases—this is the man. Is there any rebuttal in this case except that? I say it seemed to me—I do not wish to be unjust with the District Attorney—but it seemed to me that he seemed more anxious to destroy this young woman before you and in this court and in the community, destroy her at all hazards and by all means, than he did to produce evidence to show that Thaw was actually insane on the 25th of June, 1905—rather have the slime that issues from Howe and Hummel's office come trickling down through this case than to have the scientific opinion of this eleven experts that Thaw was sane on the 25 h of June—rather have the muck and the mire of that office that smells to heaven spurred into this case and dumped in the lap of this young woman in an effort to destroy her character than to call those eminent men that he had the last time and ask them the scientific question, 'Do you think this man is sane or insane?'

MEET ISSUE SQUARELY.

"He seemed to say, 'I would rather growl in Blackwell's Island, I would rather go and drag out this revolting personality into this case against this woman's character—I would rather do that than to meet this issue squarely and say, 'Gentlemen of the jury, I am going to do my duty by the law and prove that this man was sane on the 25th of June.'

"But he does not. And so I come to the conclusion after he did not do that maybe—and he is a strong man, an impulsive man, a warm-hearted man, a fetter man, you know him just as well as I do—maybe his bitterness has got the best of him and maybe his bitterness had created a personal antipathy.

"And even when I examined her, he did not sit down. He stood with folded arms and teeth set and seemed to glare, and in his glare you could see the gloating testimony of Abe Hummel and the scare of Hummel's face. And as he glared and glared he seemed to add to it the declaration, 'I will impeach you! I will impeach you! Don't you swear in this court; I shall have to impeach you, even if I have to do it with that little vermin of the New York bar, that convict, that felon that I convicted — even if I have to do it with him.'"

WOMAN WENT SIX HUNDRED MILES THROUGH THE CANADIAN WILDS

Made the Trip to Winnipeg Alone--Husband Turned Back

Wanted to Educate Her Children in Schools in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Jan. 24. — One of the most extraordinary journeys ever undertaken by a woman in the Canadian wilds was completed by Mrs. G. Ray, Winnipeg, Jan. 16, having travelled in dog sleds in 27 days a trifle more than 600 miles. She made the amazing trip in the dead of winter in order to put her three children in school in this city.

Mrs. Ray is an English woman from Monmouthshire, England. She has resided at York Factory many years and is accomplished in woodcraft, can shoot a rifle like an Indian, and is not deterred in the presence of peril that would try the souls of many men. Her husband is a Hudson's Bay Company officer and evidently knew well his wife's strong heart and resolute nature when he consented to her making the journey.

"There was no one else to come, the children had to be put in school. What else could a mother do?" she remarked.

"You must know while travel in winter may be dangerous in the far north it is much more comfortable than in the summer. The streams and lakes are our great highways of traffic and they afford rapid transportation. We came down the Nelson River and its tributaries to Norway house, which is at the head of Lake Winnipeg. From there the route was due south across the big ice field to Gimli, sixty miles from Winnipeg. We left our dogs and sleds there and came on by train. The first stage of our journey was most pleasant, the mercury standing at only ten degrees below zero. We did not mind that. It got real cold later and the snow was pretty bad in spots, but as a rule we had fairly comfortable all the way.

HUSBAND TURNED BACK

"I was accompanied by my husband for the first seven days out. That took us over the worst part—through the country of the big timber and where the real danger is. After seven days out my husband turned back with two sleds and a guide, and we came down to Norway house, where we rested ten days. About forty degrees below zero was the rule, I think, for most of the trip, but even that is not considered dangerous when you are in good camps as we were. We had seven sleds, each pulled by a team of five dogs, huskies, weighing about eighty pounds, and the equal of the bigger timber wolf that was ever seen. Wolves keep out of the way of a big pack of huskies I can tell you. In fact the husky is part wolf, a species of animal bred by the Hudson Bay trappers for a century for this service.

For the first stage out to Norway House one of my party was a young Indian girl, Rebecca Nassau, and she ran alongside the sleds all the way to Norway House. She did not mind it a bit.

DRESSED IN DUFFLE

"How were we dressed? In the usual northland costume — a Duffle coat made of the big Hudson Bay blanket, and over this a great deerskin overcoat. On our feet, where the most protection was needed, we wore first Duffle socks, then deerskin leggings to the knees, then more Duffle socks, and then dressed deerskin over all. We carried a small tent with a little stove, from stove. This in the tent at night made us comfortable. We would shoot a moose the land, of course, from the big lakes or river at night, clear away the snow and make camp. Our men carried rifles and killed deer for fresh meat.

"Our day's routine was quite simple. We would rise at five and get ready for the start. You know the dogs have to be caught, the very first thing. If you wait until after breakfast you will find the smart animals have prepared to delay you as long as possible and have hid in the snow. They are usually covered with the snow during the night and the men would kick around until they were found and harnessed. Then we got breakfast, gave each dog a small frozen dog fish and were ready to start. Until one turn we travelled steadily and would then stop for tea. After that we kept moving along until dark, which in these remote latitudes comes very early, about five o'clock at the very least. Then would come the big meal and a rest for the night. Our guides would sit around in the camp smoking while we and the children retired to the tent and slept soundly."

Death of Miss Florence E. Taylor

Miss Florence Emma Taylor, whose death at her residence, 96 Spadina road, Toronto, is announced, was a daughter of the late Thomas Taylor of the Don Paper Mills, and well known and highly esteemed by a very large circle of personal friends in Toronto, Peterborough and Norwood. Two brothers, Thomas and Edmund, survive, and several sisters: Miss Ellen, 96 Spadina road; Mrs. (Dr.) A. J. Robertson, Norwood; Mrs. A. H. Harris, Niagara Falls South; Mrs. W. Walmsley, Mrs. F. G. Logan and Mrs. John Logan, Toronto. Miss Taylor had been ill only a couple of weeks. She was a member of the Bloor Methodist Church.

Glad to be Home

Soldier Appreciates the Right Kind of Food

A soldier's life, especially the U. S. soldier in the tropics, is often full of hardship, as much on account of improper food as of climate or the enemy's bullets.

"I entered the service," writes an Okla. man, "for duty in the Philippines, and at time of enlistment was healthy, weighing 160 pounds.

"Food improperly prepared, along with the tropical climate, soon caused my health to fail, so that when I returned to San Francisco to be mustered out, I weighed only 110 pounds, and was much reduced in strength.

"On arrival we were issued what is called a convalescence ration, but it did not seem to build me up and after a time I concluded to try Grape-Nuts. After using it for two weeks I showed improvement and I was glad to be home where I could get the proper food.

"I have been using Grape-Nuts ever since and heartily recommend it to all soldiers returning from the Philippines, or to any person suffering from indigestion and loss of vigor.

"The U. S. Government would do well to include Grape-Nuts in their 'convalescence ration,' for soldiers who have become sick or run down from service in a tropical climate."

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U.S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

Sports

In a fastless game of hockey in the Brock Street Rink last night the Strathconas added another to their list of defeats, which have characterized the Straths throughout the season, when Cobourg handed it out to the local seven by five goals to three. The half time score being 4 to 0 in the lakeshore town's favor.

The game was a very slow and uninteresting one from a spectator's standpoint of view, especially so in the first half when the Straths seemed to be unable to locate themselves and the visitors had matched four before the gong sounded for half time.

In the second half, however, the locals came out of the lethargy, and began to play the game, scoring 3 goals to Cobourg's 1. The score at the finish being 5 to 3.

Following is the line-up:

INFURIATED BEAR TREES LOCAL MAN

Mr. Edward Greer, of this city, who has, for the past year, occupied a position with the lumbering firm of Graves and Bigwood Lumber Company, near Nairn Centre, has returned home, and is receiving "The glad hand" of his many friends in Peterborough. Mr. Greer tells many interesting stories of the life out in those remote country lumber camps. Among others he noted that the wolves which prowl about the lumber camps, and more especially about the track whereon those going from camps in the morning to the seat of their day's labor daily, are a menace to every man's life, let alone such man's peace of mind. Mr. Greer, yesterday told a Times representative that each day as he and his pals went to work the howls of the wolves were heard on every side. Whilst he never had "Come-to" with these ravenous beasts it was more good luck than good management that he did not. The wolves were all round him and their cries resounded throughout the surrounding forest tracts so in a manner to quell the hopes of the most ambitious hunter who was seeking slaughter of this degenerated class of the genus "Canis."

Still, a few Sundays ago as Mr. Greer was returning to camp after attending service in the little country church that, with others of its kind, reflects great credit upon the enthusiastic priests and their good work, who erect and maintain such structures amid the wolf-ridden and famine stricken wilds of the far north, this gentleman, to refer to the introduction of the paragraph, had an experience full of exciting interest but one that would be, were such possible shunned by 99 1-2 out of every 100 of our readers. It seems that as Mr. Greer was peacefully continuing to the lumber camps, after attending divine service, along the snow clad roads, as he turned a corner of the same road an enormous she bear that evidently had cubs somewhere in the vicinity, made a rush for him. Mr. Greer, not being armed with the requisite shooting tools, literally "took to the woods," or in other words, climbed a vast hemlock tree. As the climbed, so did the bear. On reaching the first limb of the tree Mr. Greer got a foothold and made faster progress. He looked down and saw the angry, snarling brute behind him, rapidly advancing and reaching for his mother extremities. Mr. Greer got busy with both hands about the trunk of the tree and with each foot on the limbs. Madame Bruin chased him closely, every now and again putting forward a fore paw armed with claws, that when distended would measure possibly 2 1-2 inches each. Mr. Greer, looking down at his pursuer, reached down a foothold with goloshes and dealt the bear a vigorous kick on the snout. This procedure, carried on several times, fortunately, at last, ended in the bear giving up the chase and scrambling down the tree. The animal then, by great luck, went in quest of its young or to see whether the family fire had been lighted at its den. Mr. Greer, all joking apart, had a narrow escape, and can hardly bear to hear of the incident referred to.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers, too, will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula, knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

WHY STAY RHEUMATIC?

Nothing Short of Folly When Cure is Guaranteed with Ferrozone.

Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down. You must first build up and get strength to fight off the disease.

Ferrozone cures because it builds up, because it renews the blood and dissolves the uric acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

It is proved right here that Ferrozone does cure.

Col. H. M. Ross, of Edwards, St. Lawrence Co., one of the fine old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferrozone. Read his statement:

"I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty. Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"The suffering was more intense when bandages on the back got cold.

"When my doctor had done all he could I got Ferrozone.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferrozone gave me comfort at once, eased the pain and took the stiffness out of my muscles.

"I am well today. Ferrozone cured me completely. I can jump and run like I did forty years ago."

Be sensible about your case. Ferrozone is known on all sides to be a sure that does cure. Why not get a supply today. The sooner you begin Ferrozone the quicker you'll get well. Price 50c per box or six for $2.50. at all dealers.

BRITISH PESSIMISM

The tone of the British papers, which come to hand now a days, is distinctly pessimistic. If one were left to form his judgment from the editorials appearing from day to day in leading papers, especially those printed in London, no other conclusion would be possible than that the country is rapidly going to the dogs, and that it is time to write "Ichabod" on the walls and proclaim to all the world that British "glory has departed"; but those of us who have kept track of things will have no difficulty in recalling other occasions, when the tone of the press of the United Kingdom was even more lugubrious than it is now. When we look back a century ago when that nation stood alone against the world in arms, there were hundreds and thousands of people who professed to believe that the day of doom was about to come. We have at hand some pamphlets written about that time, and in the quarter of a century preceding it, also some others written about fifty years before. It is made clear enough by these pamphleteers that nothing could possibly save the country. The British people have a remarkable habit of working themselves up into panics. When Tennyson wrote his poem "Form, form, Riflemen, form," in which he voiced the spirit of the volunteer movement, the whole country had managed to fret itself into a state of excitement over nothing at all. "It is true that we have a faithful ally, But only the devil knows what he means;"

Thus wrote the laureate, the reference being to Napoleon III. The scare passed. It resembled although it was more intense than the recent German scare, and had even less basis. The inalienable right of an Englishman to grumble is well known, but it is also well known that down in the bottom of his heart he does not believe a word he says about himself. In this respect he is the very antithesis of his American cousins. They are not quite sure of themselves, and so they talk very loud and long about their prowess. John Bull has a record for doing things, and he lets this speak for him, and amuses himself assuring all mankind that his country is, as Mr. Mantilini would have said it, "going to the demnition dogs-wows." For these and other reasons we are inclined to discount British pessimism at least 99 per cent.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wintergreen green leaves and tender stems of a food-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb". Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

HER CHOICE.

A Parable Concerning the Smart Woman of Today.

A very pious and beautiful woman sat in her hall bedroom and read a book of virtuous maxims.

"Ah," she exclaimed at last, casting her book from her, "would that I might ever attain those altitudes of goodness for which I pine. If I could only succeed in subduing every frivolous and erring impulse and live as certain saintly women have done, a benediction and a blessing to others, I should ask nothing more of life."

But that invention of the evil one, a mirror, hung directly before her, and upon lifting her eyes she encountered her own image and saw that she was fair.

"It is a pity," she mused, "that any one with a face and figure like mine should have to wear clothes which make her look like 30 cents. Alas, it is very difficult for the poor to live the higher life!"

At that moment there was a flash of red in the corner of the room, and Satan appeared.

"Do not be alarmed," he said gently. "I happened to be passing and overheard your words. Let me confess that my curiosity was aroused and I felt impelled to try a little experiment. Now, my dear, I happen to be in command of certain facilities which will enable me to grant one of the two wishes you have just expressed. You may have your choice of a beautiful soul, a soul without a stain, or you may have these beautiful gowns which I shall show you."

He drew a gown from the rainbow-like collection and held it up that the lady might the better gaze upon it.

"Here is a dainty little creation from Paquin," he said carelessly.

But after one quick glance the lady read aloud and hastily from the book of virtuous maxims.

"This is a superb thing from Doucet," remarked Satan, lifting another garment from the heap—"the new sleeves, you see. And here is a lovely evening wrap from Jeanne Mallee."

The lady still continued to read the maxims aloud, but falteringly. It might be said that she read with one eye and viewed the gowns with the other, but still she vouchsafed no word.

"Come, come," said Satan impatiently. "I have no time to waste. What is it? A beautiful soul or beautiful clothes?"

And the lady chose—which? Do you know?—Mrs. Wilson Woodrow in Life.

CAULIFLOWER IN SHELLS.

For this dish the remains of any cauliflower left over from dinner may usefully be employed. Separate the cauliflower into neat sprigs and lay three or four of these in each little shell. Cover them with some white sauce to which has been added a tablespoonful of grated cheese for each gill of sauce, sift brown crumbs over the top and dot some small bits of butter here and there. Place in the oven for ten or fifteen minutes. To make the white sauce melt one ounce of butter and stir into it the same quantity of flour; add gradually a gill and a half of boiling milk, stir till smooth and thick and then sprinkle in two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. Place a tablespoonful of the sauce in each shell.

BALLOON OF NEWSPAPERS.

It Took a Great Number of Papers, but the Fun Was Worth It.

During our last summer's vacation in Colony, Kan., our boys made a balloon of old newspapers. It was thirty feet high and fifteen feet across and was composed of 256 papers and any amount of paste and patience.

They pasted the pages together end to end, with narrow strips of muslin across the place of joining, thus forming long strips, which were then pasted together side to side, again covering the joining with muslin strips.

We first conceived the idea of making a small balloon just after a balloon ascension in our town. We watched them as they made ready to send up the large balloon and patterned ours very much after it. Our first balloon was small, only fifteen feet high. We sent up two others after that, the last one of which was thirty feet high. We flew it successfully several times.

We regulated our supply of coal oil and gasoline with parts of a gasoline stove and regulated the air with draft and a gasoline lamp pump. We had it arranged with the guys (ropes) so that the jerk of one cord threw everything loose from the balloon. The balloon flew probably over half a mile before the gas cooled. This was the last one tried in the neighborhood, and to fly it as successfully others would have to have our pattern.—St. Nicholas.

Gooseberry.

Many young people have wondered how the gooseberry got its name, supposing, quite naturally, that the fruit must have some connection with a goose. Gooseberries are called in German johannis-beeren—that is, the "St. John's berries," because they ripen about the time of the feast of St. John. St. John is called in Holland St. Jan, and the fruit is there called jansbeeren. This word was centuries ago corrupted into gansbeeren, of which our English word gooseberries is a literal translation, gans, in German, signifying a goose.

A Queer Crane.

In Venezuela and British Guiana lives a kind of crane called the agami, which the natives tame and employ in many tasks for which dogs are trained in other parts of the world. The birds, it is said, will watch and care for flocks of sheep or of poultry as well as shepherd dogs would do.

Too Risky

"A hard chill, pain through the chest, difficult breathing." If this should be your experience, send for your doctor. It may be pneumonia! To doctor yourself would be too risky. If your doctor cannot come at once, give Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. When he comes, tell him exactly what you have done.

Ask your doctor if he does not think it should be wise for you to keep a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house.

A NEW SANDWICH.

A Delicious Novelty For Afternoon Tea or Picnics.

Fannie Merritt Farmer, an authority on cooking, gives the following recipe for a new sandwich in the Woman's Home Companion:

"Somerset sandwiches are as acceptable at an afternoon tea or evening reception as at a picnic. They are made from a bread the recipe of which, I think, is unknown to most of my readers, so I will give a list of the ingredients which go to make it, but will presuppose that you know the principles of breadmaking: One-half cupful of scalded milk, one-half cupful of boiling water, one-half tablespoonful of lard, one-half tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt, one-half a yeast cake dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water, one-half cupful of white flour and enough entire wheat flour to knead and one cupful of English walnut or pecan nut meats broken in pieces. The result is more satisfactory if the nut meats are added while kneading after the first raising. When this bread is twenty-four hours' old, slice as thin as possible, spread sparingly and evenly with creamed butter and put orange marmalade between slices. Remove crusts, cut in triangles or any desired shape and garnish with halves of nut meats, which need a bit of butter on their undersurfaces to keep them in place. To keep moist pack the same as other sandwiches. If orange marmalade is not procurable, make the sandwiches without it, and even then you will have a delicious novelty."

FURNITURE NOVELTY.

Umbrella Cabinet With Places For Holding Overshoes and Veils.

A piece of furniture that is a decided novelty is an umbrella cabinet.

No matter how handsome or elaborate it may be, the ordinary receptacle for umbrellas and walking sticks is not a thing of beauty and does not add to the appearance of the hall in which it stands.

This cabinet, however, is a really attractive piece of furniture, which has the added advantage of protecting its contents from dust and dirt and concealing them so that they do not seem to add to the decorative features of the hall.

Around the sides of the cabinet and also inside both doors are brass hooks, into which the handles of the umbrellas or walking sticks are fastened. Several of the hooks have silk bags attached for the protection of light colored parasols or particularly handsome umbrellas.

A long drawer in the lower part of the cabinet may be used for overshoes, and a shelflike arrangement in the top, which opens on hinges, is useful for holding veils or gloves or small articles left temporarily in the hall.

The whole arrangement is quite compact, occupying but small space, and the inlaid wood of which it is made adds much to the beauty of an article that is built on plain but well proportioned lines.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

An excellent mouth wash, especially in fruit season, because of its good effect upon the teeth, is limewater. To make it pour a quart of boiled or distilled water over a teaspoonful of slaked lime. Pour into a bottle and shake well every fifteen minutes for the first hour. Then allow the lime to settle and pour off the water, which should be bottled for use.

There is no need of brushing the hair if the brush brings it out. Comb it gently with the coarse teeth and apply this tonic: Tincture of nux vomica, one ounce; spirits of rosemary, two ounces; alcohol, two ounces. Apply several times a week to the roots of the hair.

A bad complexion, lacking luster, elasticity and plumpness, often indicates want of goodness in the vital or nutritive system. A mild diet, a gentle temperature, an even digestion, open air exercise, sleep and tranquillity of mind are all necessary to loveliness. Fresh meats to be nutritious should be rare. Avoid all highly spiced foods and drink plenty of water. Oranges, pineapples, grape fruit, olives, whole wheat bread, tomatoes and apples are all beauty foods. Substitute lemon juice for vinegar and eat sparingly of rich salads and pastries.

Cult of the Cat.

The day is past when everything that goes or moves is considered a cat worth having.

Will the ever increasing cult of the cat, owners are becoming more particular about good points, and considerable study is expended by fanciers on the necessary qualifications.

Such qualifications of course vary with the breed. In long haired cats the ruff is the first thing to be considered. The tufts of hair between the toes, the ear tufts and the flexibility of the tail come next.

With the short haired cats the color is of great importance, and so are the eyes, ears and the shape of the head. White cats should have blue eyes, black cats yellow eyes and these of other colors green eyes.

Here are some of the good points to be taken into consideration when buying a cat:

Head—Great breadth between the eyes.
Eyes—Round and wide open.
Nose—Short and tapered.
Frame—Light, deep chested.
Legs—Straight.
Ears—Small and rounded.
Neck—Thin and graceful.
Tail—Bent at the end in long haired cats.

Australia.

By the term Australia is meant "the south" and by Australasia "southern Asia," agreeably to the Latin australis, southern. Previous to its settlement by the British Australia was known as New Holland owing to its discovery by the Dutch in 1000.

Galveston's Sea Wall.

The sea wall at Galveston, said to be the most stupendous work of the kind on earth, is 17,593 feet long, 17 feet above the mean low tide, 16 feet wide at the base, 5 feet wide at the top and cost $1,200,000.

A Russian School Prize.

In a certain class of Russian schools the highest reward given is the initial letter of the empress' name. It consists of the initial in solid gold an inch and a quarter in height on a blue bow. Should its possessor ever become a governess it will entitle her to a higher salary than she could otherwise obtain.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

Perfumes and Germs.

Lavender and rose perfumes are credited with the virtue of being microbe killers.

Cotton in Mexico.

Mexico has been manufacturing cotton goods for centuries, the first cotton mill on a considerable scale having been established in Pueblo by an enterprising Spaniard in the sixteenth century not long after the founding of that city.

Mary Stuart.

Mary Stuart was not cross eyed, but one eye had a peculiar movement, moving farther in one direction than the other, giving her the appearance at a casual glance of being cross eyed.

Garlic.

Four-fifths of all the garlic eaten in Europe is raised on the two African islands Zanzibar and Pemba.

Snakes as Mouse Traps.

About the beginning of Queen Victoria's reign an old man, who was nicknamed the Duke of York, used to sit on the steps of King's college chapel, Cambridge, with a basketful of common snakes, which he had caught and trained to catch mice, for which purpose these curious mouse traps found a ready sale among the undergraduates.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested. (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a lacing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Woman's World

MISS GERTRUDE BEEKS.

Girl Sent to Panama by Secretary Taft to Investigate Social Conditions.

When Secretary Taft wanted to find out exactly how things were going in the homes of the 5,000 American workers who are digging the Panama canal he sent a woman to find out.

The woman who went to the isthmus at the request of the secretary was Miss Gertrude Beeks, secretary of the welfare department of the National Civic federation.

Miss Beeks went to Panama not to do social stunts, but to find out facts pertaining to the question of life in the canal zone. She wanted to know exactly how the workers and their families lived, and as the best means of finding out she lived while in the tropics in the same kind of house that a workingman's wife calls her home, ate the same kind of food and attended the same places of amusement that the men attend.

The question of the entertainment of 30,000 laborers, all but 5,000 of whom are foreigners, is more important than might be considered at first glance. The government has done much to enable the canal laborers to enjoy themselves nights and Sundays. Free Sunday excursions are given on the water at the expense of the nation.

What Girls Should Read.

After she has left school for good every girl should make a point of becoming really familiar with all the famous old authors. She should know all the standard works well, from the plays of Shakespeare to Scott's Waverley novels, and the earlier in her life she can begin on this delightful task the better, but just at first, when she begins to read with real interest and intelligence, born of her literature work at school, it is perhaps better for her to take up just one or two works of the more modern writers and to gain a general if incomplete knowledge of many writers whose works have been prominent instead of keeping consistently to one style of writing for the last century and more. When first starting in to read with really serious intent it will be found easier to shift about from history to poetry and from a writer of a century ago, with his long discussions, somewhat whimsical ideas and personal theories on all subjects thrown in the commencement or middle of a chapter, with apparently no regard to the thread of the story, to the terse, quick, energetic style of the writer of modern historical novels, who is apparently very much afraid of losing for a moment the absorbed interest of the reader.

Scott, Thackeray, Dickens, George Eliot—every girl must be able to look intelligent when these names are mentioned, and there is probably no girl of fourteen who has not read some works of each of these famous writers. "Ivanhoe" and "Kenilworth" are perhaps most interesting to begin on, and after them must follow the rest of the Waverley novels, while, if she has not already read them in school, another summer must not pass by until Scott's most famous poetical works have been read, "The Lady of the Lake," "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" and "Marmion." "Vanity Fair," as Thackeray's most famous character study, should be read first, while, because of its excellent history of the times and the well known people living then, "Henry Esmond" is all important. Dickens is so well known that it is hard to select any one book to begin with, but "David Copperfield" shows Dickens' style to perfection, and after reading it it is hard to pick up anything else before becoming acquainted with more of his inimitable characters. "Silas Marner" gives a good picture of the country and the times that seem to have appealed most to George Eliot, and no girl could read his history and not feel sympathy for the old weaver of Raveloe and the little girl Eppie who brought sunshine to his old age.

Inventive Genius.

People gifted with a strong imagination are sometimes the possessors of strange powers of invention. All sorts of quaint ideas come to them which would not occur to the ordinary mind, and these ideas they must perforce work out with something material.

Genius has been defined as "the capacity for taking infinite pains," but genius is seldom practical in financial matters, and only too often it falls to another less imaginative person to perfect and protect the invention so as to apply it for general use, while the inventor himself probably gains little profit out of the transaction.

This, I believe, was actually the case with the inventor of the mackintosh, which might otherwise have been known to posterity by the name of Macintosh.

At the beginning of the last century a Scotchman named Macintosh invented a waterproof material, and in order to test its reliability he clothed himself in an entire garb of it and went out in the pouring rain. The garment kept out the damp, but it also prevented all evaporation from the heated body enveloped in it. Mr. Macintosh died as the result of his experiment, and a subordinate in his office took out a patent and rescued the waterproof from oblivion under the name of the mackintosh. This is proof positive as to the importance of patenting any invention immediately, even if it appear to be a matter of small consequence. The mackintosh has now a worldwide reputation, and the original patentee or his heirs must have profited considerably by the invention.

What Daintiness Means.

Look around you as you ride in the street cars. Is one girl in fifty dainty? Not one in a hundred, not one in fifty is perfectly neat, and but a small number are even clean and wholesome looking. To be clean is not to be dainty. Buttons off, placket gaping, skirt and waist divorced—even absolute cleanliness does not atone for these. Neatness is not daintiness. Then is daintiness equivalent to taste? Hardly. Daintiness is none of these, and yet embraces them all—taste, neatness and cleanliness and something more—lightness. The girl who would be dainty perhaps had better take a peep into her room. Are your shoes peeping from under a carelessly made bed? Is the wee corner of a rug kicked up? Are the curtains white and fresh looking? Is your dresser scarf soiled and littered? Are the drawers partly open, revealing confusion within, and are there any little threads of hair attached to the carpet or floor covering? Perhaps not the whole list, but a few or one. Leave the room alone, then, as a room, but turn your attention to the top of your dresser. Remove the cloth if it be soiled ever so little. If you haven't a dainty one, make one. Make two or three and watch them as a miser watches over his gold. If a tiny smut appears, send them to the washtub, but leave everything else alone, strictly alone.

To Protect Skirts.

A useful hint for the stenographer or for any business woman who must spend much time at an office desk is to spread a newspaper under her chair. Office floors, whether covered or not, and most of them are bare in summer, get very dusty, to say the least, and white and light colored skirts suffer thereby.

It is extravagant to have to put a dress in the wash when all that is the matter with it is an extremely dirty hem; but, on the other hand, that hem militates against further use.

Prevent it by protecting your skirt as far as possible, and, if this is impossible in walking, at least keep the space around your desk free from dust and other varieties of dirt.

It is hardly necessary to say that the newspaper must be changed at least once daily, for paper is no more immune from uncleanliness than are other materials.

Paint Old Carpets.

If you have an old floor and cannot afford a carpet try painting it. The floor must be thoroughly cleaned, all rough places smoothed with a carpenter's plane and the cracks between the boards filled in with patent filler. Give the floor a coat of ready mixed cream paint, and when dry give a second coat. When thoroughly dry, and you should wait for several days, give it a coating of oak oil stain. The material for this work is not very expensive, and when completed you have a good imitation of a hardwood floor.

Fruit Cookies.

One cup of butter worked to a cream with two cups of granulated sugar. Add three well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, ground; one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one cup of raisins, stoned and chopped; one cup of nuts, chopped; enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Roll thin, bake in a quick oven, brushing over before baking with an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar.

Cool House in Summer.

In the early morning open wide every door and window for two hours. Then close the doors, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and draw down the shades close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and providing a circulation of air a house may be kept cool.

Girls' Ideals.

Girls nowadays seldom care to get married before they are twenty-five. They are willing to get engaged, and many girls say that the ideal life is to live at home, have some business to occupy their time and a fiance to spend his money on their amusement.

Add a little boiling water to the sweet milk used when you are making biscuits, and less shortening will be needed. The result will be quite the same.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys usually mean weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the heart, and the [illegible] are in the organic [illegible], but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

He—So your marriage was a failure?

She—Oh, I don't know.

He—Why, I thought you had secured a divorce?

She—I did.

He—Well, don't you call that a complete failure?

She—Hardly. You see, my partner made an assignment and I received a very neat sum as a preferred creditor.

He—Oh—um—er—I beg your pardon. —Judge.

Going and Coming.

A young artist recently gave his wife her first peep at a picture he'd been working on for a wealthy patron.

"Why, dear, it's lovely," murmured the better half—"lovely! But I think those sheep look—well, just a trifle too much like clouds—that is, of course, dear—er—unless they are clouds!"—Harper's Weekly.

Beautiful City of India.

Jaipur is called "the Beautiful City of India" and is noted among travelers for the exquisite rose color which all of its houses sport. It gives the impression of a pink coral city rising from the sea.

Spanish Hands.

Russians have long but beautifully shaped hands, while those of Spaniards are often spoiled by the thickness of the fingers, which are apt to round at the tips.

Netherlands Fisheries.

About 100,000 nets are in use during the herring season by the 800 fishing smacks of the Netherlands. A net lasts about three seasons, but owing to losses from storms and other causes between 40,000 and 50,000 new nets are bought yearly.

Clogged Waste Pipes.

When the waste pipe is clogged with grease pour down a gallon of boiling water in which has been dissolved a cupful of soda. Repeat this until all of the impurities are removed.

Gems.

We have to thank Gem, in Palestine, the gates of which flamens carried away, for gem or gems. Gem means "treasure," and precious to the fair is the thing which covers without concealing their charms. Voltaire, willing to describe some intellectual but perhaps dreamy woman, said, "She is an eagle in a cage of canary."

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people can it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

Mrs. Arthur Haverstock Makes Public Statement

Tells of Her Belief in the Undying Meri of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 19.—When interviewed at her home at 194 Argyle street, Mrs. Haverstock was quite willing to talk of her peculiarly unfortunate case. "I was always blue and depressed, felt weak, languid and utterly unfit for any work. My stomach was so disordered that I had no appetite. What I did eat disagreed. I suffered greatly from dizziness and sick headache and feared a nervous breakdown. Upon my druggist's recommendation I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"I felt better at once. Every day I improved. In six days I was a well woman, cured completely after different physicians had failed to help me. It is for this reason that I strongly urge sufferers with stomach or digestive troubles to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Dr Hamilton's Pills strengthen the stomach, improve digestion, strengthen the nerves and restore debilitated systems to health. By cleansing the blood of long-standing impurities, by bringing the system to a high point of vigor, they effectually chase away weariness, depression and disease. Good for young and old, for men, for women, for children. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

High License for Havelock

A message received from Havelock says that the village was very sorry when it did not vote on local option this year, so the ratepayers have taken another way of securing temperance in this town during this year until they can vote on local option next January. They have petitioned the council to allow them to vote on a by-law to raise the hotel licenses to $700, or over $600 more than last year. The hotelkeepers will not pay such a high license, so it is likely Havelock will go dry on May 1st.

County Councillors on Business

Yesterday afternoon it was evident to the most or least casual observer that the Council of this great and prosperous county of Peterborough is composed of men of far over the ordinary intelligence and of mine who are determined to see that the county accounts, as rendered, must be correct and verified before being paid. Whilst the press is not supposed to report transactions occurring whilst the Council is in committee, we do not report details, but cannot refrain from using the good business judgment of our county councillors.

—The Boys' Guild of St. Andrew's Church met last night for a social evening at 7.30. Refreshments were served and a drill took place under the direction of Lieut. W. Langford.

—Chief Rozel was the recipient yesterday morning of a big red strawberry. This berry has been well preserved and still retains its bright color. As long as somebody doesn't hand the Chief a lemon he will be quite pleased.

—The choir of St. Andrew's church is repeating the Old Folks' Concert that was so successfully produced on two previous occasions a short time ago. The date has been set for Thursday evening, February 13, in the lecture hall of the church, and will be under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid.

Pantry Cleaned

A Way Some People Have

A doctor said:

"Before marriage my wife observed in summer and country homes, coming in touch with families of varied means, culture, taste and discriminating tendencies, that the families using Postum seemed to average better than those using coffee.

"When we were married two years ago, Postum was among our first orders of groceries. We also put in some coffee and tea for guests, but after both had stood around the pantry about a year untouched, they were thrown away, and Postum used only.

"Up to the age of 26 I had been accustomed to drink coffee as a regular habit and suffered constantly from indigestion and all its relative disorders. Since using Postum all the old complaints have completely left me and I sometimes wonder if I ever had them."

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

Taken at the onset, Peruna would break up the cold and prevent all the train of symptoms which usually follow.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

Toronto Savings and Loan Company

PROCEEDINGS OF THE TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING.

The Adjourned Annual General Meeting fo the Shareholders of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, was held at the Head Office of the Company, No. 437 George Street, Peterborough, on Thursday, the 30th day of January, 1908, at three o'clock p. m.

The President, Hon. Geo. A Cox, having taken the chair, the Managing Director, Mr. W. G. Morrow, was requested to act as Secretary to the meeting.

After reading the notice convening the meeting, the Secretary read the twenty-third Annual Report, and the accompanying Financial Statement.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

The Directors submit herewith their Twenty-Third Annual Report, showing the result of the business for the past year, accompanied by the Balance Sheet to the 31st December, 1907.

The Gross Earnings for the year amounted to $263,045.73, and, after the payment of Interest on Deposits and Debentures, and all expenses of management, there remained a Net Profit of $106,985.43. To this amount has been added $26,739.70, the balance carried forward from last year, which makes a total sum for distribution of $133,725.13.

This amount has been disposed of in the following manner:

(1) By Payment of four Quarterly Dividends of 1 1-2 per cent. each, equal to 6 per cent. for the year, amounting to $60,000.00
(2) By Addition to the Reserve Fund... ... ... 40,000.00
(3) By Amount carried forward to Profit and Loss Account 35,725.13

The above addition to the Reserve Fund increases that account to $620,000.00, making it now 62 per cent. of the present Paid-up Capital of $1,000,000.00.

All payments maturing during the year on the Company's investments have been most satisfactorily met, and the rentals from the property owned by the Company have also been promptly paid. The books, accounts and securities of the Company have been carefully examined by the Auditors, and their Report is attached to the Financial Statement.

GEO. A. COX, President.

THAW JURY RETURN VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY, ON GROUND OF INSANITY

After a twenty-five hours deliberation, the jury in the Harry K. Thaw trial reached a verdict shortly after the noon hour on Saturday of not guilty, on grounds of insanity.

The famous New York murder trial has at last been completed, and the defendant, Harry K. Thaw, is committed to the asylum for the insane.

The case was handed over to the jury at 11.40 a.m. on Friday.

Several of the jurymen are well along in years, and the all-night session seemed to have gone badly with them. Their faces were drawn, and tense, and the good nature and companionship which had been so noticeable in this jury ever since the jury was completed during the first week of the trial, was gone.

If there was wrangling or ill-feeling in the jury room during the night, the blue-coated guards outside the court room heard nothing of it.

One of the worst storms of the winter, with rain, snow and sleet alternately swept before a stinging northwest gale, was blowing as the jury went to breakfast, but the fresh, cold air seemed grateful to the men who had spent the night in hard-backed chairs.

A BLINDING BLIZZARD

A blinding blizzard visited Peterborough Friday night and all day Saturday, continuing until early Sunday morning.

The storm started at eleven o'clock Friday night and grew fiercer on into the night. The street car company had their cars and sweepers out with a gang of workmen all Friday night and Saturday, and did surprisingly well, giving the citizens a remarkably good service under the adverse circumstances. The country roads were impassable, and as a consequence the Peterborough market suffered, only about a half dozen rigs being on the market.

The roads in the country in places are blocked with drifts of snow ten and twelve feet deep, and farmers will be compelled to take to the fields.

The trains were completely tied up and some of the branch lines will not be opened until to-day. Trains on these lines have been cancelled.

Railways Have Plenty of Cars

Winnipeg, January 31.— The Free Press published a long review of the transportation situation, which seems to indicate that the car famines and shortages which have been a serious menace to the business interests of the west for several years past, no longer face the commercial community. Conditions in fact, have been almost completely reversed, and so far from there being a shortage of cars, a great amount of rolling stock is now standing idle.

The Canadian Northern is said to have about 2,000 freight cars out of commission, and the number on the Canadian Pacific is greatly in excess of that.

The explanation of the large surplus of freight cars, as given by the railway men, is the short crop of wheat, the hauling of large quantities of coal, during 1907 in anticipation of the same conditions which prevailed in the west last winter, and the tendency of wholesale merchants and others to curtail business to the limit in consequence of the financial stringency.

OVER 60 PERSONS APPLIED FOR RELIEF SATURDAY EVENING

Many of the City Poor Assisted by Gifts of Tea' Beef, Potatoes and Other Commodities

On Saturday night as a blizzard swept over the city and the wind whistled and groaned through the streets, a splendid and well administered charity was ably handled and disbursed through source most deserving by City Relief Officer Finch Miller at his shop at 348 Water street.

Whilst it is possibly averse to the minds of some citizens to call attention to the poverty that exists in Peterborough as elsewhere over this great continent of ours there are circumstances existing inseparably connected with financial conditions that imperatively demand the attention of the press towards the minding over "better fixed" citizens of the needs of the poor.

On Saturday night Mr. Finch Miller, city relief officer, was kept busy at his shop, 348 Water street, distributing provisions to the city poor. Over sixty applications applied for help. Mr. Miller, who has had experience in the past in handing out of relief, had to use considerable judgment when distributing aid to the needy. Unmarried men got a pleasant look and nothing else, as the funds for charity are spent only on or among the heads of families. Many children called in Saturday night, but were told to send their fathers. The same applies in most cases where women call unless they are widows For instance, two different women called Saturday night on Mr. Miller, and were told to go and send their respective husbands, and Mr. Miller thought that such women should not carry for possibly ten or twelve blocks half a bag of potatoes and an equivalent weight of beef, whilst the men are sitting at home reading the paper.

During Saturday evening Mr. Miller distributed forty pounds of tea, 400 pounds of beef, 40 packages of sugar and 12 bags of potatoes.

In our issue of Friday last we noted the names of various contributors towards this most important and necessary aid to the poor. Since that Mr. Muller has received the following additional subscriptions:

R. J. Munro	$10.00
W. F. Turner	1.00
Mrs. (Dr.) Burnham	10.00
A. E. Coulthard	10.00
A lady	10.00
Mrs. Graham	2.00
Mrs. M. A. Hazlett	20.00
Mrs. Walsh	20.00
Miss C. Dickson	5.00
Miss M. Dickson	5.00
V. Eastwood	10.00

White and Gilleade, ten bags of potatoes.

Robert Fair, one quarter of beef.

J. J. Cox, one bag of potatoes, one bag of flour, one bag of rolled oats.

Those wanting to aid the deserving poor of the city can either deposit funds or supplies direct with Mr. Miller or deposit in the Dominion Bank to the credit of the poor relief officer, and they can depend on their subscriptions being carefully placed where they will assist some less prosperous family.

Harnessing the Tide Gives Unlimited Power

This Gigantic Undertaking is to be Started in the Spring

Confident of Success

(Special to The Times.)

Boston, Feb. 2.—After many years of experiment and observation, after many years of devising of apparatus of a suitable character, the tremendous power of the tides is to be harnessed for commercial use. This gigantic undertaking is to be started early in the spring at Thomaston, Me., and the promoters are confident of success to such a degree that they prophesy a general use of power from the tides all along the seaboard.

At present there are in operation in America four power plants, which are constructed along similar lines, but in each case they are using the water from streams and rivers. The results of tests at Norwich, Conn., Rockland, Mich., Magog, Que., and Peterborough, Ont., which in each case developed high values, have determined the men behind the Maine enterprise to bring to practical daily use the hitherto wasted natural power of the ocean tides.

Mr. Alfred S. Black, of Rockland, Me., who is one of the most enthusiastic of the promoters of this undertaking, said to-day: "We have secured an excellent location at Thomaston, and will commence the erection of our first power station next spring. In a few years I expect to see similar plants in operation all along the New England coast furnishing power to the big cities, electricity for lighting and for electric lines, without the use of a pound of coal, or very little coal at the best."

"In a general way, without going into the technical details of construction, it may be said that we will use the tides to compress air in huge reservoirs and use this compressed air, which can be transmitted 20 miles, if necessary, to run engines or power stations of any kind. The average rise and fall of the tide at Thomaston is 10 ft. This will realize about 5,000 horsepower on the basis of 75 per cent. efficiency of the compressing apparatus, which should be easily obtained, as the tests at Peterborough, Ont., Magog, Que., Rockland, Mich., and Norwich, Conn., develop much higher values than we are figuring on."

"We have just financed our project, but we have with us some big men in the financial world, men who have done more to develop the resources and commercial industries of the country than any I know of. Several of these men are New Yorkers, but I do not feel at liberty to make public their names at present. We have been promised support to the extent of $500,000 to make our practical demonstration of the possibilities of this system."

"Mr. William O. Webber, of Boston, is the inventor of the plan. It solves the problem of cheap power and lights for the big coast cities, and the results of our work will be eagerly watched all over the world. We are confident of a tremendous success in this pioneer undertaking."

Over Half a Million Japs Could Come

Brothers, Sisters, Wives and Parents of Those Already in Hawaii Can Join Them

80,000 Already There

San Francisco, Feb. 1. — Advices from Honolulu by mail state that Minister of Foreign Affairs Hayashi has cabled to Japanese Consul-General Sato the regulations adopted by the Japanese Government in regard to the emigration of Japanese laborers to Hawaii.

He says that permission to Japanese laborers to migrate to Hawaii is limited for the time being to the following cases.

First, those who have been to Hawaii and desire to go again.

Second, the parents, wives, children, brothers and sisters of the persons who are at present living in Hawaii.

Third, the husbands and wives of the brothers and sisters not included in the second class.

The regulation is to take effect February 1. It has been figured out that under this regulation, considering that there are between 70,000 and 80,000 Japanese now in Hawaii, it is possible for half a million more to come.

A Startling Statement

A prominent physician declares that 1,000,000 people in Illinois are the victims of tuberculosis in one form or another. Stated in another way, one-fifth of the population is thus affected. The number may be exaggerated in order to arouse greater public interest in the fight which is being waged against the dreadful scourge. But the further report that 4,076 people have died of consumption in Chicago during the last eleven months shows that the situation is bad enough, even this number being smaller than it would be if every case were properly accounted for. The concealment of facts on the part of friends prevents absolute accuracy of figures.

RAPID TOOL CO. BUILDING DAMAGED BY FIRE

Quite a destructive fire took place Saturday evening in the stock room of the Rapid Tool Co. It is not known exactly how the fire originated, but the central part of their long shaped establishment on Hunter street just to the east of the Otonabee River, was badly gutted, and quite a large amount of expensive stock destroyed. Fortunately comparatively little damage was done to the machinery, thanks to the efficient work of the brigade. It is understood that the loss is fully covered by insurance.

P. W. B. and S. Society Elect Their Officers

Encouraging financial reports were presented at the nineteenth annual meeting of the Peterborough Workingmen's Building and Savings Society. The receipts during the year including $131,139.49 previously received were $141,139.54, and the payments were $137,944.75., leaving cash in the bank $3,194.79. The assets of the company are $31,822.87, and the surplus over liabilities $5,214.50.

The officers for the current year were elected as follows:

President—T. H. McGrath.
Vice-President—James Lynch.
Treasurer—James Murty.
Secretary—John Corkery.
Directors — George Ball, John P. Cunningham, Wm. Rinbcliffe, H. Le Brun, J. J. McCabe, F. McFadden, L. Moncola, A. Murty, E. A. Peck, F. J. Pope, R. Sheehy.
Auditors—James Drain, J. E. Sullivan.

Death of Little Thos Midgley

On Saturday evening the sad death of Little Thos. Midgley occurred at the residence of his parents, South George street. The little boy was very bright and cheerful, and much sympathy is extended to the parents in their bereavement.

The deceased was 16 months old. Interment will take place this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. John Burnham Has Passed Away

Well Known Former Resident of East Ward Dies in Montreal

During the morning service yesterday Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, announced the sad but diligence that Mrs. John Burnham, formerly of the Ewe Ward, had passed away in the hospital in Montreal. It has been known with regret for some months that Mrs. Burnham has been a sufferer from cancer of the stomach.

The late Mrs. Burnham was predeceased some years ago by her husband, the late Mr. John Burnham, ex-M.P. She was a consistent member of St. Luke's Anglican Church and had a large number of warm-hearted friends, who will sincerely miss her. Mrs. Burnham was a kindly hearted woman, who always took great delight in entertaining the young people at her residence. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Harold and Frank, and two daughters, Mrs. Gall of Toronto and Mrs. Boyd Tytler of Montreal, as well as her brothers Alfred, Richard and Edward and a sister, Mrs. Samuel Price.

The funeral arrangements were not available at the time of going to press.

County Council Concludes Session

On Saturday the County Council met to conclude their labors for the year. By request, the Warden addressed the members. On motion of Messrs. Brault and Scott the Warden's address was received and the County Clerk authorized to have it printed among the reports of the Council.

The matter of employing an engineer was left in the hands of the special Bridge Committee. The Report of the Finance Committee was read and adopted. On motion of Mr. Brault the County granted $250 towards the Children's Aid Society.

It was moved by Mr. Mooney, seconded by Mr. Hales, that one-half of the Council be a committee to go to Ottawa to interview the government and one-half be a committee to go to Toronto to interview the Ontario Legislature with regard to the construction of a bridge for the Indians at Chemong. Messrs. Mooney, Ingram, Scott, Cotsen, Darling, Moore, Pife, Brown, and the Warden go to Ottawa. Messrs. Graham, Russell, Porter, Boothe, Oakman, Brault, Hales, Killen and Warden go to Toronto.

On motion of Messrs. Booth and Hales of the deputation re Chemong Bridge, go to Toronto as a School deputation in any case, adding Messrs. Mooney and Peck re Model School.

It was moved by Mr. Hales that a committee of the council be appointed to confer with the Dominion Government Engineer re the Buckhorn Bridge.

At 11.0 the Council adjourned the winter session, to meet again next June.

Correspondent Thinks Explanations Due

To the Editor of The Morning Times:

In an evening contemporary of a recent date appears a letter concerning Christian Science. The writer of this long drawn letter appeals to public sentiment and opinion along general lines. Before such arguments are created academically or otherwise, it is possibly better, in the public interest, to refer to plain, bald, unvarnished fact, owing to the importance of past facts, to establish the credibility or worth of the writer's statements as set forth.

Whilst not wishing to stir up strife, truth is truth, or vice versa. Can the writer of this epistle show or explain, before taking any side issue argument, the reason why certain people took in a sick man from a local hotel some months ago, and held him in their residence for as long a time as breath remained in his body, at "so much" per week, without allowing medical attendance to be called in, until a hemorrhage occurred and frightened those "in charge" into calling in a doctor. Public interest is of too general importance to paid public to allow such trifles as a human being's death to be forgotten in a month or so. If those who on self admission in public court make statements that are uncontradictable and uncontradicted, are so keen for further notoriety, they had better, before the type is set up, either explain the whole modus operandi of treating the patient referred to or get some things in their argument to lead public sentiment and opinion away from a case that is neither forgotten nor, by some, forgiven.

Yours truly,
MEDICAL SCIENCE.

POLICE

At Saturday's Police Court, Mrs. Williamson, who, a week go, was arrested for being drunk and who subsequently tried to commit suicide in a cell at the Police Station, by tying a handkerchief around her neck and attaching a scarf to this, the other end of which she tied to an iron bar in the cell window, and then jumping off the seat with the combination attached, was up for trial.

The Magistrate warned the woman to mend her ways and allowed her to go.

C.P.R. PASSENGERS DINE AT ORIENTAL

The heavy blizzard of Saturday and the unprecedented heavy fall of snow caused the railways running through Peterborough much expense and delay. Traffic was practically suspended Saturday afternoon and night. The C. P. R. express from Montreal for Toronto and the west that should have arrived in Peterborough at 5.10 Saturday evening, did not get here till 11 a.m. yesterday, with a lot of hungry passengers. However, the C. P. R. officials represented by the efficient local agent, Mr. Dodds, with their and his proverbial thoughtfulness for their patrons, on arrival of yesterday's train, at once engaged hacks and cabs, and at once drove the passengers to the Oriental Hotel and provided them with a splendid and welcome dinner. The railway officials have all trains running on schedule time to-day.

WrecKed Sailors Reach Halifax--Waited for Death to Come

Halifax, Jan. 31.—Thankful to see Canadian shores once more, the crew of the Prince Edward Island barkentine Aquilla, who were taken off their ship in mid-Atlantic early in December, after she had been reduced to a shelter by the succession of gales which prevailed at that time, reached Halifax on the Sardinian this afternoon. Huddled on the poop of their water-logged ship for five days, with no fire, and nothing to eat but compressed biscuits, and momentarily expecting the hulk to go to the bottom, they had an experience which none of them ever want to face again.

The same storm which drove the Mount Temple to her fate on iron-bound Island caught the Aquilla, which was taking a cargo of lathe from Richibucto to New York, off Cape Cod. By the end of three days she was reduced to a helpless wreck, and cathead, had all been washed overboard by tremendous seas, and with no shelter, and but scanty provisions, the crew were forced to take refuge on the poop. There for five long days, with a furious gale raging and seas constantly washing over the wallowing hulk, they waited for the death that was momentarily expected. Finally, on December 8th, when 300 miles off Sandy Hook, the Anchor Line Italia hove in sight, and seeing their signals launched a boat. The sea had somewhat subsided by this time, but it was still running furiously, and it was several hours before the men were taken off. The Aquilla was then set on fire, and after two more hours' hard work, the Italia was reached.

They were treated most hospitably on the Anchor Liner, and on landing at Genoa they were sent to London by the British consul, and joined the Sardinian.

The crew consists of Capt. Kelly, Summerside, P.E.I.; E. Peacock, mate, Bedeque; A. Gallinat, Bummerside, second mate; H. Fraser, Georgetown, a seaward; T. Miller, Valparise, and F. Clementa, a Nova Scotia seaman.

Try to Connect Hon. A. G. Mackay with Scandal?

Ottawa, Jan. 31. — Gideon Kastner, Wiarton, was examined before the Public Accounts Committee with reference to a payment of $9,476 to the Penetanguishene Dredging Company in connection with dredging at Matchedash Bay, Lake Huron. W. H. Bennett, M.P., endeavored to draw out of the witness that there had been collusion between the witness, who is a member of the Penetang Company, and Hon. A. G. MacKay, the Liberal leader in Ontario, who is said to have an interest in the Owen Sound Dredging Company. Mr. Kastner was proud to claim friendship with Mr. MacKay, but said that the relationship was "not too warm." Bennett submitted tenders of the two companies, but the witness would not swear whether the signatures were MacKay's or not, and denied that he had given MacKay two tenders to put in an envelope for mailing.

He could not tell how his tender got in MacKay's envelope, and could not tell how it was mailed at Ottawa, though he might have given it to MacKay to mail.

"Think your hazy recollection is rather spoiling your chances as a candidate for the Legislature from North Bruce?" remarked Mr. Bennett.

"You will hear about this."

"Fight out your local politics in Ontario," said Chairman Carvell.

"This is Ontario," said Mr. Foster. (Laughter).

Witness and Mr. Bennett had many hits like, and the latter had great difficulty in getting satisfactory answers. Chairman Carvell and Hon. Mr. Pugsley several times called Bennett down for unfair treatment of witness.

—On Saturday evening the fire brigade had a long run, when the handsome residence of Mr. Hatton's was in flames. The brigade did heroic work, but Mr. Hatton's loss will be considerable.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Fire at Weaving Company Plant

Early Saturday morning fire broke out at the plant of the Colonial Weaving Company at Auburn, and considerable damage was done. The fire brigade was summoned about 4.30 and their good work prevented the blaze from aggravating. The fire started in the boiler and engine house just east of the main building and connected with it. The night watchman noticed smoke issuing shortly after three o'clock and the brigade experienced great difficulty in getting the fire under control. About $500 worth of damage was done. It was fully insured.

Childrens' Aid Society Steps In

Concerning the small children that the authorities of the Children's Aid Society took charge of on Friday night, it might be noted that on Saturday that complaints regarding the conduct of the mother of the children had reached the society, and from the nature of them it was thought advisable to take them away from her. An information charging her with neglecting to properly look after the children will be sworn out, and she will be brought before the police magistrate probably to-day on the charge. The children, who are good looking and bright and intelligent in appearance, range in age from from three to nine years respectively. The family comes from Campbellford, and they reside near the corner of King and George streets.

Baronet Works at $60 Per Month

Montreal, Feb. 1. — The C. P. R. now have the honor of having an English baronet working in the Montreal office and at sixty dollars per month, too. One of the employees in the passenger department, Edward Gordon Johnston, is the nephew of the late Sir William Johnson, who died the other day in London, Eng. He has received word that the title descends to him. There is not a cent of inheritance to accompany the title, however, and therefore, Mr. Johnson has decided to remain in the employ of the C. P. R., and as plain Edward Gordon Johnson.

Good Prizes at Conservative Club

The winter season of 1908 in the Young Conservative Club, under the energetic leadership of Mr. William Butler, promises to be one of enjoyment. He has secured the promise of good prizes for team play in pedro or euchre tournaments to be organized at once. The prizes will probably take the form of something useful. They will be on exhibition in the club rooms as soon as the president chooses them. Early in February a number of the local house and our local candidates will be the guests of the club at one of its weekly evenings.

Commencing yesterday Rev. A. H. Bruce began a special series of services which promise to be very interesting and productive of much good. These services will be bright and hearty.

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

"There's a Reason."

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood, thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of KNOWN composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

SICK WOMEN MADE WELL

Thousands Find the Way Back to Health Through Ferrozone.

No need for so many sick girls and women.

Their ills are curable if they give them proper treatment.

Nutrition must be supplied. Blood must be enriched, nerves strengthened, and additional power given to digestion.

Ferrozone does this and more; it cures such cases as Mrs. N. E. Peabody of Trenton. She was a wreck,—never thought medicine was made that could restore her, yet Ferrozone was successful.

Among her troubles were;

Headaches, Weariness,
Nervousness, Weakness,
Palpitation, Loss of flesh,
Dizzy spells, Poor appetite.

HER STATEMENT.

"I was stricken with nervous disease of the heart and stomach. Violent headaches made life a torture. I was so nervous and weak I could scarcely walk. Work was impossible. I couldn't eat or digest anything. When completely wrecked Ferrozone cured me. Today I am vigorous and strong and well."

If you lack power of either mind or body it's an evidence you need Ferrozone.

If you have nervous spells, feeling of weakness in the limbs, tiredness in the morning, you are sure of cure with Ferrozone.

Think of it. Ferrozone gives back the energy of youth, restores vital stamina and creates a surplus of vigor simply because it supplies the concentrated nourishment your system needs. 50 cents a box or six for $2.50 at dealers.

THE PANAMA CANAL

The United States Government is beginning to realize what a costly undertaking the construction of the Panama Canal is likely to be. If we are not mistaken the total cost, including the amount to be paid to the French Company, was originally placed at something less than one hundred million dollars. The estimate made about three years ago by the international commission appointed by President Roosevelt was a considerable advance on the earlier one. Now with the greater experience that actual construction has afforded, the calculated cost is placed at about $300,000,000, with a feeling that even that may prove to be inadequate to complete the Canal for traffic. It must be some consolation to the shareholders in the original French Company that the difficulties they met forced their abandonment of the enterprise at an early date, as it is now apparent that the scheme requires for its completion financial strength more likely to be found in a State than in a commercial corporation. The United States is pledged to cut the Canal whatever the difficulties of construction or of finance.

THE PASSING OF THE PANIC

The return of easy conditions in the latest financial bulletin of the Clews Banking House in New York. The bulletin says:—

The late panic like its predecessors, is being succeeded by a period of pronounced ease in money. This is a condition which always follows such financial upheavals as we have recently passed through. At such times large sums locked up in speculative ventures are released, both speculative and business contract, credit is curtailed, and declining prices for securities and commodities have the effect of practically increasing the supply of available funds. This tendency toward easier rates is world-wide. The Bank of England once more reduced its rate, this time from five to four per cent., and the Bank of France from three and a half to three per cent., to conform to the lower rates of the open markets. It is expected that the Bank of Germany will shortly follow suit, leaving rates at their centre relatively higher than elsewhere owing to recent strained conditions in the Berlin market. The decline in interest rates in the United States has naturally been much more precipitous than abroad for the reason that in the last three months of 1907 the rates here were abnormally high. Everything points to continued easy rates in the American money markets; not only on account of the lessened demand, but also because of the extraordinary expansion which has recently taken place in our circulation. Between the two bank calls of August 31 and December 5, a period of fifteen weeks, it is estimated that there was an expansion of nearly $275,000,000 in our circulating medium made up of about $50,000,000 in bank notes, $75,000 clearing house certificates, $73,000,000 of additional Government deposits and $75,000,000 in gold imports. This is certainly not an overestimate of the relief extended during the panic; for the total amount of clearing house certificates issued in various cities was considerably above the amount mentioned and the entire gold import movement amounted to nearly $150,000,000.

A BUSINESS LESSON.

How Peter Cooper Taught One Man the Value of Money.

Peter Cooper was one of the most successful, careful and prudent business men of his time. He was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched out into extravagant enterprises on borrowed money, for which they paid exorbitant rates of interest. The following anecdote illustrates this point very forcibly:

Once, while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the latter said he would have to borrow the money for six months, paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

"Why do you borrow for so short a time?" Mr. Cooper asked.

"Because the brokers will not negotiate bills for longer."

"Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your note at that rate for three years."

"Are you in earnest?" asked the would be borrower.

"Certainly I am. I will discount your note for $10,000 for three years at that rate. Will you do it?"

"Of course I will," said the merchant.

"Very well," said Mr. Cooper. "Just sign this note for $10,000, payable in three years, and give your check for $300, and the transaction will be complete."

"But where is the money for me?" asked the astonished merchant.

"You don't get any money," was the reply. "Your interest for thirty-six months at 3 per cent per month amounts to 108 per cent, or $10,800. Therefore your check for $300 just makes us even."

The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such an exorbitant price for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such ruinous rates, and he frequently used to say that nothing could have so fully convinced him as this rather humorous proposal by Mr. Cooper.

HIS RULING PASSION.

Old Harpagon Carried It to the Brink of the Grave.

The following story is commonly related as true in France: Old Harpagon was fast approaching his end. His sufferings were very great, but he comforted himself with the thought that as he could not eat there was so much saved at any rate.

"Well, doctor," he said in a feeble voice, "how long have I yet to live?"

"Only half an hour. Would you like me to send for somebody—a clergyman, for instance?"

Harpagon was silent for a few moments. He passed his hand over his chin, bristling with a grizzly beard of several days' growth, when a sudden thought struck him, and, turning to the doctor, he gasped excitedly:

"Quick—send for—a barber!"

The barber soon afterward arrived with his shaving tackle.

Harpagon, whose voice was getting weaker, asked him, "You—charge—twopence—for shaving?"

"That's the price," was the answer.

"And—how much—is it—for shaving—a corpse?"

The barber paused a moment and then said, "Five shillings."

"Then—shave—me—quickly," stammered old Harpagon, casting a feverish glance at the watch which the doctor still held in his hand.

He was too feeble to utter another word, but the doctor understood the mute appeal and said:

"Fifteen minutes more!"

A smile of satisfaction stole over the features of the patient. The barber set to work and in a very short time finished his task notwithstanding the nervous twitchings that distorted the face of the dying man. When the operation was over old Harpagon uttered a sigh of relief and was heard to whisper:

"That's a good thing—four shillings—and tenpence—saved!" And he breathed his last.—London Chronicle.

Sentiment in a Pawnshop.

A watch had just passed from the hands of a seedy young man into those of a pawnbroker. Before the young man got out of the shop the broker called him back.

"Here's a picture—a woman's picture—in the back of this watch," he said. "You'd better take it out."

The young man blushed.

"It isn't worth while," he said. "I'll redeem the thing in a week or two."

"Maybe you will and maybe you won't," retorted the broker. "You never can tell about these things. I may not be strong on sentiment, but one thing I insist on is that no man shall leave a woman's picture in a watch that he pawns here."

Ageless Love.

It is a splendid thing to think that the woman you really love will never grow old to you. Through the wrinkles of time, through the mask of years, if you really love her, you will always see the face you loved and won. And a woman who really loves a man does not see that he grows old. He is not decrepit to her. He does not tremble. He is not old. She always sees the same gallant gentleman who won her hand and heart.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

Union in Failure.

Men are united more by their vices than their virtues, observed Balzac. It is also true that they are more closely bound by their failures than their successes. How a man will love you if you have fallen down like himself when perhaps you should both have won out were there any real stuff in you.—Michael Monahan.

True honor leaves no room for hesitation and doubt.—Plutarch.

Look Well

Your doctor will tell you why Ayer's Hair Vigor so promptly checks falling hair. Ask him all about it.

Good books are all right, but do not let them cheat you out of your good looks. Drop your books; take up your mirror! Is your hair exactly to your liking? Remember, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a hair-medicine, promptly stops falling hair, destroys dandruff. Does not color the hair. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

THE BUSINESS GIRL.

Don't Be Afraid of Undertaking New Ventures.

If you want to succeed you must dress the part. Don't be wasteful or extravagant in your dress, but keep yourself neat looking and well groomed. Don't go about with a slipshod, hanging air, as though you and success were as far apart as the poles. If you look helpless and incompetent no one will trust you with work of any kind.

When you apply for a post do so in a modest yet confident manner.

Business men are not looking for helpless, dependent femininity in their employees.

What they want is a well behaved, capable business woman.

Dress as well as you can afford to, but don't make the mistake of wearing beads and laces and elbow sleeves while on duty.

Many an applicant has failed to win a position because she was untidy or overdressed.

If you look capable, alert and interested, opportunities are sure to come your way.

When there is something important to be done your employer will say: "I will put it in the hands of Miss K. She looks trustworthy."

The first steps in the ladder of success are the most difficult ones to climb.

But nothing succeeds like success, you know, and when you have once made yourself known as a capable, successful worker half the battle is won.

Don't be afraid of undertaking new ventures or of doing more than your share of the work.

Failure once or twice or half a dozen times does not mean failure for good and all.

These rules hold good with men as well as women.

CHILDREN'S TROUBLES.

Treat Them Seriously and Try to Gain Their Confidence.

When your child first comes to you in tears and complains bitterly of this or that petty wrong or injury, be forces you to one of the most important decisions in your parental career. Your path lies open before you—to treat his trouble seriously, to speak to him "man to man" or to laugh at it as of no consequence.

Beware before you too hastily make your choice. You are choosing between your little one's future confidence, even his self respect and his final alienation from you.

To the child all his woes are real and important. His little fears and angers are as great factors in his mental development as your large ones are in yours.

Many a timid child has been frightened into convulsions and death by something which would not cause an adult even to start, and many a passionate one has lived to regret that all his infantile naughtinesses were treated as jokes and made simply the cause for laughter.

There is no occasion to overestimate their importance. It will not be necessary. Simply accord to the child the same consideration, help and criticism that you would give a grown person suffering from proportionately heavy troubles, and do not let him feel that always he is to be the butt for the mirth of his audiences, "just because," as one small boy plaintively remarked, "they woke up a few years before I did!" His philosophy was inadequate, but his sense of justice was in the right place.

Just Discovered It.

Before a New York dairymen's convention Mrs. Marshall, one of the proprietors of a dairy farm, gave a knock at some of the dairy advice so freely floating around at present: "In every movement looking to the reform or betterment of degenerate conditions, the existence of which has been perfectly obvious to thinking people, there arises a class of 'just-discovered-it maniacs' who fairly froth at the mouth in their zeal to outdo each other in correcting the abuse. For a few years the dairy has been the target of surplus wrath. It has been specialized, scrutinized, sterilized, pasteurized and paralyzed. Some of the latest items since the reformers have had their fling are: 'There is nothing but dirt in the dairy, and you keep everlasting at it.' 'And you tell everybody of your gymnastics to keep the dairies sanitary, and you shout it from the housetops, and you write it to the dairy papers,' and soon your labors will be all done, for nobody will want your milk or butter."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A teaspoonful of pulverised alum mixed with the common stove polish will give a wonderful polish.

Scalding the milk for custard pie adds greatly to its flavor. An addition of a teaspoonful of brown sugar or molasses is also helpful.

When one is compelled to hang a skirt against the closet wall instead of on hangers extended from the ceiling let the back of the skirt rest against the wall. Then if there is any wrinkling it comes at the back, where it is not noticeable.

If windows move hard, melt a tablespoonful of lard and pour a little between window frame and casing and also a little on the roller and rope. It works like magic. This is a good thing to know when the frames are swollen from being closed during rainy weather.

Novel Effects in Lamps.

As a contrast to the favored styles in bric-a-brac and lamps of the "art nouveau" type is another style, of which ornateness is the chief characteristic. These are small lamps in white china, with all sorts of fancy trimming in gold leaf or crystals. One of the new lamps looks like a small flowerpot, with its gold branched and many leafed plant growing out from it. The light is in the center of this foliage of gold.

Other small lamps in this style have white china bases ornamented in gold leaf and shades made of small crystals. Some for the boudoir resemble candlesticks and have a curtain at one side, which is made of innumerable small stones, the tiny white translucent pebbles which are found in the sand at the seashore. These pebbles are made into shades for the lamps as well as into curtains.

A third group shows peculiar ornamentation of sprays of leaves made of gold leaf, which stand out from the lamp, each leaf and each stem. They are said not to be perishable and are easily cleaned.

Trial Catarrh treatments are being mailed out free, on request, by Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. These tests are proving to the people—without a penny's cost—the great value of this scientific prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoops Catarrh Remedy. Sold by all dealers.

EMBROIDERY HOOPS.

The Best Covering Is Tape an Inch Wide.

If rings or embroidery hoops are used, they should be frequently rewrapped. It is not unusual to see hoops in the hands of apparently dainty women so dirty they are a disgrace to her cleanliness, not to speak of the ruinously black lines they leave on the work.

The best covering for hoops is a very thin tape about an inch wide, wound so that one edge just barely laps over the other. As a whole bolt of tape may be bought for a few cents, there is absolutely no excuse for dingy coverings.

The silver rings in vogue several years ago are really not very practical. If wrapped they had much better be wood, and if unwrapped the inevitable tarnishing, unless the greatest care is exercised, will leave ugly stains on delicate materials.

The two parts of the embroidery hoops should fit so tightly that a certain amount of pressure must be exerted to fit them together after the work is spread on them. Fit the work smoothly over the lower ring before putting on the top. If there is the slightest wrinkle or the work sags the effect is much worse than if no hoops were used.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by all dealers.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $600 yearly income on every $1,000 invested. (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

WHEY FED CALVES.

Important Points in Rearing Them in Good Form.

Some persons claim that good calves cannot be reared on whey. Others have said that the best cows that they ever saw in the dairy include a number that were reared during calfhood essentially on a diet of whey. The truth probably lies between these two extremes, remarks Professor Thomas Shaw in considering the matter, as follows, in American Agriculturist.

Calves can be reared in better form if they are not given much whey until they are five or six weeks old. Before feeding whey the calves should be started on new milk during the first week or two. No supplemental food will take the place of new milk at such a time. It would seem to be an absolute necessity in order to start the work of digestion aright. If it is not started right, ill doing is likely to follow, even though the management subsequently should be judicious. Then a change is made from new to skim milk, taking one to two weeks to make the change from all new milk to all skim milk.

As soon as the change is begun to skim milk then oilmeal or flaxseed or linseed gruel may be fed as the calves may be able to take it. This is put into the milk until they eat meal freely. As soon as they do this it is put into the meal that is fed dry. With this added to the mixture it may be composed of the following: Ground corn three parts, ground oats three, wheat bran one, oilcake one. For a time the calves may be allowed to take all of this that they will eat.

Changing to Whey.

When the change is made to whey the calves will be five or six weeks old, as intimated. Should they be younger three to four weeks should be occupied in making the change from all skim milk to all whey. If they are five weeks old, the change may be made in one or two weeks, but it should not be sudden. The quantity of whey to feed will be a little more than for calves of the same age on skim milk—that is, it will be fourteen to eighteen pounds per day for calves at six weeks, increasing at the rate of one to two pounds a week for the next few weeks. It should not be given to the extent of unduly distending the paunch, as has been sometimes done. Animals of that class are sometimes rendered hideous because of the large amount of paunch they carry as a result of the excessive feeding of whey. The character of the whey—that is, the condition in which it reaches the calves—is important. When brought from the whey tank at the factory it is frequently in bad condition because of careless management.

The Dainty Eater.

The dainty eater is not the cow the dairyman wants for business, because his profits come not from the feed that remains in mow and bin, but from that which is consumed, says D. W. Lighter in National Stockman and Farmer. During the winter, when they do little or no work, we feed our horses a light ration that we call a maintenance ration, but in the spring we add to the maintenance ration a lot of corn and oats to be transformed into pulling power to move plows, harrows, etc. The food consumed besides the maintenance ration is what gives us results. I have no use for a cow that cannot utilize three or four times the maintenance ration.

DAIRY TALK OF TODAY.

There is no question but dairying can be made profitable on very high priced land, but to reach maximum profits every detail of the industry must be carefully observed. This active, pulsating, living piece of mechanism—the modern cow—is the emancipator of poverty and the harbinger of peace, prosperity and civilization; thus henceforth let us give the place of honor to this gem of the farm.—J. Withcombe.

Testing the Young Cow.

On a famous Vermont dairy farm every young cow is tested for butter fat with her first calf. If she does not then show her two pounds of butter a day or give indications of doing it with her second calf, she is discarded. But with the second calf this rule is rigidly inforced.

The Farmer and the Factory.

In the successful cheese factory and creamery the farmers must act as assistants to the makers. Farmers, as a rule, do not recognize the fact that they are assisting in the manufacture of butter or cheese, as the case may be, and that the part they perform is a very potent factor in obtaining a prime article as a product.—W. J. Elliott.

Value of Special Pains.

I believe that if every man in Minnesota would given special attention to the selection of his cows and would take special pains to keep the cows comfortable and feed them the nutriment that they need for milk production in less than two years we could add 100 pounds of butter fat per cow. That is a pretty broad statement. We are getting about 135 pounds of butter fat a year, but I believe if the farmers paid special attention to the care of their cows we could raise that to 235 pounds on the average with the cows that they have.—T. C. Haecker.

A Certain Profit Producer.

It has been said that a good dairy cow, a hand separator and a well bred brood sow, with a bunch of squealing, healthy pigs, make a combination that will write dollar signs on the farm. Such a combination judiciously managed, while it is not a get rich quick scheme, is a certain profit producer.—Country Gentleman.

Tides at Panama and Colon.

The mean level of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is the same, but the tidal variation at the two ends of the canal is considerable. The tide rise above mean level at Colon is one foot, while at Panama it is ten feet.

Equality in Iceland.

In Iceland men and women are in all respects political equals.

Woman's World

MISS CARRO CLARK.

The Only Successful Woman Publisher in the World.

Miss Carro Clark holds a unique position. She can claim the distinction of being the only successful woman publisher in the world. She is the founder and head of the C. M. Clark Publishing company of Boston. When asked about her success she said: "Five years ago it became necessary for me to do something for a living. I was suddenly thrown on my own resources. I had a little money of my own and decided to go in for book publishing. Several persons pointed out that the calling was overcrowded, a large capital was needed, while the business was such an intricate one that it required a man's head to succeed.

"I determined, however, to put the matter to a test. I opened a small office in Boston, my native town, and then went round to several friends and persons whom I knew could write me something worth publishing. I then made all necessary arrangements for printing and distributing. In less than five months I had launched on the market two novels, eighteen story books for children, a medical book for the home, as well as a popular work on dressmaking.

"They all went well, and I thought my position was assured. This belief was quickly shattered. Six other books turned out complete failures. I then realised I should have to hustle if I meant to continue in the business. I sought out a number of authors and was fortunate in securing several works that did well."

MISS CARRO CLARK.

Miss Clark admitted that for the first three years—she has now been a publisher for five—she worked very hard from morning to night.

She declares that much of her success is due to the periodical journeys she makes to the various cities.

The moment she has some new books ready she maps out a tour, and I commercial travelers have frequently marveled at the amount of ground she covers and the business she transacts on these journeys.

Arriving at a town, she spends two or three hours visiting her agents and arranging sales.

The moment her work is finished a train is taken to the next stopping place, and so on until the programme is completed.

A Novel Blotter.

A pretty combination blotter is made as follows: Tie three ordinary, rather large blotters together by piercing through one corner and running in a bow of baby ribbon. Then on the outside paste one of the small unmounted penny calendars and a postal view.

At first blush there seems nothing especially novel or attractive about this combination, but its variations are manifold. It is pretty in school or college colors, both blotters and ribbon partaking of the shades. In this case the postal may represent one of the college buildings. At Christmas it is charming all in red and green and at Easter in green and white.

If one buys the large blotters and cuts them oneself, the cost for twenty blotters averages 7 cents apiece. They are extremely easy to make and, while serving the place of a printed card, are much more personal in their appeal.

If one wishes one may draw or paint around the edge of the blotter a simple decorative border and on the postal write the name of the giver and the date.

An odd use to which they may be put is to send them as invitations, writing name, date, time and address on the postal. For $2 one may make, stamp and wrap twenty-five of these, an average cost of 8 cents apiece for all conditions—surely little enough!

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without these last ingredients, I successfully treated scarcely many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I uniformly cure all curable cases of this horrid-ever dreaded disease. These sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood cause to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We all, and in confidence recommend Same Kind of Cat.

Ethel, aged eight, had succeeded in making her dog stand up on his hind legs, but her efforts to make the cat do likewise resulted in the little girl getting a bad scratch, whereupon she exclaimed, "You d——d cat!"

Her horrified mother, who overheard her, punished her severely, but, not disheartened, Ethel the next morning again endeavored to induce puss to emulate the dog, and again she felt the force of the feline claws. "You"—the angry child began, when her mother said warningly:

"Ethel!"

"Well," she continued, "you are just the same kind of a cat you were yesterday."—Judge.

Willing to Compromise.

During a match at St. Andrew's, Scotland, a rustic was struck in the eye accidentally by a golf ball. Running up to his assailant, he yelled, "This 'll cost ye £5—£5!" "But I called out 'fore' as loudly as I could," explained the golfer. "Did ye, sir?" replied the troubled one, much appeased. "Weel, I didna hear. I'll take fower."

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we get our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

DOPING A COLD DOESN'T CURE IT

The average cough mixture doesn't cure a cold—[illegible] in other words, temporarily holds it down, and bottle after bottle must be taken before a cure is effected.

Meantime you have suffer and your poor stomach is burdened by the indigestion that invariably follows continual dosing with cough syrups.

If your bowels were kept open and the eliminating organs stimulated your cold would soon disappear.

Dr. Hamilton found that his Mandrake and Butternut Pills were more valuable in colds than any cough cure. While you sleep at night they enliven the kidneys, liver and bowels and thereby carry off the cold and all its evil effects.

Instead of deadening the stomach like cough cures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills afford this organ the greatest assistance by giving it tone, strength and healthy action.

One or two pills is sufficient.

Take them just before retiring.

Next morning you feel like new.

The cold is broken up, your system regulated and cleaned and no time lost.

The use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills for colds, coughs and rheumatic ills is popular because efficient. Get some today. 25 cents per box or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers, and refuse a substitute.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated, for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $20,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 75 per cent. or $15,000,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

FOR EVERY FORTUNE BUILT BY A WISE INVESTOR, A FINANCIAL COWARD GOES TO THE POORHOUSE

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

A CURE FOR SHYNESS.

Two Kinds of This Disease, Physical and Mental.

There is probably no defect which causes so much anguish of spirit and discomfort as shyness and blushing. Nobody who has not personally suffered from it can conceive what it may cause.

Shyness may proceed from one of two causes—the one physical, the other mental. It is often an affair of health. The nerves are out of order, and the will becomes weak. People shrink from their fellow creatures and are filled with an unreasoning horror of meeting or speaking to them. The best cure for this kind of shyness is fresh air, exercise and cheerful society.

But there is another shyness and one harder to cure which comes from mental causes. The person so afflicted may be in robust health and yet so tormented by this inward enemy that she finds all intercourse with other people positively alarming. To meet strangers causes her a severe struggle. She would gladly turn down the first street corner to avoid bowing to even an acquaintance.

In either case the root of the matter is self consciousness, and it is only by losing that self consciousness that self possession can be gained. As long as one thinks about oneself at all one will be liable to shyness. The only cure is to thrust all thought of oneself into the background as much as possible, when one will gradually become natural, happy and at ease.

M'GREGOR AND M'GRATH ARE THE CITY ASSESSORS

City Council in Regular Session--Bussiness Pushed Through in a Business Like Manner --Mayor Rush Holds His Chairmen Responsible

At last night's Council meeting His Worship expressed his approval of and utmost confidence in the chairmen of the different committees. He did not propose to interfere with the chairmen, whom he would hold responsible for their several committees. He made advice, but never interfere with the committees. He was particular pleased with the manner in which Ald. Phelan had risen to the demands of his office, and looked forward to extended work from the Board of Works.

Ald. Elliott was delegated to represent the mayor at the astronomical lecture to be given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Wednesday night by Dr. King, His Worship having pledged himself elsewhere.

The City Fathers met in Committee of the Whole last night when there were present Mayor Harry Rush, Aldermen Elliott, Morgan, Johnston-Fitzgerald, Morrow, Neill, J. J. Turner, Jr., Buller, McIntyre, Tovey and Phelan.

The following applications for the position of assessor for 1908 were received, two to be appointed:

D. B. McGrath, R. F. McGregor, Dawson Kennedy, H. Carveth, J. B. Bryson, W. A. Bell, W. Aldridge, W. B. Thompson, D. D. Lotellier.

On resolution it was decided to appoint the assessors by ballot, which resulted in the following gentlemen receiving the appointments: D. B. McGrath on a vote of ten out of seven ballots cast, and R. F. McGregor on a vote of seven out of the same number of ballots cast. The mayor did not vote and Ald. Bradburn was absent.

REGULAR SESSION.

The committee then here retired to the Council Chamber, where they met in regular monthly session of the Council.

The minutes were taken as read.

DAMAGES ASKED.

Donnatoun, Peck & Kerr notified the council that Mary Frances Brown held the city responsible for an accident at the Post Office by which she sustained a fractured limb through falling on the slippery sidewalk.—Referred to the Legal Committee.

F. W. & L. REPORT.

Ald. Johnston submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That on account of the removal of Fireman Adamson from Simcoe street to Stewart street the fire hall be placed in his new house, and that the chairman of this committee be authorized to have the change made.

2. That permission be given to the firemen to hold two socials during the winter in the fire hall, the proceeds of the socials to go towards purchasing a piano for the hall for the entertainment of the fire department.

3. That this committee be authorized to purchase a volt metre for testing purposes in connection with the street lighting and the fire alarm system.

4. That this committee and Ald Morgan be a deputation to visit North Toronto and Fort Erie or other places to make a thorough investigation of the enclosed arc lamps now in use in that place to enable the committee to make a complete report to the Council with respect to the proposal to change our present system of street lighting.

5. That Alfred Parker be engaged as driver in the fire hall at a salary the same as the other drivers, his duties commencing February 1st, 1908.

6. That the committee be authorized to purchase 1,000 feet of hose three hose brushes, one pair rubber boots, one alarm indicator, three suits of clothes, one fountain stream with Siamese connections, two hydrant gates and twenty-five protection key boxes for fire alarm boxes.

This report was adopted as read.

MRS. CON. REPORT.

Ald. Neill submitted the following report:

Gentlemen, — Your Manufacturers Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. The city solicitor received a letter from W. H. Biggar for the Grand Trunk Railway, saying that the railway intended to make application to put in a siding to the Matthews Co.'s factory, and asking that the city accept the notice given by the Matthews Co. Your committee authorized the solicitor to reply that so far as the city is concerned the notice given by the Matthews Co. will be accepted as if given by the Railway Co., and that as there are several matters to be dealt with by the Board of Railway Commissioners affecting Peterborough that the Board be requested to meet there.

2. We recommend that the fixed assessment for the Auburn Woollen Co. include the vacant land belonging to the company on the east side of the river between the river and river road on condition that the fixed assessment does not include school taxes.

3. We recommend that a by-law be prepared to change the name of the street known as Concession street and the River road to Kendrey street.

4. Your committee was approached in regard to a proposition made by Mr. George Kent, of Toronto, to establish a cold storage plant here and asking for a fixed assessment and a number of licenses for candy carts for selling candies and peanuts and requesting information on other points. We recommend that as there is a cold storage plant being put in by another firm the clerk be instructed to reply that the city could not give a fixed assessment or the licenses.

5. We recommend that the Council send an invitation to the delegates of the British Dairy Farmers' Association to visit Peterborough and that the Local and Reception Committees be authorized to act with committees of the County Council, Dairymen's Association and Board of Trade in arranging for entertaining them.

This report was adopted as read.

BY-LAWS.

A by-law to authorize the borrowing of $10,000 to pay for extensions made to the waterworks system, passed its several readings.

A by-law to increase the salary of Relief Officer E. W. Miller to $250 a year passed its several readings.

A by-law appointing T. H. McGrath and R. F. McGregor assessors at a salary of $500 each passed its several readings.

Ald. Johnston thought the assessors should be better paid.

Ald. Morgan did not think that it would be better to wait and see if the assessors did good work; if their work was satisfactory it would be easy to give them an additional allowance when their labors were finished.

Ald. Neill agreed with Ald. Morgan and no action in this direction was taken.

A by-law to fix a charge of $25 for sewer connections where frontage tax is not charged passed its several readings.

A by-law to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Mills at $40,000 for ten years passed its required readings.

A by-law to fix the assessment of the Peter Hamilton Co., Limited, at $20,000 for ten years also passed its three readings.

A petition to the Local Legislature to sanction several by-laws, to increase the term of aldermen to three years, to allow of five members constituting the City Trust Commissioners, one to retire each year, and other measures had its readings.

Aldermen McIntyre and Morgan asked that the clause giving the Colonial Weaving Company a free site be withdrawn until the company live up to their agreement with the city. However, their colleagues thought it was for the Council to get the sanction of the Legislature to this by-law, and thus be prepared to fill their part of the agreement when the company carry out theirs. Should the latter fail to live up to the terms imposed upon them, they will have to pay the cost of submitting their by-law to the people last year.

Ald. Neill remarked that this company handle splendid goods, and have a future ahead of them.

The claim in question was allowed to remain in the petition.

A by-law appointing Alfred Parker a driver for the fire hall passed its requisite readings.

A DEPUTATION.

The mayor, Ald. Phelan, Elliott and the city solicitor were deputed to go to Toronto and present the above petition to the Legislature.

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the repairing of Mr. Biggar's fence be attended to by the Board of Works; also that this Board put the bridge over the creek from McDonnel street north in a safe condition, and take steps to put the drain on Park street, from Albert street, in satisfactory shape.—Carried, and the Board of Works chairman, Phelan, promised to attend to these matters.

Council here adjourned.

Are Taking Less Patent Medicines Now

Gives a Highly Recommended Home Recipe for Kidney Trouble

A well-known authority states that there are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering, frequently resulting in deformity, often reaching the heart when death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent, painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms, the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

The physicians for the insurance companies always carefully examine and report on the condition of the urine. It is a certain sign of sickness or health of the human body.

A test of the urine should be made by every man and woman at least once each year. A sample to test is to pour a small quantity of urine in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white, flocculent substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable preparation. The following prescription is recommended highly in these cases, and if desirable the sufferer can mix it at home. Any good prescription pharmacy has the ingredients, which are harmless and inexpensive: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately the use of this simple prescription.

POLICE

At yesterday's police court Williamson, the man who is noted in yesterday's issue, was arrested for being drunkk Saturday evening by P. C.'s McGarty and Moriarty for being drunk, was fined $5, and fine to be paid forthwith.

Count Without Food for Days

A little man with snow white hair and poorly dressed staggered into the Bedford Avenue station house, in Brooklyn yesterday morning and appealed to Lieutenant Lyons for something to eat and a place to sleep. He said that he was Baron Sabastopol Eugene St. Clair de Massiah, Count of Pallatta and Duke of Tavenec. He had been without food for several days.

Twenty-four years ago he came to America from France as an emissary from the Catholic Church to the head of the Church in America. He performed the mission and decided to remain in America. He married unhappily beneath his station in life, and, not desiring to make known this fact, to his titled family and friends, decided to assume the name of Walter St. Clair. Able to converse fluently in a half dozen languages, he became a teacher of the children of the wealthy, but owing to poor health was compelled to give that up. He passed the Civil Service examination, and was appointed as an interpreter and sent to the 7th District Municipal Court in Brooklyn. He remained there several years, but recently had not had work. A collection was taken up by the men attached to the station house, but he refused to accept it.

THE BRITISH FLEET OFF FOR LISBON

Youthful King Pathetically Admits His Inexperience

The New Cabinet

Summary of the terrible murder of King Carlos and Crown Prince of Portugal while returning home from visiting the fair at Villa Vicosa:

The Victims—King Carlos of Portugal, who had with King Edward of England a common ancestor in the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, who died in 1806, and his son, the Crown Prince, who was expected to marry the daughter of the Duke of Connaught.

The Survivors—Queen Amelie and her son, Emanuel, a youth of eighteen years, who is now King.

Cause of Tragedy — The despotic rule of Premier Franco, who suppressed graft, and choked off criticism by deporting or imprisoning opponents and shutting down newspapers.

Gibraltar, Feb. 3. — The British cruiser fleet sailed from here early this morning for Lisbon. Britain is bound by treaty to guarantee the independence of Portugal, and there is also a virtual alliance between the two countries. The presence of the fleet at Lisbon, while ostensibly to protect British residents, is no doubt intended to have a quieting effect.

Lisbon, Feb. 3. — Premier Franco has relinquished power and a committee has been formed with Admiral Ferreira de Amaral as its president in the place of the late dictator, Franco. This step signalized the practical withdrawal of Franco from power. It agreed to this measure as one calculated to pacify public opinion, when only a spark was needed to inflame the whole country, and drag it headlong into revolution. It is believed that Franco will still be the "man of power," but his official prerogative powers are at least shorn of real power.

YOUNG KING'S APPEAL.

The opening was held to-day. King Manuel II. appeared before his Ministers and with a voice vibrant with emotion said:

"I am yet without experience either in science or in politics. I place myself entirely in your hands, needing and believing in your patriotism and wisdom."

The new Cabinet is made up of coalition elements in the hope of reconciling the many disturbing elements. Some of the new Ministers have been notably opposed to Franco's iron rule. Not one of the Franco Ministers remains, so that his regime disappears with him.

Mr. F. D. Kerr Says Snowdrifts Extended for Many Miles

Toronto, Feb. 3.—"The Sar had a conversation this morning with Mr. F. D. Kerr of the firm of Donnigoun, Peck and Kerr, of Peterborough, and learned of the antics the snow king has been playing east of Toronto.

"The drifts along the railway line are awful," said Mr. Kerr. "Most of them are six feet deep or over and extend for miles."

He then went on to give a sample of the way the railways have been hit.

"The C. P. R. train for Montreal that left Toronto at eleven o'clock Saturday night was many hours late.

"The train from Montreal that should have arrived in Toronto at 7 in the morning got in at six o'clock last night."

At Peterborough the passengers were given breakfast and dinner together at noon hour.

At five o'clock yesterday morning the passengers on the Montreal train were wakened up by the Pullman porter at Shanbot Lake.

"Better have some coffee," said the porter. "It's five o'clock, we're stuck in a drift and don't know when we will get out of it."

All the passengers, said Mr. Kerr, were warm in their praise of all the company did to help them while they were stalled.

Misleading Inferences from Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Speech

London, Jan. 30. — Several sentences outside territorial rights and the status quo in Eastern Asia and India. The preamble of the convention definitively recites the objects of the alliance and the second article restricts armed cooperation to those territorial rights and special interests whenever there is an unprovoked attack on either Japan or England. The port of Vancouver cannot be used as a base of operations against a common enemy of the allies unless some cause of offence has arisen in the regions of Eastern Asia or India. The present convention with Japan would be speedily denounced if it committed England to war against America or any other power at a moment's notice or suspended the ordinary operation of neutrality practice.

The diplomatic explanation of the revised alliance offered three years ago was that the first agreement of 1902 did not prevent the Russian-Japanese War, although it tended to keep both France and England out of hostilities, and that the convention had been modified in order to forestall another war. Altogether Sir Wilfrid Laurier's talk about an Anglo-Japanese fleet sailing out of Vancouver for attack on the common enemy does not accord with the accepted views of the convention as a safeguard of the peace of the world.

THE GREATEST CAMPAIGN IN THE HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY

Protestant America Raising Vast Sum of $126,000,000 for Big Crusade

To Place 40,000 Missionaries in the Field in the Orient

Launching the Work

New York, Feb. 3. — The greatest campaign against ignorance, superstition and sin in the history of the world—a campaign the like of which has never been seen since Peter the Hermit preached the crusades—is now being pushed from this city, which is the headquarters of the Layman's Missionary Movement. Briefly, this movement contemplates the raising of $126,000,000 during the next five years, all of which will be expended in bringing the gospel to the dark places of the earth. The practical, experienced men identified with this great project agree that $20,000,000 of the vast sum will be contributed by children and others giving regularly through the church within the specified time, leaving $100,000,000 to be raised from other sources. For this purpose what may be termed a stock company has been formed. There are to be shares for all, poor and rich. The mite of 10 cents a week will buy at least one of the 20,000,000 shares which are to be issued at $5 per year for the period of five years, affording $80,000,000, or one-half the full amount of the unique subscription. Those to whom more has been given can invest in the 250,000 shares, which are to be had at $100 per year for the five years, bringing in $25,000,000 to the fund. Then those stewards who, holding much in keeping for their Lord, seek to hold it worthily, can subscribe to the issue, of $1,000 shares, numbering 25,000, in all, and furnishing the remaining $25,000,000.

HOW THE MOVEMENT STARTED.

This novel idea of raising a vast "war chest" for the purpose of keeping an adequate number of missionaries in the field is that of J. Campbell White of Pittsburg, in 1902, as a secretary of the Y. M. C. A., he went to India to advance the interests of the association and for a number of years was stationed at Calcutta. He found occasion to make a tour of the United Presbyterian missionary field in the Punjaub, and he used his eyes—eyes long trained to overlook the slow jog trot of it all, and to descry things as they ought to be. To those fresh, uncompromising eyes it was apparent that in every missionary field of India, whatever the denomination, the number of missionaries was utterly inadequate for the labor that had been assigned them. That was the real birth of the vast church war movement, in 1902 at the yearly meeting of the United Presbyterian missionaries in the field at Makot, India. Mr. White presented a daring, an amazing plan. He declared that at least one missionary was necessary for every 25,000 people in any given field.

When he demanded that the home church support missionaries in that proportion, only his hearers, who knew so well with what difficulty an missionary was maintained for a field of 50,000 people, were qualified to indorse him with enthusiasm—and to wonder at his audacity. But the man was a man of big courage as well as of big ideas. He swept over the meeting with an eloquence and a zeal such as must have been inspired in that other big crusader of the long ago, when all about him there was apathy, discouragement and doubt.

LAUNCHING THE PROJECT.

From India Mr. White went to Egypt. He found the conditions no better, if not worse, than they were in India. He fired the missionaries of Egypt. They, in their fearful anxious, inspired turn, pleaded with the church at home.

The church at home, overburdened and much doubting, consented to listen to this strange demand that came out of the darkness of the distant continent. White told the annual assembly at Tarkio, Mo., all that he had seen, all that he knew and inspiring others with his own enthusiasm launched the "forward movement" of the United Presbyterian Church in this country. In 1905 he had the Men's Missionary League in operation, with organizations growing in every presbytery and synod, and the battle cry: "Evangelization of the world in this generation!"

A year passed, and all the other Protestant churches realized the importance of the movement. So swift was the growth of an idea which had in it the germ of true greatness that, after the impetus it received at the centennial celebration of the Williamstown haystack prayer meeting, in October of last year, 100 of the most widely known laymen of all denominations in the United States joined in a conference in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, in New York.

Twenty-five of them were multi-millionaires; all were included in the country's most influential circles of finance and trade. The layman's missionary movement was formed; large sums were publicly dedicated by these men of wealth to the cause, with leaders like Maj. A. P. Burghfield, of Pittsburg—two of them—undertaking to tour selected territories of the unexplored missionary field, at their own expense during the ensuing year, in order to obtain the exact data requisite for the proper conduct of the enterprise. Half of the membership of that enormous investigating commission are already abroad; the others are preparing for their departure.

Mr. White went to England accompanied by a special commission and aroused a corresponding enthusiasm there. After his return home last summer the Executive Board of the new laymen's movement was called together, and the syndicate plan, with its $1,500,000 worth of stock, bearing dividends which can be paid only when eternity shall supersede time for every shareholder, was agreed upon.

This winter Campbell White will personally place the enterprise before meetings in 60 representative churches in various parts of the country. Meanwhile, the pamphlets and other literature connected with the syndicate's promotion are being distributed from the movement's headquarters at 1 Madison avenue, this city.

VAST ARMY OF MISSIONARIES.

The movement took its rise just at the time when so many were declaring that the money spent on missions was money wasted. The answer of the church is the answer divined by Campbell White when he perceived the pitiful unfitness of the mission resources for the herculean task of evangelizing India. The means—a stock company for a hundred and twenty-five millions—has been devised in proportion to the end.

To what roots of the world, what abysses of ignorance, will the new, the 20th century crusade, reach out? From the mysterious monasteries of Tibet, opened only recently by British bayonets of trade, to the devil dances of the Congo Free State in Africa, from the Assam natives, who give of their lean substance to monkeyridden, grotesque fakirs on their highways to the far Chinese, who have thus far known so little of missionaries that they have felt no ambition to make martyrs, the sacred world of the gospel is to spread.

There are now 18,581 Protestant foreign missionaries in the field and the raising of this number to 40,000 should make a great impression upon the heathenism of the Oriental world.

The Canadian Magazine for February is more than ever distinctly Canadian. It starts off with an illustrated article by Frank Yeigh entitled "The Caribou Trail," and some of the other most important contributions are as follows: "The Washington of the North" by M. O. Scott, illustrated, being an account of the work done by the Ottawa Improvement Commission to beautify the Capital; "The Last Letters of Wolfe and Montcalm" by H. V. Ross; an outline of the "Canadian Immigration Policy" by W. S. Wallace; "The Art of St. Thomas Smith" by S. Holmes, with reproductions of some of Mr. Smith's pictures; "The Trade into the North," by Aubrey Fullerton, illustrated, and an article entitled "The Canadian Flag," by John S. Ewart, K. C., of Ottawa.

KEPT THEIR EYE ON WHITCROFT

Edmonton Bulletin: Battleford had sized up Whitcroft as a man to be watched and the strenuous manner in which they attended to him caused him to lose his temper early in the game, largely impairing his effectiveness, but at that he scored four goals. The contest was full of excitement and the score at the half, 2-2, showed how even the play was.

Nine Saved from Wreck

Nantucket, Mass., Jan. 31. — After a desperate struggle of five hours' duration against intense cold and a turbulent sea the life savers of the Cockata station rescued the entire crew of seven men of the Newport brigantine Fredericka Schepp, which was wrecked to-day on the north side of Coatue Beach. Mrs. Charles Overseen, wife of the captain, and her one-year-old son, who were on board, were also taken off the stranded vessel. Mrs. Overseen displayed rare courage during her trying experience. Both she and her baby, although exposed to the severe weather for some time, do not show any ill effects.

The Fredericka Schepp left South Amboy, N. J., last Sunday morning with a cargo of soft coal for Vinal Haven, Me.

Francis Weese, Aged 70, Spent the Night Under His Sleigh

Belleville, Feb. 3.—Francis Weese, of Consecon, Prince Edward County, left Trenton with a sleigh and two horses on Friday night last to drive across the bay to his home. The night was a terrible one, with wind and snow. On Saturday morning one of the horses turned up at home and a rescue party went out. Weese was found under his sleigh in the middle of the bay. Snow was piled up all around the sleigh, and the unfortunate man was so badly frostbitten that doctors say now he cannot live. He had unhitched the horses and then wrapped himself in robes and lay down. He is nearly 70 years old.

Mr. Gardiner's Coming Country Sales

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, the local auctioneer, has his work cut out for the next few weeks. Beginning with tomorrow Mr. Gardiner has an extensive sale at the farm of Mrs. Ida Richardson, lot 6, concession 8, in the township of Cavan, when he will sell a large number of high grade horses, cattle and other stock, as well as farm implements. One week from Thursday, on February 13th, Mr. Gardiner will conduct a large sale at the farm of Mr. John E. Bowden, lot 17, concession 11, of Cavan, west of Springville, when he will dispose of some splendid horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, high bred fowl and a large quantity of up-to-date farming implements. In addition to these important sales, Mr. Gardiner has many others in the county, some equal and others of less general interest, not noted in the above. In any case purposing buyers of such goods can safely depend on being treated in good faith at every sale conducted by Mr Gardiner and the respective vendors can rely on this gentleman procuring the best prices available. When Mr. Gardiner doesn't get good prices at his sales either the right class of buyer is not present or the goods are not right, and it is mighty seldom that Mr. Gardiner pays two passing thoughts to a sale that will not give his customers good value and his employers good money.

Yesterday's Soup Kitchen Appreciated

As noted in yesterday's issue of the Times, the firm public relief kitchens under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society, opened yesterday at Mrs. Adams' residence, 24 Stewart street, and Mr. E. L. Goodwill's appearance thus there was a necessity for such an action was completely justified, as some 32 families applied for daily warmed assistance. Mr. Goodwill, in charge of the Children's Aid Society, has made a personal study of the wants of the deserving and needy poor of Peterborough, and is thoroughly competent to judge which applicant is deserving and which is either fraudulent or seeking to get public aid that is not deserved.

The first applicants for public charity arrived yesterday between eleven o'clock a.m. and noon. The first applicant was a small boy at about 11.30 a.m., who got a full and steaming pail of succulent and nourishing soup to take home. Mrs. Adams to meet the demands had prepared a large boiler of beef soup with carrots, parsnips and other vegetables. Each applicant who came in was asked the number of members who were in the family, and a gauge was allotted to each.

Thirty-two families were yesterday relieved. Mr. George Cochrane was present and gave tickets to those who came on. The first day's experience was highly satisfactory as to the good accomplished.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, do you open your mouth like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?

When an intelligent thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, does it mean much to you that there is one tried and true honest medicine or known composition sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, rundown, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration?

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE

A Case of Neglecting a Weak Heart and Tired Nerves.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it.

If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferrosone. We recommend Ferrosone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allan Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resemble these:

SYMPTOMS OF WEAK HEART.

Nervousness, Palpitation, Trembling, Dizziness, Sinking Feeling, Heart Pains, Short Breath, Weakness.

Mr. Beattie says:

"I was weak and miserable.

"I was subject to heart palpitation and dizziness.

"As I grew worse I began to have trembling and sinking sensations.

"Ferrosone strengthened my heart, gave vigor to my nerves, soon made me well. It's a great rebuilder."

By strengthening the muscles of the heart, giving proper circulation and causing a general rebuilding of the whole system, Ferrosone is bound to do grand work in heart trouble; try it. 50c per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

CHILDREN AND CIVIC BETTERMENT

Addressing the American Civic Association upon the progress of the civic betterment movement among the school children, Mrs. Edwin F. Moulton, of Warren, Ohio, president of the Women's Outdoor Art League of the Association, said:—

"Our public schools are doing effective work in raising the standard of manhood and womanhood, but we must look to them to educate the child more effectually in the ways of good citizenship. Lessons should be given in citizenship so that when the present boys and girls are become the leading men and women of their community they will be qualified to stand for all that is best in civic righteousness.

"It is through the home and the school that the youth of our land shall be taught to promote and enlarge the cause for which this organization was initiated."

THE BOERS AND IMPERIAL DUTY

The tension throughout the Empire will be considerably relieved by the news that the Transvaal Government have decided to reconsider their regulations for the identification of such of their fellow British subjects of Indian origin as do not choose to go home to India. A judge of the Supreme Court is to enquire into the whole business, we are told, and in the meantime the obnoxious regulations are to be suspended.

This is a distinct change of policy, to meet Imperial interests; and should be recognized as such by every section of the Empire. If the Boer leaders in South Africa are to be animated by so loyal a spirit as this to the needs of the Empire as a whole, we can not only dismiss from our minds any misgivings as to the wisdom of granting them self-government, but can congratulate ourselves rather on having secured fellow citizens of our Empire who possess an Imperial imagination. There are people who do not fail in loyalty, but who do fail in understanding. They have no mind to be anti-British; but their minds will not permit them to realize the sweep and the scope of the duties devolving upon the British subject of to-day. The Boers seem to have both the understanding and the will.

With such an example from Pretoria, we shall expect to see a truer British attitude of mind in some Canadian cities. (We, too, must recognize that the British subject has Imperial responsibilities, and that we cannot always decide our conduct with an eye riveted upon our own door-step. In Canada we have need to remember that Britain has an Indian Empire to keep contented, and a Japanese ally to keep faith with. If we are to be as loyal and as Imperial as the Boers, we must help her in both these things. Possibly we shall suffer some inconvenience at times; but we can remember that the Boers are putting up with inconvenience and meeting cheerfully additional expense. All fears of a Japanese flood is now averted; and we have a fair chance to study a delicate consideration for Imperial interests.

PRISONER HIS OWN JAILER.

Amusing Story of a Murderer Who Refused to Be Released.

Monaco has no guillotine and no executioner and, indeed, no arrangements for dealing with criminals.

It is the place to recall the amusing story told by Maupassant about a murderer who was tried, convicted and sentenced to death in Monte Carlo. The authorities asked France to loan them M. Deibler and his little instrument, the "red widow." The French government consented to oblige for the consideration of £1,000. The prince thought this too dear and so applied to his brother of Italy. Italy offered to do the thing, all included, for £680. This again was found too dear. "The man is not worth it," said the Monegasque authorities.

So the sentence of death was commuted to one of life imprisonment. But there was no prison in Monaco, and a gaol had to be erected for the express purpose of confining this murderer, and a jailer had to be appointed. This state of things lasted for some months, and then the jailer died.

The authorities at Monte Carlo, when considering the appointment of his successor, came to the conclusion that the man, the one prisoner, was costing the state a great deal of money. So a commission visited him and told him that in future he would be required to act as his own jailer. He grumbled a bit at this increase of sentence, but complied. His meals used to be sent down to him from one of the hotels in the town, but one day the scullion who brought him his dinner did not turn up to time, and so the prisoner walked up to the hotel and took his meal there. After that he got into the habit of going up to the hotel for his meals. Then, after a stroll on the front, he used to return to his prison and shut himself in, carefully bolting the door inside.

But again the authorities found that he was costing them too much, and so one day they called him up and told him that they were sick of seeing him about the place and that he must clear out. He emphatically refused to do anything of the kind. "You sentenced me to penal servitude for life," he argued, "and I expect to work out my sentence. I have no means of earning a livelihood since you created all the bother, and it is to you that I look for my sustenance."

To cut a long story short, the principality of Monaco was obliged to settle an annuity of £24 a year upon the convict before he would consent to accept his freedom and leave the country. As soon as this was arranged he took up his abode in a little cottage just over the Monaco border.

This is a true story, and the document fixing the man's pension, together with details about the payments, may be seen in the Monaco archives.

The late Prince de Monaco was fond of telling this story in Parisian drawing rooms, and, if I remember aright, I heard it on the same occasion as did the late Guy de Maupassant.—London Mail.

Sydney Smith's Joke.

Sydney Smith was very happy in his country life, and his children caught his spirit of delight over common things. They loved animals and spent long hours in training them. One little beast, a baby donkey, became under their tuition perhaps the most accomplished of his species and unconsciously gave rise to a quatrain which now belongs to the fame of Sydney Smith. The donkey was a well educated chap. He would walk upstairs, follow the family in their rambles like a dog and when they entered his meadow run to meet them with ears down and tail erect, braying joyously.

One day, when Billy's head was crowned with flowers and he was being trained with a handkerchief for a bridle, Mr. Jeffrey unexpectedly arrived. He joined in the sport and, to the children's delight, mounted Billy.

Thus he was proceeding in triumph when Sydney Smith and his wife, with three friends, returned from a walk and took in the festal scene. The great man advanced, with extended hands, and greeted his old friend in an impromptu which has become familiar to the reading world:

Witty as Horatius Flaccus,
As great a Jacobin as Gracchus,
Short, though not as fat as Bacchus,
Seated on a little jackass!

DISMANTLED OFF CAPE HORN.

English Ship Finally Towed Into Harbor After Stirring Voyage.

A thrilling account of the sufferings of the crew of the sailing ship Dynomene, which left the Tyne for San Francisco, has been received at South Shields by the parents of John Patterson, whose son was on board. When off Cape Horn the vessel encountered a terrific storm, the sea running mountains high. Every stitch of canvas was torn into ribbons, and all movable articles were swept off the decks. The huge iron jibboom was cut clean off by a big sea, whilst another wrecked the meat safe, which weighed over a ton. Three of the seamen were terribly injured. Two managed to crawl under the forecastle head for shelter, but the third was washed about the deck, and finally got jammed between the foremast and the winch.

The master, second mate, and young Patterson crawled on their hands and knees and dragged the poor fellow by the legs into a place of safety. He was unconscious. When daylight came the vessel was almost a wreck. One of the yards had crashed through the deckhouse top, another had shattered the lifeboats, the tarpaulin was ripped off the hatches, and the decks were full of water fore and aft. A young sailor fell from the rigging into the tempestuous sea and was never seen again. The gale subsided slightly, and in trying to make Port Stanley, Falkland Islands, the ship Dunean came in sight, and the master offered to take off the crew, but this was refused. A squall then sprang up, and as the crippled vessel was being buffeted about it was sighted by a salvage steamer and taken into Montevideo, after having been 133 days out from the Tyne.

Sir Frederick's Prescription.

The King of England's famous surgeon, Sir Frederick Treves, has this to say to the rising generation. It comes from one who knows:

"Boys, don't bother about genius, and don't worry about being clever. Trust rather to hard work, perseverance and determination. The best motto for a long march is: 'Don't grumble, Plug on.' You hold your fortuneV..8..a Ot....f vc emfwy cmf future in your own hands. Never waver in this belief. Don't swagger. The boy who swaggers like the man who swaggers, has little else that he can do. He is a cheap-jack crying his own paltry wares. It is the empty tin that rattles most. Be honest, be loyal, be kind. Remember that the hardest thing to acquire is the faculty of being unselfish. As a quality it is one of the finest attributes of manliness. Love the sea, the ringing beach, and the open down. Keep clean body and mind."

Britishers Are Growing.

That the British head is shrinking and the British muscles are degenerating, as recently charged by certain scientists, was refuted by evidence introduced at the meeting of the British Association of Leicester. Records for the last twenty years at Marlborough College show that the fourteen-year-old boys there average five pounds heavier and nearly an inch taller than those of 1885.

A hatter who furnishes hats for six schools, vouches that hats of 21 1-2 inches circumference formerly were rarely demanded, while now hats 22 1-2 inches in circumference are needed continuously.

Sir Victor Horsley proposed a motion at the meeting, urging the Government to institute in connection with the medical inspection of school children, a system of periodic measurements.

Shaving Statistics.

The statistician has been at it again. The average man, he has discovered, has twenty square inches of beard on his face. Ergo, if a man with twenty square inches of face shaves every morning he will scrape over 7,300 square inches in a year. Accordingly if he shaves from the time he is twenty until he is seventy years old he will have shaved 365,000 square inches of beard.

A Point of View.

The new steamer City of —— was laid up for repairs, and one of the rickety old timers of the line was sailing in her place. A passenger who was somewhat irritated by the fact remarked to another, an Irishman, by the way, "The City of —— always gets in at 2 in the morning, and this old tub never gets in before 6."

The Irishman thought for a moment and replied: "It's all right. The distance is just the same, and we get a longer sail for our money."

Needed a Cloudburst.

Staying at an inn in Scotland, a shooting party found their sport much interfered with by rain. Still, wet or fine, the old fashioned barometer that hung in the hall persistently pointed to "set fair." At length one of the party drew the landlord's attention to the glass, saying, "Don't you think, now, Dugald, there's something the matter with your glass?" "No, sir," replied Dugald, with dignity, "she's a gude glass and a powerful glass, but she's no' moved wi' trifles."

Such is Fame.

A learned correspondent writes: "I was examining a witness, an elderly woman, the other day. On my inquiring her name she said it was Mrs. Bardell and that she came from Gravesend. I asked, 'Did you know Charles Dickens?' She replied, 'Do you mean the undertaker?' Such is fame."—London News.

Make use of time while it is present with you. It depends upon your will and not upon the number of days to have a sufficient length of life.—Montaigne.

An Odd Legacy.

Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Jefferson family of actors, was remembered curiously in the will of Weston, who was himself an esteemed member of Garrick's company. Weston's will contained this item:

"I have played under the management of Mr. Jefferson at Richmond and received from him every politeness. I therefore leave him all my stock of prudence, it being the only good quality I think he stands in need of."

He Saw the Game.

The office boy had buried countless grandmothers, brothers, sisters, aunts and cousins, but he felt an enthusiasm for the baseball game that day which would not be downed.

Suddenly an idea struck him. Approaching the easy boss with an air of familiarity which had been nurtured by long usage he asked:

"May I leave at noon today, sir?"

"And why, my boy?"

"There is a fancy fair at our church and mother wants me to go this afternoon. She was so anxious that she bought me a ticket which cost a dollar, as she was sure you would allow me the few hours off. I have to assist at the refreshment stall, and it seems a pity to waste"—

"But surely you are above such things as that which take you away from your work. Why not give the ticket to one of your sisters?"

"Well, you see, sir, that wouldn't be fair, for I'm the only one of our family who can be depended upon to eat a dollar's worth, and"—

His supreme nerve won the day.

"Crocodile Tears."

The phrase "crocodile tears" owes its origin to the imagination of some of the old travelers, who invented the fable that the crocodile weeps over its prey. One of the earliest English globe trotters to mention this fiction was Sir John Mandeville, who in his "Travels" (1400), speaking of "Æthiop," "Ynde" and an "Yle clept Silla," says:

"That Lond is full of Serpents and of Cokadrilles. These Cokadrilles ben a manner of Long Serpents, yalowe and rayed aboven, and had four Feete and schorte Thyes and grete Nayles as Clees or Talonns, and there ben some that had five Fadme in length and some of six and a halfendal. And in the nyght thei dwellen in the Water and on the Day won upon the Lond. Theise Serpentes slue men, and thei eten hem weyppge, and when thei eten thei moven the over Jowe and nought the nether Jowe, and thei have no tonge."—St. Louis Republic.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Cereals are seldom overcooked, but rather undercooked. Thus always allow plenty of time in preparing cereals.

If a bedstead creaks at each movement of the sleeper, remove the slats and wrap the ends of each in old newspapers. This will prove a complete silencer.

In using linen doilies on the highly polished table cut asbestus pieces to place beneath the mats, especially if there is any danger of the hot dishes marking the table top.

The polished appearance of starched clothes will be increased if a piece of wax the size of a small bean and half a teaspoonful of powdered borax be added during the boiling.

The new heavy embroideries of raised gold and silver work should never be brushed in the ordinary way. If rubbed gently with a piece of crimson velvet, a good result will be obtained.

Visit the Attic.

The woman with ancestors can plume herself more than usual—that is, provided the ancestors had money for frills and the middlemen (or women) didn't discover those frills twenty or more years back.

Stiff, rich brocades, an old friend which has long been slighted, is once more being "taken up," and lucky that woman whose grandmother or great-grandmother kept her frocks.

If there be not enough for a gown for the girl who does not think it sacrilege to make over grandma's belongings, perhaps one of the new capelike evening wraps can be evolved.

If the brocade has big velvet figures, then "cinch" it at once, for it is the newest of the new and lends itself admirably to the long straight lines that at present prevail in wraps and gowns.

A Business Proposition !

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOME..

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested. (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Cleaning Shoes.

Many people pin their faith to gasoline as the best cleanser for shoes in the light pastel shades, as well as those of darker leather.

A hardening of the leather, however, sometimes is the result of cleansing by this method.

The effect should be tried on the shoe under the instep before the entire surface is treated.

Under no consideration should the whole shoe be immersed in the gasoline, but an end of a piece of cloth should be dipped in the oil, then rubbed evenly over the leather.

Any stains or spots are eliminated by extra rubbings.

A Chair Hospital.

Quite the newest thing in the way of an occupation for women is putting cane seats in chairs.

A Boston woman has chosen this unique way of earning money and is making a decided success of it. She has secured a clientele among well known families, and every patron she serves brings several others, so that her "chair hospital," as she calls her workshop, is seldom without a large number of patients. She averages 60 or 70 cents on each chair and can cane five or six a day.

In the Sewing Basket.

Use a common bottle cork and a common thimble, push the cork into the thimble, small end first, then hollow out the cork enough to admit the point of your scissors. When your scissors are not in use keep the cork on the points of them and you need not be afraid they will do any damage to your sewing in your workbasket. This will also keep your fine scissor points in good condition.

For bath purposes the flesh brush should take the place of flannel. Indeed, the vigorous use of the flesh brush or glove may be recommended as an effective substitute for a bath where the latter is not at hand, as the rough glove or brush cleanses the skin of small particles which are apt to cling to it from the clothing that is in daily contact with the body.

White spots on furniture caused by putting down a hot jug or cup should be rubbed at once with a little oil of some kind, linseed for choice, though paraffin or sweet oil is nearly as good. Leave the oil on some hours if possible and then polish.

Her Wife (writing)—Which is proper, "disillusioned" or "disillusionized?"

Her Husband—Oh, just say "married" and let it go at that.

Almost any stain can be removed by rubbing butter well into it if it is immediately washed with pure water and soap.

HOW IT FEELS TO DIE.

Man of Marvelous Recoveries Says It Is a Delightful Experience.

How it feels to die is the remarkable story told to The London Daily Mail by Mr. James J. Kane, for 30 years a chaplain in the United States navy.

"I have been no fewer than eight times at the point of death," said Mr. Kane, "and on three occasions I was pronounced dead by physicians. On one of those occasions I rested in my coffin for 24 hours.

"During the third year of the American civil war I was attached as an executive officer to a gunboat of the West Gulf blockading squadron. Yellow fever was virulent, and ultimately I contracted the disease, and began to welcome the approach of death.

"All this time I was perfectly conscious, and as the body grew weaker the mental powers grew stronger. I recognized the peculiar distinction between the soul and the body, and made the startling discovery that I was possessed of wonderful faculties belonging to the soul, which were gradually developing as the separation from the body was taking place.

"Weaker, and yet still weaker, I grew; my breathing became difficult; pulsation almost ceased. Without losing consciousness I at last passed through the final stage. In an instant the spirit was freed, and I stood beside my body, pronounced dead by the doctors and nurses. 'All is over; he is gone,' said they, as they closed my eyes.

"I claim that the act of dying is one of the most delightful and exciting episodes of my life, filled with pleasurable emotions, not only at the thought of meeting long-parted friends, but the increase of knowledge and freedom from earthly elements. When I awoke, a colored preacher, who was very much attached to me, and who was weeping at my bedside, said: 'Thank God, you are once more alive,' and there was rejoicing at my restoration. My vision haunted me. I mourned over my return. I soon fell into a deep sleep, and the next morning felt increased vitalization.

"I once had a cataleptic seizure in London, when Dr. George W. Callender was in attendance upon me. He afterwards stated that I was the only man in his varied experience who had recovered after being so far gone in the throes of death. Two other medical men were also called, and they concurred with Dr. Callender."

TRIED TO STEAL SECRET.

Foreigners Wanted to See Working of New British Airship.

It is becoming more important every day to keep secret the result of the trials of the new aeroplane in the secluded camp among the Grampians.

Each crofter in the district is instructed to guard a certain area, members of the Scottish Horse are stationed at frequent intervals, and the footsteps of tourists and other unknown visitors are dogged relentlessly.

Two agents of a foreign Government actually penetrated the mountain fastnesses. They were observed behind a ridge which commands the aeroplane shed, to which they had crept under cover of a Scotch mist. The Marquis of Tullibardine's scouts saw them, and made rapidly up the slope. The foreigners retreated, and left behind them a telescopic lens, field glasses and cameras.

Two telegrams, in code, addressed to foreign Governments, were handed in at the postoffice, and had to be transmitted in the ordinary course.

The trials are hampered by the parsimony of the Government, which has only allowed the sum of $5,000 for them. But for the generosity of the Marquis of Tullibardine, who has granted the site and paid all the expenses of cartage, the aeroplane would not have gone beyond Lydd, where it was arranged originally for the experiments to take place.

The inventors—there are several of them—of this new flying machine have already produced results that surpass those of any other country. All that ingenuity, experience and mechanical skill can devise has been brought into operation, but another $25,000 or $30,000 is wanted to insure a definite triumph.

Decrease of Crime.

The Commissioners of Prisons, in their annual report just issued, are able to point to a gratifying decrease of serious crime in England and Wales. Only 190,292 persons were received in the local prisons last year, as compared with 217,336 in the year before, a decrease of 18,044. There has been a considerable decline in the convictions for drunkenness and for larceny, but the most satisfactory feature of the report is the evidence it gives of the decrease of criminality among the young. Only 724 children between the ages of 12 and 16 were sent to prison, as compared with 1,029 in the previous year; and there is an astonishing decrease in the number of lads over 16 who fall into evil courses. The success of the Borstal system for the treatment of such offenders is conspicuously proved, and the report contains the suggestion that such treatment should be extended in a special penal reformatory to all wrongdoers under the age of 23. In this way youths may be saved from life-long crime, and the advantages of the plan are so obvious that it is bound to be brought into operation before long.

The Soft Answer.

During a municipal election a lady canvasser secured one vote for her candidate by her ready wit. She had fluently advanced several reasons in favor of the policy of her party to a disagreeable old gentleman, who presently told her that she could talk the hind leg off a donkey.

"Well," she replied, "it would give me a great deal more pleasure to drive you to the polling station than to the hospital."

The retort so amused the voter that he finally promised to support her side.—London Globe.

His Consolation.

John and Willie are twins. Their best friend and playfellow is Archie, who is gifted with red hair and a hot temper. One day they quarreled and Archie started home in a huff. The unsympathetic twins called after him, "Red head, red head!" Archie seemed not to hear until the insult was repeated. Then he turned and called back, "Don't care if I am red headed; I ain't twins, and folks can tell me apart!"

Whole Wheat Bread.

Scald a cup of milk, take from the fire and add a heaping teaspoonful of salt, a level teaspoonful of sugar and a tablespoonful of shortening. Add a cupful of cold water to the scalded solved in one-half of a cup of lukewarm add one-half of a yeast cake dissolved in one-half of a cup of luke warm water. Beat in enough whole wheat flour to make rather a thin batter, beat well, cover and set aside until light. Then beat in as much more flour as is possible with a spoon. It must be stiff. Beat well, turn into greased tins, let rise until light again and bake an hour in a moderate oven.

How to Do Without Holidays.

The most healthy and the most successful people are those who have some pleasant occupation and go on doing the same thing day after day, year after year. These folks do not want holidays. The spirit of restlessness is fatal to health and argues "nerves," and holidays as largely taken now are nothing but just the result of a spirit of unrest.—Books of Today.

A Needlework Notion.

A woman given to much needlework featherstitches her baby dresses with very coarse white thread (No. 12) instead of using embroidery cotton, as is usually done. The hard twisted glazed thread never mats or sinks into the fabric, as the other does, but keeps its first outline through endless launderings.

Proper Introduction.

A good formula is "Miss Brown, may I present Mr. Jones?" or "Mrs. Van Courtlandt, I should like you to meet Mrs. Austin." Of course the gentleman is always presented to the lady, the young person to the older one, the less distinguished to the honored guest.

When the eyes are tired a handkerchief folded in four, soaked in cold water and laid on them will be found very efficacious, the compress being changed once or twice until relief is felt.

Working with the head bent over is very injurious to the eyes, as it tends to gorge the vessels of the eyes with blood and to produce congestion.

Finger nails that are manicured every week will retain their delicacy and luster much longer than those that are neglected.

What Daintiness Means.

Look around you as you ride in the street cars. Is one girl in fifty dainty? Not one in a hundred, not one in fifty is perfectly neat, and but a small number are even clean and wholesome looking. To be clean is not to be dainty. Buttons off, placket gaping, skirt and waist divorced—even absolute cleanliness does not atone for these. Neatness is not daintiness. Then is daintiness equivalent to taste? Hardly. Daintiness is none of these, and yet embraces them all—taste, neatness and cleanliness and something more—lightness. The girl who would be dainty perhaps had better take a peep into her room. Are your shoes peeping from under a carelessly made bed? Is the wee corner of a rug kicked up? Are the curtains white and fresh looking? Is your dresser scarf soiled and littered? Are the drawers partly open, revealing confusion within, and are there any little threads of hair attached to the carpet or floor covering? Perhaps not the whole list, but a few or one. Leave the room alone, then, as a room, but turn your attention to the top of your dresser. Remove the cloth if it be soiled ever so little. If you haven't a dainty one, make one. Make two or three and watch them as a miser watches over his gold. If a tiny smut appears, send them to the washtub, but leave everything else alone, strictly alone.

To Protect Skirts.

A useful hint for the stenographer or for any business woman who must spend much time at an office desk is to spread a newspaper under her chair. Office floors, whether covered or not, and most of them are bare in summer, get very dusty, to say the least, and white and light colored skirts suffer thereby.

It is extravagant to have to put a dress in the wash when all that is the matter with it is an extremely dirty hem; but, on the other hand, that hem militates against further use.

Prevent it by protecting your skirt as far as possible, and, if this is impossible in walking, at least keep the space around your desk free from dust and other varieties of dirt.

It is hardly necessary to say that the newspaper must be changed at least once daily, for paper is no more immune from uncleanliness than are other materials.

Paint Old Carpets.

If you have an old floor and cannot afford a carpet try painting it. The floor must be thoroughly cleaned, all rough places smoothed with a carpenter's plane and the cracks between the boards filled in with patent filler. Give the floor a coat of ready mixed cream paint, and when dry give a second

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerves centers. It builds Strengthens; it adds real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

DAIRY TALK OF TODAY.

There is no question but dairying can be made profitable on very high priced land, but to reach maximum profits every detail of the industry must be carefully observed. This active, pulsating, living piece of mechanism—the modern cow—is the emancipator of poverty and the harbinger of peace, prosperity and civilization; thus henceforth let us give the place of honor to this gem of the farm.—J. Withcombe.

Testing the Young Cow.

On a famous Vermont dairy farm every young cow is tested for butter fat with her first calf. If she does not then show her two pounds of butter a day or give indications of doing it with her second calf, she is discarded. But with the second calf this rule is rigidly inforced.

The Farmer and the Factory.

In the successful cheese factory and creamery the farmers must act as assistants to the makers. Farmers, as a rule, do not recognize the fact that they are assisting in the manufacture of butter or cheese, as the case may be, and that the part they perform is a very potent factor in obtaining a prime article as a product.—W. J. Elliott.

Value of Special Pains.

I believe that if every man in Minnesota would given special attention to the selection of his cows and would take special pains to keep the cows comfortable and feed them the nutriment that they need for milk production in less than two years we could add 100 pounds of butter fat per cow. That is a pretty broad statement. We are getting about 135 pounds of butter fat a year, but I believe if the farmers paid special attention to the care of their cows we could raise that to 235 pounds on the average with the cows that they have.—T. C. Haecker.

A Certain Profit Producer.

It has been said that a good dairy cow, a hand separator and a well bred brood sow, with a bunch of squealing, healthy pigs, make a combination that will write dollar signs on the farm. Such a combination judiciously managed, while it is not a get rich quick scheme, is a certain profit producer.—Country Gentleman.

Make Your Money Work

THE PACIFIC FRUIT COOLING AND VAPORIZING COMPANY (Inc.)

was organized several months ago by well-known business men and fruit shippers of California for the purpose of precooling fruit before starting it on its long journey to the Eastern market. The Government experts report on the precooling of fruits, is convincing evidence that the importance of precooling fruit is necessary and has come to stay. The inventor of our process has been engaged in the fruit business for many years and during the past five years has spent much time and money experimenting with the best methods of pre-cooling fruits. His tests have been practical and convincing. The keen business man saw at a glance the possibilities of his invention, and with the combination of capital, together with the enormous fruit industry, we were convinced of success and have succeeded far beyond our expectations. We are now busy at work making our machinery, to install ready for the coming season's fruit crop, and the opportunity now offered by this company is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future, and as a ground floor opportunity we are offering a limited allotment of stock to the general public as a profitable investment.

At 25 Cents Per Share for a Short Time Only

Investments made six months ago have advanced 150 PER CENT. The next six months promise to far exceed the past six months DON'T WAIT.

Time is the essence of this proposition. This stock will certainly double in a short time. J. Gould once said, "When you see a good investment, don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it too and you have lost your opportunity and you must then pay a higher premium on the original price to get it."

You will note the entire absence of risk in this advertisement. Each machine will pay for itself the first season and leave a handsome margin for dividends. Just as soon as we set our machines in motion they begin to earn money and big money, too.

HEADACHE? THEN TRY THIS CURE

Headaches are caused by the accumulation of poisons in the blood, which congest the brain and irritate the nerves.

These poisons are absorbed into the blood from wastes that accumulate in the intestines.

The cure is not difficult.

First, cleanse the entire intestinal tract.

Second, stimulate the action of the kidneys and liver.

Third, keep the pores of the skin open.

Lastly, regulate the bowels and avoid constipation as you would the plague.

The remedy is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut which cure the direst headache ever known.

In fact, people who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills never have headaches, because they regulate the system so thoroughly that no chance is given for a sick condition to develop.

Away with your headaches, be done with dizziness, languor and biliousness—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and enjoy the health that they alone can bring. Contain nothing but vegetable extracts and juices, and are absolutely safe for children, women, or men. Get the genuine Dr. Hamilton's Pills in yellow boxes, 25c each, or five for $1.00, at all dealers.

The meetings at Knox Church for the week are as follows: Last night the Young People's Society held a meeting and missionary night. The subject was the "Study of Japan." To-morrow the usual prayer meeting will be held and on Friday the Boys' Club will meet.

Another Charge Against Burke

Charles Burke, the young man who is now confined in the County Jail, charged with robbing the Buckhorn Post Office, at the point of a revolver on Nov. 5th., has another charge against him. It is alleged that he stole an overcoat of the value of ten dollars, from a house between here and Buckhorn. This charge will likely be lead upon the conclusion of his present trial.

Mr. Harry Stenson at Hust

Mr. Harry Stenson, of Alaska, who has been visiting his old home for several weeks, entertained the employees of the J. T. Stenson Shoe Store at a very pleasant supper in Hooper's Grill Room. Mr. Stenson's hospitality was thoroughly appreciated by the guests of the evening. Mr. Stenson leaves this week for Alaska, stopping over en route at Chicago and other cities.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

H. P. Kennedy is in Toronto today on business.

Miss Nina Sherin, of Lakefield, is the guest of Mrs. H. P. Kennedy for a few weeks.

Mr. B. Cain, of Burnt River, is renewing acquaintances in the city.

Mr. Jas. Bowlby, Spadina avenue, Toronto, is a guest of Rev. Dr. Marsh at the Strangville Manse.

Mrs. (Dr.) H. A. Wood will receive on Wednesday and Thursday at her home, 319 Stewart street.

Mr. Vernon Dawson, of the T. Eaton Co., Toronto, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Adam Dawson, Douglas street.

Mr. Godfrey Coughlin is home from Brandon visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coughlin, Aylmer street. Mr. Coughlin has been in the west for the past 18 months.

Mr. C. A. Rutherford, of Cedarburgh, Wis., who was in the the city for the funerals of his sister, Miss Sadie N. Rutherford to Mr. Harry Morgan, has returned home.

The funeral of the late Thomas Maltby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Maltby, who died Saturday night, was held yesterday afternoon from the family residence, 301 George St., to Little Lake Cemetery.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness. I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new 'Booklet' entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Art Association Has Auspicious Opening

Miss Dignam Gives Comprehensive Address on Subject of Art

Last night, in the former premises of the Bank of Montreal, at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets, the exhibition, mainly of Dutch paintings, was held under auspices of the Women's Art Association. Miss Dignam of Peterborough, opened with a really capital display of art. Last night's opening was somewhat like our mails for the English papers of "A Private View." Mr. J. R. Stratton very ably occupied the chair. Miss Dignam, of Toronto, one of Canada's best exponents of art, delivered a comprehensive and eloquent dissertation on the paintings of foreign artists, covering of course the world-wide recognized painters of the school of Holland, incidentally touching on matters of art in Canada.

To-morrow this splendid exhibit will be open to the public. Tea and refreshments will be served to the patrons of the exhibit.

Philomathean Society Holds Open Meeting

Last night in the Y. M. C. A. the Philomathean Society of the Collegiate Institute held an open and well attended meeting, thus showing that the literary section, and it is a majority of the Collegiate Institute, is in close touch with public approval.

The evening was rendered most enjoyable by a splendid programme of vocal and instrumental music. A debate was held on whether the House of Lords should be abolished, on which Mr. Roebuck and Miss A. Mumma were for the affirmative, and Mr. C. Lees and Miss L. Dean spoke for the negative. The negative won.

The following programme was rendered:

President's remarks.
Piano solo—Russell Robertson.
Presentation of penmanship medal to Miss Grady.
Reading—Miss Francis Stone.
Violin solo—Miss K. Wallis.
Dialogue—Miss Edwards, Miss Armstrong, Mr. Brown, Mr. Adams and Mr. Rankin.

Immigrants to be Deported

Mr. P. Devlin, of the Dominion Government Immigration Office, who was here last Saturday, has completed arrangements, after making full enquiries as to the men, for the deportation of R. Furnie and Reuben May, at present in the county jail on a charge of vagrancy. These men will probably be sent back to the Old Country in a few days. It is to be hoped that they will be happier and more welcome in the land of their birth than in Canada where they were dumped, irrespective of the wants, means or laws of their would-be adopted country.

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated, for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets, of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling this same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 50 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. This logic of all this is

FOR EVERY FORTUNE BUILT BY A WISE INVESTOR, A FINANCIAL COWARD GOES TO THE POORHOUSE

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

MR. JOHN CRANE WILL GIVE MEDALS FOR PENMANSHIP

Will be Donated to Pupils of Public and Separate Schools for Efficiency in Penmanship

Last night the Board of Education held a regular meeting at Secretary G. W. Morrow's office, with Chairman Robert Fair presiding. Among those present, outside Chairman Fair, were Messrs. Hall, Crane, Hayes, Wilson, Dumble, Ackerman, Robinson and Dr. Morrison.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Inspector Mowat was present and addressed the Board. Mr. Mowat presented a letter to the effect that he had had an answer to a letter he wrote to the inspector of the Toronto schools as to care of the sight and hearing of the Public School pupils. The Toronto inspector wrote saying that this work is just now in its infancy. The Toronto Board had made enquiries as to what is being done in the schools of the United States. In three cities it was found that a regular system of individual inspection had been adopted. The work there was done by physicians and trained nurses. This system was thought to be too expensive for the Toronto Board, so they appointed the city medical health officer to train the teachers to test the eyesight of pupils, as well as to diagnose possible eye diseases. The matter of children's teeth has not yet been taken up by the Toronto School trustees.

Mr. Dumble moved that the matter of protection of children from fire be referred to the Property Committee. The Supervision Committee, per Mr. John Crane, chairman, noted that they had received a full account of the reorganization of some of the schools from Inspector Mowat, that being necessary by obvious overcrowding. Mr. Mowat has succeeded, with as little inconvenience as possible to those concerned, in arranging these details satisfactorily. The committee gave Mr. Mowat permission to purchase a number of books in the junior grades, the sum to be about $35.

Miss Edna Rogers, of the East Ward Kindergarten School, applied for six months' leave of absence to pursue her studies in the kindergarten work in Toronto.

Mr. John Crane noted that Mr. Pringle, recently deceased, had given medals for penmanship to the Public and Separate schools. Mr. Crane had always taken a great interest in this branch of education and offered to give these medals as before himself. (Applause).

The Board gratefully accepted Mr. Crane's generous offer.

The matter of school children whose parents cannot pay their fees was brought up. Mr. Mowat noted that he has only recently become acquainted with this matter in detail. Mr. Dumble thought that the idea of pauperism in Canada should be kept in the background. It is the new arrivals, not the original born Canadians, who raise the cry of poverty. He gave several instances to prove his statements. One man he knew of had asked for help, saying that he, the applicant, had many children, whilst the truth was he only had four. He thought great inspection should be made into such applications for charity.

Another member of the Board remarked, "I tell you, gentlemen, that there's an awful lot of poverty in the city."

Mr. T. H. Cobb applied for the position of janitor of any of the city schools on the next vacancy.

Inspector Mowat presented a detailed report of the attendance of pupils at the various schools which showed a total percentage of 88.5 present.

Mr. Fessenden presented a report of the Collegiate Institute, showing that in his last return presented, last night, there were 295 on the roll with an average attendance of 271.

Inspector Mowat wrote the Board saying that on completion of Queen Alexandra school Miss Morley and Mr. Kerr were added to its staff. The opening of this school relieved the overcrowding of the Central school and made a change in the territory served by each of the schools. At present pupils living on Dublin street or north of it are sent to the Queen Alexandra school. These did not include pupils of all classes, but only those taking Second Book work and Junior Fourth classes. This matter was settled satisfactorily to the Board and also to the public in general.

A motion to have the Board meet to-day to inspect the East Ward schools created a little discussion as to the most suitable time of day for the general accommodation of all concerned. It was finally decided to hold a gathering for the purpose above described at 3 p.m., when the members of the Board will meet at the secretary's office. The Board then adjourned.

North American Life

Elsewhere will be Found the Report of the North American Life

Elsewhere will be found the report of the North American Life Assurance Company for the year 1907, which marks another milestone in the history of this progressive institution. The year's operations has been eminently satisfactory, and fully justifies the high position this company occupies in financial circles and in the minds of the public. The assets of the company now total the large sum of $8,736,876, no less than $956,811 having been added during the past year. Further, the net surplus, after payment of $97,304.79 dividends to policy holders and providing for all liabilities, including a contingent fund for the temporary depreciation in securities, has been added to, and now totals $673,556. During the year somewhat over $600,000 was paid out on policyholders' account. The economical handling of the company's affairs during 1907 is attested by the fact, that notwithstanding the large increase in the business the expense account was reduced about $27,000 below that of the previous year.

The Company is represented in this district by Mr. Geo. B. Stevenson, whose commodious office is located at 373 1-2 Water street, Peterborough.

Feet and Hands Frozen

Some of the men employed shovelling snow yesterday had to quit work owing to the severe weather. One man, it is reported, had his feet badly frozen and others their hands badly frost bitten.

The trouble is that many of the men are unaccustomed either to the work or our climate. They are shivering when they go to work, and get colder and colder and have to cease off soon. About one in ten have to lay off and run into stores to get warm.

I.C.R. Calendar Both Useful and Artistic

People's Railway Annually Sends Thousands to Many Parts of the World

Some very handsome and attractive wall calendars have in the past been issued by the Intercolonial Railway, but it is safe to say that all previous ones are eclipsed by the one just to hand for 1908, which is not only exceedingly artistic, but one which should be held in great value by those who desire a calendar for a calendar's sake as well as for its artistic excellence. This is a highly useful calendar, the date tabs being so plain as to be easily read and yet not conspicuous in an ornate sense being blended nicely within a general design which might really be called striking.

It is a twelve sheet calendar a separate sheet for each month, the months commencing in February of this year and ending in January 1909. The design shows a good deal of originality, and for the workmanship the lithographer is much to be commended. The moosehead is there of course. It would not be an I. C. R. calendar, or I. C. R. anything else without the moosehead. So the antlered monarch appears in the upper left hand corner encircled by a shield of blue on which appear the words "The Fast Line", "The People's Railway" in letters of white. The moosehead is in a background of yellow, and a golden gleam playing upon forehead and antlers rather brightens the effect. Surrounding the lower half of the circle and spreading across the face of the calendar is a wreath of maple leaves in green and autumnal tints. The leaves form the frame of a half tone view, a different one appearing on each monthly sheet, being well selected photos representing some of the best scenes along the line. Diagonally across the face of the calendar in large white letters on a background of scarlet, is the word "Intercolonial" and in black letters just over the date tab are the words, Prince Edward Island Railway of Canada. Running vertically on each side of the date in red and black lettering are fitting references to Canada's famous trains, the Maritime Express and the Ocean Limited. The date tabs are printed in plain black letters of a size that ensures their being easily read, and the Sundays and holidays are in red. The calendars are sent out for mailing in cardboard cartons with printed labels which announce that they are sent with the compliments of the "Intercolonial Railway and Prince Edward Island Railway of Canada," and in this connection the word "Canada" appears conspicuously. Thousands of them are sent annually to many parts of the world, and so wide a reputation have the calendars earned that the applications for them yearly grow larger.

FRANCO WAS REMOVED BY THE ADVICE OF BRITAIN

To Pacify Country, British Advised End of Dictatorship--Young King Recovering from Wounds in Face and Arms

Lisbon, Feb. 4.—It is persistently rumored here that ex-Premier Franco, who was thought to have fled to Spain, has taken refuge on board a British cruiser anchored off Cascaes, fifteen miles west of Lisbon, and that by this means he plans to gain Gibraltar or England.

Puentes de Onoro, Spain, Feb. 4.—Reports have come in here that a Portuguese republic has been proclaimed at Oporto and that a provisional government has been established in that city.

Paris, Feb. 4.—The Petit Parisian declares to-day that on Saturday night at a meeting of the Council of State in Lisbon, Premier Franco guaranteed to restore order if he was given full power and allowed to deport three hundred persons. He was aware, however, that his request would not be granted, and he consequently preferred to retire and leave the country.

It is probable, the paper continues, that the influence of the British Government, invoked by Queen Amelie, was mainly instrumental in causing the dictatorship of Franco to be discontinued.

The British battleship Exmouth and a cruiser are now on the way to Lisbon. The rest of the fleet will not go unless needed to protect British residents.

KING IS IMPROVING.

Lisbon, Feb. 4. — The condition of King Manuel, who was shot in the arm and face at the time his father and brother were killed last Saturday, is improving.

The official organ, in its issue of to-day, declares that the funerals of the late King and Crown Prince, will be held on February 8th at ten o'clock on the morning with all the pomp possible at the Royal Panteon of St. Vincent De Lisboa.

The Marquis De Soveral, the Portuguese Minister to Great Britain, has left here for London.

CABINET CHANGED AGAIN

Material changes in the new Cabinet have been made. Only three members of the first Ministry, as announced yesterday, are retained in the Cabinet gazetted to-day. They are Rear-Admiral Francisco Joaquim Ferreira Do Amaral, Jose Mathias Nunes, and Dr. Wenceslao De S. Perra De Lima. Rear-Admiral Ferreira Do Amaral becomes Minister of the Interior and retains the post of Premier. Dr. Lima is still Minister of Foreign Affairs; Manuel Antonio Morcira, Jr., is Minister of Finance; Arthur Alberto Da Campos Henriques is Minister of Justice and Worship; Jose Mathias Nunes retains the portfolio of Minister of War. Vice-Admiral Auguno de Castilho is Minister of Marine and Colonies, and the Count of Herliandos is Minister of Public Works, Industry and Commerce.

Senhor Henriques was Minister of Justice in 1903 and Senhor Moreira was Minister of Marine in 1906.

MUST FREE PRISONERS.

The Progressist-Dissidents voted to-day to support the new government on condition that all political prisoners be freed, that the exiles be permitted to return to Portugal, and that political rights be restored, and that all existing autocratic measures contrary to liberty be repealed.

NO FURTHER DISORDERS.

London, Feb. 4.—The advices received by the British Government from Lisbon confirm the reports that there has been no attempt, either in the city or the country, to create further disorders.

The Portuguese legation this morning received a telegram from Lisbon saying that King Manuel has recovered from the injury sustained at the time his father and brother were killed.

ON REVOLUTION IN PROGRESS.

Lisbon, Feb. 4.—Changes in the new Portuguese Ministry have followed each other in such rapid succession to-day that it has been difficult to keep track of them or to know what the final composition of the Cabinet was to be. The Ministry that was gathered together by Admiral Ferreria Do Amaral was superseded by another early this morning in which three of the Ministers of yesterday were retained and this Cabinet was officially gazetted. A few hours later a third Ministry was announced, and this last Cabinet is declared to be final.

KING HEAVILY INSURED.

Lisbon, Feb. 4.—It is reported here that King Carlos carried life insurance to the amount of $300,000 in an English company, and $22,000 in a Spanish insurance company.

ANXIOUS IN SPAIN.

Madrid, Feb. 4.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria are at present at Seville. They will return to Madrid only in case the situation in Portugal becomes worse, and it should be desirable for them to be near the Ministry and Parliament to facilitate the taking of steps necessary for the protection of Spanish interests.

Japs May Emigrate to South America

Tokio, Feb. 3.—At a sectional committee meeting of representatives today, Baron Ohkuda, vice-foreign minister, in reply to a question on the foreign emigration policy of the government, pointed out that South America was a favorable ground for Japanese emigration, and a legation would be established in Chili to promote better relations between both countries in the matter of trade and emigration.

At another sectional meeting Mr. Oishi asked Minister of War Terauchi why Japan should maintain a large military force and continue military preparations in the presence of assured peace, like the present.

Minister Terauchi replied that even in European countries, where there was not the slightest probability of war, no nation relinquishes in the matter of its national defence. The fullest military equipment was the best guarantee of peace. Japan's armament was not directed against anybody, but the nation must always be prepared against eventualities.

Men Ran for Lives as Tweed Powder Mills Went Up

Every Window in the Town Shattered by Explosion

Caused a Panic in Town

Tweed, Feb. 4.—A terrific explosion which broke well nigh every window in town, and caused scenes of excitement, occurring a mile east from here shortly after seven this morning when the powder mills of the Ontario Powder Company, comprising from twelve to fifteen buildings, were utterly destroyed.

It is fortunate there was no loss of life. The men in the works had only been at their occupation a few minutes when one of the big vats of nitric acid was observed to boil over. It ate its way into the floors and soon the wood caught fire. For the flames to reach the nitro glycerine mixer took only a few minutes. A warning was shouted and the men ran for their lives, never pausing until with an awful deafening roar the buildings were torn from their foundations, lifted up high in the heavens, and completely demolished.

PANIC IN TOWN.

There was considerable of a panic in the town for a little while until some of the powder makers arrived on the run with the glad intelligence that all had been saved. As it is, there will be considerable inconvenience in town, if not suffering, as with all the windows broken, and the thermometer much below zero, it is impossible to keep the houses warm.

Much perishable food stuff has been frozen in the stores, and rendered absolutely useless, the plate glass fronts having been smashed. Business is practically suspended and will be for some days.

The churches of the town are also without windows, and as the glass is somewhat hard to replace, there will not likely be services next Sunday.

BIG CHIMNEY TUMBLED.

The factory of the Steel Trough and Machine Company, which is situated a short distance away from the powder mills, had its big chimney blown down as well as the glass broken.

Across Stoco Lake, a distance of six or seven miles, is the little village of Stoco. It is reported that there was much damage done to windows there, and at Madoc, sixteen miles away, there are some plate glass fronts reported broken.

HEARD 25 MILES AWAY.

Kingston, Feb. 4.—The secretary of the Ontario Powder Company in this city was apprised at eight o'clock this morning that in a big explosion at the works at Tweed at 7.30 several of the buildings had been wrecked, but happily no lives had been lost. Details are awaited. The explosion was heard in Napanee, nearly twenty-five miles away. It is reported that the works caught fire first, and this gave the workers a chance to flee. Buildings a mile away were badly jarred, and windows broken.

WORSE THAN DYNAMITE.

Later.—The buildings of the Powder Company were all wrecked, most of them being completely blown to atoms. The worst explosion took place in the building where the blasting gelignite cartridges are made. The company had just started the manufacture of this powerful explosive, having installed a lot of expensive machinery in December last. This explosive is 50 per cent. more powerful than ordinary dynamite. It is of the consistence of tough paste and comprises about 7 per cent. of nitro cotton to 93 per cent. nitro glycerine and as nitro glycerine congeals at 45 degrees Fahrenheit and freezes at 40 degrees Fahrenheit, it is necessary to maintain an even temperature.

COLD SNAP RESPONSIBLE.

The cause of the explosion is said to be the fact that the extreme cold weather congealed the nitro glycerine, and it entered the mixer and caused the nitric acid to boil and pour over the floor, thus setting the building on fire. The mixers seeing the danger ran through the works calling to the men to run for their lives. The men needed no second warning, but rushed to places of safety, many of them in their shirt sleeves, and as the thermometer registered well below zero, many of them had ears and fingers frozen.

GREAT PROPERTY LOSS.

The escape of the men dwarfs into insignificance the great property loss, and a spirit of thankfulness pervades the town as reports are received that no loss of life has occurred.

Two More Polar Expeditions

London, February 5. — Two more Polar expeditions are announced. Dr. Jean Charcott, the French explorer, is preparing to set out in quest of the South Pole, and the Duke of Abruzzi is planning a voyage to the North Pole. No details of the Duke of Abruzzi's expedition have been divulged. M. Charcott's plans have been divulged. M. Charbott's plans have been arranged by the French Government, which allows him $60,000, in addition to $14,-000 which has been privately subscribed by French and English sympathizers and he is trying to raise another $17,000.

—A concert will be held on Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A. Hall under the auspices of the Strangers' Friendship Club.

Thaw Rebels Already --Pork and Sauerkraut for Harry

Plain Bill of Fare Provided for Patients at Matteawan Asylum

Must Rise at Six a.m.

Matteawan, N.Y., Feb. 4. — Harry K. Thaw was told last night, at the close of his second day as an inmate of the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane, that he would be required to remain in the observation ward, indefinitely, without any special privileges.

Nervous from the reaction of Saturday's exciting incidents and angry with his attendants because he was not permitted to have tobacco in any form, the prisoner exhibited an ugly temper, and charged that the officials of the institution were prejudiced against him.

"I know that it is possible to obtain favors here which are being denied to me." Thaw said to Dr. Kibs. "My counsel will be here to-morrow, and when I confer with them I will have it made known to these responsible for confining me in an ordinary ward that I am not a criminal."

IN CHARGE OF DR. A. T. BAKER.

Dr. A. T. Baker, the assistant superintendent, under whose immediate care the slayer of Stanford White has been placed, visited his patient twice yesterday. It was on the occasion of the last visit that he notified Thaw he would probably be kept in his present quarters as long as he remains in the institution. In an interview with a reporter Dr. Baker said:

"Thaw cannot expect to have any special privileges extended to him while he is here. I have to-day made notes of his condition, but the rules by which I am governed will not permit me to say anything of the result of my observations. He must remain, as any other prisoner coming here under like conditions, in the observation ward until it has been shown that it is safe to grant him more freedom."

"Can your statement be taken to indicate that Thaw's mental condition is not sound at the present time?" the doctor was asked.

"I have already stated that I care not discuss such matters." was the reply.

With the attendants of the asylum Thaw has won, it is said, made a good impression. These are men who keep constant watch over patients confined in the several wards and with some traits the responsibility of reporting any strange actions made to them by their charges.

Thaw sleeps at Matteawan in Ward No. 1 north. He has been assigned permanently in this division, in which there are fifty-seven others besides himself, including men of all nationalities.

He will be required to get up each morning at six o'clock. At 7 he will march single file with 200 others into the general dining room for breakfast. The same routine is observed for the noon meal and also supper, which is served at 5.45 p.m. The meals placed before Thaw yesterday were as follows:

Breakfast — Coffee, bread, oatmeal, with milk and sugar.

Midday — Roast pork, baked potatoes, sauerkraut, coffee and bread.

Supper—Stewed apples, bread and coffee.

Dr. Baker said the new patient had not complained of the plain prison fare, and had seemed to relish his dinner.

Immediately after breakfast Thaw eagerly scanned the New York newspapers that were brought into his ward. After two hours alone in this manner he threw his overcoat over his shoulders, went out into the large enclosed yard to which the inmates have access at all hours of the day, and spent another hour exercising.

TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE ON BURNING STEAMER--19 STOWAYS AND 15 SAILORS MET AWFUL DEATH

Crew of the St. Cuthbert Fought the Flames for Thirty Six Hours

A Gallant Rescue

New York, Feb. 4.—A wireless despatch to The Times from the steamer Cymric gives details of the burning of the steamer St. Cuthbert. Soon after the Cymric sighted the burning vessel, the steamer Cambrian also came up, and the two ships lay by for several hours awaiting a chance to safely lower a boat, the terrific wind which was blowing at the time making it impossible for a boat to live. Finally at two o'clock the Cymric got a boat away in command of First Officer Silvey, and with a crew of six men. After a hard fight with the waves, the boat, which was brilliantly handled, succeeded, aided by the quantities of oil which had been spread on the water, in reaching the side of the burning ship. For ten minutes they lay before a heavy figure was lowered into the boat, followed by a second. Then ten men made their way down a ladder and got into the boat. All were frightfully burned.

THREE PERILOUS TRIPS.

The boat returned safely to the Cymric and the rescued men were hoisted aboard. The crew then made a second and a third trip back to the burning steamer, rescuing 37 in all. On the last trip the boat was stove in by a wave and barely reached the Cymric in safety.

The officers and the crew of the St. Cuthbert had a terrible story to tell. At mid-day Saturday the fire was first discovered, smoke being seen emerging from a ventilator. The first officer rushed to the bridge where Capt. Lewis was, to tell him of the fire, when almost immediately a terrific explosion occurred, blowing off all the hatches in the forward part of the ship and destroying half the bridge. The captain was thrown to the deck, badly injured, and blinded by the flames. The wheelsman was driven away from his post. A boat was immediately lowered, but was smashed, and its crew of fifteen including the third officer, were drowned.

NINE STOWAWAYS PERISHED.

For thirty-six hours the crew fought the flames, but with small success. The foremast melted and fell, throwing a stowaway who was hidden in the "crow's nest" into the flames, which had by this time burned through the forward deck. There were nine stowaways on the ship and all were caught in the forward holds and burned to death without a chance of rescue.

After the fall of the mast the fire was partially checked, but the poisonous fumes of the fusel oil made fighting the fire almost impossible. The ship was loaded with fusel oil, matches, rugs, willow ware, and other inflammable material.

The crew had put up a gallant fight and were rescued only just in time, as the fire was rapidly gaining headway when the Cymric was finally enabled to put off the rescuing boat. All the rescued members of the crew were cared for on the Cymric, and although many of them are badly burned, it is thought all will recover.

SLEW HIS WIFE WHILE DERANGED

London, Ont., Feb. 3. — Charged with killing his wife, James Hartwick, an aged resident of Cobble Hill P. O., West Nissouri Township, supposed to be mentally deranged, was arrested and brought to the county jail at 7 o'clock to-night.

The first intimation received of the crime came when Hartwick went over to a neighbor's residence Sunday morning only half-clad and shivering with the cold, and with eyes staring in a way that convinced the neighbor that the old man was not right in his mind. He asked him to return to his home and go to bed, thinking that a rest would do more to restore him to a normal condition than anything else. The old man replied that he could not go to bed as there was blood on it.

The neighbor's suspicions being aroused, he deemed it advisable to communicate the information to Constable Faircloth, of Thorndale. The latter went out to the house, and, on entering, discovered the body of Mrs. Hartwick lying across the bed, gashed in a horrible manner, as if with a butcher knife. The bed clothing was bespattered with blood, and the body showed that the woman had been dead for some time.

All efforts to elicit information from Hartwick as to his motive for committing the crime were futile. He is said to have been in an unbalanced state of mind for years, and it was feared that during one of his fits of temporary insanity he might commit murder. For the past few weeks he has been more rational than in years and his sudden change has caused a decided sensation in that neighborhood. He will be held pending an inquest, after which it is thought an examination will be made into his mental condition.

Both were well known in Poplar Hill, where they have resided for the past ten years. There had never been any quarrels, so far as the neighbors are aware, and the crime with which he is charged is thought could have only been committed while Hartwick was mentally irresponsible.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new 76-page booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 4, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Feet and Hands Frozen

Some of the men employed shovelling snow yesterday had to quit work owing to the severe weather. One man, it is reported, had his feet badly frozen and others their hands badly frost bitten.

The trouble is that many of the men are unaccustomed either to the work or our climate. They are shivering when they go to work, and get colder and colder and have to cease off soon. About one in ten have to lay off and run into stores to get warm.

I.C.R. Calendar Both Useful and Artistic

People's Railway Annually Sends Thousands to Many Parts of the World

Some very handsome and attractive wall calendars have in the past been issued by the Intercolonial Railway, but it is safe to say that all previous ones are eclipsed by the one just to hand for 1908, which is not only exceedingly artistic, but one which should be held in great value by those who desire a calendar for a calendar's sake as well as for its artistic excellence. This is a highly useful calendar, the date tabs being so plain as to be easily read and yet not conspicuous in an ornate sense being blended nicely within a general design which might really be called striking.

It is a twelve sheet calendar a separate sheet for each month, the months commencing in February of this year and ending in January 1909. The design shows a good deal of originality, and for the workmanship the lithographer is much to be commended. The moosehead is there of course. It would not be an I. C. R. calendar, or I. C. R. anything else without the moosehead. So the antlered monarch appears in the upper left hand corner encircled by a shield of blue on which appear the words "The Fast Line", "The People's Railway" in letters of white. The moosehead is in a background of yellow, and a golden gleam playing upon forehead and antlers rather brightens the effect. Surrounding the lower half of the circle and spreading across the face of the calendar is a wreath of maple leaves in green and autumnal tints. The leaves form the frame of a half tone view, a different one appearing on each monthly sheet, being well selected photos representing some of the best scenes along the line. Diagonally across the face of the calendar in large white letters on a background of scarlet, is the word "Intercolonial" and in black letters just over the date tab are the words, Prince Edward Island Railway of Canada. Running vertically on each side of the date in red and black lettering are fitting references to Canada's famous trains, the Maritime Express and the Ocean Limited. The date tabs are printed in plain black letters of a size that ensures their being easily read, and the Sundays and holidays are in red. The calendars are sent out for mailing in cardboard cartons with printed labels which announce that they are sent with the compliments of the "Intercolonial Railway and Prince Edward Island Railway of Canada," and in this connection the word "Canada" appears conspicuously. Thousands of them are sent annually to many parts of the world, and so wide a reputation have the calendars earned that the applications for them yearly grow larger.

Sprang Through Car Window

Strathroy, Ont., Feb. 3. — The passengers on No. 6 train going east were thrown into a state of excitement this morning as the train was speeding along at a fast rate, about two miles west of Watford, by seeing a man jump clear through the car window, taking part of the window with him.

In talking to some of the passengers previously the man said his name was Olson, and that he was traveling from Chicago to New York. He also stated that his wife was suing for a divorce. He seemed to be laboring under the impression that the sheriff of Chicago was pursuing him, and appeared to be very nervous and excited.

Conductor McCormick was at once apprised of the facts, and when the train arrived at Watford he wired London for instructions, and was ordered to proceed fast.

The last seen of Olson he was running through the fields, making for the woods, apparently none the worse for his experience. He left his hat and grip in the car.

MOTHERS MUST HAVE ABUNDANT STRENGTH

No Mother Can Rear a Healthy Child Unless She is Strong Herself.

A woman's anxieties multiply tenfold about the time the new baby is expected.

If her strength is exhausted and her blood weak, it goes hard in the hour of trial.

Ferrozone should be used because it makes the blood nutritious and rich. By instilling new strength into every part of the body, it uplifts your spirits at once.

Childbirth is certainly made easier by Ferrozone. The following statement expresses the earnest gratitude of Mrs. M. E. Duckworth, of Durham. It is a woman's story—of her own ease—told that other women may profit by her experience;

"Before baby was born I was in a weak, miserable, nervous state. I had no reserve strength, I tried to build up, but nothing helped me. I looked upon the coming day with dread, knowing I was unequal to the occasion.

"Ferrozone braced me up at once. It gave me strength and spirits, brought back my nerve and cheerfulness. From my experience with Ferrozone I recommend it to all expectant mothers."

There is more concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone than you can get from anything else. It supplies what weak systems need. Simply take one tablet at meals and you'll feel benefited in a thousand ways.

Ferrozone makes healthy, virile, vigorous women; try it. 50c per box of fifty tablets, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

NO LONGER FARM ISOLATION

A farm house with a telephone is no longer wholly isolated, although out of sight of every neighbor, for they are all within call. The conditions of the market can be ascertained and goods bought and sold without leaving home, the doctor can be summoned without loss of time, and distant friends can be communicated with at pleasure. The benefits are self-evident, and in a sparsely settled country, such as much of the Canadian west still is, they are simply enormous. The farmer on the prairie may not only be out of sight of neighbors, but an hour's drive distant from the nearest. If he can speak to them, distance, so far as regards many purposes, is annihilated.

WORLD'S SHIPBUILDING INDUSRYT

The statistics of the world's shipbuilding in 1907, just issued by Lloyd's Register, shows a total output of mercantile tonnage by the United Kingdom of 1,743,365, being a decrease of 220,300 tons as compared with 1906, which was the highest on record. The foreign output in 1907, increased by nearly 50,000 tons.

Great Britain, however, still builds more than half he mercantile shipping of the globe, which last year showed a net increase of 1,384,300 tons as compared with an increase of 2,158,000 in 1906. The world's fleet of sailing ships was reduced during the year by 150,000 tons, andt he steam tonnage was increased by 2,164,300.

The United States built in 1907, 475,000 tons, which was a slight increase.

Germany showed rather a serious decline. Last year she built 275,000 tons, as compared with 313,000 in 1906, while at the same time she purchased less from Great Britain.

Great Britain is still a large purchaser of vessels built abroad. Another after of great discontent in that country is the large number of foreigners employed as seamen on the British mercantile marine, numbering a total of forty thousand, with an annual wage list of ten million dollars. While the question of the unemployed is praising heavily ashore this considered unfortunate, and the British Naval League is taking active steps to agitate the utilization of the unemployed to take the place of aliens on the ships.

The Pittsburg Railway lays off its men two days a week in turn so as to give all its staff partial employment. All the men cannot have work all the time, but by this means all may secure employment for part of the time. Possibly the method could be wisely adopted by many other enterprises.

Trade Journals for Peterboro

It seems that Peterborough is rapidly becoming not only the location of Canada's rapidly growing family of industries, but also a home of several leading trade home publications. Among the most recent additions to the press of Peterborough are the Canadian Farming World; the Canadian Horticulturist and the Canadian Florist. The machinery is being installed now.

The establishment of these papers in Peterborough will mean an annual expenditure in the city of $100,000.

FATHER AND SON.

Pathetic Tragedy of the War Between the States.

Not all the sad stories of wartime come from the battlefield. Many a heartbreak is not recorded on the list of the killed and wounded. The civil war knew no more tragic occurrance than the following incident, taken from the New York Sun: A soldier had enlisted from his home in Georgia, where his father remained undisturbed through the struggle. The young man fought through the war without a scratch, save a slight wound which left him a little deaf. This affliction he never mentioned in his letters.

After the surrender he sent his father word that he would reach home about a certain date. Travel then was uncertain, and he could not tell just when he would arrive.

His father prepared to receive him. He had brought out the best plate, which had been secreted for a long time, and with gold which had been exhumed he bought such substantials and delicacies as the southern market at that time afforded. As many of the old time neighbors as were living in the vicinity were invited to the home coming.

The young soldier arrived on the plantation the night before the earliest date he had mentioned. It was late, and the family had retired, but the dog heard the noise and began to bark. The sound roused the father, who rose and got his shotgun. The country was overrun at the time with stragglers and sneak thieves. The father, gun in hand, went to the door, saw the approaching figure and challenged it. The young man, being deaf, made no reply, but still advanced, whereupon the father raised his gun and fired. His son fell, shot through the heart.

It was a pitiful sight to see that almost crazed father carrying his lifeless son into the home which had been made ready to welcome him. The next day the guests arrived. Instead of joyously greeting the returned soldier they gazed at the still form, wrapped in the flag for which the young man had bravely fought. Every private burial ground had in it a grave made by the war, but no funeral like that ever took place in the vicinity or possibly in the whole south.

HAILSTONES.

The Part Electricity is Said to Play in Their Formation.

The formation of hail through electrical action, according to the theory of scientists attached to the weather bureau at Washington, is an interesting and even wonderful process.

The wind draws out a cloud into a long, narrow strip. In that form, owing to the great amount of surface exposed to the air, the cloud evaporates rapidly, and the rapid evaporation produces intense cold. Dry particles of snow are then formed, and these, by friction with the water drops, quickly become charged with negative electricity. But the water drops themselves carry positive electricity, and, since negative attracts positive, a film of water is formed upon each snow particle and is instantly frozen into a layer of ice.

At this thickness its outer surface remains moist, the water not freezing there so rapidly, whereupon the electrical charge changes from negative to positive, and the particle is repelled by the water drops and driven to the outer parts of the cloud. Here the increased cold covers it with snow again, and friction charges it anew with negative electricity. Repulsion is now once more changed for attraction, and the particles rush back into the cloud, receiving upon their surfaces another film of water, which is turned into second ice layers.

Thus the growing hailstone darts zigzag through the clouds, piling up its alternate layers of snow and ice until gravitation gains control and sends it, with a jingling crowd of its fellows, spinning to the ground.

The Spanish Duchess.

A duchess enters a shop. Do you imagine she will be more courteously received than a little milliner? Not at all, for both are instantly made at home and treated to the hidalgo's finest manner. But she will never be the less a duchess because she and the shopkeeper are on the best of terms. Her unconsciousness of her rank in everyday relations, which would stupefy an English duchess, comes from the fact that she belongs to a prouder race. Had she a mind to sport her coronet in a shop the owner and his attendants would speedily make short work of her decorative dignity. To them it would simply mean an underbred and foolish exhibition, for impertinence and vulgar haughtiness are not defects the Spaniards will tolerate.

An Old Timer.

In an old diary bearing the date of 1775 several pages are devoted to cash accounts. On one of these is a quaintly worded statement, duly witnessed and dated.

The spelling is not particularly commendable, but spelling was an uncertain art in those days and even now is a gift denied to some:

Be Sure

Do not trust too much to your own judgment in medical matters. Consult your doctor frequently. He knows best.

Hard colds, hard coughs, severe bronchitis, weak throats, weak lungs. We wish you would ask your doctor if he knows of anything better for these troubles than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. We believe it is the best medicine you could possibly take. But ask your doctor, and thus be sure to make no mistake. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

A BISHOP'S ADVICE.

Parents Responsible For Happy Conditions In the Home.

Bishop Potter of New York has taken his able pen in hand and is writing a remarkably interesting series of "Talks to Women" in Harper's Bazar. In one of the numbers of the Bazar he has this to say, among other things, on the topic of "The Modern Home:"

"The modern home is just what the heads of it make it, and the question which most of all concerns the republic today is the question, What are the fathers and mothers in American homes teaching their children? It may indeed be said that the great differences in our American homes—differences of condition, differences of privilege, differences of opportunity—will make that question very hard to answer, hard perhaps, but not impossible, for the one thing that determines the influence of the home is its spirit, and the spirit is determined by quite other things than material resources or intellectual or social privileges and opportunities. A young man and woman may begin married life with a tolerably clear idea of such a life, however hazy may be their notions as to particular features of it. And the tragedy of the modern home consists in this, that the primary aim seems to be to make it a place for having a 'good time.'"

HOW TO KEEP HEALTHY.

Keep cheerful. Hunting trouble ruins more nerves than trouble when it is found.

Keep alert minded. There is nothing like getting in a mental rut to make one a hypochondriac.

Keep clean. The close connection of the pores of the skin and good health is being better understood yearly.

Keep active. The inert, lazy woman who won't exercise is usually the one who is always growling about her health.

Keep your feet warm. More cold is taken through the ankles than in any other way, so do not wear low shoes all winter.

Keep out of debt. If there is anything warranted to worry one to death it is money troubles. Care will even kill the nine lived cat, and what gives more care than a bunch of debts with no money to pay them?

Keep away from drugs. The fondness of our American women for dosing themselves on the slightest provocation is a menace to the health of the race. We deserve everything bad the president of Harvard said of us as regards the medicine habit.

The Uncertainty of Things.

This is the great misfortune of life—that it is changeable and never remains in the same state. "Man," says Job, "that is born of woman is of few days and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower and is cut down. He fleeth also as a shadow and continueth not."

What is more changeable? We are told that the chameleon assumes in an hour many colors. The sea of the Euripus has an evil name for its many changes, and the moon takes every day its own peculiar form. But what is all this compared to the changes of man? What Proteus ever assumed so many different forms as man does every hour? Now sick, now in health; now content, now discontent; now sad, now joyous; now timid, now hopeful; now suspicious, now credulous; now peaceful, now recalcitrant; now he wishes, now he wishes not, and many times he knows not what he wants. In short, the changes are as numerous as the accidents in an hour, so that every one of them turns him upside down. The past gives him pain, the present disturbs him, and the future causes him agony.—Luis de Granada.

Bathless Rural England.

Actual facts upset many a scientific theory. Theoretically, nine-tenths of the rural population ought not to attain maturity; as in fact, they are the longest lived community in the empire. We ought to vary our diet, and, if not sworn vegetarians, take so much meat to so much vegetables and the rest. But the countryman does not take meat—or hardly ever. He cannot afford it. His wages are higher than his father's were, but then, meat is proportionately costlier than was formerly the case. He is for the most part a vegetable feeder. He should frequently bathe, but he does not bathe at all. "How is it, then, that these men live so long and so rarely experience illness?" one of the kind was asked the other day. "Well, you see, sir," was the answer, "we don't need no baths. In the summer we sweats so at our work that that serves for all the year round!" Rural England does not bathe. Colliery England and chimney sweeping England do.—St. James' Gazette.

Chicken, Creole Style.

Doesn't this suggestion in the Ladies' World for chicken, creole style, sound good?

Wash one-half pint of rice in cold water until no more of the flour discolors the water; then place the rice in a quart of boiling chicken or veal stock and cook until it is tender; season with salt and white pepper. Drain out the rice and pack it into a buttered ring mold; then invert on a hot dish and let the ring slip out. In the meantime have cooked chicken cut into small pieces and reheated in a tomato puree, seasoned with browned onion, to which add one green pepper cut into small pieces after the seeds are removed. Season with pepper if liked quite hot, salt and butter and fill the center of the rice ring. For a company meal the green pepper can be omitted, and two canned red Spanish peppers can be put through the mincer and after heating disposed on top of the chicken when it is placed in the ring. A sprig of parsley should decorate the side of the dish.

Medical Treatment at Night.

Medical treatment almost wholly confined to the daytime is thought by Dr. Lauder, a French physician, to be a serious mistake. Disease is most active at night—asthma, epilepsy and other attacks coming then almost entirely—and observations have shown that medicine administered in the night hours, or both night and day, acts better and with greater effect than an equal dose all given in the daytime. It is explained that in the nocturnal fasting state the body absorbs remedies with greater energy, while they are eliminated less quickly. In many instances disease has resisted medication by day, but has yielded to night treatment.

Both Were Collectors.

A local newspaper artist got a letter one day from a man over in Indiana who said he was making a collection of sketches. "I have drawings from well known newspaper artists in nearly every state in the Union," the Indiana man wrote, "but I have none from Ohio. I have seen some of your work, and I think it is good. If you will send me some little sketch for my collection I shall have it framed."

The artist noticed from the letterhead that the Indiana man was connected with a bank in one of the small towns over in the state of literature. That gave him a hunch, and he wrote back as follows:

"I am making a collection of ten dollar bills. I haven't secured specimens from every state in the Union, but I have several tens and a few twenties, and I am particularly anxious to have a ten dollar bill from Indiana. I notice that you are employed in a place where ten dollar bills are kept, and if you send me one for my collection I shall be glad to have it framed."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Novel Candle Shade.

So many persons find the light from a candle or lamp trying on the eyes that they always insist on shades of some sort.

A pretty and novel affair for a candle may be made of strong wire bent into a rectangular shape, six inches wide at the bottom, with the inner side twelve inches tall and the outer seven and one-half. This will give a decided slope to each top.

Make two of these frames and cover them neatly with silk muslin or a very thin liberty silk.

This cover may then be painted or it can be studded in conventional designs in sequins. Tie the backs together with bows of narrow ribbon for hinges, and around the top and two shorter sides sew a box plaiting of narrow lace.

The candle is, of course, placed between the two leaves when they are opened wide. Extreme care must be taken to observe this precaution, as a fire might easily result from such inflammable materials in close proximity to flame.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all Dealers.

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

AUTOMATIC JUMPER.

An Amusing Experiment With a Card and Glass of Water.

Take an ordinary tumbler and pour water into it until it is three-quarters full. Then carefully wipe the edge of the glass so that it may be perfectly dry before you begin your little experiment. Place upon the top of the glass, as if you intended to protect the contents from dust, a playing card made of good, firm paper with the printed figure turned down toward the water. The card must be large enough to extend just over the edge of the glass all around.

Let the card remain on the glass for half an hour or so, and you will then see that the moist vapor rising from the liquid has caused the card to swell or arch in the center. Then take the card carefully by one of its corners and replace it on the glass with the arched side reversed.

Having cut out of paper the figure of a little man and inserted it in a slit in the top of a small vial cork, place the cork carefully upon the center of the card and wait. Presently the moist vapor will make the card swell in the opposite direction, and with a little clap up will fly your manikin and your cork in the air.

BEATEN BY A BELLOWS.

How a Horn Blowing Duke Was Bilivered by a Blacksmith.

Once upon a time there was a French duke who was anxious to excel every other member of the nobility living in his neighborhood.

The duke really was the best huntsman, he could tell the best story and sing the best song, and he could blow his hunting horn louder and longer than any one else.

He so enjoyed winding his horn that every morning he betook himself to the highest turret of his castle and there made himself blue in the face by his tooting.

For the people who lived near by it was torture to hear this fearful din each day. Finally a count, who lived near, hit upon a plan. He fastened a huge horn on the parapet about his castle and stationed behind it a giant blacksmith with a monster bellows.

When the duke blew his horn the next morning he was greeted by a louder blast from the count's castle. Try as he would, he couldn't make nearly so loud a sound as the horn blown by the bellows.

Imagining himself beaten by some great rival, the duke would not be comforted. His spirit was crushed. He pined away and at last died.—Philadelphia North American.

The Bird on the Wire.

Most boys and girls have all seen birds sitting not only unharmed, but perfectly at ease, on electric wires through which a current was running strong enough to kill a man instantly. The reason is quite simple. A current of electricity is fatal only when it runs through a living thing from one conducting body or medium to another. A man might sit on the wire or hang from it by the hands with safety if his body were not in contact with something else, as, for example, a pole or the earth. The bird is safe because its body is not in contact with anything but the wire.

A Matter of Taste.

Marjorie is very fond of raisins and at the tea table one night was picking them out of her cake and eating them, leaving the crumbled cake. Her sister, thinking she would try the force of a good example, said, "I like my plums in my cake."

"I don't," replied Marjorie. "I likes 'em best in my mouf."

Taking Care of Kitty.

They brushed the clothes, they beat the clothes,
One sunny April day—
Their winter clothes, I mean—and then
They packed them all away
In paper boxes tied around
With very strongest strings,
First freely sprinkling them with some
Tobacco dust and camphor gum.

And when, their labor done, they took
Their tea and toasted bread,
"Why, where is kitty?" some one asked.
And "I know," Lulu said.
"She's in my dollies' biggest trunk;
I brushed and beated her;
There can't not any moths, I dess,
Det into her nice fur.

"She scratched my fingers when I put
The camphor stuff about;
Dive me some toast that's buttered froo."
They left it all to her and flew
To get poor kitty out.

KIER HARDIE IN INDIA.

Feared In London Mutiny May Take Form of Gigantic Strike.

Considerable apprehension is felt in London as to the result of Kier Hardie's ebullitions on the inflammable temperaments of India.

The wordy Labor leader has told the natives of Bengal that conditions in India are worse than in Russia, and the atrocities committed there, if known in England would provoke more horror than did the Turkish outrages in Armenia.

All India, with its teeming millions, certainly had been disturbed during the last few months; there had been a long series of murderous assaults upon Europeans, and attempts had been made to corrupt the native troops. One authority, whose views has attracted considerable attention, makes the prediction that, while there will be "no second Indian rising in our time, there is likely to be something more dangerous and baffling."

"The modern weapon of revolution," says this authority, "is the strike. In one way caste is, strictly speaking, a form of trade union. There are among the Hindoos the bakers' caste, the cooks' caste, the washerman caste, and so on. No baker may wash his own clothes; no washerman may prepare his own food. If the Hindoos strike, what would become of the native army and the whole business of India? Again, the telegraph department is mostly Hindoo, and the postal service is entirely Hindoo. Indeed, almost all the subordinate officials in India are Hindoo. No strike conceivable in England could have half the effect as a caste strike in India.

"The engine drivers are Parsees, Eurasians, and Mohammedans, but everywhere else the Hindoo has increased. At present the Mohammedans are numerically only a thirtenth part of the subordinate officials. This is the danger of the service—the vast predominance of the Hindoo—and if omens are true, he naturally will use his advantages while he can. When Chandra Pal was arrested, he said the time to strike had not yet come. He meant strike in both its meanings."

Made Money in Colonies.

A gentleman who admits to having succumbed to what he is pleased to call "that Carnegie feeling" is visiting Manchester.

Stylishly dressed and wearing a fur-trimmed overcoat, the unknown visitor approached a policeman at midnight and asked to be directed to a neighborhood in which common lodging-houses abound. The constable was startled by the request, but gave the desired information.

Shortly afterwards the policeman noticed the gentleman walking up Deansgate with a little crowd of wretchedly-clad and half-starved creatures around him. Invited to explain, the man with the fur coat said:

"The fact of the matter is I have only arrived back in Manchester today after an absence of eighteen years in the Colonies. My last night in Manchester was spent on one of the infirmary seats. I have just been up there now to invite as many outcasts as I could find to have a bed and a square meal."

STEAM YACHTS.

These Expensive Luxuries Are Numerous in This Country.

Twenty-five dollars an hour seems a big amount to pay for one's pleasure, but with the millionaire expense is of no consideration where his comfort is concerned. He has taken to yachting with a zeal that is increasing every year, and his floating home is a marvel of beauty—his "supreme luxury."

There are registered in the United States over 1,200 seagoing steam yachts, representing approximately $70,000,000. Of these more than 300 fly the flag of the New York Yacht club. Others steam under the colors of the Corinthian Yacht club of Marblehead or the Atlantic Yacht club or smaller clubs. There are more steam yachts registered in this country than in England or France or Germany.

Probably not one of the dozen big steam yachts in the New York Yacht club fleet cost to build and equip less than $750,000. But the cost of maintenance is quite another story. No one knows, of course, just how much it costs Mr. Morgan to keep the Corsair going. But if such a yacht, for example, carrying a crew of sixty men, is kept in commission for six months out of the twelve the payroll will run close to $30,000. To feed the crew, to pay for coal and oil, for docking and other necessary expenses will call for an expenditure of from $30,000 to $50,000 or more. Then there is the expense of entertaining the owner, his family and his guests on cruise, a matter of $20,000, bringing the total cost very near the $100,000 mark. Never in all history was another such costly and luxurious vehicle. Any one of a dozen American yachts now skimming the seven seas is costing its owner from $15,000 to $20,000 a month. This means an outlay running from $500 to $700 a day, or approximately $25 an hour. If the owner is entertaining a party of eight persons on a foreign cruise, exactly $75 a day, or $5,000 per cruise, is spent on each individual guest.—Broadway Magazine.

Thread From Wood Fiber.

Xyloin is the name given to a thread manufactured by a German firm at Plauen, to a kind of paper thread made from wood fiber. According to the descriptions given in various technical publications, this new product can be used in the looms in the same way that cotton and linen yarns are used. The thread is not brittle and has a hard surface. It has great tensile strength and is capable of being woven into all manner of cloth from pocket-handkerchiefs to floor carpets. Xyloin neither shrinks nor stretches in any appreciable degree, and moisture has no particular effect upon it. It is susceptible to dyes to a considerably greater extent than cotton and linen, while the price is only one third that of the former and one-tenth that of the latter material.

A Corporal's Lesson.

During the Revolutionary war the captain of a little band of soldiers was giving orders about a heavy beam that they were endeavoring to raise to the top of some military works which they were repairing. The weight was almost beyond their power, and the voice of the superintendent was often heard shouting at them. An officer not in military costume was passing and asked the superintendent why he did not render a little aid. The latter, astonished, turned around, with the pomp of an emperor, and said, "Sir, I am a corporal!"

"You are, are you? I ask your pardon, Mr. Corporal," and, taking off his hat, he bowed, saying, "I was not aware of that."

Upon this he dismounted and pulled until great drops of perspiration stood on his forehead. When the beam was raised, turning to the little great man, he said, "Mr. Corporal, when you have another such job and not enough men send for your commander in chief and I will gladly come and help you a second time."

The little corporal was thunderstruck. It was Washington who thus addressed him.

Not His Class.

"In what walk of life is your friend?"

"I shouldn't say he was in any. He is a chauffeur."—Baltimore American.

Persian Ideas.

An American traveler in Persia learned that the common soldiers of that country supposed that the English practice of firing a salute at the burial of a soldier had for its object the driving away of devils. Other mistaken impressions no less absurd he reports in his "Persian Life and Customs."

A village soldier asked me if I knew of dog worshipers. I told him I had heard of fire worshipers, cow worshipers and the like, but not of dog worshipers. He said he had seen some in Teheran. Some foreigners there had fed dogs at their tables, had washed and clothed them, fondled them in their laps and taken them riding in their carriages. Were they not dog worshipers?

An English sea captain, whose ship touched at Bushire, took a horseback ride through the streets of the city, but made so poor a display of horsemanship as to astonish and amuse the people. The next day a vender of fruits came on board the ship and said to the captain:

"I have made such an explanation as to free you from all reproach. There is no one who does not think that you are an expert rider, as becomes one of a nation of horsemen."

"And how did you do that?" asked the captain.

"I told them you were drunk."

Dr. Todd's Joke.

An amusing example of the Irishman's pronunciation occurs in a story told of the late Dr. Todd, the Irish archaeologist, who, although a great scholar, was not above perpetrating a practical joke. The London Spectator tells the story and says:

A very learned Englishman went to Dublin to examine some manuscripts in the library of Trinity college and was of course introduced to Dr. Todd, who one day in conversation told him that there was in Trinity college a curious instance of the survival of a habit dating from the time of the Danes; that at a certain hour of the afternoon—I think 6 o'clock—a porter went the round of the college ringing a bell and calling out in a loud voice, "The Dane's in the hall," when all the students rushed from their rooms to repel the invaders. So the learned but somewhat incredulous Englishman repaired to the college at 6 o'clock, and, sure enough, what Dr. Todd had told him came to pass, which he gravely related on his return to England. The summons of course referred to the dean.

The Three Fates.

The names of the three fates were Clotho, Lachesis and Atropos. To express the influence which they were believed to exercise on human life from birth to death they were represented as spinning a thread of gold.

—It seems that Belleville, as well as Peterborough, is providing for its poor with free soup dispensaries.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two requirements must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood allowance.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives restored vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—Members of All Saints' Church Men's Association met last night.

—The Board of Education met last night in the secretary's office. Full particulars on first page.

—Yesterday morning the police on station duty were entertained (?) by a terrific scrap between two collie dogs in front of the station door.

—The meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee was held yesterday afternoon at four o'clock to consider some important matters.

—The Young Men's Literary Society of the T. A. S. held their regular meeting last night in the T. A. S. rooms. A good programme was given.

Notwithstanding the extreme cold weather of yesterday the Fresh Air Club met and elected two new members. Mr. James Conners was elected president for the current year.

—To-night the general public will be admitted for a small consideration to the Ladies' Art Exhibition in the former Bank of Montreal Building.

—The Young Men's Literary Society of the T. A. S. held their regular meeting in the T. A. S. rooms yesterday evening at eight o'clock, instead of Wednesday evening.

—The Mission Study Class of the George Street Methodist Church was held at the residence of Mr. Robert Mann, Aylmer street, yesterday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The weather man promises warmer weather, but late last night and up until 4 o'clock this morning the thermometer hovered around 25 and 26 below zero.

—Messrs. Marks Bros. open for a week next Monday, supporting Miss May A. Bell-Marks at the Grand Opera House. Mr. Ernest Marks was in the city yesterday in the interests of the company.

—Nothing doing at the police court yesterday morning; in fact, it was, to use a slang, but, judging by the weather, applicable expression it was "a frost" for the reporters who went to the local seat of the administration of justice looking for news.

—The Minden Echo says: Local option dryness is becoming quite popular, and as it requires no irrigation, and saves so many a family more than the price of their flour each year, will probably reach our town by-and-by. It appears to be coming via Coboconk and Kinmount.

—The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S. will be held on Friday evening, Feb. 7th, when the members of the society will have the pleasure of hearing a very interesting lecture on "The Study of History," by Rev. Father Galvin. An excellent musical programme will also be presented.

The regular monthly meeting of Diamond Lodge, No. 80, was well attended. The lodge unanimously endorsed a communication from the Grand Lodge. Bros. Dr. Marshall, Kindred, McWilliams and Rev. A. H. Brace gave addresses. In connection with this meeting it might be noted that much public interest was centered on the county meeting last night.

Immigration for Year

Ottawa, February 5. — The total immigration into Canada last year was 277,876, as compared with 215,912 in 1906, an increase of 61,464. Those arriving at ocean ports numbered 230,825, an increase of 55,695. Immigration from the United States totalled 44,851, a decrease by 7,231, or eleven per cent. The increase by ocean ports was 45 per cent., and the total increase 28 per cent.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Good Work Done in the Cause of Art

Last night that really splendid exhibition in the former Bank of Montreal building at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets was fairly well attended. Of course the state of the weather is to be blamed for any shortage in the attendance, as no matter how strong people may be induced with a love of art when the mercury slides down to some 30 below zero (or as a local wag said, "seven below Douro") it is hard to get ladies out to see any exhibit. However, the exhibition of paintings, especially those of the Dutch school, was seen by probably a majority of those in Peterborough conversant in and posted on art. Those who saw the exhibition last night, or those who hugged the home grates, radiators or registers, will to-day and to-morrow take advantage of this unique and commendable display of art. The ladies in charge have every reason for congratulation on the success of their efforts to encourage and foster local talent, and have placed the seed of future art in the nest of present possibilities where the future chick of art will be hatched and afterwards fostered by those teaching or taught the world-wide and ancient love of the beautiful. Those in charge of the present exhibition are performing a task that, whilst pleasing to those doing the work, will result in creating a general idea of art and consequent love for its doctrine and principles that, otherwise, might have died before recognizing the possibilities and rewards attending its study and practice.

More Applicants for Charity

Yesterday the number applying for relief at the soup kitchen was greater than on the inaugural day. It seems that Peterborough with all its prosperity as generally acknowledged has a large number of people out of work and ungalled to seek charity of those able to give it.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the highest commendation from the leading medical writers and practitioners of all the different schools, and a little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

The North American Life Assurance Company

Held its Annual Meeting at its Home Office, in Toronto, on Thursday, the 30th day of January, 1908. The President, Mr. John L. Blaikie, was appointed Chairman, and the Managing Director, Mr. L. Goldman, Secretary, then the following report of the business of the Company for the year ended December 31st, 1907, was submitted:—

New Business — The policies issued for the year, together with these revived, amounted to the sum of $4,622,635.00 being greater than the new business transacted for the previous year.

Saving in Expenses — The business has continued to be conducted on a conservative basis, resulting in a further reduction in the ratio of expenses to premium income of over two per cent. This percentage of reduction has resulted in a material saving in expenses of $26,918.17, as compared with 1906.

Cash Income — The cash income for the year from premiums, interest, etc. was $1,815,097.69, showing the satisfactory increase for the year of $68,553.69.

Payments to Policyholders — The amount paid on policyholders' account was $607,347.44, and of this amount the sum of $266,825.95 represents payments for dividends, matured endowments and investment policies.

Assets — The assets increased during the year by the sum of $936,811.63, and now amount to $8,735,876.08.

Net Surplus Increased — After making ample provision for all liabilities including the special Contingent Fund of $158,17 3.35 to provide for the temporary depreciation in the value debentures, bonds and stocks, and paying the sum of $97,304.79 for dividends to policyholders during the year, there was an addition made to the net surplus which now amounts to $673,556.04 the year's work from every standpoint being highly satisfactory.

Assets Safely Invested — The assets of the Company continue to be as heretofore, invested in the best class of securities; a detailed list of these will be published with the Annual Report for distribution.

Monthly Audit — A monthly examination of the books of the Company was made by the Auditors, and at the close of the year the made a thorough scrutiny of all the securities held by the Company. In addition to the examination of the securities by the Auditors, a committee of the Board, consisting of two Directors, made an independent audit each quarter.

The Officers, Field Representatives and Office Staff deserve to be commended for their efficiency and diligence.

L. GOLDMAN, Managing Director. J. L. BLAIKIE, President.

The Annual Report, showing marked proofs of the solid position of the Company, and containing a list of the securities held, and also those upon which the Company has made collateral loans, will be sent in due course to each policyholder.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated, for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, an honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

FOR EVERY FORTUNE BUILT BY A WISE INVESTOR, A FINANCIAL COWARD GOES TO THE POORHOUSE

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

ANOTHER BLIZZARD STRIKES THIS WAY--TRAINS ARE CANCELLED

Another blizzard swept over Ontario yesterday evening. Trains on both railroads coming into Peterborough last night were cancelled, as the lines were blocked. The country roads are impassable, and it is impossible for farmers to get to the city.

The Quaker Oats Co. had to lay off hands owing to the scarcity of grain to keep the mills running. The storm has been pretty general throughout Canada.

On Monday it began operations in California. Tuesday night its centre was in the State of Kansas, but it spread as far as Chicago, with a flank movement into Manitoba. It reached here yesterday evening. It will probably equal last Friday's fall, and will be about as general throughout the province.

The snowstorm brought with it a gale of wind and higher temperature. In Chicago Tuesday night the wind was blowing fresh from the southeast, but the temperature was 24 above zero.

The cold wave Peterborough has been under made way for the snowstorm by travelling eastward.

Ambulance with Patients Upsets

Yesterday the snow-congested streets of our city were responsible for a most unfortunate upset of the Dan Spence ambulance in the southern part of the city. It seems that a call was made for the ambulance to take a woman in the south end, who was dangerously ill, to the Nicholls Hospital. The patient brought her baby with her. The roads in that part of the city are very bad and the drivers had to use the greatest precaution. The horses in rounding a corner caused the ambulance to upset. The drivers were thrown into the road, but were soon on their feet.

The woman was lying on the side of the vehicle, and w rapping her coat about her, and putting a shawl on the child. She was not badly hurt nor was the baby.

After the lady emerged the drivers called on men who were passing to assist them in raising the ambulance. After considerable work the vehicle was once more placed on all fours. The woman and child resumed their places inside and the journey to the hospital was continued without further trouble. The fault was not on the part of the drivers, but on the roads.

New Bowling Alley to be Opened

Mr. J. B. Hay, late sporting editor of the Toronto News, was in the city yesterday making arrangements for establishing a big bowling alley in the old Opera House. Mr. Hay will take up his residence in this city, soon, and the work of transforming the old hall into a bowling alley will be carried ahead as rapidly as possible. "Joe" is very popular in the city and will undoubtedly be most successful in his new enterprise.

Death of Mr. Chas. J. McDonald

Mr. Charles Joseph McDonald, late Principal of St. Peter's Separate School, passed away on Tuesday night at St. Joseph's Hospital. The deceased was taken with bronchial trouble about three weeks ago. He was born in Smith township. He later attended the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, after which he went to the Model school in Norwood in 1900. Last midsummer he was appointed principal of St. Peter's school, as his brother's successor, and was very successful in his work there.

Besides his mother he is survived by eight brothers and four sisters.

The funeral will be held on Friday morning at ten o'clock from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Anglesey, 289 Perry street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and from thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

Other Colonies May Take Cheese Trade from Canada

The heavy receipts of New Zealand and Australian butter and cheese are now the features of the London produce market, as shown by the following list of the shipments due on the English market during the next month:

The shipments show to what an extraordinary extent the dairy industry has progressed in the two colonies mentioned. While the shipments of Canadian butter are year by year showing a decline, these countries are increasing their exports at a tremendous rate, and now that they have started in to manufacture cheese, those who are interested in the trade in Canada will have to meet the competition or take second place in the cheese trade, as they have already done in the butter industry.

The quality of the New Zealand butter is generally considered to be A1, but arriving as it does at a time when there is a scarcity on the English market, it realizes good prices.

The cheese, however, sells at an average of two cents less than the Canadian article, and, of course, is not so fine in quality.

Judge Asks Death Sentence as Gen. Stoessel's Fate

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—The final session of the Stoessel court-martial was held to-day. Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, together with General Fock and Gen. Reiss, are being tried for the surrender of the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese.

In his summing up to-day the judge advocate demanded that the court impose the death sentence upon Stoessel, Fock and Reiss—upon Stoessel as the responsible agent for the shameful surrender of the fortress and the cowardly ending of its glorious defence, and upon Fock and Reiss as the men who imparted and abetted him. For Gen. Smirnoff, who was declared guilty of not having taken measures to prevent the surrender, the judge advocate asked the severe punishment of imprisonment at forced labor for four years.

Gen. Guersky paid the highest tribute to the brave defenders of the fortress, several hundred of whom were seated in the crowded court room. He said it was necessary to draw a sharp distinction between them and their leaders, men who had covered their names with ineffaceable shame. He reviewed history in vain for a precedent to show failure to punish the men responsible for such a surrender, and he declared that their undeserved decorations should be torn from the breasts of the uniforms they had disgraced. Continuing, the judge advocate pooh-hooed the idea of a gunpowder explosion, which Gen. Stoessel had advanced in justification of the surrender, and said that even the evilness in Port Arthur had no fear of such an occurrence. The passions of the early days of the siege had grown silent, he said, to a quiet fulfilment of duty by Russian and Japanese alike.

Counsel for the defendants will make their answers to-morrow. M. Myatlieff speaking first on behalf of Gen. Stoessel.

FOUGHT HEROICALLY.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 5.—The court-martial of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel was resumed yesterday and the court began the taking of testimony regarding the actual capitulation of Port Arthur. The general is charged with having surrendered the fortress to the Japanese before its resources were exhausted. The court adjourned over the Russian New Year, before reaching the most vital point in the case, namely, General Stoessel's motive in opening negotiations for capitulation. Stoessel is expected to address the court personally on this point.

Colonel Brieatoff, a member of General Smirnoff's staff, testified that the Japanese conditions had been accepted without discussion.

The testimony of other officers was more favorable to General Stoessel. Colonel Golitzusky, commander of the fort, called the Eagle's Nest, maintained that the fall of this fort meant the end of Port Arthur, as this position commanded every other defence.

It has been shown that the Russian soldiers who defended certain important points, died almost to a man and the allegations made by General Smirnoff that the fortifications were abandoned without a struggle clearly have been disproved. The men in court yesterday were moved to tears when Colonel Golitzusky related how the garrison under his command was time and again annihilated by the fearful rain of Japanese shells and bullets. Fresh volunteers, however, always were ready to move forward. The artillery on the summit had been disabled before the storm broke. The Russians repulsed the Japanese again and again with bayonets, hand grenades, swords and even their bare hands. When the Japanese advanced the sixth time the Russian garrison, which was then reduced to one officer and two men, was forced to abandon the position. Many wounded men were left behind. These the Japanese bayoneted mercilessly. The commandant of Port No. 2 brought forth from his position only ten men of the original garrison of five hundred, the relief detachment of sailors and sharpshooters sent in to this fort having been wiped out to a man.

Art Exhibition is Well Attended

The great interest, partly created and certainly fostered by the Peterborough Women's Art Association, in the various branches of local art work is evident in the good attendance these cold days at the exhibition held in the old Bank of Montreal building. To-morrow the closing day of the present exhibition, the latter will be open in the evening as well as during the daylight hours.

The exhibition of homespuns is greatly appreciated, and many purchases from this department have been made. The tea yesterday afternoon at four o'clock was in charge of Mrs. D. Hughes-Charles and Mrs. Rush. This afternoon it will be in charge of Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Aylmer.

PLEA FOR CHILDREN UP TO PARLIAMENT

Labor Unions Want All Under 14 in United Kingdom Kept by Public

Enormous Expense

London, January 6.—The British parliament at its approaching session is expected to pass an act granting a pension of $1.25 per week for every man and woman, rich or poor, lazy or industrious, drunk or sober, in the United Kingdom, who passes the age of 65 years. When their grandfathers and grandmothers are taken care of in that way, the labor unions and the socialistic organizations will insist that all children 14 years and under shall also be supported by the public treasury.

They reason in this way: If it is lawful and proper for the state to give the children of its subjects a free education, it should provide sufficient nourishment to put them in condition to make the best of the instruction offered them. Again, if it is proper and lawful for the state to provide books for the education of the children, there should be no objection to providing boots and shoes, underclothing, jackets, trousers, dresses and overcoats to keep them warm and preserve their health, so that they can make good use of the books. And, still further, if it is proper and lawful to furnish lunches at school recess to poor children, why is it not equally proper and lawful to furnish them breakfasts and dinner? By this process of reasoning the advocates of the state maintenance convince themselves that all children between 5 and 14 years of age should be fed, clothed and educated by the national government in order to make healthy, intelligent, honest and industrious citizens of them. In several countries ... ...ed for children in the public schools because so many parents are unable to give them nourishing food.

This is done in Sweden and Norway, in Switzerland, in many places in Germany, Belgium and France, in certain sections of London and several of the provincial cities of England noonday meals are supplied both at public and private expense. Last year the Salvation Army which never gives anything away, on the theory that too much generosity creates pauperism, sold 250,000 children wholesome lunches of bean soup and bread for a ha'penny, or 1 cent in our money, each. These meals are furnished from wagons that drive up to the schools in the poorer districts at recess time. The man in charge dips out generous portions from enormous kettles as the children bring their buckets, plates, can, sardine boxes, tin pans, bowls, and every other sort of receptacle they can obtain. Every child is expected to have a copper ready to pay, but many a time the rule is broken when some poor little hungry urchin has lost his coin or his drunken father and mother have failed to give him one.

Similar lunches of wholesome but of the cheapest materials, such as fish and potato pie, hash made from the poor, cheapest cuts of beef mixed with rice and vegetables, pea soup, vegetable soup and other healthful and savory dishes are served to school children in the manufacturing towns during the noonday recess, either free or for the lowest possible price. In some cases the funds are supplied from the municipal or parish treasuries, in other places by private subscription.

The reports of the boards of education of the parishes of London show exactly how much of this is done in that city, and some of the statistical almanacs contain the figures.

There is already an act of parliament authorizing school authorities to feed children who are insufficiently nourished at the public expense and to levy a tax of a penny on the pound on residential and business property to pay the cost. There is a clause in the act authorizing the prosecution of parents who fail to provide nourishing food for children that are being educated at the public expense, but I cannot find any report showing that this provision was report showing that this provision has ever been enforced.

TEN THOUSAND MOORS KILLED

London, Feb. 4.—A London news agency publishes a despatch from Tangier, saying there has been a battle between the French and the Moors near Settat, Morocco, in which 10,000 Moors were killed or wounded, and in which the French losses amounted to 160 men, including four officers.

The Moors with intrepid bravery, charged right up to the mouths of the guns until their corpses lay in great piles on the ground.

Big Reduction in Diamonds

New York, Feb. 4. — The inflated values which have characterized the diamond trade in the United States and Canada has come to an end.

Diamonds are a drug on the market here, and notwithstanding the strenuous efforts of the London dealers to save the situation, all the indications point to a great reduction in the price of diamonds. It is probable that the absence of buying is due, not only to the hard times, but also to the fact that those who want diamonds expect to be able to get them at half the prices quoted in 1907, within a few weeks.

A sudden end has also come to the enormous profits made by the big houses here, and all over the continent on jewellery, plate, fancy goods and objects of art, a great deal of which was of baser metal than represented and others of it faked up in the way of brie-a-brac. The widespread abuse of the word sterling has done a great deal to demoralize the so-called silver trade.

Is a Warning to Russia

The "Russ" Compares Conditions in Kingdom and Empire

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—The assassinations at Lisbon have made a deep impression on all classes of society here, and the newspapers which appear to-day comment gravely on the occurrences which preceded the crime. The "Russ", in a daring editorial, draws a thinly veiled parallel between the conditions in Portugal and those in Russia, and warns the government in almost so many words that there is danger of a similar occurrence here. The tragedy in Portugal, this paper says, was due to the fact that the King did not understand his people and was attempting to stem by dictatorial methods of repression the irresistible striving of the masses to take part in the government. The tragedy happened at the moment when Premier Franco seemingly had succeeded in restoring order by a series of drastic repressive measures.

The "Novoe Vremya", although attributing the direct execution of the plot to anarchists; also places a connection between the crime and the dictatorship of Franco, which met both open and secret resistance from all political parties. The paper holds that a system of government which is unable to protect the life of the ruler has no reason to exist, and says that Franco proved himself a child in the face of a danger which evidently was known to many of the population.

A Crisis in Japan-- Issue Purely Financial

Tokio, Feb. 6.—M. Nakashoko, Vice-Minister of Communications, resigned to-day. He will be succeeded by M. Muzuka, of the railroad bureau.

Accurate prediction of the life of Marquis Saionji's Cabinet is impossible. The inability of the government to avert a climax and the resignations of the Ministers of Finance and Communications have created a situation approaching a political panic. The general opinion is to the effect that the present Cabinet, either with double portfolios or possible additions, will face the new Diet which will open on July 22, after the general elections in the spring.

An effort is being made to-day to fill the vacancies in the Cabinet, but a difficulty is found in obtaining consent to accept the responsibility under existing circumstances.

The opposition and some of the friends of the government are apparently determined to force the government to appeal to the country. With an unpopular budget, the Constitutionalists lack nine votes of a majority in the lower house. Trustworthy authorities think the Constitutionalists will refuse to accept the government's financial budget, when the budget is presented. If this happens the Cabinet will resign, the Diet will be dissolved and the former budget will be continued until another Cabinet is formed and a new budget passed.

By such a method the Constitutionalists may be in a position to appeal to the country. They say they are not responsible for Premier Saionji's mistakes. They can also point to the fact that they repudiated a budget involving increased taxation, suspension of public works and heavy expenditure for the army.

It is believed that in such a position the Constitutionalists will have a majority at the general elections, and that the Cabinet will be formed by Marquis Katsura, former Premier, or possibly by Admiral Baron Gombei Yamamoto. The latter choice, however, is improbable.

There is no reason to doubt that the present situation is due entirely to the financial problem. The immigration question had nothing to do with hastening the climax. It is believed on all sides that the immigration questions which exist with America and Canada will be settled amicably. Since the present situation developed the immigration question has been hardly mentioned.

An interesting feature is the increasing influence of the commercial classes in the politics of Japan. Yoshiro Sakatani, former Minister of Finance, is the son-in-law of Viscount Shibusawa, who bitterly opposed the proposal to increase taxation, in common with other prominent business men who were antagonistic to the continued heavy expenditures on the army.

Annual Meeting of Brewing Company

The annual meeting of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company was held at Port Hope and had a large attendance of shareholders. Among those from Peterborough present were Messrs. D. O'Connell, solicitor for the company; R. J. Munro, J. M. Brooks and Alex. Elliott. The reports read indicated a very satisfactory year's business. The election of officers resulted in Mr. Ed. Tilley, Toronto, being elected president; Mr. Alex. Elliott, of Peterborough, vice-president; Mr. R. W. Smart, Port Hope, secretary-treasurer. Messrs. R. J. Munro and J. M. Brooks of this city are directors.

HURLS A VICIOUS TIGER INTO OVEN --TURNS ON FIRE

Beast Developed a Savage Streak and was About to Devour the Six-Year-Old Daughter of the House

New York, Feb. 5.—Asphyxiated in the oven of a gas range was the fate which the pet tiger cub of Thomas Best of Bensonhurst met yesterday for suddenly developing a savage streak and turning upon the six-year-old daughter of the house.

Rajah, as the pet was called, was presented to Mr. Best when only a few weeks old, several months ago. From the beginning it played with the children of the family like a big cat. Until recently it had always been gentle, but not long ago it developed signs of ferociousness and Mr. Best had been thinking of turning it over to some zoological gardens keeping.

Yesterday Mr. Best, hearing screaming in the kitchen of his house, ran into the room and found his daughter Dorothy cowering in a corner before the big cat, which was displaying its fangs, swishing its tail and snarling menacingly.

KEEPS COOL HEAD.

Just as the beast seemed about to spring, the girl's thoroughly alarmed father ran forward and kicked it in the head. Infuriated, the animal rose to renew the attack, but was met by a second blow from the man's foot. Still unconquered, it crouched again. Shouting for the girl to run, which she did, Mr. Best happened to notice the door of the gas range standing open. He grappled with the cub and despite deep scratches and bites received in the process, managed to lead it in the oven. The door slammed shut, the hold it closed while he turned on the gas.

For five minutes the beast thrashed around inside. When the door was opened at the end of that time the cub was dead.

The ice-dealers are now busily engaged in harvesting their cold crop for next summer. The past few days Alaska climate has brought smiles of welcome to this important class of Peterborough's producers. Mr. Thos. Rehill this winter is putting in an exceptionally large crop of grand ice to ensure a supply that will meet all demands of his many customers.

Firemen Swept Down By Collapsing Floors in New York Fire

New York, Feb. 4. — Caught between collapsing floors, seven firemen were injured to-night while fighting a fire which destroyed a five-storey structure, occupied by dry goods firms, at 43 Worth street, in the heart of the wholesale dry goods district. Fireman Frank Eglanton is missing, and is believed to be in the ruins. The monetary loss is estimated at $300,000.

The firemen fought the flames in the bitter cold which froze water in the standpipes and made the pressure inadequate to confine the fire to the third floor, where it started. The injured were found lying beneath the ruins in pools of fast freezing water.

The building was occupied by Baldwin, Woodward & Co.; Kibbe, Chaffee & Morehouse Co.; The Chas. C. Copeland Co. and T. R. Masterly & Co., all wholesalers.

The fire spread rapidly and the employees in the building had to make hurried exits. As they were escaping from the place the cable of an elevator parted, and the car, jammed with frightened women and men, dropped to the basement. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt and to their descent they may owe their lives. Hardly had the passengers scrambled from the wreckage of the car, when, without warning, the third floor gave way and carried with it the second floor and fifteen firemen, who were working within the walls. A moment later a score of firemen had reached into the burning wreckage, recklessly determined to rescue their comrades, whose cries could be heard above the noise of puffing engines.

Meantime the fire was burning briskly on the top floors, and streams of water thrown from adjoining buildings half drowned the imprisoned men, as well as those who chopped away valiantly wherever burning timbers held e captive. The temperature was well down toward zero, and the men suffered intensely. One by one the injured men were released, with the exception of Eglanton, who could not be located. Though badly injured, it is believed that the rescued men will recover. The building had been roused before the fire was controlled.

Obituary

The Lethbridge Herald gives the following account of the death of Mr. E. B. Stone:

Dr. Quaig received a telegram yesterday from Sacramento, Cal., announcing the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. E. B. Stone. Mr. Stone, who was the owner of a large ranch north of Tabler, and had spent much time here during the past few years, left Lethbridge last November with Mrs. Stone to spend the winter in California with the hope that he would regain his health, which had been poor gradually declined and passed away yesterday.

Mr. Stone was 54 years of age and was by profession a barrister, having practised in Belleville, Peterborough, and London, Ontario. He was a clever speaker and had taken an active part in political campaigns on behalf of the Liberal party. He was a native of Northumberland county, Ontario, and was a brother of the late Rev. Dr. Stone, a prominent Methodist divine. He leaves a wife, three sons, Dr. Charles at Fossten Roy, on the ranch, and Fred at Trenton, and a daughter at college in St. Thomas, Ont. The remains will be taken to Ontario for interment.

Says He Strangled His Own Mother

Syracuse, N. Y., February 5.— Early to-day the police telephone rang, and a man who said that he was William H. Gray, Jr., called:—

"Please come to 441 Burnet avenue; I have killed my mother."

Upon reaching the house, the officers found Mrs. Clara Gray, 46 years of age dead from strangulation. The son, 18 years old, said that he had been sitting reading when his mother called him downstairs. When he reached the lower floor, he says, his mother made a lunge at him with a razor, inflicting a deep wound on his right arm. In the struggle that followed, he says that in attempting to restrain her, he grabbed her throat and choked her.

Young Gray said that when he found his mother was dead, he was so frightened that he did not give the alarm for an hour or more, when he called up his brother and the police. To his brother he telephoned:—

"Mother is done for; I have killed her."

The young man's story is believed by the members of his family and the neighbors, who say that Mrs. Gray was a very high-strung woman, prone to hysteria verging on insanity.

The police differ and regard the case as a foul murder. Young Gray is a member of a prominent family. He is a stenographer, and for a few weeks was employed at the City Hall, where he was regarded as erratic.

LINDSAY WON AT BROCKVILLE.

Brockville, Feb. 6.—In the O. H. A. semi-final here to-night Lindsay defeated the 41st Regiment team by 5 to 1.

It was poor passing throughout, the only redeeming feature being a few combination rushes by the visiting forwards and the defence work. The latter, however, was weak, 41's inferiority being struck by the puck in the beginning of the second half. Prize going off to even up. At half time the score was 2 to 1, and it remained so until within five minutes of the finish, when Lindsay ran in two goals in rapid succession.

Official Tour of Inspection

That the Board of Education is composed of gentlemen not only proud of the honor of belonging to this important branch of civic control, but of those who are determined to give personal supervision of the great change under their rule was demonstrated yesterday afternoon, when, despite the far from tropical weather, the Board visited personally by the East Ward Public Schools on an official tour of inspection.

CUT FOR GUELPH, TOO.

Guelph, Feb. 5.—It is now rumored, on the very best of authority, that in spite of the great hotel accommodation required in Guelph during this Winter Fair week, an attempt will be made to follow Toronto's lead. The council will be asked to reduce the number of licenses in the city from fifteen, as at present, to ten. The general opinion is, however, that such a resolution will not get the support of the council as at present constituted.

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure Was Found for Inflammatory Rheumatism

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement;

"For years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better, it eased the painful joints, gave of it on that not an ache has returned. me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, sure. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric acid, neutralise and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone."

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 6 1908

ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE

President Roosevelt's latest message is a clarion call to the people to rally to the support of those who are doing battle against organized and aggressive "predatory wealth" if they are not overthrown by the onslaught which these despoilers of the people are now in the very act of making. As for the President, his position is unshaken. No dishonest pretence that he was the cause of the financial stress which followed his exposure of wrong-doing, has appalled him for a moment. He knows that it is not the police officer who commits the crime, even if the arrest of the criminal does cause a temporary panic. It is better to have the panic and then the real security than to let the criminal work go on in the dark.

Without minicing his words, the President points out that it is men who manipulate stocks who rob the "innocent stock-holder"; and not the public servant who calls attention to the vicious practices. He admits that, where these operations have been pushed through and "innocent stock-holders" have been induced to invest, care must be taken not to make the genuinely innocent investor suffer; but he is nevertheless quite clear that such dishonest operations should be made impossible for the future.

"A hideous wrong" is the term he applies to the stock jobbers and many painters of securities who "teach our young men that phenomenal business success must ordinarily be based upon dishonesty." Such teaching strikes at the very foundations of our future commercial integrity and permanent success. Once give a young man the idea that he can never get wealthy unless he goes in for some form of political and legal theft, and he becomes discontented with the drudgery of honest work and looks upon himself as a fool if he does not join in the game of loot which he sees going on all around him. The offering of such an example to the rising generation is akin to the practice of hardened criminals in a public jail who teach the boys associated with them all the foul tricks of their criminal trades.

The bearing of this message upon the approaching elections is not hard to read. Secretary Taft is to carry on the Roosevelt policies; but there are men of wealth and political ability all over the Union who are working day and night to prevent the nomination of Taft. Should they gain what threatens to be success, the duty upon Roosevelt himself to come to the rescue of his own principles must approach the imperative. He cannot afford to risk reaction. If he were to be the candidate, no convention of professional politicians dare hesitate about his nomination. "Predatory wealth" would cower before a determined and an enlightened people. Should Roosevelt be neither nominated nor allowed to name his successor, the people will not fail to note the significant declaration of Bryan that he and his party are for the "Roosevelt policies," and that they will carry them through—something that Roosevelt's Republican colleagues do not appear too ready to do.

"REINCARNATION" IN INDIA.

Weird Stories That Babies Have Souls of British Officers.

Within the last few weeks a most extraordinary case of alleged reincarnation—claimed to be the soul of a British officer—has made its appearance in Burmah. It is the second of its kind in recent years, and has accordingly attracted widespread attention.

Reincarnation is a fundamental doctrine of Buddhism, and a reincarnation of a human identity, in human form, though changed in outward aspect, is called a "minza." As a rule, the "minza" is an ordinary looking child, in no way different from his childish companions.

A few years back A. W. Tucker, district superintendent of police in Pegu, was killed by a gang of dacoits whom he rashly attacked at close quarters after discharging his revolver and without waiting to reload it. His call to his orderly to fetch ammunition gave the clew to the dacoits, and they killed him.

Just about the time this tragedy was being enacted in one part of the district a humble Burmese woman gave birth to a baby boy who in time, before the days of his babyhood were well over, claimed to be no less a personage than the murdered police officer. So circumstantial were his accounts of the encounter with the dacoits as to appear the narrative of an eye-witness, and when questioned on various other points in connection with the life of the deceased officer he is asserted to have answered with such exactitude that the Burmese people who flocked to hear him discourse were convinced of the truth of his assertions. Peculiarities of action and speech were faithfully reproduced, and, generally, quite a sensation was created.

Within the last few weeks a still more interesting case of "minza" has made its appearance, and I cannot do better than quote the account of a Rangoon Times correspondent from Meiktilla:

"There is a little blue-eyed, light-haired boy here, between 3 and 4 years old, the son of hard-working and matter of fact Burmese parents belonging to the laboring classes, who until quite recently prattled like any other child of that age. The other day, however, he astonished his mother by gravely claiming that he was the late Major D. J. Welsh, Border Regiment, come to life again, and went on to describe the house where he had previously lived, the number of ponies he had, and other personal matters.

"His mother was frightened, and called in the neighbors, to whom the queer albino repeated his story, describing how he and two others—a lady and a gentleman—were drowned in the Meiktilla lake in a boating accident during a storm at night in March, 1904, when the three and only occupants of the boat perished.

"That is the year in which Mrs. Reade, Lieut. A. W. Quinlan, and Major Welsh, both of the Border Regiment, did lose their lives in this manner (as a consequence of omitting to put down the centreboard of their sailing boat).

"Large crowds assemble daily to hear the little child-man speak. Of course, skeptics will say that it is a 'put up job.' The answer to this is that Burmese coolies are not given to romancing to such an extent. Several methods have been applied to test the genuineness of the child's utterances, and people are satisfied that he has not been tutored.

"The parents would have to be wideawake sharpers indeed to succeed in foisting such a story on the public through the instrumentality of a mere infant, and there is no suggestion that they are not what they appear to be—viz.: simple-minded folk."

MISERABLE AND UNTRUTHFUL.

Countess Says She Never "Squealed" on King Edward.

"A miserable and untruthful story has been running in the American papers about me for 12 years," said the Countess of Warwick to a reporter recently when interviewed at the Hotel Webster, New York.

"Twelve years ago there was a baccarat scandal in England, in which the present King was mixed up. Ever since then, at stated intervals, the American press has connected me with it, referring to me as the 'Babbling Brooke.' Just before my arrival it was printed again.

"I want to say there is not the slightest truth in it. At the time I was in mourning for my stepfather, and knew nothing about it. I never played cards in my life. I don't know one from another, and I have never been inside the house where this game occurred. It is the work of enemies who dare not publish it in the English papers, so get the American papers to injure me."

English Sunday Condemned.

Germans have no more friendly feeling towards the English Sabbath than Britons entertain towards the Continental Sunday. Just recently a conference was held at Frankfort, which had for its object the promotion of the observance of the Sabbath and the introduction of the rigid laws which prevail on that day throughout England.

The very idea seems to have set the Germans' teeth on edge, for in the same town recently a mass meeting was held to protest against the introduction of the English Sunday into Germany. The meeting was characterized by great enthusiasm. Herr Steinbach, the principal speaker, declared that the "English Sunday" would drive the population of Germany, which was now extremely sober, into the public-houses to drown the Sabbatarian dullness in beer.

Herr Hessenberg, another speaker, declared that even one Sunday in London brought on a severe attack of melancholia, necessitating a "cure" in order to restore his balance of mind.

In the opinion of Herr Steinfurth, the observance of Sunday in England was purely external. German people would rise up in thousands to resist any attempt to foist the "English Sunday" upon them.

A strongly-worded resolution to this effect was unanimously adopted.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

Bald?

Why wait? Treat your dandruff now, and escape baldness. Your doctor will tell you why Ayer's Hair Vigor destroys dandruff.

Judging from the tops of their heads, some people like hard-wood floors! Too late now for Ayer's Hair Vigor to completely cover this upper story, but you may add a rug or two here and there by the systematic use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. Does not color the hair. Formula with each bottle. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Marie Dressler has made a great hit in London.

Mr. Sutro's play called "John Glyde's Honor" will be presented in New York by James K. Hackett.

The late Richard Mansfield's production of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is to be put on for a road tour.

Mrs. Bernard Beere is soon to make her re-entrance on the London stage after a long absence from the world of theatricals.

It is understood that Alla Nazimova is trying to get Elinor Glyn to dramatize her new novel, "Three Weeks," for her use in the spring.

Olga Nethersole is planning to play a season in the City of Mexico in April. She may then produce the little French play, "The Submarine," which has set Paris talking.

Justin H. McCarthy has written a comedy of French manners in the time of the regent Philip of Orleans—about 1700—the heroine of which is a sort of reckless hoyden.

THE ROYAL BOX.

After seeing a theatrical performance the kaiser often goes behind the scenes and chats with the players.

Queen Victoria of Spain, being an Englishwoman, is a lover of fresh air and keeps her windows open as much as possible. This is quite an innovation in Spain and the source of much comment in court circles.

Apart from his official revenues, the sultan of Turkey draws a handsome income from a street which he owns in Constantinople, from a sugar plantation in the West Indies and from a line of steamers which ply along his coasts.

King George of Greece is the poorest of all kings. His income is about $700 a day, which is nothing to one obliged to maintain the state and dignity of a king. He would be poorer still were it not for outside help. England, France and Russia each subscribe $20,000 a year toward his income.

Out of the Schoolroom.

A schoolboy was asked to give some information in regard to the Cary sisters, the once famous New England poets, and he said of them:

"The Cary sisters were two poets who lived in Massachusetts most of the time. They went ew York, where they made many fast friends. Their fastest friend was John G. Whittier."

At the time of the Longfellow centennial, when the school children were writing so much about him, one boy wrote:

"Longfellow's poems were mostly of his own composure, but he wrote 'Tails of a Wayside Inn,' where others did the talking. He was the poet forrest of our country and was a cracker-jack when it came to real poetry."—Lippincott's.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all Dealers.

A Business Proposition !

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOME..

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $400 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

On Barton's Reef

By GEORGE ETHELBERT WALSH

Copyright, 1908, by George E. Walsh

A DEAD animal ain't ginerlly wurth more'n what his pelt will bring in the open market, minus the fees an' commissions of them rascally agents who come down here to swap trade with us an' get the lion's share, an' the jackass', too—me an' the rest of the hunters down here bein' mostly the jackasses—but a live animal is an ousartain commodity that has what Captain Kennelly calls "possibilities." I'm meanin' by that that an old diamond back rattler's skin an' teeth an' rattles ain't wurth much more'n $5 down here, but a live rattler shipped up north in a cage may bring $25, an', ag'in, it may be knocked down for an even hundred.

So Captain Kennelly ain't never been in the killin' bisness. An' I was brung up by Captain Kennelly! "Live an' let live," that's been our motto, an' we've waxed fat—the captain weighs 200, an' I ain't far behind—an' wealthy, not millionaires exactly, but middlin' well to do.

We ain't never regretted bein' kind an' consid'rate to the animals an' birds—never except onct, an' then the captain said 'twas my fault. I ain't disputin' him in that, but there is room for a diff'ence of opinion.

We'd been up the Caloosahatchie one winter tryin' to bag snakes, birds an' other creepin', crawlin' an' flyin' critters when we got wind of a mighty big, sassy mountain lion rendoovoolin' up near Wadin' Landin'. The captain decided at onct that we'd bag the critter. Mountain lions was bringing pretty handsome prices then—the Floridy variety bein' a little underpriced, for they ain't no bigger'n a good size dog.

The captain an' I sailed up the Caloosahatchie an' went campin' on that big fellow's trail, an' before a fortnight we had him clip an' clean aboard the Marthy Ann, tied toe an' nail an' a-roarin' in a box on deck as though he'd like to eat us alive. We was mighty tickled at our prize, an' we figgered on a couple of hundred apiece when we landed him north.

The Marthy Ann warn't much of a sailboat, but she was a hibbertin' old craft that did dooty for us for well nigh a dozen years. When we set sail down the Caloosahatchie the captain says:

"Steve, can't you take the Marthy Ann to Charlotte Harbor alone? You can hand the critter over to the railroad people there an' get a receipt for him. I want to get off at Fort Myers an' run up a spell to see Cousin Obadiah. He's real sick, they say."

I warn't goin' to stand in the way of the captain's seein' his sick cousin, so I answered with affermashun an' said I'd run back to Fort Myers in a couple of days an' pick him up. The captain was mighty pleased, but when I landed him at Fort Myers he sort of suspishioned somethin' an' said:

"You think you can manage it alone all right, Steve?"

"I'll land this old patriarch in Charlotte Harbor before night or I'll drown him in the gulf tryin' it," I answered promptly.

I didn't know that I was makin' a pretty sure guess of what I'd be doin' before sundown. I jest hove off from the dock an' turned the Marthy Ann's nose toward the gulf. I ain't much of a deep water sailor, but I knew the coast up to Charlotte Harbor tol'rably well an' I didn't have no misgivin's.

That lion was mighty quiet-like at first, but when we got away from the land an' he began to sniff the salt air of the gulf he sort of got oneasy. He was gettin' out of his element, an' he felt sort of homesick. Mebbe it was seasickness. I dunno which. Anyhow, he roared an' whined an' scratched to beat the band. He jest kept me company with his noise, an' I didn't have no time to get lonesome. Onct or twice he got so scratchy that I took a look at his cage to see if 'twas all right.

Barton's reef is jest ten miles sou'west of Charlotte Harbor—a nasty little, treach'rous shoal that sticks out of water at low tide an' keeps out of sight at flood. 'Tain't charted, an' sometimes a ship trips up on it an' jest nacherally rips herself to pieces tryin' to get off ag'in.

I don't know what made me forget Barton's reef, for I'd been round it a dozen times, an', come to think of it now, I'd been nigh wrecked on it onct or twice. I ain't got no excuse to make except that lion must have made me forgetful by his everlastin' roarin'.

First thing I knowed a puff of wind keeled the Marthy Ann over, an' before I could ketch her up ag'in we struck somethin'. It was only sand an' mud, but the keel stuck there, an' the next wind slambanged the old lubberin' craft clean over on her side. I wasn't lookin' for the shock an' pitched headforemost through the air an' landed 'bout twenty feet away.

When I went down into the water I expected to find bottom somewhere less than a mile or two, but the sudden way in which I stopped showed me that I was on Barton's reef. I was standin' on my head in 'bout a foot of water. There was some mud, an' that made sticky standin', but when I finally got my head out of it an' the water cleaned out of nose an' mouth the Marthy Ann had drifted away in deep water.

I ran after her, but she was holdin' her own so tantalizin'-like that I couldn't gain an inch. I swam roun' for some minutes, an' then to save my life I turned back to the reef. I could see the bare back of it jest shinin' above the gulf not more'n ten yards away. I ain't much of a swimmer, but I made double quick time to that reef.

I hadn't thought much 'bout that lion all this time, so excited was I over the loss of the Marthy Ann, but now I jest gasped for breath an' hove a sigh of relief. If I'd lost the Marthy Ann, I'd saved the lion. There he was crawlin' out of the water upon the reef as limp an' frightened as a water rat with a dog on his trail. His big cage was floatin' away with the tide, runnin' a close race for shore with the capsized boat.

I saw how things had happened. The Marthy Ann had dumped the cage an' lion on the reef, an' the blow had bust open the slats, an' there you are! The lion was free to go an' come. When I swam to the reef he had full possession, but he was so wet an' frightened that he jest sat there an' shivered an' roared.

"You great, big ouery coward," I says, shakin' my fist at him. "You ain't got away yet, an' I'll keep you here until the captain comes for us."

The reef warn't more than fifty feet long and twenty wide, but there was room enough for both of us. I crawled up an' tried to dry my clothes. At first the lion noticed nothin', but roared for help. Then he got a sight of me an' slunk to the other end of the reef.

I pitched headforemost through the air.

"You keep there," I says, feelin' better by talkin' to him as if he was a human bein', "an' don't you come on my end."

We both felt better after we got dried off a bit. The sun was pretty hot an' it scorched the water up like a hot iron. First thing, then, that big critter began to lick himself, an' then he eyed me out of the corners of his eyes. I didn't partic'lar like the way he did it. It seemed as if he grinned an' then shook his head to show me that he warn't hurt.

Well, I suppose nothin' would have happened if the tide hadn't come up an' made Barton's reef look like a turtle's back. The water jest rose up higher an' higher, an' every minit we had to move closer together.

The lion didn't like gettin' his paws wet an' was for retreatin' toward me, an' I didn't fancy closer quarters with him an' jest stayed as near my edge of the reef as I dared.

Now, as I have remarked, the Floridy mountain lion ain't no kind of a fighter, but when he's cornered I've some respect for him. I saw right away that trouble was a-brewin'. When the reef got too small to hold both of us one or t'other had to git, an' I didn't fancy bein' the one to go a-floatin' adrift on the gulf in that latitude.

"Now, you great big yellow cuss," I said, addressin' his lionship, partly to keep up my courage, "I ain't huntin' for trouble, but if you seek it I'll do my best to make things mighty onpleasant for you on this little sand speck."

Right then a change come over the critter. He seemed to accept the challenge an' began to growl and crouch. I jest faced him an' got ready for his spring. But the tide comin' up from behind lapped a wave over his tail an' made him turn roun' like a shot. He crept an inch closer an' watched for things to develop.

We hadn't more'n five feet between us, an' I was tremblin' most as much as that big brute when somethin' bobbed up near the reef. We both looked at it, an' when I saw it was the lion's old wooden cage floatin' back ag'in I jest made up my mind to jump for it. It was a pretty hefty box an' big enough to carry me.

I edged away toward it, an' when it was as nigh as I thought it would come I waded out in the water an' made a grab for it. By lyin' slantwise on it, with my feet in the water an' my head 'bout three feet above it, I was tol'rably comfortable, an' I addressed myself to the marooned critter ag'in:

"Now you kin have the reef an' all that goes with it. I'm off for the Floridy coast or a trip to sea. Anything's better'n bein' drowned on that reef or bein' chewed up by a cowardly lion."

I guess my words sort of startled him, for he growled an' whined an' seemed anxious to accompany me. He was sort of sorry at my desertin' him. At any rate he crouched down on the reef, his tail in the water an' his head mighty close to the other edge of the reef, an' then I saw him spring an' shoot through the air just like a skyrocket.

There was a crash an' disturbin' un- The box floated away, an' we had to make a swim for it.

I got there first, for I had begun to scent sharks. I dreaded 'em worse'n all the lions in Floridy. I jest yelled an' jumped up on the box an' tried to hold my feet in the air. I kicked an' splashed to frighten the lion away, but he was game. He came on like a paddle wheel, churnin' the water into a terrible foam.

He struck the box ag'in with a bang, an' over we went onct more, turnin' a clean somersault in the water. I went down pretty nigh to the bottom of the gulf an' then bumped up agin the box so hard that I had a headache for a week after.

The lion was there ahead of me, an' he took a turn at fightin' me off. I saw he was gettin' on to the game. The box was a good boat for one, but too small for two. One or t'other had to keep off, an' as possession is half the law the big yellow cuss was goin' to hold on to his advantage. I couldn't get a hold of the box without gettin' a swipe that ripped up a yard of human hide.

I saw somethin' in the water a little way ahead that made matters worse. It was a shark comin' to see what all the disturbance was 'bout. He was sailin' along like a revenoo cutter after harbor thieves. I knowed then 'twas a question of shark or lion.

An' I chose the lion! If I could knock him off, the shark might be satisfied with him an' leave me alone for a spell. I jest made for that box an' put up the fight of my life. It was give an' take, an' no quarter for the vanquished.

My, how we spit an' tore an' cuffed each other! It was like a cat an' monkey tied up in a bag. We didn't stand on any rules, but jest fought fit to kill an' never knowed how much wo was tearin' each other to pieces.

But I hadn't forgot that shark. I jest kept a weather eye on him an' tried to twist the box roun' so he'd come up under the lion an' not on my side. I guess the battle would have gone hard with both of us an' the shark would had a dinner of lion meat an' human legs if rescoo hadn't come in the nick of time.

I heard a voice call over the water in the captain's drawl. "Hello, Steve! What you tryin' to do? Don't kill that lion. Part of him belongs to me."

I jest twisted roun' mighty scared, for I thought I must be a-dreamin', an' there was Captain Kennelly in the Marthy Ann, sailin' straight down upon us.

"Good Lord, captain!" I says. "I'm nearly tuckered out."

Then I dropped the box an' swam for the boat.

But, if you'll believe it, that old yellow critter was ahead of me. He just

My, how we spit an' tore an' cuffed each other!

leaped from the box to the deck of the Marthy Ann an' was ragin' an' roarin' up an' down it when I crawled aboard.

"Steve, this is bad work," said the captain. "I thought I could trust you better'n that. If I hadn't felt suspishous 'bout you an' come down jest in time to find the Marthy Ann floatin' away on her sides we'd lost our prize an' the boat too."

I didn't have breath for any reply then, but I felt mighty like explodin' an' sayin' somethin' that would hurt the captain's feelin's. But I didn't, an' later I forgot all 'bout it in the excitement of capturin' an' cagin' that old lion ag'in—the cause of all the trouble. He seemed to think he owned the Marthy Ann, an' we had a long tussle to convince him of his error.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—crowds blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

WORKING INDOORS CAUSES ANAEMIA

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood.

If confined too much indoors, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently ill-nourished and half-starved.

But there is a cure!

Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut; as a blood enricher their equal is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid.

Healthy color supplants the pallid, ashen face.

Better appetite, strong digestion and dreamless sleep are sure to follow, because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Think it over.

Will it pay you to look and feel half-dead, to lack color and spirit, when all can be changed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

Better act at once!

Your case is more curable now than later on.

Dr. Hamilton personally guarantees his pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Their merit is unquestioned.

Thousands of anaemics they have cured and kept well.

They will do just the same for you. Try Dr Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, and refused any substitute.

His Tile Blew Under the Car

Yesterday as a well known local young man was returning to work after dinner, he suffered the loss of his "tile." It seems his hat was made the plaything of a sudden gust of wind and was carried by the breeze in front of a passing street car. When all every-day $3 ride rules the experiment of knocking in street car, the result to the hat is easily foreseen. The hat might bring a fraction of a cent as junk, but as a visible means of showing contempt to passing ladies, by being worn out and ruined by its owner, is a pronounced failure.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

ELECTION DAY IN APSLEY

(Communicated.)

Tune Little Brown Jug.

On the 6th you'll remember the votes that were polled.
Some came from a distance, some young and some old,
To cast in their votes for the right or the wrong
"We'll vote for the whiskey" was the general song.

Chorus:
Voting day, voting day,
Each man wanting us to vote his way,
Some vote right, but many for gin,
And the little man wanting us to vote for him.

Then a smile from one and a nod from another
And a shake of the hand "How are you my brother?"
As we pass along on our way to the hall
The people in Apsley are greeting us all.

Now I think I hear, as the rumseller stands,
Holding the voters' list in his hands,
"I run my house in the very best way
I pave my taxes and license to pay."

"When a fellow comes in and asks for a drink,
I never insult but give for the chink
Whatever he wishes, beer, whiskey or gin,
I think it my duty, 'on him be the sin'."

But another is speaking, just hear what he says,
"You give him the drink, you say, when he pays,
You give him, not value, but something instead,
Which muddles his brain as it goes to his head,

In the Good Book we're told, that a mocker is wine
The unwise are deceived and drink at its shrine;
And woe to the man though he's paid for his labor,
Who putteth the wine to the lips of his neighbor,"

Now the long day is over, the council collected,
Two Bobs and two Wills and C. R. D. elected.
But for Local Option, alas, it has failed
The devil has won, as the whiskey prevailed.

O, fathers, who value your children so low,
Keep temptation before them, they'll drink as they grow,
To you it is nothing that Jesus has died
To redeem them from sin, He was once crucified.

FROM A VOTER.

G.T.R. Baggageman Makes Heroic Walk

Talking of the Artic and Anartic explorers seeking the supreme pole, it might be said that right at hand is a man who on Sunday had an experience reminding the casual reader of the efforts of Lieut. Peary and other such world-wide known explorers and Artic adventurers. Without an desire to gain international or worldwide renown, on Sunday Mr. John McLean, 149 Stewart street, baggageman on the G. T. R. flyer, walked from Lindsay to Peterborough early Sunday morning. Mr. McLean was confined to his bed yesterday as a result of his long, cold tramp. It seems that on Saturday evening the flyer's trip to Peterborough was cancelled, on which train he might have come. The nine o'clock train was several hours late, but was to resume its trip to Peterborough some time after midnight. It is believed Mr. McLean did not know this fact, so after eleven o'clock he set out to walk to this city. Now citizens having their furnaces or time-burners going full pelt may or may not have any idea or conception of the walk that Mr. McLean traversed during the wind swept and snow fallen hours that elapsed during this heroic walk., though the pedestrian is not a man of, say, 21 years of age. Mr. McLean made a record well worth mention by the public press of Canada and the United States.

The Warden's Fine Address

County Warden Thompson's inaugural address to the Council was a lucid and forcible resume of the county's business and financial standing. The warden had evidently taken great trouble in preparing and great judgment in the presentation of general county business of every nature. Nothing of interest to the ratepayers or the county fathers was overlooked, but everything presented in a straightforward and open manner.

Late C. J. McDonald's Funeral

The funeral of the late Mr. Charles Joseph McDonald, son of Mr. John McDonald, of Smith, will be held on Friday at 10 a.m., from the residence of his sister, Mrs. S. J. Keighley, 269 Perry street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

The deceased passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital on Feb. 4th, at the age of 28 years.

Whether it rains or shines, the man whose digestion is good usually enjoys the weather.

Good digestion is mainly a question of the right kind of food.

Grape-Nuts, made by a food expert, contains all the nutritious elements of wheat and barley and is so carefully baked for hours that the weakest stomach can easily digest it.

It contains also the natural organic phosphates which combine with albumen in the system, to rebuild brain and nerve cells. To enjoy any old kind of weather, keep your digestion good—i.e., eat Grape-Nuts regularly.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, because of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in [illegible] the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

Notice is hereby given that in addition to the application of which notice has already been given, an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof for legislation to confirm a By-law to aid The William Hamilton Company (Limited) by a loan of $30,000, a fixed assessment of $10,000 for 10 years and other concessions.

SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Mr. Harry Winch is After a Scalp

Yesterday Mr. Harry Winch was mad all through and with good cause. It seems that the class of people who put out poison to kill dogs indiscriminately, usually justify their deeds by claiming that dogs tear up their flower beds or lawns. Now it would take a mighty sturdy dog these days to dig up, let alone dig up either a lawn or flower bed. Still Mr. Winch has had a valuable hound, for which $50 has been refused, poisoned on Tuesday. This hound, which Mr. Winch some time ago gave to Mr. Harry Neill, the local brewery expert, was seen on Tuesday whilst passing down George street to visit Mr. Winch's house (sic) by an employee of the packing house to suddenly stumble and run into a snow drift, where it fell. The kind-hearted employee, recognizing the hound, ran out, and after taking it into the place, did all he could to save its life, but to no purpose. Mr. Winch, in conversation with the Times yesterday, said that if people have a spite against any particular man, they should not like [illegible] and wreak their vengeance on the canine, but not try to get even by poisoning such man's dog. Whilst the hound in question was owned in the East Ward, Mr. Winch has reason to believe the animal was given its deadly dose on [illegible] side.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated, for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW!

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock: Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

FOR EVERY FORTUNE BUILT BY A WISE INVESTOR, A FINANCIAL COWARD GOES TO THE POORHOUSE

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

FOOT FROZEN WHILE SHOVELLING SNOW --FAMILY DESTITUTE

Sad Case in the City Which Should Arouse Those Anxious to Help the Deserving Poor

Yesterday a Times representative heard of a bona fide case of destitution that is not only well worth serious consideration by those disposing of charitably given funds, but one that may well open the eyes of the general public to the pressing need, under existing conditions, for aid from all quarters, towards alleviating distress.

The case in point is that of the father who has several small children and a wife to provide for. Now the man of the family has been out of work for some weeks, and consequently without the means of replenishing the family wardrobe, not to mention the flour barrel, was reduced to one pair of shoes, through the soles of which snow, wet or daylight freely percolated.

To get down to the story, a young lady of the city, learning of the family's distress, got the man a job shovelling snow. The man eagerly grasped at the job and went to work. During the excessively cold weather, a day or two ago, those working along with the man, after a few hours work, saw him limping, and naturally asked, "What's the matter?" This man fearing to lose this opportunity for earning bread for the little ones, replied, "Oh, nothing; my foot is a little sore; nothing serious."

Very soon afterwards conditions compelled the man to admit that, owing to defective footgear, his toes were frozen solid. He is now laid up with the possibility that he may lose a foot.

Lady Hookeyists Guests of Rough Riders

A pleasing aftermath of the hockey game last night between the Rough Riders and the Young Ladies was a supper given by the former at Hooper's restaurant, when a very pleasant time was spent. Still, the supper given by the gallant Rough Riders did not conclude the evenings' proceedings. An adjournment was held to Peterborough's popular cheap place of amusement which had been specially retained for the Crystal. Now the Crystal, whilst cheap in price, is high in the quality of the entertainment given, and last night's experience by the hockey players not only endorsed this opinion but was a most pleasant wind-up of an evening's sport and entertainment.

A DENTIST'S DRILL WENT DOWN THROAT

Portugal Has Many Colonies to Protect

Teachers' Convention to be Held in May

It will be of great local interest, especially in educational circles, to learn that Principal Falconer of Toronto University, will give an address before the Teachers' Association of Peterborough, at their convention next May. It is understood that a joint convention of the city and county associations will be held and that Principal Falconer's address will be given in the evening in a suitable hall, with large seating capacity.

Combined Area Larger Than That of the Mother Land

Regret is Expressed

London, Feb. 7.—Portugal's colonial possessions are numerous and important, the combined square mileage of the colonies being more than twenty-two times that of the mother country, and the colonial population nearly double that of Portugal.

In all, the Portuguese colonies, which lie chiefly in Africa and Asia, consist of 807,952 square miles, the population being 9,153,952. The Madeira Islands and the Azores are officially grouped as an integral portion of Portugal, being governed as provinces. Of the colonies proper Angola, or Portuguese lower Guinea, is the largest, with an estimated area of 517,000 square miles and an estimated population of 5,000,000. The possession is bounded on the north and east by the Congo State and Rhodesia, on the south by German Southwest Africa, and on the west by the Atlantic Ocean.

The territory is divided into six districts — Congo, Loanda, Benguela, Lunda, Huilla and Mossamedes. The capital is St. Paul de Loanda. The greater part of the country is in the hands of the Bantus, under their tribal chiefs. There are 250 miles of railway in operation, a line 1,343 miles in length is being constructed. When this latter line is completed it is expected that the country will advance rapidly and prove a possession valuable in the extreme to the mother country. The territory is rich in coffee, rubber, sugar, oils and ivory, the trade thus far being chiefly carried on by bartering with the natives. There are great mining and agricultural possessibilities.

PRODUCTS OF ISLANDS.

The Cape Verde islands, another Portuguese possession, lie 350 miles from Cape Verde, the westermost point of Africa. The area is 1,480 square miles and the population is 147,434. The chief products are coffee, tamarinds and millet.

Portuguese East Africa comprises the two districts of Mozambique and Lorenzo Marques, and the four smaller districts of Zambesia, Inambane, Sena and Tete. The colony is administered by a royal commissioner, while a military force of about 2,000 men is maintained. Large portions of the territory are under the direct administration of the Mozambique Company and the Nyasa Company, both of which have royal charters.

There are two main lines of railroad, on covering fifty-seven miles in the colony and continuing on 250 miles to Pretoria outside of the possession. The other railroad is 203 miles long. Another railroad with a length of 153 miles is being planned. The area of the colony is 300,000 square miles and the population is estimated at 300,000. The principal exports are ores, sugar, rubber, ivory and wax.

Guinea, another of the important Portuguese possessions lies on the west coast of Africa, being surrounded on the land side by French possessions. It includes the Bismouth of the Rio Grande, and the Island of Bolama. The area is 4,000 square miles, and the population 830,000. The chief exports are rubber, wax, oil and ivory.

SOME FERTILE COLONIES.

St. Thome and Principe islands, in the Gulf of Guinea, are extremely fertile colonies. They yield cocoa, coffee and cinchona. The area is 454 square miles and the population 42,160.

In India Portugal owns an area of 1,086 square miles, with a population of 561,000. Her Indian possessions are considerably scattered and include Goa, Damao and Diu. In Asia, Portugal also owns Macao, an island at the mouth of the Canton River, in China, and Timor an island in the Malay archipelago.

Spain May be Next Victim of Anarchy

Recrudescence of Deeds That Marred Alfonso's Wedding Threatens Madrid

Goes to Consult King

Madrid, Feb. 7. — It is understood that reports have been brought to the authorities that there exists a direct line of communication between the anti-government radicals in Portugal and those in Spain. The story goes that a general outbreak against royalty in one country was to be accompanied by a similar demonstration in the other. Whether the Spanish movement was delayed or whether it failed because of police frustration remains to be demonstrated.

Public gatherings for the purpose of making inflammatory speeches will be forbidden and all gatherings where addresses are given will be under police surveillance.

There was a session of the council of state at which it was decided to take measures for extraordinary precautions at all frontier points. Rigid rules will be enforced as to individuals crossing from Portugal to Spain and the same will apply to traffic and merchandise.

The precautions always observed in protecting the persons of their majesties, the king and queen, will now be doubled. Although King Alfonso objects to going about under heavy guard he realizes that any other course will be suicidal. His palace will be given additional soldiers and the imperial household is bound to be more alert.

GOES TO CONSULT KING.

Immediately after the council of state had concluded its session Premier Maura left for Seville by special train for a consultation with King Alfonso.

The foreign office gave out a statement that the Portugese Assassins numbered six, all of these being armed with carbines and revolvers. They were paid by political agitators, enemies of the government. One of the slain regicides was a Frenchman, according to the statement, and encircling his body was a belt filled with gold, the profit for his share in the murder.

Simultaneously with the assassinations, the statement also says, an armed band surrounded the house of Premier Franco in the outskirts of the city, but was beaten off by the guard.

The dissidents have announced that grave events would develop from the situation in Portugal, but it was not imagined that they would take the grave turn they did.

GENERAL AMNESTY WILL BE PROCLAIMED IN PORTUGAL--ELECTIONS TO TAKE PLACE NEXT APRIL

Late King Carlos Was Advised Against Returning to the City

Franco Goes to Madrid

Madrid, Feb. 7. — Portuguese and Spanish police authorities say it is absurd to try to shift on the shoulders of anarchists the responsibility for the crime in Lisbon. Every chief of every secret police force in Europe knows that the murder was incited by the political movement which aimed first to destroy France's dictatorship, and then to develop into a purely revolutionary movement. Naturally were all concerned drawn the plot of which the Portuguese and other governments were well aware.

All responsible advices confirm the statement that the regicides were most determined and well armed. Whatever the police chatter in Lisbon, it can be stated positively that the judicial authorities there have not given any information about persons arrested or papers or arms they carried.

Franco, the deposed dictator, will arrive here to-day, the newspapers say. Dr. Alpheon, leader of the Progressist Dissidents, who fled from Lisbon, is in Gibraltar. "Franco was the real assassin, he is quoted as saying to-day. "The crime was the logical outcome of the situation, and is cannot be charged to any one party."

The elections in Portugal will be held April 5th next. General amnesty will be proclaimed there soon, it is expected, and all political prisoners will be brought to trial before the ordinary tribunals at once. These steps will tranquilize the agitated people and restore order, it is hoped.

After embalming King Carlos' body, it was found that the coffin was too small and a new one had to be made.

QUEEN BEARING UP BRAVELY.

Lisbon, Feb. 7. — Queen Amelie receives only her very close intimates, but made an exception in favor of the wife of the Foreign Minister. The latter remarked that her eyes were dry. "We have no time for tears," replied the Queen. "I am a daughter of France." The arrival of her mother is expected to be a great solace to her.

The last of the regicides were identified yesterday as a school teacher. He had an abundance of heavy chestnut hair and beard, and a high broad brow, and was plainly the master-mind. He looked the typical dreamer, and it was easy to imagine how the other two men, ordinary workmen of the lower class in dress and appearance, under the fire of his words believed in the ridding of the country of tyrants.

KING WARNED TO KEEP AWAY.

King Carlos was the victim of his own imprudent courage. Premier Franco had arranged a military escort, but the King disdained to meet his people surrounded by armed guards. Instead he telegraphed to Franco to have open carriages in awaiting and no troops. The Premier, who knew the situation better than the King, is blamed for not insisting on his arrangement.

The Dowager Queen, who was at Lisbon, urgently advised the King against returning to that city, and when he insisted, she telegraphed to him at Villa Vicosa that if he came, to come alone.

The names of the regicides have been given out as follows: Louis Lopez, who was at one time a clerk in a store; a man named Caimarta, who at one time published a newspaper in Lisbon, and later was the proprietor of a gambling agency located on Douradora street; Manuel Buissia, who is designated as a professor of the "National School," and a Spaniard named Cordova.

TO HOLD EARLY ELECTIONS.

There is no truth in the rumor current in Berlin yesterday that an attempt had been made upon the life of the Minister of War in the First Cabinet announced. Joao Mathias Nunes. The new Cabinet at its initial session, decided to order elections and to convoke parliament at the earliest possible moment. Franco has officially announced his retirement from politics, but his followers will attempt to continue the party he organized.

SCENE AT THE PALACE

A correspondent visited the palace. Soldiers with arms reached guarded the gates and walls. Visitors, chiefly of the Portuguese nobility, members of the court and diplomatic corps, and officers, were coming and going. The majority of the visitors simply inscribed their names in a register in the ante-chamber leading to the royal apartments, where the King's guard was drawn up with halberds reversed.

The fine Sovereign is facing a trying ordeal with Braganza courage, but his sallow face and tears that come unbidden to the eyes, tell the story of the strain. Yesterday afternoon he received his new ministers, headed by Admiral De Amaral, the retiring Cabinet headed by Franco, as well as several diplomats, including Charles Page Bryan, the American Minister.

While one of the foreign representatives was speaking of King Carlos, the new King's eyes overflowed with tears. "Yesterday," he said, "I was taking music lessons; how can I be King to-day?"

Should Know of This Prescription

Also Valuable Advice How to Relieve Rheumatism

Cut this out and put in some safe place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple, and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary to do shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound Kargon, one ounce; compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain and smarting, weakness and backache, pain above the kidneys etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It cleanses these sponge-like organs and gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, relieving the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extract dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood.

As you by copying of your family, especially the old folks, may be attacked at any time, it would be wise to cut this out and save it.

A well-known local druggist is authority that this prescription is safe to use at any time.

Turkish Troops are Massing for War --Russia Alarmed

St. Petersburg, Feb. 7.—Recent advices received from the Caucasus indicate that the Russian inhabitants are considerably alarmed over the concentration of Turkish troops in Armenia and the region seized from Persia, which, it is believed, is designed as a reply to any attempt at demonstration on the part of Russia. Under the cover of Turkish tribesmen the Turks are reported as massing infantry at Bayazid, and other strategic points near the frontier, in such strength as to disprove of the probabilities that the movement is intended solely against non-militant Persia.

Russia now only has two army corps in the Caucasus, a large part of which is dispersed in detachments through the country to preserve order or engaged in punitive expeditions.

An officer is quoted as saying that the Turks could, in case of trouble, sweep the Caucasus and occupy Tiflis in ten days. Turkish emissaries and spies, it is stated, are to be found everywhere, fomenting disorder and the Moslem inhabitants, particularly in Daghestan, are in open sympathy with their co-religionists across the border.

The authorities here, although admitting the seriousness of the Turko-Persian relations, do not share the alarmist views held in Caucasus, and declare that the possibility of hostilities with Turkey, over which Russians there are panicky, is utterly excluded. Certain precautionary measures, however, are being taken.

Family Dies of Starvation

New York, Feb. 7. — For three months Max Sackman, 36 years old, and by trade a paper hanger, had tramped the streets in a futile effort to find work. His daily goings and doings were watched by the neighbors, who when the man failed to appear as usual yesterday, forced an entrance to his house and found the family of three dead.

The bodies of Sackman and his wife, Gentlin, were stretched upon their bed, and in the arms of the father was wrapped the lifeless form of their 14-months-old baby. A gas tube connected from a chandelier to the bed, told the manner of death, and an empty cupboard explained the motive.

CURLING.

Word was received from Toronto yesterday that the Peterborough curlers had won the Ontario Cup. The two local rinks played Orillia yesterday afternoon and won out after an exciting match. This morning they defeated the opposing rinks and captured the Ontario Cup.

C. P. R. Entertains Many Guests in City

Train Service on Both Lines was Demoralized

Both the C. P. R. and G. T. R. are having their own troubles fighting the results of the blizzard of Wednesday night. In fact the local railroads are having more trouble with snow drifts than in many years past. The G. T. R. train got into Peterborough yesterday. This was made up at Lindsay and got through to the city at about 2 p.m. en route to Port Hope. This train was a "double-header" with one passenger car, the outfit being preceded by a snow plough.

A very large number of C. P. R. passengers were stalled in the city yesterday, but, despite the enforced delay, were made comfortable, as is the universal way of the C. P. R. with their patrons. To tell the truth, most of those interviewed, rather enjoyed the hospitality of the C. P. R. and the opportunity to see the city.

News in Brief

REAL SPRING SKEETERS.

Chatham, Feb. 5.—To have lean and hungry mosquitoes annoying you in the house while the temperature outside is forcing the mercury down to zero is rather an unusual experience. Nevertheless Michael Gaugegrove, who lives on South Queen street, this morning displayed several pink lumps on his hands and cheeks to substantiate his version of an attack made on him in his house last night by mosquitoes.

Mr. Gaugegrove is puzzled to account for the phenomena, and cannot imagine where they came from unless they had been hibernating in his cellar.

MAN BADLY FROZEN.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 5.—About five o'clock this morning John Page, an ex-railway freight clerk, wandered into the M.C.R. station on Queen street in a stupefied condition with both hands badly frozen. He was handed over to the police and was taken to the hospital. What he was doing out at this hour with the thermometer at five degrees below, no one knows.

The man's footprints in the snow were traced down to the foot of Queen street on the river bank, where his form was seen in the snow, where he apparently laid for some hours and, strange to say, although he had gloves in his pocket, his hands were bare. The doctors claim he will lose his right hand above the wrist and tips of his left hand, if not his life. He has been partly unconscious all day.

The Crushing Power of the Jaws is about 500 Pounds

Nature placed the power there for a purpose.

Food should be thoroughly crushed — "chewed"—in the mouth before swallowing, because the stomach has only a limited amount of muscular energy.

Besides, the chewing is intended to bring down from the glands of the mouth certain liquids needed to start the digestion of food.

Grape - Nuts

food requires "crushing," and this brings out the flavor as well as the food value—it also restores the good habit of making the teeth do their legitimate work instead of putting it into the stomach, and brings out the needed liquids of the mouth.

In this way Grape-Nuts starts the good work of digestion and still further helps it along by the predigested condition of the food itself. It helps digest other food.

Labor Conditions Fairly Satisfactory in Peterboro District

As our subscribers include hundreds of those earning their living by various departments and branches of labor, as do reporters by showing a spasid, it will be of interest to them to learn that the January number of the Labor Gazette contains the following report of conditions at Peterborough from the local correspondent, Ald. W. J. Johnson:

Work in general for the past month has been fairly active, considering the season of the year and the large number of workingmple that have come to reside in the city during the past summer. A large number of families from Great Britain have recently taken up their residence here, they are principally laborers. Work for this class has been somewhat dull, and many of them are in reduced circumstances. The cordage works, after being shut down for general repairs, has started again with one hundred hands, this number is a few weeks' time will be increased to about 200. The total value of the building permits issued during the year amounted to $767,340.00, divided as follows: In April, $2,420; in May, $533,000, 42 in June, $56,678; 21 in July, $35,700; 28 in August, $18,600, 43 in September, $462,700; 28 in October, $76,643; 8 in November, $8,325, and 4 in December, $1,900. Some of these structures will not be completed until next year. The Peterboro' Canoe Company is making 100 tobogganns, and is also very busy on canoe work. Curtis Bros. closed the season after an output of 4,500,000 bricks, their largest output for any one season. Heavy shipments of live stock took place during the month, and local dealers were very busy. Work on the Collegiate Institute is being hurried, but work on the construction of the Armouries, Normal School and Roman Catholic Church is stopped until the spring. The Christmas trade was exceptionally good, and business of all kinds exceeded that of any former year. Activity prevailed in commercial circles, and wholesale and retail trade was never better. Wages remain unchanged.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES

Agriculture. — Agricultural work was somewhat quiet, as is usual at this time of the year, farmers being employed in hauling produce to the market.

Fishing.—Dullness prevails.

Lumbering.—Activity was the rule. Lumber dealers have reduced wages from $35 to $26 per month. A large number of men have left the camps, and will not work at the reduced rate. It is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in replacing the men that left, as a great numbers are out of employment. All the men that remained in the camps will be paid at the rate of $30 to $28 per month, and any new men going at the rate of $18 to $26 per month.

The Peterborough Lumber Company output for the season amounted to 7,000,000.

Manufacturing. — Industrial establishments were active.

Mining.—Dull conditions prevailed.

Railroad construction and employment.—Work was confined to general repairing and keeping the track and equipment in good order.

CONDITION OF PARTICULAR TRADES.

Building.—Carpenters and joiners, plasterers, painters and plumbers were active, but dullness prevailed with bricklayers, masons, lathers, gas and steamfitters, stonecutters and builders' laborers.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding.—Activity prevailed with iron moulders, iron workers and helpers, machinists and engineers, brassworkers and blacksmiths, shipwrights, shoe; metal workers and tinsmiths, while electrical workers and jewellers were busy, and tailormakers found employment dull.

Printing — December has been a good month; work during Christmas week was never faster.

Clothing.—Journeymen tailors were active; garment and boot and shoe workers busy and hat workers dull.

Food and tobacco preparation. — Bakers and confectioners, butchers and meatcutters were busy, cigarmakers and tobacco workers active, and re-handlers dull.

Leather.—Harness and collar makers were active.

Miscellaneous. — These trades were busy.

Transport.—All branches of railway employment were exceedingly busy.

Steamboat men, carters, draymen and teamsters found employment dull, but ocrve conditions prevailed with draymen and street railway employees.

Unskilled.—Employment for this class was scarce.

DISTRICT NOTES.

Work throughout the district consisted of chopping cordwood, threshing and hauling to market different kinds of produce, the price of which remains much the same as stated in former report, while a slight reduction in the price of wheat, oats and barley. Cheese factory operations are suspended for the winter months. A profitable season was reported.

Ny'e's Creek.—A new dam eight feet high and 54 feet long has been completed. It has a slide constructed specially for running logs.

Lindsay.—A new wheel factory has begun work, employing 17 hands and turning out twenty set of wheels per day.

Lakefield.—The Cavendish Lumber Company reported an output of 17,000,000 feet.

No Fear of Dynastic Changes

Chicago, Feb. 7. — Count Santa Rosalia, Portuguese consul to Chicago, expressed the conviction yesterday that the assassinations will not result in dynastic changes in Portugal. He said that he felt the tragic culmination of the long period of discontent which has shaken the country would tend to rouse reactionary sentiment and weaken rather than advance the cause of the revolutionary party.

"While there has been much opposition to the late King Carlos, both among the members of the nobility and the commoners," he said, "I cannot but feel that this sudden sinister outburst of hatred will tend to re-establish poise and to restore perspective among my countrymen. They are not an emotional, at least not a hysterical, people, and this deplorable affair will serve to open their eyes to the drift of events.

"Furthermore, the attitude of England must not be overlooked. In a crisis of such international significance it cannot be doubted that England will play a great part in enforcing internal peace. Technically she is bound by existing treaties to maintain order and to protect the present dynasty, but beyond that formal bond England and Portugal have interests in common. Their colonies lie close together and their trade relations are exceptionally intimate. Behind all this the friendly feeling between them is of long standing.

"The young king I consider a youth of great ability, far abler than his elder brother, Prince Luis. I knew him, of course, when he was a child of 6 or 7 years of age, and he was the pride of the court. He gave exceptional promise and was popular. The importance of this personal liking which the people have for the young man will be great just now."

"It surprised me to receive the number of communications which have been pouring in upon me since the tragedy became known," said the count. "They have reached me from all sections of the country and all express the sincerest regret. Most of the Portuguese residents in this country are not from Portugal, but they seem to feel the same ties of country and loyalty to the dead sovereign which residence there would have given them. Most of them, however, are from the Azores and from other Portuguese possessions and have never set foot in my country."

Most of the count's Sunday was taken up with answering these communications and reassuring his anxious fellow countrymen. At the count's request the flag of Portugal flying over the Auditorium Hotel, where he lives, was lowered to half-mast.

THE GRAIN TRADE

Grain shipments during 1907 from Fort William and Port Arthur over the Great Lakes, were larger than in any previous year. The shipments comprise wheat, oats, barley and flax. In 1904 the total shipments were 80,311,000 bushels: in 1905, they mounted up to 42,405,000 bushels; in 1906 there was another large increase to 51,026,000 bushels; in 1907, they reached the total of 69,394,000 bushels. In short, the shipments in 1907 were exactly double of those in 1904. This is an enormous increase in three years.

It is interesting to note that the shipments from Fort William continue to exceed those from Port Arthur, although the increases are in about equal proportions for each of the twin harbors. In 1907 the sixty million bushels was divided between the two ports in the following ratio: Port Arthur, 21 1-3; Fort William, 38 1-3. A great C. P. R. official once claimed he would destroy Port Arthur and make grass grow in its streets. A port that sends out twenty-one and a half million bushels of grain in one short season is not very dead.

Of the total sixty million bushels 47,676,000 were wheat and 10,706,000 were oats. The destinations are also interesting. Buffalo got twelve and a half million bushels of wheat and the remainder went to Montreal and St. John. Very little of Montreal's share went direct, most of it going through Owen Sound, Midland, Depot Harbor, Port Edward, Meaford, Goderich, Kingston and Prescott. Of these towns, Kingston leads with Depot Harbor second.

There is another notable feature. The amount carried by foreign vessels decreased in 1907 as compared with 1906; consequently the amount carried in Canadian bottoms showed a very large increase. Thirty-eight of the forty-seven and a half million bushels of wheat was transported by Canadian vessels.

From these facts, it may be seen that the shipping season on the Great Lakes has been most successful and, no doubt, exceedingly profitable. An increase of twenty per cent. in a poor harvest year shows what may happen in 1908 if the harvest is more normal.

New Election Law to be Very Strict

Ottawa, February 6. — Government bills to amend the election laws and respecting the railway commission were before the Cabinet in council on Saturday afternoon, and were discussed in detail. The measures as finally drafted will be presented to Parliament shortly. In addition to providing stiffer penalties for all forms of election frauds and the changing of some of the present regulations with a view to more adequately guarding against ballot switching, the new election act, it is understood, will follow the English act in respect to compelling the publication of election expenses in greater detail than is at present required. In connection with the bill respecting the railway commission, the Government is now trying to draft a satisfactory clause providing for the interchange of messages among all telephone companies operating in Canada. The problem is somewhat complicated by reason of the fact that independent telephone companies have different systems from the Bell Company, and the latter object to transacting long distance messages over their lines from other companies whose equipment is poor and whose lines are not adapted for long-distance telephoning. In case of complaints arising from unsatisfactory service to customers, the Bell Company fear they would suffer for the fault of other companies.

RAN THROUGH RAPIDS

CANADIAN WINS $1,000 BY FEAT OF RECKLESS DARING.

Negotiated Big Horn Canyon for First Time in History—Boat Overturned Five Times In Awful Maelstroms—Feat Thought to Be Impossible — Fearful Gorge Called "Waters of Death."

A nervy Canadian has recently succeeded in making the passage of the dreaded Big Horn Canyon, winning $1,000 in gold and successfully accomplishing a feat which has heretofore been considered impossible by the Americans, a feat in which at least a dozen men have lost their lives. Where the Big Horn River breaks through the mountains in the terrible canyon, the Indians, many years ago, gave it the name of the "Waters of Death," and the fearful gorge has deserved that name both in looks and in fact.

W. C. Harned is the Canadian who made the successful trip. Harned was for many years a boatman on the rapids in the St. Lawrence river, and was known as the most proficient of all the guides there. But he drifted west and settled down in Shoshoni, from whence he made the start through the canyon which lies between that town and Thermopolis.

The Bet Made.

Two months ago Col. George M. Sliney, a banker of Thermopolis, in speaking of the canyon, made the statement that it was impossible for a human being to ever pass through there and live to tell of it.

"You're wrong there, colonel," drawled Harned. "I've gone through places just as bad as the Big Horn Canyon, and I can go through there."

"You've won my $100 if you do," promptly replied the colonel, and the bet was on.

Harned secured the assistance of an old frontiersman and guide, now a business man of Shoshoni, named Winne, and the two went to work to build a boat which would withstand almost anything. Poplar and oak were used, and after the skiff was put together, it was sheeted from stem to stern with the heaviest cowhide.

Whole Town Turns Out.

The whole town of Shoshoni, at the head of the canyon, was at the river when the start was made. No one expected to see either of the men again.

The only Indian legend of an attempt to pass through the "Waters of Death" was made multitudes of moons ago, when a young Sioux chief, having won the love of a Shoshoni maiden, stole his sweetheart from the tepees of her people and attempted to escape with her. They were pursued and their escape by land being cut off, the intrepid Red lover and his bride took to the water in a dugout and attempted to run the rapids of the canyon. The following day the pieces of the boat were picked up along the bank below the canyon. The bodies were not found.

In 1889 three white trappers embarked in a canoe on the torrents, and several days later all three bodies were recovered near Thermopolis.

At several different times since then foolhardy frontiersmen have attempted the passage, and every one has paid for his rashness with his life.

Inferno For 12 Miles.

So, when the crowd at the river bade farewell to Harned and Winne, they never expected to see them again. Some portions of the lower part of the canyon have been explored, but for 12 miles not a soul ever saw one foot of the canyon's way, and lived to tell of it. For these 12 miles the river averages 400 feet in width, and rushes between precipitous rock walls from 600 to 3,000 feet high. The current is from 10 to 25 miles an hour, and is a veritable inferno of maelstroms, whirlpools, cataracts, cross currents with jagged rocks, sharp, savage and submerged throughout the entire length. The canyon ends a few miles above Thermopolis.

The skiff left Shoshoni at 10 o'clock in the morning, the departure being telephoned to Thermopolis. Practically the entire population of the latter town went at once to the canyon's mouth to await the coming of the dead bodies of the adventurers.

Bruised and Bleeding.

At 5 o'clock that afternoon the boat shot out of the black jaws of the canyon. Both men were utterly exhausted. They were cut and bruised and bleeding, wet to the skin, but still full of fight.

Five separate times did their boat overturn, throwing the voyagers into the frightful waters. Three times Harned saved the life of Winne, and twice did Winne pull Harned in after the latter was almost dead. Nothing but the heavy cowskin sheeting saved their lives dozens of times. The rocks were unable to puncture this covering, and the light skiff rode the waters with ease where no rocks appeared. The canyon had been conquered, "but we don't want any more of it," said Harned.

Made Purse $1,000.

Col. Sliney was one of the party which helped haul the cowskin boat ashore. Instead of handing over the $100 agreed upon, the colonel threw a bag containing $1,000 in gold into the skiff, and then, with the two men still in the boat, it was lifted on broad shoulders and carried through the town, followed by a brass band and every citizen of the little city.

Scourge of Wolves.

Word received from Fort Chippewan, at Winnipeg, indicates that wolves are becoming a positive scourge in the far north. An Indian woman and two children had been dragged out of their tepee and devoured. Deer and other animals are being depleted by the packs. The Indians refuse to kill them, even under the inducement of the $10 bounty, owing to superstition and a belief in the transmigration of souls.

The same despatch says that the police are close on the trail of Fischy, the half-breed swindler, wanted on a charge of forgery and embezzling $25,000.

Humorous Chinese Graft.

A certain Chinese taotai (magistrate) having told his men to have two ingots of gold sent to his treasury for purchase, the shopmen brought them in and in answer to the query of the taotai told him that the price was so much in taels, but added, "This is the ordinary price, but for your honor we will knock off one-half of the price." Then the taotai said to his underlings: "Seeing that they are to sell to me at only one-half price, just give them back one ingot of gold and put the other in my treasury, and thus their account is settled. Goodby." So the underlings of the yamen did so, but still the shopmen hung around waiting. The taotai asked them why they were waiting, when their account had been already settled. Said the shopmen, "When did your honor pay your humble servants?" Then the magistrate answered with a very fierce air: "Talo nu ta-ai" (impertinent slaves), "did you not say that these two gold ingots were half price to me? Then did I not give you back one ingot and keep the other and thus settle your account without the least injustice according to your own proposition? So be off with you or my lictors will give you a taste of the scourge."

A Singular Calculation.

It would require, according to the calculations of a scientist, the power of a 10,000 horsepower engine about 70,000,000,000 years to lift the earth a foot in height, and to do this work, allowing thirteen pounds of water per horsepower per hour, would require some 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 gallons of water, or more than would be discharged at the mouth of the Mississippi in 6,000 years. This would be enough, the writer estimates, to cover the entire surface of the earth to a depth of not less than 300 feet, to convert which into steam, using good boilers, would require some 4,000,000,000,000,000 tons of coal. If the latter quantity of the mineral was loaded on cars of twenty tons each it would demand 200,000,000,000,000 such cars. If the latter were thirty feet long and all coupled together in one train it would reach around the earth 45,000,000 times and, if running twenty-five miles per hour, would consume 25,000,000 years in running the length of itself. So much for figures.

Dear Coffee.

Louis XIV. of France drank the first cup of coffee made in western Europe. Coffee was then worth £5 10s. a pound.

Ancient Wines.

The wines of the ancients would not be thought palatable today, for they were mixed with sea water, resin, salt, pitch and aromatic herbs, exposed in smoky garrets till reduced to a sirup and then strained and mixed with water.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age; to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so elects, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

"There she goes!"

Little Compton gave the alarm, and everybody in the Pasquale studio leaped for the windows as the white automobile whizzed by. Four easels crashed on the floor. The model, a slender, dryad figure, with a spray of spring boughs over the bare shoulder and a trail of grass green velvet from bust to ankle, broke her pose and turned her head.

Pasquale himself had been the first to run and had a front seat, so to speak, at the middle window, with Jules Le Breton towering over him.

No one spoke until the moment of suspense was passed and the white auto had swerved around the corner of the Boulevard des Anges. Then a low, intense breath of released suspense sounded audibly through the bare room, and the Pasquale students stared into one another's eyes, rapturously, gloatingly, just exactly as they had done every day at the same hour for six days.

"She is celestial," murmured Le Breton humbly as he lifted his fallen easel.

But he did not place crayon to paper again that afternoon. He sat and smoked a short Amiens pipe and stared at the spray of spring boughs on the model's bare shoulder, and the blood bounded through his veins joyously, bubblingly, like the little mountain brooks breaking through thin April ice.

Le Breton had spring fever; also, in a minor degree, Le Breton was newly in love again.

Pasquale crossed the room as soon as the model had resumed the pose, and he bent affectionately forward over Le Breton's chair and tapped on the plump bowl of the Amiens pipe to recall Le Breton's soul from the asphodel meadow of day dreams.

"Mon ami, I have discovered a small thing," he said in an undertone so that Compton from Delaware would not hear. Compton from Delaware was a cynic, a person utterly beyond the gates of spring enchantment. He had the artistic temperament, but it showed itself in his work, not his hair nor his loves nor his words. And therein Compton from Delaware was absolutely an original and unique character among the art students at Pasquale's. Also he was absolutely despised as a hopeless business proposition. But the eyes of the girl with the spring boughs passed over Le Breton's blond ringlets and velvet blouse and lingered on the close cropped head of Little Compton from Delaware.

It was the way he had with women. "I have discovered her habitation," whispered Pasquale. "She is a widow."

"A widow in white!" Le Breton's half closed eyes flashed open. "Ah, but it is her whim. It is her divinity revealing itself. It is her symbol of release. She did not love him if she can mourn in white. But the art elusive, enchanting, mysterious, to garb herself from top to toe in svelte white suede, to swathe her face in creamy chiffon like an houri, to challenge one's daring, to pique the curiosity, does it not all prove the woman behind the veil, the woman celestial, yet with the dash, the mere touch, so like the high light of the diabolique in her bereaved nature? Where does she live, Pasquale?"

Pasquale glanced sideways at Little Compton. He was extremely busy giving a touch to the clasp of gold on the model's left arm, a touch to make it gleam.

"At the Hotel Lombard," said Pasquale. "I have engaged the interest of the small boy at the garage. She is a widow, Mme. Germaine—La Belle Germaine. And she lives at the Lombard. So, my Jules, I give you the cue for the romance, n'est-ce-pas?"

Le Breton rose and stretched his arms widely until they touched the gas jet above his head.

"I shall fling violets at her—vast clusters of them, dew wet; Parma violets—straight into her arms as she passes each day until she recognizes me," he said. "I shall pierce the white chiffon veil with opera glasses and see if her eyes divine are melting blue or gloriously, ravishingly dark, like la Zingara. I shall"—

"You will make the customary blooming idiot of yourself, Jules," called Compton from Delaware over his shoulder with cheerful unction. "How many children did the last divinity have after you had followed the trail of romance for two weeks and finally landed her in a bakery over the Seine?"

Le Breton raised a glass of ice water to deposit it below the adjacent coat collar, but he stayed his hand and drank the water diplomatically. Once, once long ago, he had not stayed his hand, and the memory of the resultant episode lingered yet. Little Compton had risen swiftly and deftly, promptly floored him. And even the model had laughed. It was not a pleasant memory. Therefore Le Breton stayed his hand and drank of the ice water.

Squirrels in Missouri.

Squirrels are generally thickest in the heavy hickory timber in the big tracts of overcup oaks. When these crops have borne but slightly the squirrel transfers his feeding grounds to the willow oak flats, where an abundance of these small acorns makes up for the lack of other dainties. But if a farmer has plowed up a tract of rich swamp land and planted it in corn, then the gray squirrel feels as though the nut crop was but a very common diet and levies tribute day after day on the farmer who has had the audacity to invade a territory that has been sacred to him for centuries.

Gray squirrels are out stirring from the first gray of dawn until the hour of 10 a. m. After that they are not seen again until 4 p. m. On very windy days few stir about. During the nutting season they are very gentle, and during the latter part of January, while watching the mallards drop into the willow oak flats, they scampered all around us, and hardly a tree but held a band of these running varmints. Often they boldly returned within ten yards of us. In the fall they are more wary of man and make good shooting as they run and jump from tree to tree, as they seldom lie still and permit one to walk all around their tree, like the fox squirrel of the hills.—Forest and Stream.

Tobacco Tongs.

The tongs, the size of a wishbone, were of rough gold, studded here and there with turquoises.

"They are tobacco tongs," said the antiquary. "They date back to Elizabeth's time. This pair belonged to Raleigh—at least I have been told so, and who is there to contradict me? In Elizabeth's time they had no matches. When a man wanted a light, therefore, he took his tobacco tongs from his girdle and sipped out of the fire a redhot chunk of wood. This glowing coal, held in the tongs, gave a beautiful light. Tobacco tongs, as my pair witnesses, were often very costly and ornate. Of gold, of silver, of ivory and decorated with diamonds, rubies, emeralds and so forth, they were pretty trinkets to dangle upon silken coats. They are being revived now. Cigarette holders are being made in their shape. That is why I keep this old pair in my window."—Los Angeles Times.

Ancient Sweetmeats.

Some sweetmeats have for centuries remained unchanged in their composition. The custards and omelets of 500 years ago still remain unchanged. Again, centuries ago slices of apple, parsnip, etc., were dipped in batter and fried just as we make our beignets. In the fifteenth century "to mak payn pardieu" the cooks fried "payn mayne or fresshe bred" and sessed it with yolks of eggs sweetened. In the cookery books of today we find "pain perdu" means slices of stale bread soaked in milk, then dipped in beaten egg and fried in boiling fat and served hot in custard.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Thirst.

Rinsing the mouth with very hot water stops the thirst. This is safer than drinking when the body is overheated.

Great Britain's Territory.

According to the authority of an English magazine, Great Britain controls 21 out of every 100 square miles of the earth's surface and 24 out of every 100 square miles of territory in North and South America.

CRIMINAL APPEAL.

High Court Judges Criticise Newly Established Court.

The opinions of three High Court judges relating to the new Court of Criminal Appeal, which will come into operation next April, were given recently at the opening of various assizes, and they showed themselves rather opposed to the new institution.

At Devizes, Mr. Justice Darling said it did not provide for appeals against dismissals, so that an appeal was given to one side and not to the other.

There had been many very accomplished persons in the past who had a morbid dislike to having their decisions appealed against. When he was first made a judge the late Lord Justice A. L. Smith said to him, "Now here you are, and let me give you a bit of advice. Go straight on, give the best decisions you can, and don't care a scintilla about the Court of Appeal." The word used was not "scintilla"—it was a Scriptural word—but he had substituted a forensic word for it.

Mr. Justice Jelf, at Berks Assizes, said the statute was only intended to provide an exceptional remedy for any exceptional wrong, which might otherwise have remained unredressed.

When all the powers of the new Act were exhausted the prerogative of mercy vested in the Sovereign would still remain intact, and in all probability the Home Secretary's discretion as to recommending pardon or commutation of sentence would in some cases be exercised even after the Court of Criminal Appeal had confirmed the verdict and sentence.

At Cambridge Assizes, Sir William Grantham declared that, in his judgment, the Act was unnecessary. The only thing he could say in its favor was that it was very creditable to the kind and good feelings of those who introduced it, and thought it necessary that criminals should have the same right of appeal as existed in civil cases, forgetting that the whole system of criminal jurisprudence had the effect of making the trial a final appeal.

He hoped the Act would not affect juries in the verdicts they gave, but he feared it would make them less mindful of giving prisoners the benefit of the doubt, because they would have the chance of appeal. That might lead to a miscarriage of justice, because if a man was unfortunately wrongly convicted it would be very difficult to get the matter set right again.

1,500 Mrs. Wiggses.

The Adelphi Theatre, London, England, housed a strange audience on a recent afternoon in the 1,500 Mrs. Wiggses, who entertained to a performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," by Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, who acts the name part in that play.

The English types in real life of the humble heroine of the American story were selected by ninety-five clergymen in various parts of London.

Soon after Mrs. Cook made it known that she was anxious for clergymen to co-operate with her in getting an audience of humble, hard-working, poor women, whose chances of seeing a play must be few, to attend a special matinee of Mrs. Wiggs," applications poured in, until the number of seats asked for amounted to 12,000.

The matinee began at two o'clock and after the first act tea was handed round to the visitors. At the conclusion of the performance Canon Horsley said a few words to the audience, and then the 1,500 Mrs. Wiggses departed for their homes, the expenses of those who come from poor and distant London parishes being defrayed by the management of the Adelphi Theatre.

Fruit Cookies.

One cup of butter worked to a cream with two cups of granulated sugar. Add three well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, ground; one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one cup of raisins, stoned and chopped; one cup of nuts, chopped; enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Roll thin, bake in a quick oven, brushing over before baking with an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar.

Cool House in Summer.

In the early morning open wide every door and window for two hours. Then close the doors, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and draw down the shades close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and providing a circulation of air a house may be kept cool.

Girls' Ideals.

Girls nowadays seldom care to get married before they are twenty-five. They are willing to get engaged, and many girls say that the ideal life is to live at home, have some business to occupy their time and a fiance to spend his money on their amusement.

Add a little boiling water to the sweet milk used when you are making biscuits, and lee shortening will be needed. The result will be quite the same.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain species Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting success whatsoever were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We said and sincerely recommend

TO THE DISCOURAGED.

Live Up to Your Highest Mental Development and You'll Succeed.

Meet your problems with an effort of the mind. Meet your difficulties, your sorrows, your disappointments, with an effort of the will, which is a struggle of the brain.

Devote your energies to maintaining mental alertness. Remember that the brain inside your skull contains all your hope for the future, all your possibilities of usefulness as well as pleasure, since there alone sensation and real activity exists.

Use your brain to succeed and, above all, use your brain to counteract the depressing, discouraging effects of failure.

Remember that if you do as well as you can you have done all that you ought to do. Don't worry about the superior achievements of others. You have no cause for worry unless your life fails to bring you up to your highest possible degree of mental development.

HELPFUL HINTS.

If the covers of the kitchen range get red and will not blacken easily, try rubbing on lemon juice first, then blacken the usual way.

Wall paper which has been marked with grease may be cleansed by means of a hot iron and a blotter or several sheets of tissue paper.

A small brush, borax and hot water will give a beautiful polish to cut glass. When drained rub with a clean cloth or a soft dry brush.

Hang a child's blackboard in the kitchen, with a piece of chalk attached. It is more convenient than pencil and paper and not so easily lost.

It will be economy to finish your sheets with the same width hem at each end. By so doing they can be used either side up and gain much wear.

Whoever has tried to fasten a nail or screw in a plastered wall will welcome a solution to the puzzle. Burrow a hole slightly larger than the screw, fill with plaster of paris and insert the screw in the moist substance. It will be firm in a very short time.

NOTICE—1000 ISLANDS

Notice is hereby given in regard to the following condition in the terms of sale of the 1,000 Islands in the St. Lawrence, viz:—

"As regards small rocks, reefs, or "shoals, the question of disposing of "the same to the owners of larger islands adjoining, will, upon application to the department, receive due consideration," that unless applications for such rocks, reefs or shoals by owners of larger islands are made to the undersigned within three months from date, disposition thereof will be made to first applicants.

The unauthorized insertion of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Gentle Laxative Needed for the Aged and Feeble

With the advance of years the vital functions of the body slow down. The organs of secretion grow weak, the peristaltic action of the bowels is perceptibly lessened and dangerous constipation develops.

What is the result? Poisonous substances over-run the system, the circulation is engorged with wastes, the brain is filled with blood, the hands and feet grow numb with cold, the whole body twitches and trembles.

A drastic cathartic is dangerous.

Nothing will cure but a gentle laxative like Dr Hamilton's Pills; their action not only extends to the stomach, liver and kidneys, but is directed to the secretory glands, and increases their fluidity and volume.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are different from other pills. Their activity in moving the secretory apparatus is profound, but their action is so mild, so free from grips that it seems scarcely possible you have taken medicine at all. Yet they do the work efficiently, and this is why they are so widely prescribed for old folks who need a laxative and system tonic.

CURED BY DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

Headache.	Constipation.
Biliousness.	Sallowness.
Dizziness.	Colicky Bowels.
Vertigo.	Dyspepsia.
Slow Liver.	Bad Breath.
Bad Dreams.	Poor Appetite.

A Guarantee in Each Case.

For your own sake, keep Dr. Hamilton's Pills within reach. Take them whenever you feel unwell; they clean out the entire system, keep it pure and in working order. Purely vegetable in composition, safe for young or old, no system tonic compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers.

Mr. Bartholomew Crowley Dead

It was learned yesterday that Mr. Bartholomew Crowley of this city passed away during the morning in Toronto. The funeral arrangements are not yet known, but the late Mr. Crowley, an old resident of Peterborough, will, in all probability, be buried in Peterborough.

The Echo on Local Option

The Manitou Echo says: Local option literature is becoming quite popular, and as it requires no irrigation, and saves to many a family more than the price of their flour each year, will probably reach our town by-and-by. It appears to be coming via Gilmour and Kinmount.

Recovered Lost Money

Yesterday morning two young men brothers, called at the police station and asked Chief Russel, "Have you found a pocket book dropped in town to-day?" "What kind of pocket book was the one you lost and what did it contain?" the chief wanted to know. "Two ten dollar bills," replied the owner, who gave a good description of the purse which he bought in Brandon, Man., and which contained $20 in bills. He left rejoicing.

Bricklayers' Banquet a Success

The annual banquet of the local Union of Bricklayers and Stonemasons, held last night in Messrs. Long and Hanger's fine Palm Gardens, was a grand success. A splendid menu was provided, and notwithstanding the familiarity of these trades with the latter, it was certainly not a case of asking for bread and getting a stone. The union has every reason to be congratulated on the success of last night's banquet. The speeches were well timed and in most cases replete with wit.

Stop Reward, Stop

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Personal

Miss Ada Barrie, of Newcastle, who has been visiting in the city, left yesterday for home.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.L.A., is in Toronto attending the session of the Provincial Legislature.

Miss Madge Mahaney, of Barrie, is the guest of Miss Beatrice Dutton, London street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's will be held in the church parlor to-day at three o'clock.

Mr. Thomas Leamouth, of Hastings, spent Saturday with Mrs. Leamouth, Stewart street, on his way home from Cobourg, where he was attending County Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sanderson, of Moosejaw, have been visiting in the city, the guests of Mrs. Hartley, Water street. They go to Ottawa to-day.

Among the passengers booked for London, England, via the C.P.R. Atlantic liner, "Empress of Ireland," who left generally, were Miss R. Yeates, Mrs. W. Gesman and Mr. J. H. Forsyth.

Owing to the snowblockade of the railroads, among those detained in Peterborough yesterday include Senator G. W. Ross, late Premier of Ontario; Mr. W. F. McLean, M.P.P., proprietor of the Toronto World; Mr. Cockshutt, M.P., of Brantford, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and Prof. Fernow, Professor of Forestry in the University of Toronto.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Passing Band Scares a Horse

Whilst a passing band, with its members dressed in a garb that would make Joseph's coat of many colors look in comparison like a Quaker meeting, was passing along George street, southward bound, yesterday morning towards the Grand Opera House, the driver of a seemingly fractious horse had his own troubles. Just as the band was passing the Trimm office a gentleman driving a short-tailed colt, mated (i.e., the driver) in a cutter, the cornet, trombone, flute, harp, zither, dulcimer and big drum of the band gave the horse a fright. The animal did not know whether to go up in the air, make for Lakefield or upset the cutter into the deep snow. Fortunately the driver, who was, to use a slang expression, "no to his job," hung on to the ribbons in good style, and convinced the quadruped that a big drum or trombone would not eat it.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Got Fish Without Rod, Line or Bait

It was reported to the Times yesterday morning that a cheap thief had about six o'clock the preceding evening stolen a whole box of fish, to wit, finnan haddie, from in front of Messrs. Porter's meat and grocery stores, known generally as Porter's Delicatessen. The box was on the outside shelf at 5.45, and at 6 o'clock or fifteen minutes later it had disappeared. Now as below zero weather finnan haddie do not evaporate and go into the ambient atmosphere spontaneously. Even if they did the box would be left. Again a man on the opposite side of the street saw the box taken, but from the bold way the theft was carried out, naturally considered the man picking up the box must have authority for such act. It is now up to the fishermen, who fished without either rod, line nor bait, to return the goods.

Mr. Chas. Cook Has Lost Photographs

It seems that the agent who bothers private houses in his quest to enlarge pictures, photographs, or other representations of living or dead relatives, at so much per, has again visited Peterborough.

Yesterday morning Mr. Charles Cooke, of Hall street, called at the police station and noted the loss of three photographs of great personal and family interest. These pictures he gave to a travelling agent to enlarge and frame, and wanted to know how he could recover the originals. Mr. Cooke stated that a man by the name of Shipley, whose headquarters were at Toronto, called at his house last August and took the pictures with him, and promised to return them in a couple of weeks. They included one of Mr. Cooke taken in India while serving in the British Army. The other two photos were those of Mrs. Cook's parents. Mr. Cook prizes these photographs very highly. He will at once write the chief of police at Toronto in an endeavor to find the agent who absconded with the pictures. No cash deposit was made at the time.

More Subscriptions to Children's Aid Society

The Times has, many a time and oft', called attention to the splendid work done by the Children's Aid Society of this city, and strenuously recommended those with the ability to forge the money as far as their power or ability went. Just now the society, with whom in their splendid work must be connected the name of Mr. Goodwill, is doing great work in relieving distress all over the city in a careful yet thorough manner.

Among the latest subscribers to the funds at the disposal of the society are:

(Whilst subscriptions to help the cause of, say, $25 to $100 or more are most acceptable and will be well spent, even sums of from 25 cents to $1.00 all mean so many more meals for so many people, both adults and children in distress.

Late Jos. Lundy's Funeral Today

In our issue of yesterday we noted the lamented death of Mr. Joseph Lundy the preceding evening at his residence, 340 Aylmer street.

It might be added that the late Mr. Lundy was born in Ballyshannon, County Cavan, Ireland, came to Canada and settled in Peterborough. Mr. Lundy was 77 years of age. He leaves a family, consisting of four sons, Joseph and William of Peterborough, and Richard and Frank of Toronto. His wife predeceased him eight years ago. Mr. Lundy held the office of assessor and returning officer for a great many years. As a contractor he built the C.P.R. stations between Toronto and Indian River, except at Peterborough. The funeral will be at two o'clock to-day from his late residence, to the Little Lake Cemetery. It might be noted that his sons Richard and Frank, of Toronto, were here in time for the last.

Sports

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Turf Club was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the City Hotel, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. Johnson.
Vice-President—James O'Brien.
Sec.-Treas.—Chas. R. Nelson.
Track Manager—Martin Connors.

The club proposes having a big three days' meeting in August.

HOCKEY.

One of the largest crowds of the season turned out last night to see the hockey match but wemthe Rough Riders and the Young Ladies' team of this city. The game was a very interesting and exciting one. The proceeds will be donated to the Children's Aid Society.

The Rough Riders appeared on the ice in skirts, and their graceful figures caused great amusement for the spectators. During the last half the Rough Riders, by mutual agreement with the feminine puck chasers, handled their sticks with one hand. It was a close game from start to finish, as the score, 3 to 2 in favor of the young ladies indicates. The sensational feature of the game was the end to end rush of Miss Ola Cavanagh, which resulted in a score.

Following is the line-up:

That this growing manufacturing centre is one of the most sober and of the highest morality in the wide world is demonstrated by the fact that it, in several days since the police court term last, only terminates before it. Yesterday not even a lonely drunk was hauled before the magistrate. Would it be possible anywhere in the world to find a manufacturing town of 15,000 or 16,000 inhabitants to go day after day without a single charge of any degree against a single citizen. Of course the strenuous work of the local police is accountable, in a large part, for the lack of vagrants and such gentry, for, unless or no police, for a city of this size to keep the police court doors shut, day after day, is not only a compliment to the efficiency of the police department, but also a cause of great self congratulation to the citizens at large.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our hearts, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

TRENT CANAL

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION

SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 13th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,

L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Let Common Sense decide.

If the little sharp aches, the shortness of breath, the dull mental condition, disappear when coffee is discontinued, there's no need of any argument.

Then when all the functions begins to run smoothly, nerves steady, brain clear, appetite natural as a result of drinking Postum in place of the drug-berating coffee, common sense will decide where comfort is.

AND THIS IS THE TIME TO BUY

MONEY IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX OR AN OLD STOCKINGS DOES NOT INCREAR YOUR WEALTH

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated, for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets, of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 100 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

FOR EVERY FORTUNE BUILT BY A WISE INVESTOR, A FINANCIAL COWARD GOES TO THE POORHOUSE

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 6,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 9,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

THE BITTER COLD WEATHER BRINGS DEATH TO MANY

Starvation and Exposure Get Many Victims in New York

Were Frozen to Death

New York, Feb. 8. — After having been dropped to a low record mark for the season, the temperature late yesterday lifted just enough to shake loose the second real snow that New Yorkers have seen this winter. The advent of the snow was timed to the homeward bound thousands.

Nearly all day the weather held crisp and clear and coaxed out the Fifth avenue throng and filled the parks. While the happy crowds made merry on the Park Lakes, the charitable societies were doling out to the "other side" of New York life.

Penetrating a dingy nook in the garret floor of a Pat street tenement, agents of the Children's Society found a mother and two children huddled about a fireless stove, miserably waiting death from starvation and cold. Louis Brown, Julius, aged five, crouched on the floor, their hands clutching the stove in which the fire had long since died. A stove and a broken down rocker constituted the furnishings and there was no food in the place.

Two women were found dead in the kitchen of a house at No. 351 West 71st street, of which they were caretakers. They were Mrs. Margaret Meek Bertle, 70 years old, and Mrs. Margaret Kelly, 40 years old.

They were frozen to death. Pawn tickets showed that Mrs. Bertle had pawned eighteen articles of dress and jewellery were found.

The police reported several deaths from exposure. Many destitute ones were warmed and fed, but thousands more shivered in grand silence.

When the snow fell began far more than could be accommodated sought shelter at the refuge houses. Fainting women, men and children in their arms pleaded for food, first for their young and then for themselves. Long before eleven o'clock, the hour for food distribution, the flowery bread line numbered many more than did the loaves to be dealt out.

Hundreds of men anxious for employment gathered early at the agencies and silently prayed that the flakes would pile higher.

DRIFTS WERE EIGHTEEN FEET HIGH

Locust Hill, Feb 7.—Near Locust Hill a drift eighteen feet high was cut through by the C. P. R. snow plough. Time after time in the last six miles before Burketon Junction was reached the gang had in turn to be driven out in some cases. Those very badly frozen were allowed to remain in the cars. As fast as the snow drifted in it packed down and froze hard on the rails and around the wheels.

No. 3, from Montreal, mailed on Wednesday at Burketon Junction, will leave for Toronto upon the arrival of the snow plough from Pongjawl. She was pulled by two of the biggest engines, and many thirty men in covering the last mile beyond Burketon Junction.

Experienced railway men say that the storm of the last three days was the worst in their memory.

Bad Fire at Mandall's Junk Establishment

Yesterday morning about 10.15 o'clock a fire alarm rang out calling the fire brigade to Mandall Bros.' junk storehouse at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets. This firm occupied the premises recently vacated by Mr. M. Carton.

The fire, which is alleged to have started from a stove pipe, destroyed the office portion and did considerable other damage. Messrs. Mandall Bros. claim that fully $400 worth of damage was done. Had it not been for the prompt arrival of the brigade and their strenuous work much more loss would have been involved.

Two Sheep were Supplied Cook--Cutlets Soon Frying

C.P.R. Passengers were Well Looked After by the Company

Food was Excellent

Burketon Junction, Feb. 7.—Relief train from Toronto in charge of Conductor Thos. Baker, and the shovel brigade of G. T. Humphries, at 11 o'clock were all working hard clearing the branch line at Burketon Junction.

Owing to lack of water, breakfast for the passengers was delayed until 9 a.m., but through the untiring zeal of the dining car conductor, L. Marter, an excellent breakfast was prepared. As soon as it was seen that the train was definitely stalled the dining car staff started out to collect supplies. In spite of the terrific storm a plentiful supply of food was collected from farm houses, and the village baker furnished bread.

Two live sheep were bought and converted into cutlets by the waiters. In view of the great difficulties the food was excellent. The hardest time was at nights. Seats were pulled up and converted into beds. The cars were always comfortably warm.

BOY CARRIES NAME ON BACK.

There is a small boy on the train wearing on the back a ticket with a name. He is a motherless boy and is going to J. J. Kelso's Institute in Toronto. He comes from Chesterville, and was put in nobody's care. The passengers looked after him, as he was utterly alone and could say nothing. The time of cars was taken of him. He had to be completely redressed by the passengers.

There is also a little English girl going to Dr. Barnardo's Home.

A TERRIBLE MINE EXPLOSION IN N. S.--10 MEN KILLED--BODIES WERE QUICKLY TAKEN OUT

Brave Miners Volunteered for the Rescue--Cause is Unknown

Port Hood, C.B., Feb. 7.—An explosion at the south level of the Port Hood Coal Mine this morning resulted in ten men being imprisoned beyond where the explosion occurred, and after-damp prevented any attempts at rescue being successful. All the men perished.

Later.—Manager H. A. Morine, who has just come up from the levels where the explosion took place, reports that the rescuers have now succeeded in taking out the bodies of ten men, who included John Campbell and Duncan R. McDonald, miners, and four Bulgarians, loaders.

No damage whatever was caused to the mine. The explosion was at first believed to be the result of fire-damp, but it is now considered to have arisen from some other cause. An inquest will be held and full particulars brought out.

The miners all volunteered to work for the rescue of the imprisoned men, who were quickly taken out.

Mine-Manager McLelland is constantly on the spot, and all the bodies will be at the surface in a few hours.

The miners' committee of the Provincial Workmen's Association will take full charge of bodies.

POLICE

Yesterday morning His Worship County Police Magistrate George Edmison held a special session of the county police court to pronounce sentence on the young man Frank Hamilton, whom it will be remembered, some weeks ago raised a cheque of a nearby lumber company from $1.40 to $51.40 on a slight alteration to the original of $40. After giving the prisoner a good deal to heart talk, His Worship allowed him, presumably on account of his youth and inexperience, to go on suspended sentence. However, as a check on Hamilton's future behaviour, he must, under conditions imposed, report monthly to County Constable Cochrane, cut out all spirituous liquors, and keep himself before the magistrate at the end of the year. Hamilton seemed much relieved at the easy way he was let off and promised everything asked.

The By-Law Probably Sustained

Millbrook Likely to Have Local Option After May 1st

The recount on the local option vote took place before Judge Bryson, Mr. A. A. Smith, acting for the temperance side, Mr. D. H. Chisholm of Port Hope for the hotel interest, and R. Reidy for the corporation of Millbrook. His Honor went carefully over the ballots and found no errors in the count. Asked by Mr. Chisholm if he would go into the matter further, the judge declined to open up the whole question. He offered, however, to hold his decision for a couple of weeks until a decision of Judge Snyder's of Hamilton was further heard by a higher court, but after consulting with his clients Mr. Chisholm decided to drop the matter, and therefore the by-law stands.

Heroic Work of the C. P. R. Shovellers--Employes at Posts

Burketon Junction, Feb 7.—Ninety-two men hardly gathered by the C.P.R. left the Union Station, Toronto, at 7 o'clock last night in two coaches pulled by the heaviest engines in an attempt to reach Burketon Junction to relieve train No. 3 of Wednesday from Montreal, which was still stalled there. It took 12 hours to cover the 43 miles, and was one of the worst experiences known on this division.

Number 8 Tweed express left Toronto at 6 p.m. Wednesday afternoon with 60 passengers. She was forced to pass the night at Agincourt, and got to Locust Hill at 11 a.m. She was still there at 11 p.m. Thursday. The passengers were well cared for, and were contented, and spoke well of the company.

HARD ON ENGLISHMEN.

The trip to Burketon Junction was a terrible experience for the shovellers, most of whom were Englishmen, unused to Canadian winter. Many were unprovided with gloves, one without a cap, most of them wore thin coats and hard hats, but the officials and employees lent what articles of clothing they could spare to the men. Time after time they were called on to turn out and face the terrific blizzard and zero temperature. Many times the snow piled up to the height of the coach tops, brushing the tail lights of the rear car.

At Locust Hill three trains and seven engines with two snow ploughs were waiting. Two of the heaviest engines sent out with a plough to break the drift would run back half a mile, would make about 50 yards, and then have to be dug out, back up, and then come on at full speed again. At the third attempt the plough mounted the drift, turned completely around, and tore off the trucks, and again rushed past. Nobody was hurt.

The second plough was then used, and managed to get through. The shovellers' train followed slowly, and had to stop frequently to be dug out.

The worst experience was that at 4 a.m. to-day. The train was in an exposed cut, the blizzard so strong, it was impossible to see thirty yards, and the cold was terrible. Numbers of men and employees had their hands and faces so badly frozen that they were unable to go out again. One young man's neck was covered with blood from frozen ears; others cried with pain from frozen hands and cheeks. They had no idea what to do, and came into the warm car. They were completely unprepared for the cold. Hot coffee and sandwiches were provided by the company, and the frost-bitten members were at once attended to by the company. The men were all willing to work, with some exceptions, but suffered severely. Many wrapped their hands in rags.

EMPLOYEES TRIED HARD.

The railway employees made the greatest efforts to keep the line open. A gang of sectionmen were picked up who had been at work for two hours steadily. Train crews had worked fifteen hours without relief. As the immense locomotive struck the drifts, five or six feet deep, the flying snow smashed all the glass to the left side of the cab and sifted in clouds through cracks in the doors of the coaches.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Some Local Incidents Resulting from the Recent Blizzard

Now that the recent several days cold weather and incidental blizzard seems to be past, a retrospect of past conditions shows that hundreds of thousands of dollars must have been spent as a result of the severe weather. The cry of Peterborough must have a good long bill for expenses of removing the snow from George street alone, leaving out of the argument other great incidental expenses. Many a man yesterday whose custom was to take home the daily Toronto papers to supplement the news given to the Times, had to forego his usual source of knowledge of the world's affairs. Trains from either east or west seem to have been snowbound, however both railroads did all in their power at enormous expense to get their trains through.

C. P. R. MAKES HARD FIGHT.

A gentleman from Havelock yesterday told the Times that the railroad track between that burg and Peterborough is in some places almost obliterated. In fact, to use his words, "One would not know that a railroad existed. The snow has simply filled up the right of way of the railroad to the top. Still it is unnecessary to say that the C.P.R. lose neither time nor expense to get their trains through."

In view of the fact that the railroads entering Peterborough have had their own troubles over the recent cold weather and heavy snow fall, it might be of local interest to mention certain troubles of a local connection.

Yesterday morning a well known citizen happened, at an early hour, to be at the C. P. R. station. It might be added, as has been mentioned before, that the C. P. R. has, since the inception of the present snow blockade and consequent trouble, provided in splendid manner for its patrons snowbound in Peterborough. Yesterday morning the citizen mentioned at the C. P. R. station, saw two young ladies walking up and down the platform at almost a 2.30 gait. Happening to stand near one of them he heard the following: "Say, Nell, doesn't this beat the Dutch. Now the railroad people have

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new 64-page booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 1, Racine, Wis., All Dealers.

Lindsay Conservatives to Hold Convention

The Lindsay Conservative party will hold a convention for the purpose of electing officers and selecting a candidate to represent West Victoria in the interest of the party for the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the Academy of Music, Lindsay, at one o'clock p.m., on Saturday, February 23rd, 1908. Every delegate appointed to represent his respective polling division and all friends of the party will doubtless be present.

Changes in the Hotels in Lindsay

It seems as though the hotelkeepers in Lindsay have not been living up to the requirements of the Ontario License Department. A few days ago Inspector Morrison of the Toronto department, visited Lindsay, and whilst fairly satisfied with existing conditions there, took exception to some of the hotels. Certain hotels having jug and bottle departments with a pigeon hole arrangement he ordered to be altered. A lunch counter in one of the hotels has to be partitioned off from the bar. In two cases he has ordered certain rooms to be re-furnished, the present furniture not being considered suitable.

Trains from the West Arrived Yesterday

Yesterday the C. P. R., in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, in the way of snow drifts, got the following trains past the Peterborough station: One at 1.30 p.m., one at two o'clock and one at four o'clock.

From the west the first train arrived about 4.30, with two others following at half hour intervals; it is expected the trains will be running on the schedule time to-day.

Leap Year Proposals

What woman has ever availed herself of the privilege of proposing in leap year? Nevertheless, it is interesting to discover whence the idea arose. "Her most blessit majeste Margaret" decreed in the year 1288 that during her reign every maid of Scotland, whether of high or low degree, should speak to the man she loved. If he were not betrothed already he must marry the maid or pay £100. Queen Margaret died, and the women were then clamorous for this strange privilege to continue. To appease them an act of parliament was passed allowing the maidens to make their proposals every fourth year.

Will See His Holiness

As has been noted in a former issue of The Times, the Misses Morrow, sisters of Mr. W. G. Morrow, with Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Matthews and Miss Laura Davidson, have gone on an extended European trip. An incident of their trip not generally known was yesterday given to The Times on good authority, that will enhance the interest of the outing of these well known local residents whilst abroad.

What is referred to is the fact that His Lordship Bishop O'Connor kindly gave the party a letter of introduction to His Eminence Cardinal Merry del Val, Secretary of State of the holy Roman Empire, which will give these travellers an opportunity to enjoy the rare distinction of a personal presentation and introduction to the holy father, Pope Pius, the former great Venetian prelate.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which displaces all the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Our George street contemporary printed a paragraph the other day to the effect that an eastern clergyman, who was totally blind, had slipped and fallen on the icy pavement, and the fall had completely restored his sight. ANOTHER COLD WAVE IS COMING

Another cold wave is coming. The weather was six below zero last night. It will not be as chilly as it was the other day though, and the high winds which fill the railroad cuts are extremely unlikely. This coming cold wave is to be an all-Canada affair. The snow storm from California is now, in the Maritime Provinces where there are gales and snow. To-day it will disappear out the St. Lawrence, and the cold will settle down upon the land.

House to House Visits Considered

Last night an important meeting was held in St. Paul's Church under the joint auspices of the Ministerial Association of Peterborough and the Sunday School Association to consider the proposed house to house visits as suggested some time ago. Mr. Yellowlees gave a forcible and eloquent address pungent with remarks bearing on the subject in question. At seven o'clock the pastors and superintendents held a meeting.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

My Remedy Cures All Sick Women

Many of the woes of womankind, says Dr. Hamilton, are due to kidney weakness.

At first the back aches.

Then pains gather round the hips and lodge right in the small of the back.

To stoop or bend seems impossible.

Headaches are constant.

Dizzy spells and bearing-down pains seem ever present. Urinary troubles steadily increase.

Unhappy existence. No pleasure in life when the body is overloaded with poisons that the sick kidneys can't filter out.

Bright's disease is the next stage, but it can be prevented by using Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. They cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

When the kidneys work properly pure blood is formed.

This means nourishment and strength for the whole body.

Backaches and dragging pains are forgotten. Irregularities disappear, vital energy is restored, and happy robust health is once more established.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills for women's ills is the slogan of thousands to-day.

Enormous benefit in many ways follow their use, and no woman or girl can use medicine that will do their general health more good.

For the sake of your kidneys, for the sake of your liver, for the advancement of your general well-being, you can't improve on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five for $1.00, at all dealers, or pollen paces.

CURED PAINFUL IRREGULARITIES

Strong Testimony From a Lady Resident of Clarksburg, Proving That Ferrozone Surpasses All Other Remedies.

The health of many women is constantly impaired through failure of certain organs to work according to nature's requirements.

Where this condition occurs there is no safer remedy to employ than Ferrozone, which has a specific action in female troubles.

Not only does it act directly on the organs, ensuring regularity and freedom from pain, but by forming rich red blood fortifies the system against weakening drains.

FERROZONE MAKES STRONG WOMEN

Ferrozone possesses a volume of merit totally absent in the ordinary medicine, and its superiority is proclaimed by thousands of women it has restored to vigorous health. From Mrs. P. G. Caldwell comes the following endorsement, written from her home in Clarksburg: "I went through a most trying experience with what is commonly known as 'Female Trouble.' It isn't necessary to state my symptoms, but I suffered a great deal. My health was well nigh ruined, and I got into such a condition that I couldn't even sleep. I was dreadfully nervous, weak and pale. Different prescriptions were recommended and I tried them. But Ferrozone was the first to help. I improved steadily under Ferrozone, and normal conditions were finally established. I gained weight, my color and spirits improved, and my former health was restored. Ferrozone cured me, and with a full heart I recommend this good medicine to all other women."

Beware of imitations—don't allow a druggist to palm off anything else for Ferrozone, which costs 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

MAKING A FEW RICH AT PUBLIC EXPENSE

The Hamilton Herald says that the capital of the Hamilton Steel and Iron Co. is to be increased from about one-half to five million dollars.

This does not mean that three and one-half millions in real money is to be added to the company's capitalization. The addition will be simply so much water. Each shareholder is, without payment by him of one dollar in cash, to receive three shares for each share now held. Thus, by a stroke of the pen one man with little over $1,500 in the company's stock is to have his holdings increased to $5,000.

How is this system of gift distribution made possible? Largely by means of the bounties on iron and steel paid to this company out of the public treasury. In the last eight years the Hamilton Iron and Steel Company has received over one and one-quarter million dollars in Federal bounties alone. During part of that time it received Provincial bounties as well. The aggregate of these payments in eight years—and they extend over a much longer period than that—have about equalled the entire capitalization of the company before water to the extent of three and one-half millions was added.

In this case a group of capitalists have been permitted to help themselves out of the public treasury to an amount sufficient to provide the capital required to establish a great industry. Now that the industry is established, wholly at public cost, they vote themselves three shares for each one they now hold. In doing this the promoters show that they have learned how easily the public can be worked, and the means necessary to the working. The profits of the company, according to the Herald, have been exceedingly satisfactory — too high, indeed, to justify a continuance of bounty or tariff favors. Supposing the net profits of the company to have been $150,000,—and they have been more than that according to the Ottawa Journal—these would have been sufficient to pay a dividend of 10 per cent. on the capitalization of one and one-half million dollars; but the same net earnings would yield only 3 per cent. on a watered capital of five millions. Three years hence, when the period expires for which the payment of Federal bounties is authorized, a company earning ten per cent. could not well ask for a continuance of the period of bounty giving; but, if, it can show dividends of only three per cent, a case can be prepared which will appeal very strongly to Mr. Fielding, whose bowels are always on the yearn for struggling infants. The fact that the greater part of the capital on which future dividends will be declared is largely water will be kept in the background.

How long will farmers, who provide most of the money from which bounties are paid, permit the public treasury to be plundered for private benefit as it has been plundered in the case of this Hamilton Steel and Iron Company?

HOW WAGES INCREASE

TWENTY-SEVEN PER CENT. ACCORDING TO CENSUS REPORT.

Record of Five Years—Factory Workers Get Much More Now—Salaries Are on the Up-Grade—Evidence of Canada's Manufacturing Prosperity—Details of Various Industries—Employers Increased 12 Per Cent.

A bulletin was issued recently by the Census Department, dealing with the number of wage-earners and salaries paid to all classes of employes in manufacturing establishments of Canada in the years 1900 and 1905. The number of wage-earners in 1900 was 344,036, and in 1905 there were 391,487, an increase of 47,451. Where there are less than three or more works the figures are grouped under the head of "All Other Industries."

The number of employes includes officers, clerks, workers, etc., who are paid salaries or wages for service. The salaries paid in 1900 were $113,249,350, and in 1905, $164,394,490, an increase of $51,145,140. There was an increase in the average wage per employe of $90.74. The employers increased in the five years by 12 per cent.; the total wage by 45 per cent., and the average wage per employe by 27 per cent. The value of product per employe in the year 1900 was $1,398, and in 1905 it was $1,832, being an increase of $434, or 31 per cent. For 1890 the average wage per employe was less than in 1905 by $128.66, and the average product less by $477.

A Big Increase.

The salaries and wages in the agricultural implement industry was $3,778,804, an increase of over $700,000, and an increase in the number of employes of over 600; boots and shoes, $4,644,171, a decrease of about $1,000 over 1900, and a decrease in the employes of over 800, the number employed in 1905 being 12,940.

Bread, biscuits and confectionery shows an increase of over $800,000 in wages; butter and cheese, $280,000; carriages and wagons about $200,000; car repairs, $3,000,000; clothing, men's factory, over $600,000; clothing, women's factory, for $719,000, to $2,812,000.

There was a decrease in clothing, men's custom, of about $700,000, in women's custom clothing, over $300,000, and in cottons of about $100,000. Electric apparatus and supplies show an increase in wages from $950,551 to $2,498,905; electric light, from $591,089 to $460,418; fish, preserved, from $1,700,106 to $3,879,137; foundry and machine shop products paid an increase of over three millions and a half in wages; furniture, etc., over $600,000.

Log products, with a decrease of over 1,000 in employes, paid out in wages $21,036,919, as compared with $13,755,357 in 1900. Lumber products show an increase of 5,000 in employes and of nearly three million dollars in wages.

In printing and bookbinding there were 5,902 employes in 1905, double over 1900, with an increase in wages from $1,135,341 to $3,032,926 in 1905.

In printing and publishing there were $5,540,855 paid in wages for 1905 to 9,680 employes, as compared to $4,671,413 in 1900 to 9,481 employes.

For smelting there was paid in salaries $6,648,400 in 1905, for 9,849 wage-earners, as compared with $1,531,553 in 1900 for 2,113 wage-earners.

Woollen goods show a decrease to $1,506,143 paid in 1905 for 4,647 employes, as compared to $2,066,320 for 6,796 wage-earners in 1900.

There are in the log industry 59,954 employes; lumber products, 13,336; preserved fish, 18,449; foundry and machine shops, 17,928; cottons, 10,450; smelting, 9,849, and furniture and upholstering goods, 8,141.

BEDS AND BEDMAKING.

Many False Notions on This Important Subject Exploded.

Many people used to have an impression that to sleep on a soft bed had a spice of wickedness in it and that the harder the mattress the greater the virtue of the sleeper.

This arose in great part from the fact that feather beds were generally condemned as unhealthy, and the ignorant at once seized the idea that they were unhealthy because soft, whereas they are unhealthy because they do not permit of proper ventilation.

More and more we learn that the foundation of health lies in an abundant supply of fresh air and that the root of many a disease is in the want of it. In health many of us spend a third of our time actually in bed and in sickness much more, so it is of the greatest importance that the bed and everything connected with it should be thoroughly ventilated.

It goes without saying that the bedroom must itself be airy and the fresh air have free access to it.

From the point of view of health it is a matter of indifference whether the bedstead be of wood or of iron, but the most comfortable and at the same time healthy are those fitted with chain spring mattresses. These mattresses may be bought separately and fitted to any bedstead.

AIDS TO BEAUTY.

Small white spots which often appear on the nails are caused from bruising.

Thin arms should be washed twice a day with a fine lather of soap, rinsed well, dried thoroughly and then rubbed vigorously. This treatment will bring the pores into action and induce a healthy condition of the skin.

It is nonsense to think that soap and water and a complexion brush will cause a growth of hair on the face. Superfluous hair is more likely to grow on a dust laden, oily skin. Soap, hot water and a complexion brush used every night are necessary to get the face clean. A good cream will counteract the drying effects of the soap.

From the Dim Past.

There have just been placed on exhibition in the Egyptian galleries of the British Museum a select few of the Egyptian inscriptions recently discovered in the Sinaitic peninsula. One of the most interesting is a sandstone stele and altar set up by Sebekher-heb, an overseer of the Royal apartments, and a subordinate official named Kemen, who were attached to the Royal Chancery. The tablet, which is dated in the forty-fourth year of Amenem-hat III., about B. C. 2300, is of red sandstone, and contains an inscription in which a prayer is offered to Athor, the "lady of the turquoise land," by which name the Sinaitic peninsula was known to the Ancient Egyptians. There is also the lower portion of a statue of Usertesen II., B. C. 2333, dedicated to Hathor by the King's officials stationed in Sinai, and the lower portion of a seated figure of Hathor, dedicated to the goddess of Senefru, a captain of the boats in the reign of Amen-emhat I. The objects were discovered at Serabit-el-Kadim, in the Sinaitic peninsula, and were presented to the British Museum by the Egypt Exploration Fund.

Fen Country Speaks.

South Lincolnshire has its haunted house. It is situated at Marton, and for some time past the occupiers, it is said, have been disturbed at nights by unaccountable rappings at the doors and windows. Up to the present the cause is an absolute mystery. One evening three distinct knocks were heard at the front door, but upon the tenant proceeding to open it no one was there. Shortly afterwards the knockings were repeated. The same thing occurred on subsequent nights, and the village policeman secreted himself to watch and see if anyone was playing a prank. While he was thus engaged the knocks were frequently heard, and so loud occasionally that they were audible to the next-door neighbour. On one occasion the tapping came to the door while the policeman stood by, and when there was absolutely nothing to reveal the cause of it. All attempts to unravel the mystery have proved in vain. The house has become notorious, and many people have visited it with the object of hearing the supernatural tappings for themselves.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $600 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a lacing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $6,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

An Ideal Sitter.

A Washington artist while sketching in North Carolina was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. At last he found the precise situation he was seeking, and, best of all, there chanced to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old colored woman in the foreground.

The artist asked the old woman to remain seated until he had sketched her. She assented with the greatest good nature, but in a few minutes asked how long the artist would be.

"Oh, only about a quarter of an hour," he answered.

Three minutes or so later the old darky again inquired—this time with manifest anxiety—how long the operation of sketching would take.

"Not long," was the reassuring reply. "But why do you ask so anxiously?"

"Oh, nuthin', sah," the old woman hastened to respond, "only I's sittin' on an ant hill, sah."—Harper's Weekly.

Fruit Cookies.

One cup of butter worked to a cream with two cups of granulated sugar. Add three well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, ground; one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one cup of raisins, stoned and chopped; one cup of nuts, chopped; enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Roll thin, bake in a quick oven, brushing over before baking with an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar.

Cool House in Summer.

In the early morning open wide every door and window for two hours. Then close the doors, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and draw down the shades close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and providing a circulation of air a house may be kept cool.

Girls' Ideals.

Girls nowadays seldom care to get married before they are twenty-five. They are willing to get engaged, and many girls say that the ideal life is to live at home, have some business to occupy their time and a fiance to spend his money on their amusement.

Add a little boiling water to the sweet milk used when you are making biscuits, and less shortening will be needed. The result will be quite the same.

Old Home Week.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.

Billy Sugden read the pamphlet through from cover to cover, from the first glaring line, "Old Home Week," to the imprint of the "Blairsville Mercury Job Print" on the last page of the cover. Somehow the little booklet seemed to have almost the value of a message from home. He could even tell which part of the text Carr, the editor of the Mercury, had written and which portions were the product of the Rev. John Dudley, the Presbyterian minister, who has literary aspirations.

One paragraph in particular appealed to him. It ran, "We have set a date later than most of the old home weeks so that as we, the home stayers, bring to a happy and prosperous conclusion the harvest of the year so may the homecomers bring with them the first fruits of their prosperity and their talent."

Whoever had sent him the pamphlet had underscored this paragraph, and Sugden felt with a glow of pride that his new found fame had reached even to the old home. It was only in the last few months that he had gained the position as an illustrator for which he had fought, and fame was still very sweet to him. He could see visions of the old home, the quiet, shady streets, the trees now gorgeous in their autumnal tints, as he sat down and wrote a note of regret to the famous lion hunter who had sought to add him to her collection at Newport for that week.

As the train drew near the old town some weeks later he peered from the windows as eagerly as a boy.

On both sides of the car excited faces were pressed against the glass locating familiar spots, and when at last the long line of cars swung around the point and the gray old breakwater came into sight the car rang with cheers, in which Sugden's voice was by no means the least vociferous.

"ELIZABETH! IS IT REALLY YOU," HE DEMANDED.

It was pleasant to meet the reception committee with their pompous formality of welcoming speeches, which were followed by the more genuine handclasps. It was still more pleasant to make his way up the street and get a welcome on every hand, but through it all Sugden was conscious of one lack—the absence of one person who alone could make old home week a success to him. For the first time he realized that the week meant to him Elizabeth Grantley, and it was to see her that he had come.

As he crossed the foaming little river that cut the town in two he remembered the last time that he stood on the span. He and Elizabeth had leaned against the rail, watching the swirling waters in the uncertain moonlight, while gently she had put from her the hopes that had risen in her breast and had sent him on his way unfettered by matrimonial promises. "If you really want me you will come back for me without a promise," she had whispered. "I could not bear to think that I was holding you back in your career, Billy." He had protested and argued, but the girl had steadfastly held to her point. She would not marry him—she would not even consider an engagement. If he was to fight his way in the world he must be left free.

He had failed then to perceive her point of view. He had wanted her to marry him and go with him in search of a career. When she had refused he had flung himself away, and he had not written. Now he knew that she had been right, and he longed to tell her so. "There was a bureau of information through which visitors might locate their old friends, but the sweet faced girl in charge of the registry list shook her head regretfully. We tried to locate the Grantleys to reach them with an announcement," she explained, "but they appear to have dropped from sight completely. I will make a note of your address in case we do locate them." Sugden thanked her and went out feeling as though after all his coming had been a mistake. He slipped into the opera house to listen for awhile to the formal exercises for the opening day, but he found the every oratory tiresome and soon bought his cigar. Bridge and Court streets were brought out brilliantly by arches of incandescent lights, and in the Indian summer warmth a pushing, perspiring crowd made their way up and down the streets and jostled each other into the gutter, while the confetti was scattered about and the feather ticklers were everywhere in evidence.

With a gesture of disgust, Sugden turned from the crowd. His mood was not attune to merrymaking, and he sought the more quiet parts of the town. Almost unconsciously he took the familiar paths that led to the little cottage where the Grantleys had made their home, and presently he found himself leaning against the fence that inclosed the well kept garden. Here he lighted a cigar, and with the soft gloom of the tree shaded yard for his screen he projected from his fancy scenes wherein he and Elizabeth had figured. He could see the gay hammock swung between the apple tree and the horse chestnut. He could picture the dainty figure in filmy white and could almost hear her hail of "I'm out here, Billy, in the hammock," as the gate clicked behind him.

Then his mind conjured the vision of the wistful faced girl leaning upon the railing of the bridge and pleading with him to keep his freedom that he might make his fight free handed. He remembered those last few moments when he had declared that he would have nothing more to do with a girl who feared to face poverty with him, and even now it seemed that he could hear her sobs as she had walked with tear blinded eyes down the street, while he had leaned against the wall and had watched her go without a single word of comfort.

Somehow the sobbing seemed strangely real. It was almost as though a woman there in the shadow of the trees was letting loose the flood gates of her grief. So real did the sound seem that he flung away his cigar and vaulted the low fence, making for the direction of the sound. But, though he expected to find a woman there under the trees, it was with a shock that he did come face to face with a bowed figure. With uplifted hat and a murmured offer of service, he advanced, but the woman moved away silently. Something in the poise brought Sugden's heart into his mouth, and, with a cry, he darted forward.

"Elizabeth! Is it really you?" he demanded. "Have I found you at last?" The girl was at the gate now, and in the light of the distant street lamp he saw that he was right.

"Listen, dear," he went on. "I don't blame you for wanting nothing to do with me, but hear me only for a minute.

"I did not know what you intuitively guessed—how hard the struggle would be. I did not know the conditions. I thought that with you to help me make the fight I could do better. I know now that I was wrong."

"I thought that knowledge would come in time," said the girl softly. "Genius in a garret is a thing of the past. Genius to be discovered must live and dress well. I could not make you understand that."

"But I know it now," he assured her. "I can see that alone I could live better and at least preserve the appearance of prosperity that was my greatest aid to advancement. And even as my error was great so is my penitence, Betty. Can you find it in your heart to forgive me, to admit me at least to your friendship?"

"To forgive is part of woman's life," she said wearily. "I had not intended to make myself known. I just wanted to see the old town and the old home again, but you have found me out."

"And this time I shall not let you go," he said, "not if I can prove how great has been my repentance. Look, dear, the old house is for sale. May I buy it in the hope that some day we shall call it home? I know I do not deserve forgiveness, dear, but—you said I would find you waiting when I came home."

"It has been a long wait," she said softly, "a very long wait, Billy, but I have kept my promise. I have waited alone."

Gently, almost reverently, he took her in his arms, and as his lips brushed the soft brown hair he realized what some men never come to know, the depth and beauty of a woman's loving forgiveness. Sugden had found the old home—and the new.

Taking No Chances.

"It is a rule to which good lawyers usually adhere," says a Philadelphia attorney, "never to tell more than one knows. There was an instance in England not many years ago wherein a lawyer carried the rule to the extreme.

"One of the agents in a Midland revision court objected to a person whose name was on the register on the ground that he was dead. The revision attorney declined to accept the assurance, however, and demanded conclusive testimony on the point.

"The agent on the other side arose and gave corroborative evidence as to the decease of the man in question.

"'But, sir, how do you know the man's dead?' demanded the barrister.

"'Well,' was the reply, 'I don't know it's very difficult to prove.'

"'As I suspected,' returned the barrister. 'You don't know whether he's dead or not.'

"Whereupon the witness coolly continued: 'I was saying, sir, that I don't know whether he is dead or not, but I do know this: They buried him about a month ago on suspicion.'"—Harper's Weekly.

ORIGIN OF THE "KNOT."

How a Modern Nautical Term Came Into Use.

During the past few days the nautical word "knot" has been much in evidence, but few readers are perhaps aware of its origin as a term of nautical measurement. It was, away back in the 17th century, merely a knot in the vessel's log-line; and later it became what it is to-day, a mark of bunting or whatnot inserted between the strands of the line, as are the marks on a lead-line. This system of measurement began thus: A piece of line, 30 to 40 fathoms long, was knotted at intervals of 5 or 10 fathoms; to the end was attached a canvas bag, which would fill with water and remain stationary in the water, thus drawing out the line over the taffrail, where stood the officer, minute-glass in hand, counting the knots as they ran out. The officer then worked out the rate per mileage per hour.

Unemployed in London.

The following figures are grimly eloquent. There is a standing army, as the phrase goes, of 80,000 unemployed in London; add, still, 30,000 women badly employed indeed, and 35,000 homeless adults, and 35,000 wandering children of the slums, and 15,000 free criminals, and you have before you a statistical summary of the situation in the greatest city in Christendom. Interesting, is it not? And with those who do not walk the streets at night things are only a degree better. It is a fact that 90 per cent. of the producers of the actual wealth of London have no homes they can call their own beyond the week's end, no other possessions than the few sticks of old furniture that will go into a hand car for trundling from lodging to lodging. And 200,000 people live in one-room tenements, in which decency is impossible. Every night 30,000 Londoners sleep in four-penny lodging houses—the four-penny "doss"—and every night 111,000 sleep in the casual wards. Where should they sleep, these secondary millions? In London there are 1,293,737 workers who get less than $5 a week per family.

Was Local Man Hurt in Wreck?

It is feared that the Mr. A. Mercer, of Toronto, hurt in the recent railroad wreck in New York State on the Pennsylvania Railroad, may be a former resident of Peterborough. Still, without further corroboration, this fear is groundless, as Mr. Andrew Mercer, who formerly carried on a successful tailoring establishment in this city, went to Montreal and entered into business there.

Pensions Increased

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has raised the minimum retiring allowance of employees entitled to the benefit of service to a pension so that no one shall have less than twenty dollars per month on leaving the company's service to participate in the pension fund. President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has just issued a circular to the employees intimating that the regulations governing pensions have been revised, as it had been found that in some cases the amount of pension was not sufficient to support the recipient in his declining years. The pensioners will get this amount whether entitled to it or not under former rules.

Got Mad

When Cold that Coffee Hurt Him

One of the evidences that coffee is injurious to the nervous system is the fact that many persons who are addicted to its use, grow wrathy when the suggestion is made that coffee causes them to "flare up" so easily.

A doctor writes:

"Coffee three times a day—I thought I could not get along without it. I was never well, prone to get excited and often trembled, but any suggestion that coffee was not good for me made me furious.

"I noticed the tendency to become excited was growing on me. My hands and feet were cold, fingers looked shriveled, liver inactive, constipated, coated tongue, bad breath and general lower vitality. (A perfect picture of caffeine poisoning.)

"A friend strongly advised me to give up coffee and use Postum, so I tried the change a few weeks and found a marked improvement in temper, nerves and general condition. I felt so firm that I thought I could go back to coffee. Three times I tried it but always had to quit coffee and return to Postum.

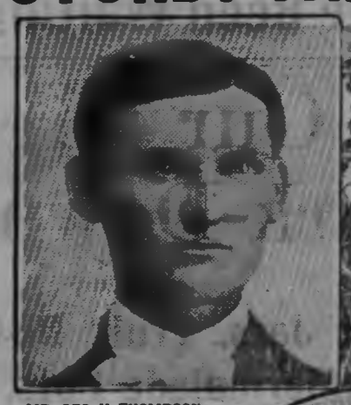
"Being a physician with a large practice and plenty of experience, it was hard for me to believe that coffee could have such a profound effect on my system. Perhaps my fondness for the beverage made me loath to admit its ill effects.

"For several years now I have ordered hundreds of patients to quit coffee and have prescribed Postum instead with good results to the patients and more prompt response to my medicines."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

STURDY FARMERS KEEP OFF ALL CATARRHAL ILLS BY TAKING PE-RU-NA.

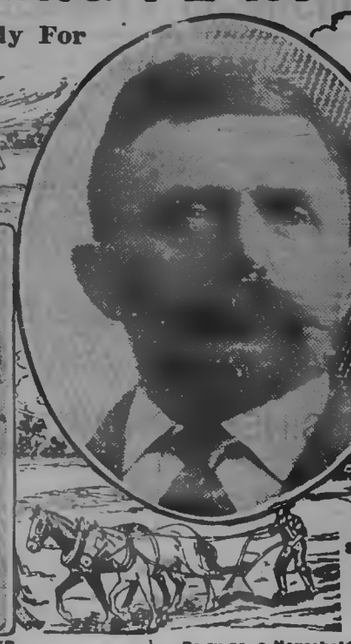
Pe-ru-na, a Most Reliable Remedy For All Climatic Ailments.



MR. GEO. H. THOMPSON.

MR. GUSTAV SCHMIDT.

MR. W. J. TEMPLE.



MR. HENRY SCHROEDER

Chronic Catarrh of Head and Throat Lasted Thirty Years.

A Letter Praising Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Gustav Schmidt, Spring Valley, Ill., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat for over thirty years. It became worse every year. About three months ago I commenced to take Peruna and Manalin, and now I am entirely cured of that troublesome sickness. Your medicine is surely a blessing to mankind. You can truly say that you have not lived in vain, Doctor, and I thank you for the good you have done me. May you enjoy a long life to help suffering humanity."

At Work On the Farm and Feeling Well All the Time.

Geo. H. Thompson, Craft, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I had been affected with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken bad every Spring and Summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good. I then took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had come to where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pains, had lost in weight and could not do anything. I began taking your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 128 pounds, but after taking several bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 166 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all of the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Remedy.

If Peruna proves efficient for catarrh in one place, it will be equally potent in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy.

The people generally are very much misinformed as to the nature of catarrh.

Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat. Lately we sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bowels. Seldom if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organs.

It is not because these organs are not subject to catarrh, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

Climatic Ailments Overcome By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. W. J. Temple, R. F. D. 8, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather. About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble.

"One doctor called it ulceration of the bowels, another called it colitis. Another doctor helped me temporarily.

"Then a druggist recommended Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man.

"Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can do farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market.

"I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna. I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

DR. HARTMAN, THE FARMER.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, the inventor and original manufacturer of Peruna, is one of the best farmers in the Middle West.

His farm comprises several thousand acres of the best land in the State of Ohio, located near the City of Columbus.

As an importer of French Percheron and German Coach horses, the Doctor has not an equal in this country.

The fowl-raising department is a marvel of ingenuity and perfection; but, perhaps the dairy department is where the Doctor shows his greatest sense of order and sanitary science.

His milk cows, of the purest Jersey stock, have all been subjected to the tuberculin tests, and he gives to the City of Columbus a pure milk, certified by the Board of Health.

The milk stables, the milk men and the whole process of milking are absolutely faultless and clean.

The Doctor himself, past 70 years of age, is the managing head of the farm.

He himself supervises the working details of every department.

He is a model of strength and vitality, and since Peruna is the only remedy he ever makes personal use of, his physical condition is a testimonial to the efficacy of Peruna of greater value than could be framed in words.

Dr. Hartman is one of the few doctors who take their own medicine and his splendid physique and strength in his old age are an eloquent argument for Peruna very difficult to gainsay.

Dr. Hartman, being a farmer himself, knows what the farmer needs and in speaking of Peruna to the farmer he speaks to his own kind of people.

Pe-ru-na For Bowel Trouble.

Mr. Stanly Bell, Ashley, Ohio, writes:

"I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly that it was painful for me to move. I took two or three bottles of Peruna when I began to feel better. It also gave me relief from bowel trouble."

MR. J. B. ALEXANDER.

A Necessity in the Home.

J. B. Alexander, publisher of the "Fruit and Floral Guide, a Magazine of Horticulture," published in Hartford City, Ind., says of Peruna: —

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and head for over ten years. I was treated by many physicians, but grew worse until I was seldom able to go out in cold weather.

"About one year ago I was advised to try Peruna, which I did, and I am now entirely well of the catarrh.

"Peruna is a necessity in our home. With the first symptoms of a cold we use it, and are never afflicted with catarrh.

"I advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to it as a catarrh medicine."

71 Years Old and Able to Work.

Mr. John G. Hirdler, Garfield, Kas., writes:

"I was injured by a fall on the railroad and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless.

"I then tried Peruna and after using it for three months was entirely well. I am 71 years old and my work on the the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike."

Pe-ru-na, a Household Remedy.

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Estey, Mich., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail. I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured.

"I recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease. It is my household friend."

One of Dr. Hartman's Grateful Correspondents.

Mr. W. R. Callahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and prominent fruit grower and stock raiser, Glenvar, Va., writes:

"I write to express my kindness toward you and your good medicine, Peruna.

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all. My head, stomach, in fact, my whole body ached, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good. I had almost given up.

"I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the bottle my appetite came to me and my head became all right. In fact, I was all right all over. Peruna cured me."

While Peruna is not confined to any one class of people, yet it is probably true that the farming class more than any other, rely upon Peruna for the prevention and cure of all climatic diseases.

Prevented from Attending Dance

It is said that the ladies and gentlemen had yesterday morning to deplore their non-appearance at the Campbellford Batchelors' dance on the preceding night. It was the current trouble that makes the householder, whose yard is too full of snow to get coal and wood in, the same trouble that makes people get out before breakfast with a snow shovel, the same trouble that makes a milkman tell about a sick child when he is late with the familly lacteal fluid, the same that lets the grocer out when the family in the suburbs has to go without eggs for the sake, the trouble to start that tends to make local citizens cast envious eyes on California, Florida, Arizona, or any old warm county, viz., the snow.

Millbrook Orange Officers

Fagged Horses and Weary Men Reach the City

Many intended purchasers who attended Saturday's market to get their weekly supply of butter and eggs were turned away with empty baskets, some because they refused to pay the exorbitant prices asked and others because everything was picked up before they reached the market. Buyers were there in plenty, but the sellers were few, owing to the terrible state of the roads which made it impossible for farmers to reach the city.

As an instance of the extent to which the roads were drifted and blockaded, it took eight hours for four teams of the Peterborough Lumber Co., returning from the camp for supplies, to make the journey from Young's Point to the city.

The start was made from the Point at 10 o'clock, and at 5.45 the teams reached the city limits, the horses fagged and the men weary of the long, tedious ride, through farmers' fields and along the roadside, between the fences and telegraph poles.

For miles no road was broken, and in many instances farmers started for the city but turned back, finding the roads impassible.

Members of Congregation were Invited to View New Rectory

The New Addition to St. John's Church is Much Admired

The Edifice Completed

During the progress of morning service in St. John's Church yesterday, Rev. Canon Davidson, the pastor, stated that the handsome new vestry recently added to the main edifice had been completed, and invited the members of the congregation to view the new building after service was over. He spoke in high terms of the new vestry and referred to Architect John E. Belcher, the designer and building supervisor, in kindly words. Mr. Belcher, it is not generally known to the public, kindly contributed his services to the church gratis. The recently added vestry is of handsome design, its interior being in exact keeping with the main church building, and is of massive as well as ornamental build. In it is a handsomely illuminated stained glass window. It is inserted to the perpetual memory of Architect Belcher and contains the Belcher family crest. The vestry cost in the neighborhood of some $6,775, which is paid for with the exception of $1,000. Rev. Mr. Davidson in his address referred to the financial standing of the church which, considering the great improvements and additions, is satisfactory. A large number of the congregation accepted the rector's invitation and greatly admired the new vestry.

C.P.R. Places Large Order with Local Firm for Storm Fences

Owing to troubles caused by the recent blizzard and consequent drifts that impeded their traffic, the C.P.R. have placed an immense order with the Peterborough Lumber Company for storm fences, to be placed at such places as the snow drifts over the tracks. It is not definitely known as yet the exact total length of the fences so ordered, but it is understood that fences sufficient to shield many hundred places along the track to prevent a blockade.

The Peterborough Lumber Company, which has undertaken this large contract, will proceed with this order at once and build the fences ready for shipment to such places as they may be placed. They have already taken steps to procure more men and will add materially to their staff. When these fences are built and placed it will save the C. P. R. large sums during and after heavy snowfalls and blizzards and will also add materially to the comfort and speedy transaction of passengers as well as expediting the shipment of freight.

Plan Suggested to Help the Poor

Editor Morning Times:

I have noticed with pleasure the way your paper has called attention to the pressing needs of the poor in this city. Everyone knows that there is much poverty here and that means of relieving the same have been taken up by the Children's Aid Society and others. I would respectfully suggest asking the 57th Regiment Band to co-operate with local singers and others to give an entertainment in the opera house for the poor. It is likely that Mr. Turner would give the house for such a purpose or at a nominal cost. I feel sure that such a concert for such a cause would be well attended, and also that many of our citizens and merchants would sell tickets in advance. Very few of the more prosperous of our citizens would refuse to buy from one to half a dozen tickets. Even if those buying the tickets did not go to the concert their money would go to the poor, whilst those not so well off would buy cheaper tickets and attend. Should such a concert as I suggest be carried out, there is no doubt but what the local papers would do their share when advertising accounts are made out. I think Sir, the matter is worth considering.

Peterboro Deputation in Toronto

Toronto World: A Peterborough deputation spent considerable time at fire headquarters yesterday and Wednesday looking over the alarm system and the various apparatus. The deputation consisted of Ald. Johnson, chairman of the Fire and Water Committee; Ald. McIntyre, Morgan and Bulley and Mr. Pakenham, superintendent of street lighting and fire alarm. Peterborough intends to install a new system, and was in quest of information which the local department experts were not in a position to supply.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

IMMENSE CROWDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE AT FUNERAL OF PORTUGAL'S ROYAL DEAD

All Superstitious Natives Avoid Spot Where Foul Deed was Committed

No Disorder at Obsequies

Lisbon, Feb. 8—The funeral services over the bodies of King Carlos and his son, Luiz, Crown Prince of Portugal, who were shot to death a week ago to-day on the Praca do Commercio in this city, were held in the Church of San Vincente early this afternoon.

The ceremonies were simple but impressive, and ended without any untoward incident. The line of the funeral procession from the royal chapel in the palace to the church was guarded by troops, several additional regiments having been brought into the city for the purpose.

All the governments of Europe and America were represented by special representatives.

Opposition, real or fancied, the restriction of liberty, the bitter clash of party, a maze of intrigue and merciless vengeance seemed all to have been abandoned for the moment at least as the Portuguese people prepared for the great funeral of the king and his son.

This was the day of the burial of their royal dead—the day also of the burial of fellow Roman Catholics and following the custom of Roman Catholics the people wished to join in some way in the solemn mass which was offered up for the spiritual welfare of Carlos and his son.

CROWDS FROM THE COUNTRY.

The streets were thronged with people. They poured in from the country towns of the provinces and the nearby cities, some by train, some by carriage or by cart, and many on foot. In the crowd were large numbers of simple peasants and tradesmen from the provinces, who knew or cared nothing of political strife, but wished only to mourn the dead leaders.

Bits of crepe fluttered from the arms of many garrisons in the city, yet in spite of these general signs of mourning the crowded streets suggested to some observers a general fete day which the talking throngs were all bent on observing. But to others the presence of large bodies of infantrymen and cavalrymen at various points of prominence had a similar significance—a suggestion of the tragic events that had come and of those that might fall on the nation in the near future.

AVOIDED SCENE OF MURDER.

One point, however, was carefully avoided by the superstitious Portuguese. This was the actual place on the Praca do Commercio where the cold-blooded murderers were committed last Saturday. Had it not been for the presence of a cavalry picket this part of the praca would have been absolutely deserted.

All the business houses and shops of Lisbon were closed and the ministerial offices situated in the Praco do Commercio were closed as a measure of precaution. Furthermore, all the windows of these buildings were carefully shuttered.

The funeral procession left the Necessidades Palace at noon on its long march of over three and a half miles to the Church of San Vincente, which is attached to the Royal Pantheon, where the bodies of King Carlos and the Crown Prince finally will be laid at rest.

Man Who Doubled Prices on Suffering Poor will Get Deserts

New York, Feb. 8. — The disappearance of Charles W. Morse is still the sensation of the day. It is said criminal charges may be laid against him. A dispatch says he has been located in Queenstown, Ireland.

First of all, the intimations that Mr. Morse was in financial trouble came to the public last fall, when attention was centered on the Mercantile National Bank, one of the "Morse" banks, by the failure of Otto Heinze, brother of F. Augustus Heinze, to execute a bold stroke in United Copper.

Previously the sages of the financial district had watched Morse's career and methods, and uttered ominous predictions within their own close circles. But up to that time Morse had been to the public a captain of industry, a man of great resources and of great financial acumen.

THE METEOR FALLS

To-day, in less than four months, from the time he occupied a position of dizzy height in the financial world, in a string of debts amounting to more than millions he then boasted he owned, with his business reputation shattered in New York and his home attached for debt.

Like the traditional rocket, Morse came down like a stick. In his financial fall there is a strong element of tragedy. When he organized the ice trust in 1901, raised the price of ice from thirty to sixty cents, and, to the charge of wanton cruelty to fever-stricken children in the tenements, retorted that the American Ice Company was in business to make money for its stockholders, and not as a philanthropic institution, there were many who predicted disaster for the "Ice King," as deep as the suffering he had brought on others.

TAMMANY'S REVENGE.

It was when the "Ice King" led a crowd of Tammany politicians to the top of the financial mountain, showed them the earth, and then cast them down again, leaving himself high and safe, that his troubles first began. Tammany men are not forgetful. Adroit legal minds were enlisted in the cause of revenge. The first Mrs. Morse had died in 1903, leaving four children. Before her death her husband had met Mrs. Clemence Dodge, who was running a boarding house in Forty-fourth street. In June, 1901, Morse married Mrs. Dodge. At that time the public estimate of his wealth was $200,000,000.

SET ASIDE DIVORCE.

Then it was decided to attack him through his second wife. Somebody found her divorced husband, Charles Foster Dodge, had the divorce set aside on the ground that it had been procured through collusion and fraud and thereby placed Mrs. Morse in the position of not having married to the "Ice King." The Supreme Court annulled her marriage to Morse and then Mrs. Morse began second divorce proceedings against Dodge. Her first husband was arrested on a perjury charge. Mrs. Dodge's marriage to Morse was legalized and the couple went to Paris to escape the notoriety that had followed them during the long and involved court proceedings.

For a few years Morse seemingly prospered. He organized, consolidated, and floated one enterprise after another. At one time he controlled banks, trust companies, insurance companies, steamship companies, and other corporations, the aggregate resources of which were estimated at more than $300,000,000. In 1906 he paid $750,000 for the two five-story houses at Nos. 720 and 722 Fifth avenue, and lived as befitted the multi-millionaire of the new type. Depositors flocked to his banks because "Morse was behind them," and the end of his financial reign was not in sight.

Meanwhile conservative bankers had determined on the elimination of Morse from the city's big finances.

DETERMINED TO DOWN HIM.

The Mercantile National affair was followed by the closing of the National Bank of North America. His resignation from all the banks in which he was a director was forced. Even this did not stem the tide that had set in against anything and everything that bore the Morse brand. Nevertheless, with the boldness and tenacity that had characterized his career, he sought to get back—to recover his prestige. To prevent him from doing so, it was found necessary to make the elimination process complete.

The court actions of yesterday and the well known intentions of conservative bankers to pursue every means that would lead to his final and utter financial annihilation so far as New York was concerned, were more than he could face. With his wife ill Morse disappeared.

Summer Athletics for George Street M.S.B.C.

The Men's Social Bible Class of the George Street Methodist Sunday School, has organized a contest to increase the already large membership. The class also intends to devote considerable attention to athletics during the coming summer and an athletic committee has been appointed, consisting of Messrs. W. J. McSherral, chairman; Charles A. Barber and F. D. Craig. Baseball and other sports will be indulged in.

Prominent Methodist Preachers Here

Yesterday in honor of educational anniversary services, members of the George and Charlotte Street Churches respectively enjoyed some more than ordinarily interesting and eloquent sermons. In the morning Rev. Prof. R. B. Bowles, M.A., B.D., of Victoria College, Toronto, preached in the Charlotte Street Church, occupying the pulpit of George Street Church at the evening service. Rev. J. W. Graham, B.A., secretary of education for the Methodist Church in Canada, preached at George Street Church in the morning and at Charlotte street in the evening. These gentlemen have a national reputation for eloquent and impressive speaking which was fully justified yesterday.

Prof. Bowles is a former pastor of the Metropolitan and Sherbourne Street Methodist Churches, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Graham is the successor of the late Rev. Dr. Potts.

Wise Clerk

Quits Sandwiches and Coffee for Lunch

The noon-day lunch for the Department clerks at Washington, is often a most serious question.

"For fifteen years," writes one of these clerks, "I have been working in one of the Gov't Departments. About two yrs ago I found myself every afternoon, with a very tired feeling in my head, trying to get the day's work off my desk.

"I had heard of Grape-Nuts as a food for brain and nerve centres, so I began to eat it instead of my usual heavy breakfast, then for my lunch instead of sandwiches and coffee.

"In a very short time the tired feeling in the head left me, and ever since then the afternoon's work has been done with as much ease and pleasure as the morning's work.

"Grape-Nuts for two meals a day has worked, in my case, just as advertised, producing that reserve force and supply of energy that does not permit one to tire easily—so essential to the successful prosecution of one's life work." "There's a reason."

The Country Roads Almost Impassable --Worst in Years

Gravel and Chemong Roads Blockaded in Many Places

Farmers Had to Turn Back

The general cry by the few farmers in the city on Saturday was, "The roads are terrible, worse than ever before." An Ennismore farmer stated that several times whilst coming into the city the was very much tempted to give it up and return home. He said that so many spots it was absolutely impossible to use the regular roadway, and that those driving had to tear down fences and break a road through the adjoining fields.

Among those in the city from North Monaghan was Mr. O. S. Carver. Mr. Carver who came in during the afternoon and thus had the advantage of the tracks being broken during the earlier part of the day, even then had hard work getting through. What is known as the Gravel Road, which connects with the west end of Charlotte street, was completely snow-blocked, to a height of seven and eight feet. The only way to get in by this route, was to take the next line south and passing by the school house, enter the city from the south. Many farmers have started in to dig out passages through the drifts on the roads.

Will Stop Illegal Rabbit Shooting

It seems that the sportsmen of the enterprising little village of Keene are literally up in arms against illegal pot-hunting out of season. The Gun Club of that burg ascertained hunters (?) have been shooting rabbits in the vicinity of the village out of season, have decided to put an end to this unsportsmanlike slaughter of the too fast disappearing game. They will make it hot for any one they detect breaking the Ontario Game and Fisheries Act, which in this particular say: "No person may hunt, take, kill or destroy hares, except from the first day of October to the thirty-first day of December, in any year, both days inclusive." A rider adds that any person who has a license or permit to shoot rabbit, from the owners of the property, may do so.

AVERAGE WOMAN HAS 10 BANDS ROUND WAIST

Chicago, Feb. 8. — A woman gets tired and exhausted after the slightest exertion because she is improperly dressed, according to the theory of Dr. F. C. Dudley, expressed yesterday in a lecture before a class in Northwestern University Medical College.

"No wonder her circulation is poor; no wonder she is unable to stand any exercise or exertion to amount to anything," said Dr. Dudley. "The upper garments are usually of some thin material and according to the caprice of fashion, may or may not cover the arms, neck, and upper part of the bust.

"A profusion of skirts are worn loosely about the lowest extremity of the body, and the fast held in a vise-like grip of thin, high-heeled shoes, which resemble stilts more than shoes.

"In strange contrasts to such inadequate protection of the upper and lower extremities, the waist and hips are swathed and compressed in a "horrid zone" of whalebone, corset, belt, steels, and the bands of the various and outer garments worn by the women of to-day.

"The average woman wears a total of seventeen bands of some sort around her waist. Allowing twenty-four inches as the average waist circumference of a Chicago woman, although there are many with larger waists, it means that each woman has a total of thirty-four feet of bandage tightly wrapped around her."

Dr. Dudley told his class the only way the woman of to-day can become strong and hearty is by banishing the numerous tight bandages about the waist and giving more care to keeping the upper and lower portions of the body warm.

MRS. VANDERBILT TO MARRY FOR TITLE?

Report of Her Engagement to Hungarian Nobleman is Believed

No Statement to Make

Berlin, Feb. 8.—The Tageblatt today publishes a despatch from its Buda-Pesth correspondent, purporting to confirm the reported engagement of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to Count Alexander Hadik.

The correspondent says the count already has notified his family that the wedding will take place immediately.

Count Alexander Hadik was born in 1865, the correspondent continues. He was at one time very rich, but his fortune has been greatly reduced. He is a member of the Imperial Council, and is well known on most of the race courses of Europe. He belongs to the jockey and other exclusive clubs of Buda-Pesth.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt has declined to make any statement concerning her reported engagement to Count Alexander Hadik. Friends of Mrs. Vanderbilt do not believe the report. The count is said to have been present at the wedding of Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter, Gladys, to Count Szechenyi on Jan. 27.

A DARING WOMAN.

Palmerston, Feb. 8—As illustrative of the severity of the storm on Tuesday, a lady passenger with a boy in arms, who, in response to her earnest request, despite the warnings of the other passengers, was let off at a flag station and started to walk cross country to her destination, was picked up shortly after, stuck fast in a snow drift, the train having stopped to get up steam. She was taken on a short distance further to a cross road, where a farm house was situated not far from the track, and a couple of male passengers sent as an escort with her. By the time they returned to the car the men were so completely done out that the assistance of a shover, who was on the train, had to be obtained to bring them around.

Burton Law May be Continued in Force

Washington, February 8. — Persistent efforts are to be made in Congress to prevent the re-enactment of what is known as the Burton law passed in 1906, governing the disposition of the waters of the Niagara Falls. The object of that enactment was to conserve the waters of the falls against the encroachment of commercial enterprise. It was destined, as a purely temporary measure, to be supplanted by a general convention or treaty on this subject between the United States and Canada, and which is intended to cover also the disposition of other waters forming a boundary line between the two countries.

The Burton law expires in less than a year and a half. Those opposing its re-enactment for ten years, as is proposed in some quarters, declare this is a distinct advantage to the Canadians who because such a large portion of the Falls are on the Canadian side of the river, are content to let existing conditions remain, in preference to agreeing to a treaty which will restrict the privileges they now enjoy. For this reason it is argued the law should not be re-enacted, as there will be greater incentive to delay in the execution of a general treaty.

The question of signing a treaty covering the disposition of all the waterways between the two countries has been pending between the United States and Great Britain for a long time. Some time this month Ambassador James Bryce, of Great Britain, is going to Ottawa for a consultation with the Canadian authorities, but whether or not this will develop into active steps towards the formation of a treaty on the general subject is not stated. The International Waterways' Commission, which is made up of members from the United States and Canada, has turned in a mass of information on the whole question, which has been laid before the two Governments for their consideration. The United States Government is anxious that some disposition shall be reached in the whole matter, and that at an early date. It wants a treaty prepared and ratified at this session of Congress if possible. At the same time it is desirable that this shall be accomplished so that the Canadian Parliament may act in the matter.

A failure to reach an understanding in the form of a treaty between the two countries at an early date will necessitate the passage of some form of legislation extending the present law—a resort to which is bitterly opposed by some New York interests.

An Annual Cockfight

Ottawa, Feb. 8. — The following item, which appeared in a local paper, needs no comment, in view of the fact that it describes a regular annual event of which the Quebec Government seems to take no notice: "A big cockfight was pulled off last night near Gatineau Point, and several thousand dollars is said to have been put on the result. A cocking main is always one of the features during race week, and it is generally held out of the jurisdiction of the Ottawa and Hull police. Some fine game birds are said to have been put away last night." Gatineau Point is just across the river from the national capital.

BROCKVILLE BEATEN SECOND ROUND 16-3.

Lindsay, Feb. 8.—The return game in the series of home-and-home games in the Intermediate O. H. A. between Brockville, the winners of District No. 1, and Lindsay Midgets, the winners of District No. 2, was played on the local rink last night. In the first game of the series on Tuesday night at Brockville the Midgets won by the score of 5 goals to 1. Brockville therefore had a lead of four goals to overcome to win the series, as goals count in these games. Last night Lindsay added another victory to their list, winning by 11 goals to 2. And the series by 16 to 3. Brockville were snowbound and did not arrive until 8.45.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and purifies the stomach, liver and bowels, all through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist don't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

GIRLS OF TODAYS ARE WEAKLING

Few Possess the Vitality and Girlish Beauty of the Olden Times.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she arise the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone follows quickly a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surpass energy so eagerly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic. It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 10 1908

THE TELEPHONES OF THE WORLD IN 1907

An estimate made on January 1st, 1907, showed the following numbers and distribution of telephones in the world:—United States, 6,000,000 or 63.6 per cent; Canada, 180,000 or 1.7 per cent; Europe, 3,600,000, or 37.1 per cent; Other parts of the world, 200,000 or 2.7 per cent. Totals, 7,226,000 or 100.0 per cent.

The totals are of necessity approximate, for it is very difficult to get figures from distant parts of the world. In countries where the telephone service is under government management the returns are apt to be particularly delayed in the giving out.

From available statistics, the Bell companies of the United States gained 119 per cent. in the number of their subscribers from the year 1902 until 1907. Independent companies in the Middle West, their stronghold, gained approximately 110 per cent. during the same period. Supposing that their expansion in other fields was at the same rate, the number of "Independent" stations at the beginning of the present year should have been between 1,200,000 and 2,200,000.

In Europe the number of telephone subscribers doubles once in every six or seven years, a considerably slower rate than that in this country. However, it shows that the telephone is increasing in popularity on the continent with reasonably rapidity.

Germany, at the commencement of the present year, had 672,856 telephones in use. Great Britain 431,612. All told, however, there were in use in Europe, with a population of nearly 435,000,000, but 40 per cent. as many telephones as in the United States, with a population in the neighborhood of 85,000,000.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. The By-Law Probably Sustained

The re-count in the canal option vote took place before Judge Benson, Mr. (A. A. Smith, acting for the temperance side, Mr. D. H. Chisholm of Port Hope for the local interest, and R. Ruddy for the corporation of Millbrook. His Honor went carefully over the ballots and found no errors in the count. Asked by Mr. Chisholm if he would go into the matter further, the judge declined to open up the whole question. He offered, however, to hold his decision for a couple of weeks until a decision of Judge Snyder's of Hamilton was further heard by a higher court. But after consulting with his clients Mr. Chisholm decided to drop the matter, and therefore the by-law stands.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

"REINCARNATION" IN INDIA.

Weird Stories That Babies Have Souls of British Officers.

Within the last few weeks a most extraordinary case of alleged reincarnation—claimed to be the soul of a British officer—has made its appearance in Burmah. It is the second of its kind in recent years, and has accordingly attracted widespread attention.

Reincarnation is a fundamental doctrine of Buddhism, and a reincarnation of a human identity, in human form, though changed in outward aspect, is called a "minsa." As a rule, the "minsa" is an ordinary looking child, in no way different from his childish companions.

A few years back A. W. Tucker, district superintendent of police in Pegu, was killed by a gang of dacoits whom he rashly attacked at close quarters after discharging his revolver and without waiting to reload it. His call to his orderly to fetch ammunition gave the clew to the dacoits, and they killed him.

Just about the time this tragedy was being enacted in one part of the district a humble Burmese woman gave birth to a baby boy who in time, before the days of his babyhood were well over, claimed to be no less a personage than the murdered police officer. So circumstantial were his accounts of the encounter with the dacoits as to appear the narrative of an eye-witness, and when questioned on various other points in connection with the life of the deceased officer he is asserted to have answered with such exactitude that the Burmese people who flocked to hear him discourse were convinced of the truth of his assertions. Peculiarities of action and speech were faithfully reproduced, and, generally, quite a sensation was created.

Within the last few weeks a still more interesting case of "minsa" has made its appearance, and I cannot do better than quote the account of a Rangoon Times correspondent from Meiktilla:

"There is a little blue-eyed, light-haired boy here, between 3 and 4 years old, the son of hard-working and matter of fact Burmese parents belonging to the laboring classes, who until quite recently prattled like any other child of that age. The other day, however, he astonished his mother by gravely claiming that he was the late Major D. J. Welsh, Border Regiment, come to life again, and went on to describe the house where he had previously lived, the number of ponies he had, and other personal matters.

"His mother was frightened, and called in the neighbors, to whom the queer albino repeated his story, describing how he and two others—a lady and a gentleman—were drowned in the Meiktilla lake in a boating accident during a storm at night in March, 1904, when the three and only occupants of the boat perished.

"That is the year in which Mrs. Reade, Lieut. A. W. Quinlan, and Major Welsh, both of the Border Regiment, did lose their lives in this manner (as a consequence of omitting to put down the centreboard of their sailing boat).

"Large crowds assemble daily to hear the little child-man speak. Of course, skeptics will say that it is a 'put up job.' The answer to this is that Burmese coolies are not given to romancing to such an extent. Several methods have been applied to test the genuineness of the child's utterances, and people are satisfied that he has not been tutored.

"The parents would have to be wide-awake sharpers indeed to succeed in foisting such a story on the public through the instrumentality of a mere infant, and there is no suggestion that they are not what they appear to be—viz.: simple-minded folk."

MISERABLE AND UNTRUTHFUL.

Countess Says She Never "Squealed" on King Edward.

"A miserable and untruthful story has been running in the American papers about me for 12 years," said the Countess of Warwick to a reporter recently when interviewed at the Hotel Webster, New York.

"Twelve years ago there was a baccarat scandal in England, in which the present King was mixed up. Ever since then, at stated intervals, the American press has connected me with it, referring to me as the 'Babbling Brooke.' Just before my arrival it was printed again.

"I want to say there is not the slightest truth in it. At the time I was in mourning for my stepfather, and knew nothing about it. I never played cards in my life. I don't know one from another, and I have never been inside the house where this game occurred. It is the work of enemies who dare not publish it in the English papers, so get the American papers to injure me."

English Sunday Condemned.

Germans have no more friendly feeling towards the English Sabbath than Britons entertain towards the Continental Sunday. Just recently a conference was held at Frankfort, which had for its object the promotion of the observance of the Sabbath and the introduction of the rigid laws which prevail on that day throughout England.

The very idea seems to have set the Germans' teeth on edge, for in the same town recently a mass meeting was held to protest against the introduction of the English Sunday into Germany. The meeting was characterized by great enthusiasm. Herr Steinbach, the principal speaker, declared that the "English Sunday" would drive the population of Germany, which was now extremely sober, into the public-houses to drown the Sabbatarian dullness in beer.

Herr Hessenberg, another speaker, declared that even one Sunday in London brought on a severe attack of melancholia, necessitating a "cure" in order to restore his balance of mind.

In the opinion of Herr Steinfurth, the observance of Sunday in England was purely external. German people would rise up in thousands to resist any attempt to foist the "English Sunday" upon them.

A strongly-worded resolution to this effect was unanimously adopted.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Sheop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Sheop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The ravishingsome green leaves and tender stems of a hoary healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Sheop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Sheop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

First Run on a Bank.

The first "run" on banking institutions in London was in 1667. Many Lombard street goldsmiths and bankers had lent out the money intrusted to them and, being called upon for payment, were unable to meet the demand. A crowd of creditors and others assembled, and a riot followed, in which four bankers were hanged at their own doors before order could be restored and the angry creditors persuaded that they were not being swindled.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $60 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $300 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $300, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lund brook, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

30 CENTS PER SHARE

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

An Ideal Sitter.

A Washington artist while sketching in North Carolina was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. At last he found the precise situation he was seeking, and, best of all, there chanced to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old colored woman in the foreground.

The artist asked the old woman to remain seated until he had sketched her. She assented with the greatest good nature, but in a few minutes asked how long the artist would be.

"Oh, only about a quarter of an hour," he answered.

Three minutes or so later the old darky again inquired—this time with manifest anxiety—how long the operation of sketching would take.

"Not long," was the reassuring reply. "But why do you ask so anxiously?"

"Oh, nuthin', sah," the old woman hastened to respond, "only I's sittin' on an ant hill, sah."—Harper's Weekly.

Fruit Cookies.

One cup of butter worked to a cream with two cups of granulated sugar. Add three well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, ground; one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one cup of raisins, stoned and chopped; one cup of nuts, chopped; enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Roll thin, bake in a quick oven, brushing over before baking with an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar.

Cool House in Summer.

In the early morning open wide every door and window for two hours. Then close the doors, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and draw down the shades close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and providing a circulation of air a house may be kept cool.

Girls' Ideals.

Girls nowadays seldom care to get married before they are twenty-five. They are willing to get engaged, and many girls say that the ideal life is to live at home, have some business to occupy their time and a fiance to spend his money on their amusement.

Add a little boiling water to the sweet milk used when you are making biscuits, and lar shortening will be needed. The result will be quite the same.

EDUCATION AND CRIME

LEARNING RESPONSIBLE FOR INGENUITY OF CRIMINALS.

Clever Thefts Which Baffle the Police —New Species of Swindler—Crimes Against Property Are Increasing—Well-Educated "Crooks" Get Busy —Violence Gives Way to Softer Methods—Many Jewel Robberies.

The series of extremely clever thefts which have recently baffled the English police and astounded the public by their brilliant audacity has drawn attention to an unpleasant feature in the crime of the country—the growth of offences against property, and of offences which have been committed by persons who do not belong to the hereditary criminal class.

That the more serious offences are increasing while petty crime is decreasing is well known to those familiar with our criminal courts. Take for instance, the latest figures relating to indictable offences. In the latest statistical year they had reached 61,463, as against 59,980 in the previous year, and the annual average of 56,478 during the five years next preceding. Similarly, while the annual average number of persons convicted of serious crime in the five preceding years amounted to 184,987, during this latest year the number reached the high total of 196,861.

The great mass of all crime is now directed against property. Indeed, nine-tenths of the crime of the country consists of offences against other people's property, and this proportion, high as it is, is steadily increasing, while crime against the person is notably diminishing. Violence, in fact, is giving place to cunning and educated effort, and striking evidence of this is shown in the fact that offences against property accompanied with violence are steadily decreasing. Out of a percentage of 179.05 offences against property per 100,000 of population, as many as 157.65 are now unaccompanied by violence.

Ingenuity, Not Violence.

Some of the chief police authorities attribute this diversion of the criminal habit to education. Education has converted the assaulting robber into an ingenious thief, and many ingenious thieves into highly fraudulent persons. The weapon of offence is becoming more often a cunning trick, a clever stratagem, a lying prospectus, fraudulent imitation, adulteration, and the like. To give but one instance of the latter, in one police district no fewer than 47 per cent. of the trade samples taken for analysis were found to be adulterated. More serious crimes against property, however, are rampant; and in Liverpool alone, in the latest statistical year, there were 1,171.28 per 100,000 of population, as against 570.27 per 100,000 ten years ago. They have practically doubled in ten years.

Nor is this a mere sudden leap upward which may be followed immediately by a sudden decline. Here are the figures of the last four years of persons tried for offences against property without violence: 47,783, 49,094, 51,009, and 53,844. That reveals a steady crescendo in crime. So, too, with thefts which have been reported to the police. I take the period of the last six years, and I obtain 57,000, 59,000, 60,000, 62,000, 68,000, 70,000. These figures show a steady but terribly rapid advance in dishonesty and theft.

The New Educated Criminal.

An itching greed seems to lie at the bottom of these crimes, especially when one considers the great increase in cases of obtaining money by false pretences and in betting and gambling offences. A remarkable feature, too, of the burglaries and shop thefts is the large number of persons concerned in them who are not professional or habitual criminals. In Leeds alone there were in the last year no fewer than 354 persons concerned in breaking into houses and shops who belonged to the nonceriminal class and had no conviction or charge of any kind against their names. In five years, such offences—so far, that is, as they have been tried at quarter sessions and assizes—have risen from 1,785 to 2,870.

It would be dangerous to attribute this growth of theft and larceny to one cause, but the head constable of Liverpool is undoubtedly on the right track when he ascribes a great deal of it to the spread of education. It is the widespread penetration of education which has sharpened the wits, enlarged the outlook, heightened the imagination and fashioned the instrument with which ingenious and daring and wholesale theft may be carried on. It is safer and more profitable nowadays to eschew violence and to substitute "finished manners" in perpetrating crime.

And this is why so many jewel robberies are so cunningly planned and perfectly executed that their prevention seems impossible, and the discovery of the criminals concerned has become so difficult.

At any rate, this form of crime is now so prevalent and is increasing so rapidly that it calls for immediate inquiry, while it suggests painfully that this greedy rage for other people's goods may be a reflection of the "quick rich" impulse which is so characteristic of the present day.

King's Act of Politeness.

Anecdotes of King Edward's visit to Cardiff are beginning to come in.

When the royal procession was passing along the path leading to Caerphilly Castle, a little three-year-old boy, named Emrys Jenkins, was placed on the barrier alongside the path. The excitement of the approach of Their Majesties caused the little lad to drop his handkerchief.

Without a moment's hesitation the King stooped and picked it up, and was about to restore it to another little boy, when the Queen with a smile pointed out its rightful owner.

But Not to Be Walked On.

Passenger—I am traveling on my face.

Conductor—Well, it is certainly a plain road.

Dear Coffee.

Louis XIV. of France drank the first cup of coffee made in western Europe. Coffee was then worth £5 10s. a pound.

Ancient Wines.

The wines of the ancients would not be thought palatable today, for they were mixed with sea water, resin, salt, pitch and aromatic herbs, expanded in smoky garrets till reduced to a syrup and then strained and mixed with water.

Lincoln's Retort.

One afternoon when Lincoln was president word came to the war department from the provost marshal at Portland, Me., that Henry Jameson, the Confederate secret service agent, was on his way to New York, where he had engaged passage for England. The war department was at once all astir.

Charles A. Dana, then assistant secretary of war, received the message and hastened at once to consult with Secretary of War Stanton, says the Ladies' Home Journal.

"How do you advise me to act in this matter?" queried Dana.

"Arrest the man at once," was Stanton's reply; "but you had better see the president before you proceed further."

Dana went immediately to the White House. As he was a frequent visitor he was readily admitted to Lincoln's private room.

"What is it, Dana?" asked the president as the secretary came in.

Dana told about the incident and asked the president what ought to be done.

"Well," was the quiet reply, "you say Jameson will soon leave the country?"

"Yes, sir; he will escape within a few hours if nothing is done to stop him. My purpose is to arrest him."

"Well," was the president's reply, "when you have a white elephant on your hands and he's doing his level best to get away, why not leave him alone, Dana?"

And Jameson was let alone.

The "Six Hundred Ruffians."

On Feb. 23, 1838, Lord Maidstone called the attention of the house to a speech delivered by O'Connell at a political dinner in London in which he asserted that the Tory election committee of the day—or the committees appointed by the house to try election petitions, a practice which has since been abolished—had stooped to "foul perjury" in order that their friends might retain their seats. A vote of censure on O'Connell, which was moved by Lord Maidstone, was carried by a majority of nine.

A few days later a curious scene was witnessed in the house. O'Connell had to stand up in his place in the crowded chamber while the speaker, James Abercromby, solemnly reproved him for "the false and scandalous imputation" he had cast upon "the honor and conduct of members of the house. It now only remains," said the speaker in conclusion, "that in obedience to the commands of this house I should reprimand you, as I now accordingly do."

The reprimand, however, made no impression upon O'Connell. "I have repented of nothing, I have retracted nothing," said he in the course of a speech he delivered when the speaker resumed his seat, and he concluded by moving a committee before which to prove his charges. He subsequently described the house of commons—in a speech delivered outside—as "six hundred ruffians."

BEDS AND BEDMAKING.

Many False Notions on This Important Subject Exploded.

Many people used to have an impression that to sleep on a soft bed had a spice of wickedness in it and that the harder the mattress the greater the virtue of the sleeper.

This arose in great part from the fact that feather beds were generally condemned as unhealthy, and the ignorant at once seized the idea that they were unhealthy because soft, whereas they are unhealthy because they do not permit of proper ventilation.

More and more we learn that the foundation of health lies in an abundant supply of fresh air and that the root of many a disease is in the want of it. In health many of us spend a third of our time actually in bed and in sickness much more, so it is of the greatest importance that the bed and everything connected with it should be thoroughly ventilated.

It goes without saying that the bedroom must itself be airy and the fresh air have free access to it.

From the point of view of health it is a matter of indifference whether the bedstead be of wood or of iron, but the most comfortable and at the same time healthy are those fitted with chain spring mattresses. These mattresses may be bought separately and fitted to any bedstead.

AIDS TO BEAUTY.

Small white spots which often appear on the nails are caused from bruising.

Thin arms should be washed twice a day with a fine lather of soap, rinsed well, dried thoroughly and then rubbed vigorously. This treatment will bring the pores into action and induce a healthy condition of the skin.

It is nonsense to think that soap and water and a complexion brush will cause a growth of hair on the face. Superfluous hair is more likely to grow on a dust laden, oily skin. Soap, hot water and a complexion brush used every night are necessary to get the face clean. A good cream will counteract the drying effects of the soap.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn back proverbs back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it unfailingly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These sand-like granular tablets, found in Rheumatic blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We will, and in confidence recommend

How a Modern Nautical Term Came Into Use.

During the past few days the nautical word "knot" has been much in evidence, but few readers are perhaps aware of its origin as a term of nautical measurement. It was, away back in the 17th century, merely a knot in the vessel's log-line; and later it became what it is to-day, a mark of bunting or whatnot inserted between the strands of the line, as are the marks on a lead-line. This system of measurement began thus: A piece of line, 30 to 40 fathoms long, was knotted at intervals of 5 or 10 fathoms; to the end was attached a canvas bag, which would fill with water and remain stationary in the water, thus drawing out the line over the taffrail, where stood the officer, minute-glass in hand, counting the knots as they ran out. The officer then worked out the rate per mileage per hour.

Unemployed in London.

The following figures are grimly eloquent. There is a standing army, as the phrase goes, of 80,000 unemployed in London; add, still, 30,000 women badly employed indeed, and 33,000 homeless adults, and 25,000 wandering children of the slums, and 15,000 free criminals, and you have before you a statistical summary of the situation in the greatest city in Christendom. Interesting, is it not? And with those who do not walk the streets at night things are only a degree better. It is a fact that 90 per cent. of the producers of the actual wealth of London have no homes they can call their own beyond the week's end, no other possessions than the few sticks of old furniture that will go into a hand car for trundling from lodging to lodging. And 300,000 people live in one-room tenements, in which decency is impossible. Every night 30,000 Londoners sleep in four-penny lodging houses—the four-penny "doss"—and every night 111,000 sleep in the casual wards. Where should they sleep, these secondary millions? In London there are 1,292,737 workers who get less than $5 a week per family.

The Changing Seasons.

The falling leaves begin to whirl;
To earth the wind has brought 'em;
I hate to see the summer girl
Become the girl of autumn.

Examine Your Tongue

Is It Coated?

Call the doctor—what does he do first? Examines your tongue.

If it's pale, flabby-looking and coated, he knows the activity of your stomach is lowered.

Your overworked stomach is on strike. It refuses to secrete pepsin enough to act upon the food. Refuses also to secrete acid enough to enable the peptic secretion to do its work.

What's the result—dyspepsia, headache, sick all over.

How do you expect to be well, to look well, to sleep well, if your system is impaired?

Better patch up the weak spot.

Give to the stomach the assistance it requires—or in other words try Dr. Hamilton's Pills which cure more weak stomachs than any other medicine you know of.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills put the kind of life into a weak stomach that enables it to digest and assimilate all kinds of food.

No medicine could do more than Dr. Hamilton's Pills did for Wm. Martin, a well-known lumberman of Parry Sound, Ont., who says: "I consider that Dr. Hamilton's Pills make the best all round medicine. My stomach got disordered and all kinds of complications set in. My blood grew thin, my color got pale and I had the worst kind of headaches. The food I ate all disagreed with me and I was constantly bilious and suffering from acute dyspepsia. A wonderful change took place when I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they gave me appetite and strong digestion. I had no more bad dreams, no sick stomach or headache. I was in fact like a new man and will always recommend and use Dr Hamilton's Pills."

It's the people who feel half-sick—sort of tired and depressed, for these who have any ailment of the stomach, kidneys or liver that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sure to benefit at once. Try them, 25c. per box at all dealers, and insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. In yellow boxes only.

Penalty of Greatness

Lindsay Post: "There is considerable destitution in Peterborough at the present time. A relief restaurant, opened a few days ago, is providing for about 40 persons." Such is the penalty of being a great city.

Typographical Union Donates $5

—At a meeting of Peterborough Typographical Union No. 240, held on Saturday night in the Foresters' Hall, George street, that body passed a resolution authorizing the secretary to donate the sum of $5 to the Children's Aid Society.

Arrived too Late for Funeral

Messrs. Allan McDonnell and W. J. McDonnell, of Toronto, and Robert McDonnell, of Rochester, were in the city on Saturday. On account of the blockade of the railroads they were unable to reach the city in time for the funeral of their brother, the late Chas. J. McDonnell, which took place on Friday morning to St. Peter's R. C. Cemetery.

Contribution to Children's Aid

The Children's Aid Society has acknowledged the receipt of $30 from the Peterborough Ladies' Hockey Club, and desires to thank the members for their generosity and charity. The money was the ladies' share received in their game with the Rough Riders Thursday night last.

Mr. P. Shewen's Funeral Saturday

On Saturday the funeral of the late Mr. Peppet W. Shewen was held at Apsley. The late Mr. Shewen, who was well known and had many friends in Peterborough, passed away last Wednesday at his residence near Mount Julian, where he has operated a saw mill for the past year or two. The deceased for many years resided at Apsley, where he was formerly clerk of the municipality. He was twice married, his second wife being a Miss Eastwood, who predeceased him. Some time ago he moved to Mount Julian, as above noted.

Still Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Relief Restaurant Moved

The relief restaurant, formerly at 24 Stewart street, at which hundreds of gallons of good palatable nourishing soup have been dispensed lately to those in want, will to-day be opened at 466 Albert street, where soup and other wholesome provisions will be distributed as at the former location.

Mr. Geo. B. Shepherd Back Again

Mr. Geo. B. Shepherd, the genial head clerk of the Snowdon House, has once more resumed his position at the hotel office. Mr. Shepherd has just returned from a two months' visit at Cobourg, where he was the guest of friends recuperating after spending some four months ill in Nicholls Hospital. His many friends will be pleased to learn that George is thoroughly convalescent.

Mr. E. B. Stone's Funeral Postponed

The funeral of the late Mr. E. B. Stone, formerly a barrister of this city, which was to have taken place on the arrival of the C. P. R. noon train Saturday, has been postponed until to-day. Mr. A. P. Poussette on Saturday morning received a telegram from Toronto notifying him that the remains had not arrived in that city. The funeral will take place on arrival of the 11.45 C. P. R. train to-day.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien's Address

The Catholic Register pays Rev. Dr. O'Brien a high compliment on his address before the Catholic Young Ladies' Literary Society, delivered recently in Toronto. This well known local divine spoke in the Margaret Eaton School of Expression and chose as his subject the classic countries of Greece and Italy and illustrated his lecture by stereopticon views. There was a large and delighted audience present.

Court of Revision Special Session

A sitting of the Court of Revision of the city of Peterborough will be held at the City Council Chamber on Friday, February 21, at 8 p.m., for the confirmation of a number of special assessments upon the property fronting or abutting on the streets or parts of some streets for the construction of granolithic sidewalks, and the total amount to be assessed upon the property fronting upon the streets in question.

Mr. Gardiner's Experience

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, the well known auctioneer, was stormstead at Bethany, for Tuesday until Friday. Finding that there was no chance of the snow blockade being raised, he started for Millbrook, 8 miles distant, down the railway track on foot, accompanied by a knight of the grip. They made the journey in two hours and forty minutes. The snow was, in many places, over the fence tops on the side of the railroad, and in the cuts it was from 10 to 30 feet deep. Mr. Gardiner got a train at Millbrook for Peterborough Friday evening.

Turkey at 40 Cents Per Pound

Saturday's market was very slim as far as attendance by farmers was concerned, but far from slim as regarded individual prices demanded. Butter was almost impossible to procure, whilst eggs was only a memory of former times. One well known Otonabee farmer said to a Times reporter inquisitive: "Mister, if I had a clothes-basket full of real fresh eggs I could get 40 cents a dozen." One gentleman who spied out a turkey about the size of a good robust clucking hen asked the price. He was told $2.25. On weighing the bird, the price quoted amounted to within a fraction of forty cents a pound. He did not buy the turkey.

Companies Incorporated

The following companies were incorporated under Provincial authority during 1907: Cavendish Lumber Co., $200,000.; Lakefield; Dr. Norvall Medical Co., $10,000, Peterborough; Great Western Power and Manufacturing Co., $300,000, Peterborough; Mann Lumber and Cheese Box Company, $40,000, Peterborough; Otonabee Navigation Co., $40,000, Peterborough; The Peoples Bakery, $50,000, Peterborough; Peterborough & Chemong Auto Car Company, $5,000, Peterborough; Peterborough Lumber Co., $40,000, Peterborough; Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Co., $200,000, Peterborough; Richard Hall & Sons, $150,000, Peterborough; Robert Fair & Co., $75,000, Peterborough.

New Hat Cleaning Machine

Messrs. Yeates Bros., proprietors of the George Street shoe shine parlor, have completed their recently added hat and cap cleaning machine. This machine, whilst making old headwear look like new, is of simple design. It consists simply of a small upright motor to which is attached an expanding circular wood and wheel. This wheel is placed inside the crown of the hat or cap and by screws made to fit the same tightly. The motor causes the wheel and hat to revolve very rapidly, when the man in charge holds a brush to the article to be cleaned, as it flies round 800 or 900 times a minute thus removing every trace of dirt or stain. An electrically heated flat iron then completes the work.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Aylen, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Nepigon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners. A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1, District 'A'... $ 75,000
For Section No. 2, District 'A'... 100,000
For Section No. 3, District 'A'... 75,000
For Section No. 4, District 'B'... 100,000
For Section No. 5, District 'D'... 150,000
For Section No. 6, District 'E'... 100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses in the form of contract:—

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purpose of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The 'schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock, manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,

P. B. RYAN,
Secretary.

The Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

FOR EVERY FORTUNE BUILT BY A WISE INVESTOR, A FINANCIAL COWARD GOES TO THE POORHOUSE

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

WIFE AND SIX LITTLE CHILDREN BURNED IN NEW LISKEARD HOME

Mr. Lawrence Haacke Loses Whole Family in Sunday Morning Fire

Overheated Stove Pipe Set Fire to Wooden Structure Which was Soon Consumed

Father is Distracted

New Liskeard, Feb. 10.—One of the most heartrending disasters that has ever shocked this community occurred at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, when the wife and five children of Lawrence Haacke, formerly of 3 Bleecker place, Toronto, were burned to death before the very eyes of the husband and father. The mother and family were upstairs getting dressed and the father was downstairs in the kitchen, when fire broke out from a stovepipe near the stairs, cutting off the easy means of escape.

So rapid were the flames that when the father tried to reach his family he was barked back half suffocated by the smoke, and by the time he had passed a ladder against the outside window the upstairs was a raging furnace in which no human being could live.

THE VICTIMS.

The dead are: The mother, Netta Christinnia Haacke; Vera Margaret Haacke, aged 12 years on June 9 next; Mabel Irene, aged 10 years on October 31st next; George Frederick Lawrence, aged 7 years on May; Clarence Henry, aged 5 years on November 25th; and Anna Evelyn, aged 3 years on August 8th next. The sixth child was just unborn. The unfortunate mother, to whose precarious condition the tragedy was probably attributed, is thought to have fainted when the smoke appeared, came originally from Sunderland, in Brock township.

A TORONTO FAMILY.

She spent her girlhood in Markham and of late years lived at 3 Bleecker place, Toronto. Her father, John German, now lives at 55 Hamilton street, Toronto, and is employed as a foreman blacksmith in the C. P. R. shops in Toronto. A brother lives at 500 Church street, Toronto, and in the city are a number of other relations. A telegram was sent to the brother yesterday after the accident, and the bodies are being taken to Toronto this afternoon by the 2.23 train for burial in the Necropolis cemetery. They are frightfully mutilated by the fire, the sixth child being actually burned from its mother's womb.

SUDDEN AND TERRIBLE.

The tragedy was as sudden as it was terrible. The father dressed himself at about 10.30 on Sunday morning, and, having his family awake, went downstairs to light the wood fires. He started the front room stove first and left it burning to attend to that in the kitchen. To give warmth to those upstairs he closed the door leading in to the kitchen. Not a sound did he hear, not one scream or call as he sat by the kitchen fire, and in a few minutes he arose to look after the other stove.

MET WITH CLOUD OF SMOKE.

As he opened the door he was met by a cloud of smoke. His first thought was for his children. He rushed to the stairway, but he met with a burst of flame that choked him, singed his hair and burned his face. He cast about for some covering, when the thought struck him that even did he pass the barrier of flames he could never bring the children back alive.

A LAST CHANCE.

There was one window in the upstairs, and Haacke ran outside for a ladder. He called to his brother-in-law, John Frets, who lived next door, and the two men threw a ladder against the window. The moment the glass was broken the flames roared through the opening as from the crater of a volcano. In less than five minutes afterwards the downstairs floor alone remained.

The neighbors quenched the embers with snow, and dragged the charred remains of the woman and children from the ashes.

They were carried to the H. Nickels undertaking rooms, where, under the direction of the undertaker, the birth of the sixth child, still-born, took place.

The father, Lawrence Haacke, was stupefied by the blow. He is a man of about 35 years of age, a hard-working and honest fellow who, according to the neighbors, delighted in his home life. He could not realize that in ten minutes he had been left alone.

PLANNING CRYSTAL WEDDING.

He had been married nearly fifteen years, and his wife was planning the celebration of their crystal wedding, which was to have taken place in September next. "If I could have saved a single child alive it would not have seemed so bad," he cried. The rapidity of the fire is explained by the fact that the house was sheeted in lieu of plaster, by heavy white building paper.

CAUSE OF THE FIRE.

It was a mercy and a half structure, built entirely of wood, and as dry as tinder. The stovepipe ran through the floor inside a narrow wood stairway, but it was protected from the flooring by a hollow tin drum used regularly for such purposes. The pipe itself was new. At the same time the stove was a powerful draught, and the heat no doubt ignited the paper. The fire must, therefore, have made its first appearance beside the staircase.

OVERCOME WITH SMOKE.

The family was bottled up in a close room. It is probable the mother fainted and that the children were suffocated before they realized the situation.

WORD REACHES THE CITY.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—"House burned. Netta and all children burned. Will send bodies Monday evening. Arrange for burial. Three coffins, 5 feet 9, 6 feet, and 6 feet 3 inches. Lawrence Haacke."

This was the telegram received by Mr. Jermyn, of 55 Hamilton street, on Sunday from his son-in-law in New Liskeard.

This is all at present that Mr. Jermyn has of the tragic event which robbed him in a few minutes of a daughter and five grandchildren, and left his son-in-law homeless and bereaved.

FATHER OVERCOME.

When a reporter called at the house this morning the old gentleman was overcome with grief. At first when the reporter called he thought there might be some more news which would say that the terrible tragedy was not as bad as at first reported. For a minute his eyes had an eager and expectant look, but when he found there was no better news from the bearer his eyes filled with tears.

"Oh, God, this is awful," he exclaimed.

LETTER ON SATURDAY.

"To think that only Saturday we received a letter from my daughter saying she was well and happy, and getting one another new home. And yesterday, not 24 hours afterwards, came the terrible news that she and her children were all dead.

"I can't tell you any more about the accident except what this telegram says. We have had no more news. My son-in-law must have been out when the fire occurred, as he is alive and apparently not hurt, for the telegram says nothing about him. I guess the fire occurred when my daughter and her children were asleep in bed."

Mr. Jermyn has two other daughters and two sons. Mrs. Haacke and her husband removed to New Liskeard about a year ago. She was born in Brock township, and for a time after she was married lived with her husband at Markham.

RELATIONS HERE.

Besides her father Mrs. Haacke has an unmarried sister, Miss Cora Jermyn, living at 55 Hamilton street; a half brother Fred, also at home, and another brother Henry at 500 Church street, and an aunt Mrs. Emma Bell at 42 Ann street. George Haacke, employed by the street railway, is a brother of Mr. Haacke.

Committee Has Been Named to Select the Olympic Team

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—All difficulties have been cleared out of the way of united action among the amateur athletic organizations of the Dominion towards a first-class Canadian representation at the Olympic games in Great Britain this year. A preliminary organization has been completed by the formation of a strong committee which will now proceed to arrange for selection of competitors and teams for England, and for the raising of the necessary funds. The committee is as follows:

Representing the British Olympic Committee—Col. J. Hambury Williams, P. D. Ross, Rev. D. Bruce MacDonald, F. L. C. Pereira, Hon. Secretary.

Canadian Amateur Athletic Union—Inspector Wm. Stark, J. G. Merrick and Controller J. J. Ward, Toronto; C. C. Holland, Montreal.

Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada—Lieut.-Col. Whitehead, Leslie Boyd and T. O'Donnell, of Montreal; Wm. Foran, Ottawa.

Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen—Claude Macdonell, M.P., and T. P. Galt, Toronto.

Canadian Golf Association—Dr. Rutan, Montreal; A. W. Austin, Toronto.

Amateur Skating Association of Canada—W. G. Ross and Jas. A. Taylor, Montreal.

Inter-Provincial Rugby Football Union—George Ballard, Hamilton; H. B. McGiverin, Ottawa.

Canadian Tennis Association—Captain J. F. Foulkes, Ottawa.

The president of the Maritime Provinces Athletic Association and Geo. Tracey, of Halifax

George F. Galt, Winnipeg.

J. B. Sankler, K.C., Vancouver.

E. C. St. Pierre and J. A. Mercier, Montreal.

The Inter-Collegiate Rugby Football Union has also been asked to appoint two representatives, and there may be some other additions. The first meeting of the committee will be held in Ottawa next Saturday.

Former Peterborough Citizens Cancel Golden Wedding for Charity

It will interest very many of our citizens to learn that former residents of Lakefield and Peterborough, now living in Toronto, were last night depictured in the Toronto News. These are Major S. Leigh and Mrs. Leigh, who last night celebrated their golden wedding, having been married for fifty years. Major and Mrs. Leigh had some time ago issued invitations to a large "At Home" to celebrate the event, but learning of the general poverty common throughout Toronto, they donated $50, the sum it was anticipated the reception at their residence would have cost, and cancelled the invitations.

Major Leigh has for many years filled an important post in the Ontario Government Crown Lands Department. Our older citizens will remember this Major who is living the life of a country gentleman in Lakefield many years ago, always taking great interest in the 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers, and was always a keen sportsman and dead-shot. His and Mrs. Leigh have lived in Toronto about 25 years.

SUICIDE EPIDEMIC AMONG THE BANKERS IN THE UNITED STATES

Ill-Health and Mental Worry Drive Officials of American Institutions to End Life

Fort Worth Texas, Feb. 10.—L. C. Hutchins, fifty years old, second vice-president of the Fort Worth National Bank, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself. Ill-health and mental worry are given as the cause of suicide.

Brooding over the suicide of Banker Hutchins, a man he did not know, Eric C. Gambrell, thirty-eight years old, shot and killed himself at a local hotel last night.

A TRUST COMPANY PRESIDENT.

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 10.—C. A. Beasley, president of the American Bank and Trust Company, at Houston, Texas, and until recently president of the Texas Bankers' Association, shot and killed himself late yesterday. Ill-health is believed to be the cause of the act.

F. W. GOULD KILLED HIMSELF.

Moline, Ill., Feb. 10. — Frank W. Gould, president of the Union Malleable Iron Company and president of the Board of Trustees of the Western Illinois Hospital for the Insane, at Watertown, committed suicide in his bedroom Saturday by shooting himself in the mouth. The suicide was brought about by heavy financial difficulties.

LOST FORTUNE; TOOK POISON.

New York, Feb. 10.—E. C. Brooks, who came from the west a wealthy man a few years ago, and lost his fortune on Wall Street, suicided by drinking poison in the annex to the Produce Exchange Saturday. A note in his pocket asked the authorities to communicate with his brother, Clifford Brooks, 18 Week road, Hampstead, England.

DEATH OF ITALIAN BANKER.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10. — Michaele Martino, banker, importer and philanthropist, and one of the wealthiest Italians in the east, died at his home here last night, aged fifty-six years. Mr. Martino was a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce and owner of La Voce de Popolo, a leading Italian newspaper of this city.

DEATH OF RICHARD TULL.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—Richard Tull, treasurer of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Co., the Reading Coal & Iron Co., and the Philadelphia Belt Line Railroad, died at his home yesterday, aged fifty-six years.

Russia Preparing for War with Turkey --War in the Spring

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—Alarmed at the unchecked Turkish penetration of Persia and the mobilization in Armenia, the Russian government has decided to transact a formidable military demonstration on the Turko-Persian frontier. A competent expedition of sixty thousand select troops from Central Russia, with full war equipment will be sent to this frontier.

The war office drew up the plans of the expedition, submitted them to the Duma on Friday, the national defense committee committed in closed session, and in a high pitch of patriotism the appropriation was unanimously passed.

AN OPEN CREDIT.

A representative of the war office outlined to the committee the Turkish preparations, and asked for an open credit for the maintenance of an army of sixty thousand. He met possible arguments of economy by saying that blood and treasure had been expended in Manchuria in vain, owing to lack of armament. Also, he said, the Empire's prestige in the Middle East was to the balance.

M. Gouchkoff, Octobrist leader, said the majority in the Duma were Russian patriots, willing to part with their "last shirt" to defend the fatherland. At this session a further expenditure of $10,000,000 was sanctioned, floating batteries are to be created along the Baltic. The cities along this coast have been at Germany's mercy.

WAR IN THE SPRING.

At Rome the situation in the Balkans is considered very grave. Austria and Germany, it is said., charge Russia with trying to obtain revenge for her failure in the Far East by turning her attention to the Near East.

It is further asserted by officials of these governments that she is helped by France and Great Britain, the former above-board, the latter secretly.

The Popolo Romano goes so far as to say that a Russo-Turkish war is likely to occur in the spring. Turkey has now in Macedonia 160,000 of her best troops, officered by Germans.

FLYING GENDARMERIE.

Constantinople advices indicate that the Sublime Porte is backward in acceding to an American railway company their line through Beshik with the Turkish line to Salonica.

Russia is opposed to the British proposal to create flying columns of gendarmerie to be commanded by Europeans for the purpose of stamping out marauding bands in Macedonia.

Smith Street Bridge will be Repaired

Board of Works Hold Meeting and Do Considerable Business

Last night a meeting of the Board of Works was held. Those present were Ald. Phelan, chairman; Aldermen Tovey, Buller, Elliott and Morgan.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

An account was received from G. Carton for $2 for a shaft of his rig broken.

The payment of $13 to H. C. Stabler for a culvert on Pearl avenue was approved.

Several petitions were received and referred to the usual committees.

Ald. Buller moved that Ald. Elliott, Bradburn and the chairman be a committee to wait on the Council of North Monaghan re drain at continuation of Park street in the township.—Carried.

The city engineer, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, wrote re removal of snow from the streets, and the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. and extension of route of the railway.

The Board of Health recommended that a sewer be constructed on Rubidge street from Brock street to a point 75 feet north of Kirk street.

A report from T. A. S. Hay was read regarding Smith street bridge. Mr. Hay said it could be repaired so as to last another season, and recommended that preparations be made for a new bridge.

Ald. Tovey moved that the engineer be instructed to prepare material and proceed with the repairs.

Notice was received from the county judge appointing February 27th for proceeding with the arbitration as to value of the land taken from D. W. Dumble for extension of George street.—Referred to the mayor.

Mr. G. W. Batten was heard on behalf of B. J. Strickland, also present. He asked that George street, south of Townsend street be widened to the east to Mr. Strickland's property.—Referred to a special committee and city engineer to examine the same.

Mrs. S. McConkey Has Passed Away

This afternoon at two o'clock the funeral of Mrs. S. McConkey will be held from the family residence, 713 Union street, to the Lakefield Cemetery. The late Mrs. McConkey passed away after a long illness. She was 57 years of age and was born in Smith, being the daughter of Mrs. Baker, of Lakefield. Thirty years ago she was married to her now surviving husband.

Two sons and two daughters are left to mourn her loss. The sons are Fred, of Smith, and Albert of this city. The daughters are Misses Bertha and Bella. One brother, Mr. Wm. Baker of Lakefield, and two sisters, Mrs. N. G. Bell, of Bridgenorth, and Mrs. Wm. McIlmoyle, of this city, are left to mourn her loss. Big failing off.

Big Fa ling Off

New York, Feb. 11.—The appraised value of precious stones and pearls imported at this port during the month of January, 1908, is more than $4,000,000 less than for the corresponding month of 1907. It showed, a gain, however, over last December, of $165,577.85. The par appraised value of these imports for the month of December of $165,977.85. A year before the value was $4,868,160, and in 1906, it was $2,704,991.

There has also a falling off in value of automobiles imported in January. The figures for the month were 139 cars, valued at $280,213, against 113 cars, valued at $270,250 in January, 1907, and 138 cars, valued at $540,445 in 1906.

During Sleep

Nature Repairs the Human Engine

The activities of the day cause more or less waste of tissues in the human engine which is repaired at night during sleep.

The man or woman who can sleep well at night, is sure of the necessary repairs, other things being right, to make each day a time of usefulness and living a real joy.

But let insomnia get hold of you, and the struggle begins, of trying to work with a machine out of repair. A Nebraska woman's experience with coffee as a producer of insomnia is interesting. She says:—

"I used to be a coffee drinker and was so nervous I could not sleep at night before about 12 o'clock, unless I would take some medicine. I was under the doctor's care for about 5 years and my weight got down to 87 lbs.

"The doctor said I would have to quit drinking coffee. Then my father got me to try Postum which he said had done wonders for him. I am past 40 and before I quit drinking coffee, my heart would jump and flutter at times, and a heat, then heat so fast I could hardly breathe in enough air and I would get smothered.

"My tongue would get so stiff I could not talk and I could not hold a glass to my hand. Since I have been drinking Postum in place of coffee, I can sleep around any time I lie down, and I feel I owe everything to Postum Food Coffee. I now weigh 120 lbs. and am well."

Merchant Just Missed Satisfaction

Yesterday morning a local merchant just missed getting personal satisfaction along the line of a complaint made by him by a very few minutes. It seems the merchant in question called at the police station and inquired if there wasn't a law to prevent peddlers going about the city selling goods. He did not think that this was right. He thought that the city merchants should have some protection.

Within a very few minutes after this call, P. C. Newhall arrived at the station with the peddler, who paid his $30 license fee. A report of the latter is contained in this issue.

The Death of Mr. T. J. Welch

The many friends of Mr. Thomas J. Welch, for many years proprietor of Welch's brickyard, will hear with profound regret that the good citizen has passed away, his death occurring on Sunday, after a long illness.

The late Mr. Welch was 64 years of age and was born in England, coming to this country when a boy. He was married to Jane Guirie forty-five years ago, who still survives him. Since arriving in Canada he had always resided in Otonabee. Four sons and two daughters are left to mourn his loss. The sons are Thos. and William of Otonabee and Ernest of Port Arthur, and James of Ottawa. The daughters are Mrs. John Richey of Toronto Junction and Miss Emma at home.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, lot 25, con. 12, Otonabee, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Merchants Anticipate Much Better Times

One proof that business men believe that the present hard times will not last long was given yesterday, in a case. The agent of one of Canada's largest lithographing houses was in the city yesterday soliciting orders for calendars, etc., for the trade of next Christmas. A Times representative asked this gentleman the usual question, "How's business?" To which the agent replied, "Fine, fine; I've taken larger orders than I ever took at this time of year. You see, to my line of goods, orders for calendars are taken eight or ten months ahead, and only filled and paid or 'drawn' for at next Christmas. Now, there is, of course, a temporary stringency all over the country just now, but merchants are confident this will soon be over, and anticipate a corresponding reaction and preparing to get in as much as money becomes up. Why to-day I took five different orders for Christmas calendars from merchants I called on three last spring, and in could come to-day and [illegible] from them to-day for the year ahead. [illegible] better than ever before. [illegible] and have more money before any public will be paid for next Christmas or spring."

Another Opinion on a Carnegie Library

To the Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—In the REVIEW of last night is a letter signed "Citizen," advocating a Carnegie library for Peterborough. While in one way Citizen's arguments are plausible. Are they altogether right and commendable? Is $400 the endowment of the present library its only source of income? Again I would sooner see the money go from the sale of the store given for library purposes by the Nicholls estate trustees put into a smaller building than accept a cut stone edifice given by Mr. Carnegie. Should we accept Mr. Carnegie's gift, call it charity, generosity, a sop-to-conscience or what you like, the city would have a perpetual debt annually of ten per cent. of his gift.

Still, Sir, apart from all this line of argument, are the citizens of Peterborough forgetful as to bring the name of Peterborough's greatest benefactress behind the cut stone walls of the Pittsburg Iron King's gift? This is what a Carnegie library would practically mean. Visitors to Peterborough would be shown with pride (?) "Our Carnegie Library!" whilst the present endowment, and that raised by the sale of the Simcoe street store (graciously a Nicholls gift) would be wingsky part of what the taxpayers would have to disburse every year. The difference between what would be yearly paid for maintenance of a Carnegie library, and that required for a public library minus the Carnegie, would pay interest on debentures for such money as the citizens would give to erect a library suitable for Peterborough's wants and which would perpetuate the name of "Nicholls."

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions, which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, "chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as recording for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of 160 pages, containing will be sent, entirely free, to any address, on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.

Peddler Captured After Long Chase

Yesterday P. C. Newhall corralled an Assyrian, named Leo Bogus, who it appears has been peddling goods in the town for some two weeks without having taken out the necessary peddler's license. When brought to the station Chief Roesel said to him. "Hear you have been peddling. Why don't you take out a license?" Bogus, who had $65 in silver, replied, "I have not done enough business to take out a license" To this P. C. Newhall answered, "Well, you just made a sale of $1.70 a few minutes ago." Bogus said, "I have only been here a few days". However, Chief Roesel knew he had been here for two weeks, and called up the Magistrate asking him to come down to settle the case. During the interval between the telephone message and the Magistrate's arrival, whilst P. C. Newhall was searching the prisoner, and counting his money, Bogus suddenly stepped forward and ejaculated "I will pay de fine", Mr. Dumble, when he got to the station, and found the fine had been paid remarked, "Well, it's cheaper for him to pay the $30 license than the same amount for a fine and be without the license."

This was, it seems, has given the police a long chase before captured. He knew P. C. Newhall was after him, and on several occasions, evidently getting the tip, that the officer was after him, jumped on a Charlotte street car, and transferred at Park as though going north, he would then, after riding a block or two, jump off and walk back, doubling on his tracks. However, yesterday morning Newhall went after him and headed the man on London, near Division street. Bogus went to a house on the former street, and entering the parcels said a lady's license for $1.70. Whilst the sale was in progress the officer held up behind a vacant house and waited behind the parcels until Bogus came out, when he arrested him. Bogus tried to pay his "fine just before arraignment". This, however, was disapproved by the lady of the house. The peddler was then arrested as before stated.

On the way to the station, Bogus said to the officer "You let me go and I makes your wife a fine present." Newhall replied, "I have not got a wife". "Well, you let me go and I give you $6!" He said he had hardly enough to pay his fare back to Toronto but could afford $6 for the officer.

A Crowded House Greeted Marks Bros.

At the Grand Opera House last night the Marks Bros. No. 1 Dramatic Company opened a week's engagement, supporting the talented and versatile actress, May A. Bell-Marks. The building was crowded to the doors, and the large audience showed marked approval of the pretty little comedy drama, "The Witch of Wall street," by the frequency and enthusiasm of their applause. The company is much stronger than the average vaudeville and repertoire aggregation, and the attendance last night should be repeated each and every performance during the week. The specialties consist of sketches, songs, dances and moving pictures, and prove amusing and pleasing intervals between the acts. May A. Bell-Marks could not sing last night owing to a slight hoarseness, but little George Marks proved a favorite with the audience as her substitute. Leigh Wardley in songs and [illegible] caught the house, and the Gay Sisters in operatic sketches, and the Sisters Markham in songs and dances earned repeated and well deserved encores.

May A. Bell-Marks in the difficult dual characters of Jean Ingleside and Marie Dubois, displayed exceptional histrionic talent. Her impersonation of the French woman who hates was quite irresistible, and elicited frequent rounds of applause. She is equally at home in high pathos and humor, and has a charming conception of the many characters she impersonates. Her support was very acceptable, and handled their several parts in a creditable manner.

R. W. Marks' offerings are prettily staged, and with a care and fitness to the plays that shows commendable management.

VERY PREVELENT IN YOUNG WOMEN

A Condition of "Waite-Bloodedness is Fast Increasing.

It is always associated with langour and sensitiveness to cold. All the mucous surfaces, such as the gums, lips and eyelids, are blanched and waxy looking, the skin is pallid and colorless.

The pulse becomes rapid and feeble; there is also loss of appetite and enfeebled digestion, palpitation of the heart, breathless and tendency to faint. In extreme cases there is complete disappearance of the menses, slow and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

Physicians know of no remedy so prompt in results as Ferrozone, which contains all the elements lacking in debilitated blood.

Ferrozone not only improves the present quality of the blood, but actually forms more blood—the rich, red kind that nourishes and feeds the organs that require assistance.

"About a year ago," writes Mrs. S. G. Stanhope, of Rothesay, "my daughter complained of feeling tired. She was very pale and listless, and kept losing strength until too weak to attend school.

"We read of a similar case, that of Miss Deacon, Stirling, Ont., being cured by Ferrozone, and this induced us to get it for Elaine. It took three boxes of Ferrozone to make any decided improvement, but when six boxes were used my daughter was beginning to be her old self again. It didn't take much longer to make a complete cure. It has made a new girl of Elaine. She has gained ten pounds in weight and looks the picture of perfect health. She is stronger and enjoys the best of spirits."

Every growing girl and young woman can make herself strong and healthy with Ferrozone. Price 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

New-York Tribune Index

The files of a newspaper contain the embodied history of the world. But finding what one wants in them unaided is like the proverbial search for a needle in a haystack. One might almost as well have a locked treasure chest without a key. The key that unlocks newspaper files is an index. For over thirty years The New York Tribune has published an annual index to what appears in its columns. The same index is of use with files of other newspapers, so far as general news is concerned, for the news of the same day may be found in all. In addition to a file of The Tribune, The Tribune Index contains information in regard to a multitude of special articles, editorials, book notices, correspondence and other features of a distinctive character. It is a key of great convenience of facts. Will not some enterprising publisher take the matter in hand. Price $4.00.

How Animals Are Loaded on Board Vessels in Hawaii.

Afterward I was taken to Kawaihae, where I saw cattle loaded in a most cruel manner. It was a little after 6 o'clock when I landed on the beach among a lot of cowboys and half naked natives. The cattle were corralled under the trees, and when one was ready to be taken aboard a rope was tied about its horns. A cowboy on horseback then rode into the surf, dragging the frightened steer into the water. The rope was tossed to a half naked native who was swimming, and he in turn carried it to the men waiting in a small boat. These men pulled the animal, which must now swim or drown, to the boat and tied him by the horns to its side. After eight steers had been tied up in this manner the engine on the steamer was set to work and the boat pulled alongside by means of a rope. The cattle were then hoisted on board by the use of a belly band. The method of handling these dumb animals is brutal, and, while the men seem to use as much care as possible in moving them about, their piteous bellowing caused by fear made as pathetic a scene as I have ever witnessed. Thousands are shipped every year, and it seems that some more humane method of putting them aboard might be adopted.

The Japanese sailor on these ships is said to be the best for keeping the ship clean, while the native excels in handling the boats, especially in rough water. The Hawaiian is a born swimmer, and native boys will follow these vessels for several hundred yards as they are leaving Honolulu, swimming alongside and diving for coins thrown overboard by the travelers. The passage on these boats is always rough, and on the Ewalani, as the ship lay at anchor out in the channel, the nights were intensely warm. Freighting in this way is necessarily expensive, but those in authority say that it is the only way practical, as no wharf could withstand the lashing of the waves caused by the mad fury of the winds during the winter. At that season it is often impossible to make landings along the rocky coast of Molokai.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Electro Magnet.

In engineering works the electro magnet is taking a very prominent place. This device dispenses with hooks, slings and other lifting apparatus. By throwing a switch controlling the current the magnet is energised and thereby attaches itself to the bars, castings, scrap or pig iron which it is desired to lift. The magnet poles are shaped according to the nature of the material to be raised. For heavy rails they are oblong and are slung from the crane hook by a short chain. Castings weighing over two tons are successfully handled by electro magnets. Another use to which the electro magnet is put is in breaking old castings so that they may be melted and utilised. To accomplish this the magnet is made to lift and drop a steel ball weighing from one to six tons.

Passing of a Famous Bridge.

At last the old bridge over the Golden Horn at Constantinople is about to be done away with and replaced by a new structure. An amusing tale is told in connection with the efforts of an American firm to secure the order. With a view to impressing the sultan with the quality of its work an elaborate painting was prepared for presentation to his majesty showing the bridge as it would appear during a storm which would have done credit to the Atlantic. However, the firm was informed that the sultan would be so horrified by this view that it at once prepared a picture showing the bridge as it would appear on a beautiful summer's day. Even this, however, Reuter says, failed to effect its purpose.

A Gas Story.

The good ship Fair Wind was bowling along before the nor'west trade. The captain was in the galley peeling potatoes for the men's dinner; the mate was swabbing down the poop; the cook was shooting the sun and the apprentices were merrily shooting holes in the skylight with chunks of plum duff.

"There she blows!" cried the man in the crow's nest.

Instantly all was excitement.

"There what blows?" yelled the skipper.

"The wind," answered the lookout, with a hoarse laugh.

The captain burst into tears.

"Kidded aboard my own ship," he wept, but his tears were interrupted by a wild yell from the forecastle.

"Land ho!"

"Whereaway?" cried the skipper.

"At the bottom." A sneering laugh from the hands.

"Fooled again," said the captain tearfully. And with a plunge over the side he was gone.—New York American.

An Ideal Sitter.

A Washington artist while sketching in North Carolina was one day in search of a suitable background of lark pines for a picture he had planned. At last he found the precise situation he was seeking, and, best of all, there chanced to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old colored woman in the foreground.

The artist asked the old woman to remain seated until he had sketched her. She assented with the greatest good nature, but in a few minutes asked how long the artist would be.

"Oh, only about a quarter of an hour," he answered.

Three minutes or so later the old darky again inquired—this time with manifest anxiety—how long the operation of sketching would take.

"Not long," was the reassuring reply. "But why do you ask so anxiously?"

"Oh, nuthin', suh," the old woman hastened to respond, "only I'se skeer'd on dat hill, suh."—Harper's Weekly.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

Hair Help

Your doctor will tell you just what we use sulphur, glycerin, etc., etc., in Ayer's Hair Vigor. Ask him about it.

If you cannot be handsome, be as handsome as you can. Every human being has a legal right to good looks. Know of anything that contributes more to it than a splendid head of hair? Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and smooth, makes it grow faster. Does not color the hair. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Tobacco Tongs.

The tongs, the size of a wishbone, were of rough gold, studded here and there with turquoises.

"They are tobacco tongs," said the antiquary. "They date back to Elizabeth's time. This pair belonged to Raleigh—at least I have been told so, and who is there to contradict me? In Elizabeth's time they had no matches. When a man wanted a light, therefore, he took his tobacco tongs from his girdle and nipped out of the fire a redhot chunk of wood. This glowing coal, held in the tongs, gave a beautiful light. Tobacco tongs, as my pair witnesses, were often very costly and ornate. Of gold, of silver, of ivory and decorated with diamonds, rubies, emeralds and so forth, they were pretty trinkets to dangle upon silken coats. They are being revived now. Cigarette holders are being made in their shape. That is why I keep this old pair in my window."—Los Angeles Times.

TRENT CANAL
ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 13th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after the 6th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, February 3rd, 1908.

Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for New Entrance to Toronto Harbor, Ont.," will be received at this office until Monday, March 2, 1908, inclusively, for the construction of a New Western Entrance to the Harbor of Toronto, in the County of York, Ontario, according to plans and specification to be seen at the office of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, at the office of H. J. Lamb, Esq., Resident Engineer, London, Ont., at the office of J. L. Michaud, Esq., Resident Engineer, Merchants' Bank Building, St. James St., Montreal, P. Q., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for forty-eight thousand dollars ($48,000.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering declines the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, January 31, 1908.
